ARCHIVE COLLECTION

RANDALL LIBRARY

LH1.
N77
C35
1997-1998

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2011 with funding from LYRASIS Members and Sloan Foundation

http://www.archive.org/details/campuscommuni27199798univ

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 1 August 14, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

50TH Anniversary Celebration August 19TH

GOVERNOR HUNT FEATURED SPEAKER AT CONVOCATION

Governor James B. Hunt, Jr. will join in the festivities as UNCW's golden anniversary keynote convocation speaker.

The university begins its 50th anniversary celebration at 4 p.m. August 19 with the dedication of Eaton Plaza, followed by convocation at 5 p.m. and a free picnic and concert by The Embers at 6:30 p.m. in the University Commons, sharing the excitement with both campus and community members.

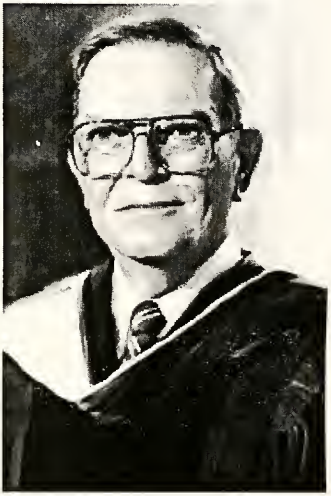
"This is a time of celebration for UNCW and its 50 years of service to this community and the state of North Carolina. As we reflect on the university's beginnings as an institution serving the training and educational needs of an influx of returning WWII veterans to our growth into a four-year university and constituent institution of the UNC system, we look ahead toward the next millenium confident that we can meet the educational challenges that are on the horizon," said Chancellor James R. Leutze.

The observance begins by honoring one who influenced Wilmington and UNCW. The street and landscaped area between Trask Coliseum and James Hall will be named Eaton Plaza in honor of the late Dr. Hubert A. Eaton, physician and long-time UNCW trustee. Dr. Eaton was well known for his active role as a civil rights leader who changed the New Hanover County school system and chaired the UNCW Board of Trustees. The dedication ceremony will begin at 4 p.m. with Dr. Hubert A. Eaton, Jr. representing the family. Dr. William H. Wagoner, last president of Wilmington College and first chancellor of UNCW, will speak and unveil the street sign that names the area Eaton Plaza. Eaton Plaza consists of benches, sidewalks, lights, landscaping and a new fountain.

'This is a time of celebration for UNCW and its 50 years of service to this community and the state of North Carolina.'
-Chancellor James R. Leutze

Convocation will follow the Eaton Plaza dedication at 5 p.m. in Kenan Auditorium, marking the official start of the academic year and the university's 50th Anniversary Celebration. Gov. Hunt will be the featured speaker. During convocation the university will present teaching awards to faculty members for their outstanding achievements: Distinguished Teaching Professorships, Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Awards, the Award for Faculty Scholarship, Graduate Teaching Excellence Awards and the Board of Trustees Teaching Excellence Award. Convocation will also remember UNCW's founders and early leaders and their lasting legacy to the university through the unveiling of a portrait of Dr. Wagoner. The 34x46-inch oil portrait by artist Jim Pollard will be presented to the university for display in Randall Library.

"Convocation is an exciting time because it is the official beginning of the school year, this year more than most because it begins the 50th anniversary year of Wilmington College which was founded in 1947," said M. Tyrone Rowell, associate vice chancellor for university advancement.



An oil portrait of Dr. William H. Wagoner will be unveiled and presented to the university as part of the convocation celebration.

Immediately following convocation, a picnic and concert will conclude the festivities. The concert, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the newly completed University Commons, will feature The Embers who are regionally known for beach music. If it rains, the picnic will move to Wagoner Hall. All events are free, and the public is invited to attend.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

New Coordinator of Disability Services

Margaret (Peggy) Turner is the new coordinator of disability services located on the second floor of Westside Hall. She comes from Davis-Elkins College in Elkins, W.Va., where she had a similiar position for the past 10 years as an associate professor in education, director of academic advising, director of summer school and director of freshman seminar. Turner can be reached at ext. 3746.

Course-related Library Instruction

Contact Donna Gunter, instructional services librarian, at ext. 3688, or e-mail gunterd to arrange for course-related library instruction.

Faculty/Staff Golf Tournament Results

The 1997 faculty-staff golf tournament had a turnout of 52 players with 13 teams in two flights. The first flight was won by the team of Rob Brickels, Jan Mann, Paul Miller and Chris Glendenning. The second flight was won by the team of Chet Harvey, Lawrence Harvey, Jon Hammer and Tom Schmid. Closest-to-the-pin was won by Jim Scott and Ernie Beck. Longest drive was won by Jan Mann.

Congratulations to all winners and thanks to all participants. Thank you to all the merchants who gave prizes and to Arnold Siko, bookstore; Dick Scott, business affairs; Tom Williamson at Aramark; and Nancy Maready and Tim Jordan for their help, support and the driving of the beverage carts.

Note of Appreciation

Bonnie Clements, physical plant, would like to thank everyone for their kindness during the illness and loss of her daughter. Shared prayers, leave time, flowers, phone calls and cards were appreciated during this time.

NURC/UNCW Assists With Dive Training

The Gray's Reef National Marine Sanctuary (GRNMS) in cooperation with the National Undersea Research Center at UNCW and the NOAA Diving Program conducted a two-week, resident Scientific Diver Training Course in Savannah, Ga.

The Scientific Diver Training Course was designed to provide college students with scientific diving skills that are often difficult to obtain through standard university curricula. Students received diver training in the use of enriched air nitrox and were certified in oxygen administration, CPR and standard first aid. Experienced instructors provided scientific diving instruction, and students participated in actual research dives with GRNMS and UNCW staff. Staff participants from NURC/UNCW included Doug Kesling, Tom Potts, Ken Johns and Dan Aspenleiter. The R/V Elusive served as the primary research vessel platform for the two-week program.

Gray's Reef, located 32 kilometers off Sapelo Island, Ga., is one of the largest nearshore livebottom reefs off the southeastern United States.

Non-traditional Students Reception

A "Welcome to UNCW" reception for non-traditional students will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. August 27 in the Glass Room of the Hawk's Nest.

All non-traditional undergraduates are encouraged to attend this important kickoff event. All faculty and staff are invited to attend and welcome non-traditional students. For more information, contact Diane Edwards at ext. 3119. This event is sponsored by the Office of the Dean of Students and the Division of Student Affairs.

Union Displays Work of Jane Baldridge

A collection of paintings by Wilmington artist Jane Baldridge will be on display through September 19 in the University Union Living Room.

Baldridge is an active environmentalist and directs efforts at heightening peoples' awareness of the value of preserving Wilmington's natural resources. She has shown her works in numerous exhibitions throughout North and South Carolina.

Health Association Institute Held at UNCW

UNCW hosted the American School Health Association's Summer Institute July 31 to August 2. The summer institute is one of only two national programs presented by the American School Health Association each year. The summer institute provided health educators, physical educators and science educators from around the country the opportunity to develop new teaching strategies, update national standards and acquire state-of-the-art teaching materials.

UNCW hosted and co-sponsored the summer institute along with the American Cancer Society and Columbia Cape Fear Hospital. UNCW was chosen as the first university to host the summer institute primarily because of its growing commitment to health education.

The local conference coordinator was Bruce Ragon from HPER. Speakers for the conference came from around the country and included John Bennett and Jeff Hill, HPER. Ragon said the Summer Institute was a valuable enhancement of the school health education efforts that have been initiated in southeastern North Carolina. The summer institute will become an annual event hosted by UNCW and will address the specific needs of regional teachers in the future.

You are invited !

Be a part of the inaugural event
for UNCW's
Golden Anniversary Celebration

Tuesday, August 19

4 p.m. Dedication of Eaton Plaza
Honoring
Dr. Hubert A. Eaton
(between Trask Coliseum & James Hall)

5 p.m. Convocation Ceremony
(Kenan Auditorium)

6 p.m. Picnic
(UNCW's new Campus Commons)

6:30 p.m. Outdoor Concert
Featuring
The Embers

All events are free & open to the public.

For details, contact the UNCW Division for University Advancement at 962-3616.

Jazz Ensembles Hold 1997 Fall Auditions

The UNCW Jazz Ensembles invite all interested musicians to audition for one of the jazz ensembles. Auditions will be from 5 to 7 p.m. August 20-21 and 3 to 5 p.m. August 22. Interested musicians should make an appointment 24 hours in advance by calling the Music Department at ext. 3390.

Performing groups include a big band, jazz combos and a jazz fusion group. Auditions are open to the Wilmington community. Previous jazz experience is helpful but not required. For more information, call ext. 3390.

Free Seahawk Shuttle Begins August 18

Free shuttle bus service for faculty, staff and students will begin August 18. Shuttle buses will operate two routes from 7:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The north loop route goes from Randall Parkway to Lullwater Drive, down Market Street to New Centre Drive, across South College Road, down Racine Drive and back to Randall. The south loop route, which will stop in front of the University Union, goes out Hamilton Drive onto MacMillan Avenue, turns on Cedar Avenue, comes up South College Road and back onto campus using Hamilton.

The Wilmington Transit Authority will designate Seahawk shuttle stops along each route this month, said Towana Moore, auxiliary services director.

A bus stop at the union and an additional stop on Randall Parkway have been constructed. Each shuttle will run on a 15-minute round trip schedule.

All faculty, staff and students may ride the shuttle bus free of charge by showing a valid UNCW identification card. Faculty, staff and students will be able to ride any WTA route free of charge with a valid UNCW ID.

Rate Changes Announced for Health Insurance Plans

Medical insurance enrollment is through September 2. This is the only opportunity during the year to change medical plans. The state of North Carolina is offering the same two HMOs as last year, United Healthcare of N.C. (formerly PHP) and Blue Cross/Blue Shield of N.C. Personal Care Plan (PCP) along with the state health plan. Informational packets including the 1997 "It's Your Choice" booklet with enrollment applications have been mailed to home addresses. Only employees electing to change medical plans need to return forms to human resources.

The following medical plan changes will be effective October 1: Blue Cross/Blue Shield-PCP will increase employee only plan to $35.76 from the current rate of $19.36; employee/children plan will increase to $161.26 from $133.44; and employee/family plan will increase to $327.94 from $284.98. United Healthcare's employee only plan will increase to $62.14 from $48.80; employee/children plan will increase to $206.88 from $184.20; and the employee/family plan will increase to $399.08 from $364. Rates for the state health plan are: employee only remains zero; employee/children will be $90.12; and employee/family will be $216.18. Benefits for all three medical plans remain the same. For more information, call ext. 3713.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Bob Walton, vice chancellor for business affairs, and Joe Hack, physical plant, attended the National Boy Scouts Jamboree in Fredericksburg, Va.

Martin Bullock, chemistry; Bill Harris, Richard Laws, Lynn Leonard and Michael Smith, earth sciences; Ken Gurganus, Gabriel Lugo and Harry Smith, mathematical sciences; and Robert Brown, psychology, taught classes at UNCW's Summer Ventures in Science and Mathematics institute. The institute hosted approximately 100 junior and senior high school students who possess talent and interest in science and mathematics. Statewide, the Summer Ventures in Science and Mathematics program had 700 students attending at six campuses of the university system.

Martin Posey, David Lindquist and Lawrence Cahoon, biological sciences, received funding for their project "Interactive Effects of Nutrient Enhancement and Predation of Estuarine Community Trophic Structure."

Arthur Spivack, earth sciences, received funding for his project "Chlorine Isotopic Composition of Subduction Zone Sediments and Pore Waters."

Lewis Abrams, earth sciences, received funding for his project "Cyclicity Observed in Geophysical and Geochemical Logging Data from Ocean Drilling Program: Implications for Paleoclimatic and Volcanic Cycles."

William Cleary, earth sciences, received funding for his project "Beach Erosion and Hurricane Protection Study for USMC, Camp Lejeune, N.C." and "Review and Analysis for Prospective Cross-shelf Corridors (SWTR Project), Onslow Bay, N.C."

Paul Hosier, associate vice chancellor for academic affairs, received funding for his project "Bald Head Island Conservancy Fellowship."

Jim Megivern, philosophy and religion, spent three days as a guest of the Albert Schweitzer Institute for the Humanities in Wallingford, Conn., and was named a Schweitzer Teaching Fellow. This was in preparation for an honors course he is teaching this fall on "Albert Schweitzer and the New Testament."

Pat McGee, special collections librarian, attended the Rare Book School at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville.

Nancy Gridley, earth sciences, received funding for her project "A High-Resolution Baythymetric and Geophysical Investigation of the Southwest Indian Ridge: Spatial Characterization of an Ultra-slow Spreading Center."

Bookstore's Fall Merchandise Arrives

For all of the staff and faculty who received gift certificates at the service awards, the UNCW bookstore has received all of the fall merchandise, and a great selection is awaiting. Come early to make your selection.

Submit Information to University Operator

All departments are reminded to submit information about officially sanctioned university activities, events and departmental services to operator services in a timely manner. Operator services requests this information to inform the university community and the general public of campus activities and events. Receiving information with as much advanced notice as possible will aid in handling incoming calls.

Forward any changes in established schedules to operator services. Refer to the telecommunications procedure section, Tel 1.20, or contact Kay Jackson at ext. 4055.

Application for UNCW License Plate

The application form for the UNCW collegiate license plate program was inadvertently omitted from the parking permit payroll deduction registration package recently mailed. The application has been sent and should be returned with the green payroll deduction form and a check for $25 payable to the N.C. Division of Motor Vehicles, if you plan to participate. Anyone who returned deduction forms and planned to participate should return the collegiate license plate application to auxiliary services. Fifteen dollars of the $25 license plate fee goes directly to the UNCW Alumni Association's scholarship program. Auxiliary services apologizes for this inconvenience. If you have any questions, call ext. 3060.

Staff Development

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursdays, through August 28.

The Sandwich Generation, 10 a.m. to noon, August 19. Psychologist Chris Hauge will offer tips to members of the "sandwich" generation, people struggling to raise children and take care of aging parents.

Please refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Rob Brickels, Mark Young and Nadya Labib, advancement; Carson Davis, athletics; Bruce Henry, physical plant; Mathew Ingram, university police; Linda Kopotic, admissions; Marsha Todd, campus recreation; Georgene Viti, auxiliary services; and Roy Anderson and Leo Thompson, landscape services.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Celebrate Wilmington! Events for August

Musical: Hello Dolly sponsored by Opera House Theatre, 8 p.m. August 15-17, 22-24 at Thalian Hall Main Stage. Tickets are $18 and $16. For more information, call 343-3664.

Adult Drama: TARTS, sponsored by Thalian Association, Second Street Stage, 8 p.m. August 14-16 and 3 p.m. August 17 at the Community Arts Center. Admission is $10. For more information, call 251-1788.

Lecture: Tryon Palace Gardens, sponsored by St. John's Museum of Art, noon August 15 at Hughes Gallery. For admission information, call 763-0281.

Lecture: Great Gardens of the Royal Governor with Carleton Wood, horticulturist, sponsored by St. John's Museum of Art, 2 p.m. August 15 at Hughes Gallery. For admission information call 763-0281.

Children's Theatre: Snow White and the Emperor's New Clothes, 7 p.m., August 15-16 and 3 p.m. August 17 at Grace United Methodist Church. Admission is $5. Tickets sold at the door. For more information, contact Marjorie Megivern at 799-3069.

Family Science Program: Fahrenheit Fun (ages 4-10), 10 a.m. August 16 at Cape Fear Museum. Admission is $3 for associates and $6 for non-members. For more information, call 341-4350.

Walk-Through Tour: An Artist's Taste, sponsored by St. John's Museum, 2 p.m. August 17 at Hughes Gallery. For admission information, call 763-0281.

Concert: Hootenanny at St. Thomas Hall, 8 p.m. August 18 at St. Thomas Preservation Hall. Tickets are $8 in advance and $10 at the door. Tickets are on sale at Golden Gallery. For more information, call 395-2014.

Film: The Centre Georges Pompidou: The Big Escalator, sponsored by St. John's Museum of Art, 2 p.m. August 21 and 23 at Cowan House Studio. Event is free.

Cinematique Film Series: Brassed Off! 3 p.m. August 24 and 7:30 p.m. August 25-26 at Thalian Hall Main Stage. Admission is $5. For more information, call 343-1640.

Auditions: La Cage Aux Folles, August 25 and 26 at Community Arts Center. For more information, call 251-1788.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 2 August 21, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

EDUCATORS RECOGNIZED FOR EXCELLENCE AT CONVOCATION CELEBRATION

Fifteen awards for teaching excellence were presented today at UNCW's 1997 Convocation, the inaugural event for the university's 50th anniversary celebration featuring Gov. James B. Hunt as keynote speaker.

Louis J. Lanunziata, curricular studies; Charles A. Lewis, health, physical education and recreation; and Steven J. Pullum, communications studies, received Distinguished Teaching Professorships. With a $5,000 annual stipend for three years and a Distinguished Teaching medallion, this award recognizes and rewards faculty who make outstanding contributions to the instructional program at UNCW. The academic deans solicit nominations from each department or school, and all full-time tenured professors are eligible to be nominated.

Lanunziata also received the UNCW Board of Trustees Teaching Excellence Award in recognition of his significant contributions to higher education through his dedication and service to students. This award was first presented in 1978 and is designed to exemplify the university's commitment to teaching excellence. The recipient receives a one-time stipend of $1,500 and a Distinguished Teaching medallion.

Established in 1991 to recognize faculty members who demonstrate outstanding teaching in the classroom, the Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Award was presented to five individuals: Ann Lockledge, curricular studies; Kevin J. Sigler, economics and finance; Janet Mason Ellerby, English; James K. McGowan, philosophy and religion; and Donald F. Kapraun, biological sciences. Each recipient received a $750 award and a Distinguished Teaching medallion.

William J. Cleary, earth sciences, was presented with the Award for Faculty Scholarship, given to faculty who have made a significant contribution to the university and the academic community through their commitment to scholarship, research and creativity. Current full-time UNCW faculty members are nominated for this award by their peers and receive a $1,500 award and a UNCW medallion.

Graduate Teaching Excellence Awards were presented to Rebecca P. Walker, Watson School of Education; Christopher M. Terry, chemistry; Olive P. Hollinger, psychology; Nancy Jean Jones, creative writing; Angela M. Crews, history; and Donna Lee Williams, biology. Recognized for their outstanding teaching, each of these graduate teaching assistants received a $250 award.

In addition to the awards presentation, UNCW's Convocation ceremony included the unveiling of a portrait of Dr. William H. Wagoner, last president of Wilmington College and first chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Wilmington; presentation of resolutions by the city and county recognizing UNCW as it kicks off its 50th anniversary celebration; the premiere of the 50th anniversary video, "Dare to Dream: Celebrating 50 Years of Education"; and remarks by special guest Molly Broad, president of the UNC System.

Following convocation, a public picnic and concert by The Embers was held at the Campus Commons. Visitors were encouraged to view Khan's Garden, a pocket garden with several sculptures created by artist Thomas Sayre as part of the Artworks for State Buildings program administered by the N.C. Arts Council, located in front of the Science Building.

Aquarius Rededication Set for August 26

AQUARIUS 2000
NOAA · UNCW · HBOI · HARRIS

Reconfiguration complete, Aquarius will soon resume operation on the ocean floor allowing scientists to study the health of coral reef ecosystems and other underwater phenomena into the next millenium.

August 26 will be the last chance most people have to see Aquarius and tour its facilities without diving 60 feet. An open house and rededication will be held 10 a.m. at Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institution in Fort Pierce, Fla.

Aquarius, owned by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and managed by UNCW, is the world's only undersea research laboratory. During the past year, Aquarius 2000, a partnership between NOAA, UNCW, Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institution and Harris Corporation has completely reconfigured Aquarius. One of the most noticeable changes is the replacement of the fully staffed Support Base or barge with an unmanned Life Support Buoy. Also possible will be real-time, worldwide transmissions of data, voice and video from the ocean floor via the Internet. Deployment back at conch reef off Key Largo is expected in mid-October.

Event Information

All departments and campus organizations are reminded to send information about fall events to the Campus Communique and UNCW-TV with as much advance notice possible. This will aid in publicizing the event. Campus mail should be addressed to the Communique, 108 Alderman Hall. E-mail information to the address COMMUNIQUE, or fax information to ext. 3847. Information for the UNCW-TV scroll should be sent to Kate Walsh, 108 Alderman Hall, or e-mail UNCWTV. You may also fax submissions to ext. 3847.

OIP Workshop

The Office of International Programs will hold a workshop for prospective 1998 Summer Study Abroad leaders, 4 to 5:30 p.m. August 25 in the University Union, Room 103B. Summer Study Abroad Program proposals, due September 19, will be available. For information, call ext. 3685.

UNCW Volunteers Seek Construction Coordinator

UNCW Volunteers is looking for one or two people with a background in construction to help advise a group of students in building a wheelchair ramp for a needy person in the community. The group has construction plans, materials and non-skilled labor; all that is needed is a construction coordinator. Anyone willing to donate a Saturday morning in September for this project should call Julie at ext. 3797.

Note of Appreciation

Charlotte Marion, physical plant/painting, would like to thank everyone who contributed time to the Shared Leave Program on her behalf.

UNCW Bowling League Meeting

The UNCW Bowling League will have its kickoff meeting at 6 p.m. August 28 at Cardinal Lanes on Shipyard Blvd.

Honors Scholars Reception

The campus community is invited to meet the new and continuing honors scholars at a reception from 4 to 6 p.m. September 3 in the University Center Ballroom. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call ext. 4181.

Mail News of UNCW's 50th Anniversary

Faculty and staff sending metered mail will help spread the word of UNCW's 50th anniversary. The university post office has incorporated the 50th anniversary logo into its postal indicia, which takes the place of a stamp on metered mail. All off-campus metered mail will receive the indicia except for bulk mailings, return mailings and hand-metered mail.

TimeQuest Seminar

Human resources will conduct the full-day TimeQuest seminar from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. August 25 in the human resources training room. The cost of the seminar is $99.

The seminar provides the skills and tools to help balance demands on time, focus priorities and accomplish what matters most personally and professionally. As part of the seminar, participants will receive a complete Franklin Day Planner system. To register, call Brenda Jordan at ext. 3274.

UNCW-TV Broadcasts "Aquarius Undersea"

To celebrate the August 26 rededication of the undersea habitat Aquarius, UNCW-TV is broadcasting "Aquarius Undersea" at 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. August 26 on Time Warner Cable channel 11.

The program was produced by Florida Public Television and featured reporter Martina Schmid diving down to Aquarius for a firsthand look at living and working in an undersea habitat. The program was filmed before Aquarius underwent a year-long reconfiguration.

Crossroads Program

Crossroads is the new name for the Substance Abuse Prevention and Education Program.

As the name may imply, the primary goal of Crossroads is to encourage students to stop and focus on their personal choices and decisions regarding the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs. One of the primary goals of Crossroads is to promote the consideration of options, as well as the natural consequences associated with the use of drugs. Crossroads programs will directly challenge students' attitudes and behaviors about drug and alcohol use.

Crossroads is located on the 2nd floor of Westside Hall in the Hundley Wellness Promotion Center. Staff include Sam (Suzanne) Shover, program coordinator; Pam Richman, graduate student assistant; and five student peer educators. All staff are available to provide programming and education specific to drug and alcohol issues, awareness campaigns and activities, materials and resources and to answer questions. For more information, call ext. 4136 or 4137.

Course-related Library Instruction

Contact Donna Gunter, instructional services librarian, at ext. 3688, or e-mail gunterd to arrange for course-related library instruction.

Non-traditional Students Reception

A "Welcome to UNCW" reception for non-traditional students will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. August 27 in the Glass Room of the Hawk's Nest.

All non-traditional undergraduates are encouraged to attend this important kickoff event. All faculty and staff are invited to attend and welcome non-traditional students. For more information, contact Diane Edwards at ext. 3119. This event is sponsored by the Office of the Dean of Students and the Division of Student Affairs.

R/V Cape Fear Ready for Inspection

The university's new research vessel, the R/V Cape Fear, is ready for inspection. In the past four weeks since the vessel was purchased, Captain Dan Aspenleiter, and NURC Operations Director, Lance Horn, have organized university volunteers to transform the Cape Fear from a fishing boat into a first-class research vessel. With the help of university staff and students, more than $10,000 was saved. Jerry Compeau, CMSR Boat Captain, designed and built the dive platform and handrails for less than the lowest bid received. Volunteers sanded and repainted the deck and completed other minor repairs for less than bids received. Special thanks to: Alex Bocconcelli for his fiberglass work and advice; Dan Aten for machine shop support; Ken Johns, Glenn Taylor and Tom Potts for the hard stuff; and all the eager volunteers who made this project possible, including Andy Shepard, Greg McFall and students of Bill Cleary, Joe Pawlik and CMSR.

Seahawk Pride Membership Campaign Kickoff Cook-out

The Seahawk Club invites everyone to attend a cook-out to kickoff the 1997-98 Seahawk Pride Membership Campaign. This free event is scheduled for 5 to 8 p.m. August 28 in the Trask Coliseum parking lot. Games, food and entertainment will be provided.

Donations Needed for Fire Victims

The niece of Claude Brown, purchasing services, lost everything in a fire August 18. She has five children and is in need of clothing for them. Any donations would be greatly appreciated. The children's sizes are: girl's 3T and 4T, size 6 shoes; girl's 4T and 5T, size 11 shoes; girl's 6X tops and pants, size 13 shoes; girl's tops, large, shorts size 11 and 12; boy's 5X jeans and shorts, size 12-1/2 shoes, size 7 shirt. If you would like to help, call Claude at ext. 3155.

Rate Changes Announced for Health Insurance Plans

Medical insurance enrollment is through September 2. This is the only opportunity during the year to change medical plans. North Carolina is offering the same two HMOs as last year, along with the state health plan. Informational packets including the 1997 "It's Your Choice" booklet with enrollment applications have been mailed to home addresses. Only employees electing to change medical plans need to return forms to human resources.

The following medical plan changes will be effective October 1: Blue Cross/Blue Shield-PCP will increase employee only plan to $35.76 from the current rate of $19.36; employee/children plan will increase to $161.26 from $133.44; and employee/family plan will increase to $327.94 from $284.98. United Healthcare's employee only plan will increase to $62.14 from $48.80; employee/children plan will increase to $206.88 from $184.20; and the employee/family plan will increase to $399.08 from $364. Rates for the state health plan are: employee only remains zero; employee/children will be $90.12; and employee/family will be $216.18. Benefits for all three medical plans remain the same. For more information, call ext. 3713.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Bob Toplin, history, participated in a discussion of the movie Contact on National Public Radio in Los Angeles with Steve Starkey, producer of the movie, and Marvin Kalb, veteran television journalist. The discussion concerned the fictional film's use of President Clinton's speeches and commentaries by real-life CNN reporters.

Khoon Koh, HPER, had his paper "L.E.P.R.I.S.T: A Superior Service Strategy for Small Tourism Enterprises" accepted by the Association of International Experts in Tourism Studies (AIEST) for presentation at its 47th annual conference to be held August 24-29 in Cha Am, Thailand.

Kelly Easton, English, had stories published in summer issues of Sojourner and The Blue Moon Review, an internet journal.

Todd Berliner, English, delivered his paper "Seventies Genre Films, The French Connection, and the Police Thriller" at the University Film and Video Association Conference in Oshkosh, Wis.

Terry Theodore, art and theatre, presented a paper on American playwright Robert Anderson at the Edward Albee Fifth Annual Theatre Conference held in Valdez, Alaska. This appearance marks Theodore's second trip to an Albee Conference.

Mike Adams and David Evans, criminal justice, and James Johnson, psychology, had their article "Racial Differences in Informal Labeling Effects" accepted for publication in Deviant Behavior.

Tammy G. Hunt, Cameron School of Business, was elected vice president/program chair elect of the Southern Management Association. She will progress to the offices of vice president and president of the 1,100 member academic research organization.

Peter Thomas, foreign languages and literatures, delivered the paper "La 'Nueva' Novela Historica y Cultura Democratica en America Latina" at the 49th International Congress of Americanists at the Pontifica Universidad Catolica del Ecuador in Quito.

Barry A. Wray, production and decision sciences, attended "Applying Neural Networks to Business, Industry, and Government" at NeuralWare Inc. in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Student Absences

The Office of the Dean of Students cannot and does not excuse student absences in cases of emergency, such as extended illness, hospitalization, death in family, etc. If the student or parents are unable to contact instructors directly, a member of the office's staff will pass information on to the department. This notification serves to relay the information and is not a verification.

VAX Passwords

To obtain a new VAX password, call computer operations at ext. 3541. An interim password will be assigned and forwarded to you by campus mail or you may come by Hoggard Hall, Room 206 to pick it up. Passwords will not be given over the phone.

Passwords to VAX accounts expire every 30, 90 or 180 days depending on the type of account and the critical nature of the data it contains. To change your password, select the "Password" option on your menu or enter the DCL command "Set Password" at the $ prompt in your personal account.

Randall Library Fall Hours

Randall Library will observe the following schedule during fall semester 1997:

7:30 a.m. to midnight	Mon-Thurs.
7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.	Friday
10:00 a.m. to 6 p.m.	Saturday
1 p.m. to midnight	Sunday

Labor Day Break:

10 a.m to 5 p.m.	August 30
Closed	August 31
3 p.m. to midnight	Sept. 1

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Douglas Freeman, university police and Theresa Nicholas, bookstore.

Changes in Earth Sciences

The Department of Earth Sciences has moved to DeLoach Hall; the departmental office is located in DL141.

All correspondence for the earth sciences chair should be directed to Patricia H. Kelley, the new chair for the Department of Earth Sciences. Kelley's office is DeLoach, Room 143, her telephone is ext. 7406 and her e-mail address is KelleyP.

Two additional faculty have joined the department: Nancy Grindlay and Lewis Abrams. The department would like to extend a warm welcome to Tricia Kelley, Nancy Grindlay and Lewis Abrams.

Bookstore Deliveries

The UPS strike has not affected the bookstore to a large degree. Most of the textbooks were delivered prior to the strike. In the event that late orders are placed, keep in mind that delivery time may be delayed. The National Association of College Stores recently reported that each day UPS is on strike will result in a three-to-four day delay once the strike is settled.

Who Has the Paper?

Paper provided to departments by printing services is for use in copiers and duplicators only. Departments should purchase paper from Central Stores to be used in fax machines and office printers.

Shared Leave Requests

Shared leave donations are needed to help Dorothy Taylor, Easter Hamby, Margie Shields and David Wuske, housekeeping, and Charlotte Marion, physical plant, to avoid further leave without pay due to illness or surgery. Lucille Mills, library, and Sharon Appleton, chemistry, are also recovering and need donations to avoid leave without pay. Be generous and support this great program. For more information, call ext. 3161.

Deadline for Student Timesheets and Departmental Recaps

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for September 15 payment is 3 p.m. August 29 in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to their department representatives, not to payroll. Students not listed on the departmental recaps sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure all paperwork has been received prior to adding students to recap sheets.

Remember the minimum wage will increase to $5.15 on September 1 for payment on October 15. Call payroll at ext. 3163 with any questions regarding the increase.

Blizzard Leads 1997-98 UNCW Alumni Board

Tammy Blizzard is the 1997-98 chairman of the UNCW Alumni Association. She assumed leadership at the summer meeting of the board of directors held at Wise Alumni House.

Blizzard, director of accounting, is a 1983 graduate of UNCW who also earned her master of science in accountancy in May 1997. Other officers serving with Blizzard are Vice Chair Tom Lamont '80 of Wilmington, Treasurer Livian Jones '95 of Wrightsville Beach and Secretary Tricia Staton '93 of Wrightsville Beach.

Also at the meeting, six new board members were welcomed. New members are Nadine Batuyious '73 of Wilmington, Ed Vosnock '71 of Castle Hayne and Caroline Pollard '73 of Wilmington. Re-elected were Tom Hodges '73 of Wilmington and Blizzard. Bill Herrett '87 of Wilmington and Jones, who previously served one-year terms as alternates, were elevated to the core board, with three-year terms.

Elected to one-year terms were Ray Cockrell '88 and '96 and Andrew Duppstadt '96, both of Wilmington, and Jeff Moore '96, of New Orleans, La.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 3 August 28, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

Researchers Recommission Aquarius, World's Only Undersea Research Laboratory

On August 26 researchers in Florida recommissioned AQUARIUS 2000, the world's only undersea research laboratory, which has undergone a high-tech overhaul enabling it to better study coral reef habitat and transmit video and other data from the ocean floor. The lab is scheduled to resume its extensive underwater studies later this year.

Officials last year provided the funding required to improve the capabilities and expand the communications of AQUARIUS 2000, an 81-ton, 43-foot long steel cylindrical chamber that serves as an undersea "space station" at the base of the Conch Reef off Key Largo, Fla. The refurbishment is the result of a partnership between communications engineers at Harris Corporation; ocean engineers at Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institution; Aquarius' owner, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA); and its operator, the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

"None of this could have been done without the effors of each group," said UNCW Provost Marvin Moss. "Together, the partnership represents the best of government, academic and public sectors."

"Harris Corporation's interest in communications fits with our university's commitment and interest in communications," said Chancellor James R. Leutze, adding that UNCW was the first university to enter the information highway and is a leader in transferring technology to the classroom.

Aquarius enables up to four scientists or "aquanauts" and two habitat technicians to live up to 10 days at a time while they conduct research to better understand, preserve and protect coral reefs and water quality in the Florida Keys. The research includes: studying the effect of ultraviolet radiation on coral reef damage, the impact of sewage pollution and declining water quality on sea and plant life and the use of fossil records in coral reefs to better understand the natural cycles of the ocean and reef creation. The research is also used in the potential development of new drugs for the treatment of arthritis, heart disease and cancer. Pharmacological companies are researching the chemical extracts, which some reef organisms produce as a natural form of protection from predators, to determine their pharmaceutical possibilities. The cost of operating Aquarius is about $1.2 million a year.

To increase the lab's communication capabilities, engineers at Harbor Branch and Harris equipped a 33-foot unmanned navigational buoy with a microwave communications system that is linked to a shore-based station seven miles away. The buoy was obtained by NOAA and is on loan to the Aquarius program from the National Data Buoy System. The buoy was also retrofitted with diesel generators and compressors to supply Aquarius' electrical power, breathing air and a variety of other life support systems. Previously, a 50-by-100 foot barge staffed by four crew members had to be permanently stationed over the submerged Aquarius.

The upgraded communication system will enable divers to access the Internet and transmit data, voice and video that ultimately will be accessible via the Internet. The new system also improves the safety of the aquanauts who work on the reef up to nine hours a day using a form of diving known as "saturation diving." A new acoustic tracking system allows habitat technicians onboard the Aquarius to constantly monitor an aquanaut's condition and location. Improvements also enable aquanauts to rest and fill their own tanks at underwater way stations, eliminating the need to deliver tanks from the surface.

"The improved capabilities of Aquarius would not have been possible without the synergy of this unique partnership," said Andrew Clark, director of engineering, Harbor Branch. "Scientists will now be able to significantly increase the amount of vital information they are sending back from the laboratory, and that information will also be available via the Internet."

"Aquarius will be used as a platform to capture the attention and imagination of the public about our coastal ocean, with coral reefs as a backdrop," said Provost Moss. "The foundation of the program will be the science, but there will be the flash and excitement throught Internet access, real-time broadcasts and companion educational efforts."

University Bookstore to Hold Booksigning

The UNCW Bookstore will conduct a special pre-publication booksigning for The Death Penalty: An Historical and Theological Survey by James Megivern, philosophy and religion, from 5 to 7 p.m. September 4 and 10 a.m. to noon September 5. The 640-page book, being published by Paulist Press, will be released nationwide in November.

Convocation: The Start of UNCW

Eaton Plaza Dedication

Community Picnic

&

UNCW Photos by Dale Lockwood and Phillip Brown

Women of UNCW Scholarship Recipients

Nancy R. Lee and Donna Lynn Packer have been awarded the 1998 University Women of UNCW scholarships. These scholarships entitle them to an award of $500 each.

Lee, daughter of Doris Hubbard, Tavares, Fla., graduated from Page High School in Greensboro and Guilford Technical Institute, Jamestown. She is a senior majoring in computer science and accounting. After graduating she hopes to pursue a master's in accounting.

Packer, daughter of Maybell Packer, graduated from New Hanover High School and is a senior majoring in English. After graduating she hopes to continue her education to become an English professor, specializing in literature.

These scholarships were established in 1987 to aid female students who have excelled academically.

50th Facts

September 22, 1946

Wilmington College began as two college centers - one located at New Hanover High was an extension of the University of North Carolina.

The other unit was established at Williston High School as an extension of Fayetteville State Teachers College.

The centers were established to meet the demand of veterans returning from World War II.

Coordinators from 12 departments at the University of North Carolina made course syllabi available, suggested rates of progress and made sure courses were similar to those offered at the parent institution.

Registration fees were $5 per student and tuition was $4 per quarter hour of credit.

Two hundred and twelve (212) students enrolled at New Hanover and 26 students enrolled at Williston on this date.

Information from Marshall Crews' From These Beginnings.

NAACP Membership Drive

Joining the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is one way concerned members of the majority community can take specific, personal action toward racial understanding. Annual membership is $15 and includes a respected journal with an African-American outlook. For an application form, call Earl Sheridan at ext. 3222 or Charlie West at 458-4136.

New Associate Director of Honors Scholars

The Honors Scholars Program announces that Bill Atwill, English, has agreed to serve as the new associate director of the Honors Scholars Program. Atwill is a specialist in American literature and has taught in the Honors Program. He has a strong focus on students as shown by his work as an advisor to the international students from the University of Wales at Swansea. Atwill will work most closely with the recruitment of faculty for honors courses. Call him with any honors course proposals at ext. 3679.

Educational Lab Offers Tutoring

The Educational Lab will offer tutoring for children K-9 in reading/language arts and math from September 8 to November 20. UNCW education students will be matched one-on-one with a child for the tutoring sessions. Children will attend one-hour sessions once or twice a week between 3 and 6 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. in King Hall, Room 203.

Tutoring fees are: 20 hours of elementary reading/language arts, $150; 25 hours elementary reading/language arts, $187.50; 10 hours elementary math, $75; and 10 hours of diagnostic testing, $75. For more information, call ext. 3633.

Seminar on Extinction

The talk "Dinosaurs and Dodos: The Effect of Mass Extinctions on the History of Life," by Thor Hansen, chair of the Geology Department at Western Washington University, will be held at 1 p.m. September 5 in DeLoach Hall, Room 128.

More than 99 percent of all the animals and plants that ever lived have become extinct. Most of these extinctions occurred during relatively brief episodes of mass extinction during the earth's history. Mass extinctions were pervasive, involving plants and animals in nearly all environments and on a global scale. By examining the cause and effects of these extinctions, Hansen will shed light on one of the largest extinctions in the earth's history, one going on right now.

Hanson holds a doctorate in geology from Yale University and served as a visiting scholar at Oxford University during 1991-92.

Students, faculty and staff are invited to attend the talk, which is geared to the non-specialist.

School of Nursing Forum

The School of Nursing will hold two programs, "Family Support Forum" and "Ingredients for Attaining Excellence in the School of Nursing," from 9:30 a.m. to noon September 6 in the University Center Ballroom. School of Nursing students and their families are invited to attend. Call ext. 3784 or fax ext. 3723 with RSVP by September 2.

Study Abroad Travel Grants

Applications for spring semester Study Abroad Travel Grants are available in the Office of International Programs, University Union, Room 103. Return completed applications for spring travel grants by September 15.

UNCW Bowling League Meeting

The UNCW Bowling League will have its kickoff meeting at 6 p.m. tonight at Cardinal Lanes on Shipyard Blvd.

Amy Zeng, production and decision sciences, had her paper "Make-or-Buy Decisions in Deterministic and Stochastic Settings" published in the production and operations management track of the Proceedings of the Seventh International Conference of American Chinese Management Educator Association (ACME) held in Las Vegas, Nev.

Simona Bartl, biological sciences, presented the talk "Full-length MHC Class I cDNA Clones Isolated from Cartilaginous Fishes" at the Seventh Congress of the International Society of Developmental and Comparative Immunology at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va. Meredith Baish, Kathleen Williams, Rebecca Lohr and Evonne Mochon presented posters. Baish and Williams are two of Bartl's former students who defended their master's theses this past spring. Lohr and Mochon are working toward master's degrees in marine biology.

Moorad Alexanian, physics, had two articles accepted for publication in the Journal of Luminescence: "Population Transfer in a Three-level Atom" in collaboration with Subir K. Bose of the Physics Department of the University of Central Florida and "Trapping and Number States in a Two-photon Micromaser" in collaboration with Bose and L. Chow also from the University of Central Florida. Both works were presented at the 11th International Conference on Dynamical Processes in Excited States in Solids in Mittelberg, Kleinwalsertal, Austria/Germany.

Diane B. Talley, public service and extended education, attended and presented at the International Marine Educators Association's annual conference in Chicago, Ill.

Richard Veit, English, had his book Research: The Student's Guide to Writing Research Papers, second edition, published by Allyn & Bacon. He has contracted with Allyn & Bacon to publish the second edition of his book Discovering English Grammar in the spring of 1998.

Jack Levy, chemistry, gave an invited lecture at Budapest Technical University on "The Chemistry of Phenoxaphosphine Derivatives and a Computational Study of the Related Compound, 2-Phosphinylphenol." He was hosted by Istvan and Magdi Hargittai, with whom he and Ned Martin, chemistry, have been collaborating on theoretical research employing the Cray T90 supercomputer at the North Carolina Supercomputing Center (NCSC). During the 1996-97 academic year, Istvan was visiting distinguished professor of chemistry and Magdi was a visiting scientist. In Budapest, Levy worked with the Hargittais on the manuscript that was submitted for publication in the Journal of Physical Chemistry A. Levy was awarded 200 hours of supercomputer time by NCSC for continuing work in this area.

Len Lecci, psychology, had his article "Revising the Factor Structure of the Juror Bias Scale: A Method for the Empirical Validation of Theoretical Constructs" accepted for publication in Law and Human Behavior.

T. D. Evans, criminal justice, Francis T. Cullen, Velmer S. Burton, Jr., R. Gregory Dunaway and Michael L. Benson had their article "The Social Consequences of Self-Control: Testing the General Theory of Crime" published in the August issue of Criminology.

Richard Engdahl, management and marketing, attended the 17th Organization Development World Congress in Colima, Mexico, where his paper "The Evolving Role of Managers as Teachers/Facilitators" won the Outstanding Presentation Award.

John Clifford and Janet Ellerby, English, had their article "Composing Ethics" published in Composition Studies.

Steven Errante, music, received funding for his project "Work for the Wilmington Symphony Orchestra."

Marlene Rosenkoetter, nursing, and John Garris, business, had their research manuscript, "Perceptions of Retirees: Depression in Retirement" accepted for publication by the Journal of Nursing Science.

Chris E. Fonvielle, Jr., history, was interviewed by William Friday for "North Carolina People" to be broadcast August 29 and 31 on UNC Public Television. They discussed the N.C. Civil War Council's annual symposium to be held September 26-28 in Wilmington and Fonvielle's new book The Wilmington Campaign: Last Rays of Departing Hope.

Lu Huntley-Johnston, English, published "Framing Grammar within Literacy Instruction" in the North Carolina Journal of Teacher Education.

Dick Scott, business affairs, taught a class on "Financing Auxiliary Services" at the National Association of College Auxiliary Services Management Institute in Charlottesville, Va.

Joe Hickman, music, was a clinician at the Ninth Annual Music Conference of the East Carolina Episcopal Diocese at the Trinity Center on Emerald Isle. His paper "Sight-Reading for Choirs" was well received, and he was invited to present again for the 1998 conference.

Hickman also served as cantor and singing leader for a number of other functions during the conference.

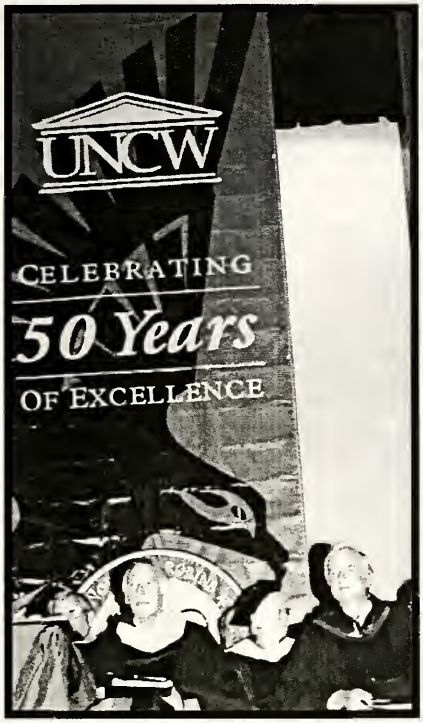
Ned Martin, chemistry, received funding for his project "Probing the Effects of Solute-Solvent Interactions and Solvent Free Volume on the 13C Spin-Lattice Relaxation of C60."

Sally Sullivan, English, published her poem In Nursing Homes All Over in Pembroke Magazine, and her review of James Schiff's monograph Understanding Reynolds Price appeared in North Carolina Libraries.

Kristin Howell, economics and finance, had her paper "Effects of Lending to Developing Countries by the Bank for International Settlements, The IMF, The World Bank and Bilateral and Private Sources" accepted for publication by the Scandinavian Journal of Development Alternatives and Area Studies.

0 Years of Excellence Celebration

Convocation: The Big Event



ncert in the Commons

Honors Scholars Reception

The campus community is invited to meet the new and continuing honors scholars at a reception from 4 to 5:30 p.m. September 3 in the University Center Ballroom. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call ext. 4181.

Employee Appreciation Week

Employee Appreciation Week is September 8-12. Everyone is invited to the following events: "Breakfast Is Served" from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. September 8; "Lunch Is on the House" from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. September 10; and "Ice Cream Social" from 1 to 3 p.m. September 12. All events will be in the University Center Ballroom.

Labor Day

September 1 is Labor Day. The university will be closed.

Student Timesheets and Departmental Recaps

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for September 15 payment is 3 p.m. August 29 in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to their department representatives not to payroll. Students not listed on the departmental recaps sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure all paperwork has been received prior to adding students to recap sheets.

Remember the minimum wage will increase to $5.15 on September 1 for payment on October 15. Call payroll at ext. 3163 with any questions regarding the increase.

Carowinds Coupons

Discount coupons for admission to Carowinds theme park are available to UNCW faculty and staff. Valid dates are August 30 - September 1. Pick up coupons in human resources.

Staff Development

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursdays, through August 28 and 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays, September 4 to November 20.

Connections E, 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. September 3, 10, 17.

Understanding FRS Reports and Screens, 9 to 11:30 a.m. September 5.

New Employee Orientation, 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. September 11

Defensive Driving, 8 a.m. to noon, September 12

Please refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357.

E-mail Passwords

To obtain a new e-mail or SIS password, call computer operations at ext. 3541. An interim password will be assigned and forwarded to you by campus mail or you may come to Hoggard Hall, Room 206 to pick it up. Passwords will not be given over the phone.

Passwords to VAX accounts expire every 30, 90 or 180 days depending on the type of account and the critical nature of the data it contains. To change your password, select the "Password" option on your menu or enter the DCL command "Set Password" at the $ prompt in your personal account.

UNCW-TV Programs

UNCW-TV will broadcast "Globe Watch: Korea," a three-part series hosted by Chancellor James R. Leutze beginning September 2 on Time Warner Cable channel 11. The program will air at 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Part two and three will air at the same times September 9 and 16, respectively.

September 5 is the one-year anniversary of Hurricane Fran. To mark the event, UNCW-TV will broadcast Everard Smith's program "Hurricane Fran: The Impact." The program, which will air at 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. on Time Warner Cable channel 11, features photos of Fran's aftermath and explores its impact on the Cape Fear coast.

Raleigh Artist Thomas Sayre Completes Khan's Garden

Thomas Sayre, an accomplished sculptor who lives in Raleigh, has created the newest artwork on campus, Khan's Garden.

Located in front of the new Science Building, Khan's Garden is a pocket park or small garden, composed of several sculptural forms enclosed in an elliptical shape created by a low brick wall.

The artwork derives its theme from the Coleridge poem "Kubla Khan." Sayre interprets the poem to be a metaphor for the creative process: that one can create something by imagining it.

In Coleridge's poem erosion caused by a river displaces the landscape and creates a canyon. Through the poem, the landscape is brought back into existence. Sayre uses the poem's symbolism to create the sculptural forms included in the garden which describe and imply a giant ice sphere or "pleasure dome" which could never exist except in one's imagination. The walkway represents the river. Plant material, seashell or boat shell shapes and other forms in the work are not only drawn from the poem, but are coastal references. The 3,000 pound black and concrete sphere is enhanced with relevant symbols suggested by faculty and students. These symbols describe aspects of the imaginary ice dome and hint at the point chemistry becomes biology.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

A SPECIAL EDITION

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 4 September 3, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

Campus Community Invited to University Birthday Party

Wilmington College opened its doors to 238 students and 17 faculty at 4 p.m. September 4, 1947.

Fifty years later, Chancellor James R. Leutze will ring the brass bell that was used during change of classes in the early years, as well as welcome the first and current student body presidents.

The campus community is invited to this birthday celebration, complete with birthday cake and lemonade, at 4 p.m. September 4 in front of Hoggard Hall.

Happy Birthday UNCW

N.C. General Assembly Approves Budget; State Employees Receive 4 Percent Raise

Late last week, the N.C. General Assembly adopted the state's budget for 1997-99, containing a 4 percent pay increase for most state employees, retroactive to July 1. From the capital budget, UNCW will receive $8.5 million for a general classroom building, which was the highest construction priority for the campus, and approximately $1.5 million for building repairs and renovations.

Additionally, UNCW is one of five universities in the 16-campus system that was appropriated "equity funding," based on a study by the UNC Board of Governors. This study revealed that additional continuing funds were needed at UNCW, Appalachian State University, East Carolina University, UNC Charlotte and UNC Greensboro. UNCW's share of equity funding will be $2.6 million per year.

UNCW will also receive new funding for other needs, such as faculty positions, libraries, new programs and Distinguished Teaching Professorships. A reduction in the required reversion rate from 2 percent to 1 percent will also result in increased resources for UNCW and other universities.

These legislative actions are great news for the university, which has experienced tremendous growth.

General Assembly Appropriates $1.5 Million for Cape Fear River Research and Monitoring

In its final budget approved this week the General Assembly set aside $1.5 million for water quality monitoring and research at the Cape Fear River.

"The Cape Fear River basin is the largest in the state, has the most stream miles, has the greatest population, is the most industrialized and, arguably, is facing the most dramatic changes, especially in terms of increases in nonpoint source pollution," said Camilla M. Herlevich, director of the University of North Carolina at Wilmington's Cape Fear River Program.

"It is the source of drinking water for many of our citizens. We are pleased that the state will join this industry/local government/university partnership in funding our monitoring program. For the past two years, the partnership has been working to identify potential threats to our river's water quality before they become severe problems."

"All the partners in this venture would like to thank all the legislators who supported this funding initiative, especially Senators Rand and Plyler and Representatives McComas and Watson, and the governor's office," said Ms. Herlevich.

Senator Tony Rand of Fayetteville, who introduced the funding bill for the Cape Fear River Program said, "I wanted to ensure that the Cape Fear River Basin received the attention it deserves from my colleagues in the General Assembly." Rep. Danny McComas of Wilmington said, "Preserving the health of the Cape Fear River is good for business, good for industry and essential for our quality of life. This bill had bipartisan support."

(Cont. Page 2)

Earlier this year, UNCW, the Cape Fear River Assembly and Triangle J Council of Governments joined together to create a consortium to protect the Cape Fear River throughout the entire basin from Greensboro to Southport.

"Each of the three organizations is already carrying out some aspects of the consortium's mission: research, analysis and education," said Charles Fiero, environmental manager of Carolina Food Processors, who serves as president of the Cape Fear River Assembly, a Fayetteville nonprofit organization. "The consortium's initial task will be to replicate in the middle and upper Cape Fear River basins UNCW's successful water quality monitoring program currently underway in the lower basin. This will provide consistent, uniform data for scientists to analyze trends and problems threatening the river's health."

Each geographic region also has specific research needs to understand the health of the water in its stretch of the river. Growth and development rank high in the minds of citizens in the upper basin, where water resource issues have received the most attention in recent years. In the middle basin, there are concerns about proliferation of industrial agricultural operations and runoff from farms and development. At the lower basin, where the river fans out to meet the estuary, concerns about fisheries and the quality of life are added to the mix of issues of competing uses by industry, municipalities and agriculture. Throughout the basin, there are calls to sustain the river as a resource for economic development as well as for its environmental values.

The partners expect to maintain the goal of providing objective, scientific information and a forum for exchange and discussion. James Merritt, director of UNCW's Center for Marine Science Research, said, "Our research programs will not be advocates for or against any particular policy or any particular interest group. Our research findings will be available to all, with education of the general public a primary goal. The idea is to bring together all those with an interest in the river to identify the issues for which research may be needed."

"For instance, if we can identify the relative contributions to nitrogen levels in the Cape Fear River from natural processes such as flooding and decay of organic material, from industrial discharges or from runoff from animal operations, we can provide information that will be useful to policy makers. If we can document the types of riparian buffers that provide the optimal protection to water quality, land owners can play a part in protecting their waterfront. If we can measure the recovery of the river from hurricanes, power outages and floods, we may be able to provide cost benefit information on the issue of whether backup generators should be required for wastewater treatment plants in cities and towns," said Merritt.

"While we will test any strategy for effectiveness, we do not intend to supplant local, state or federal decision makers. Our mission," said Merritt, "is to provide them solid information on which to base difficult decisions about competing uses of the river."

Each region of the basin will have a local advisory board composed of all "stakeholders" – business, agriculture, industry, educational institutions, local government, tourism, the environment, resource agencies and regulatory authorities. "Our premise is that protection of the environment of the river will also protect the region's capacity for economic development and sensible growth," said Patrick Davis of Triangle J Council of Governments. "We must preserve the drinking water supplies for many generations to come. We look forward to working with all interested parties in the basin and welcome participation and support."

"We also intend to keep our focus on education of the general public," said Roger Sheats, Jr., executive director of the Cape Fear River Assembly. The assembly sponsors an annual conference which features speakers on a variety of issues facing the river.

Efforts to obtain legislative funding for the program for the past two years were sponsored by the Lower Cape Fear Water and Sewer Authority through the assistance of Kurt Taube, authority director, who also sits on the of the Lower Basin's Advisory Board. Taube said, "Our success this year in securing funds from the General Assembly happened because of the concerted, cooperative basin-wide approach that is now established."

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 5 September 4, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNC-TV Airing "Treasure Coast" Documentary September 10

"Treasure Coast: The Natural Heritage of the North Carolina Shore," a documentary examining the history and issues of North Carolina's coast will air at 8 p.m. September 10 on UNC-TV. Produced by the University of North Carolina at Wilmington, the one-hour documentary is hosted by Chancellor James R. Leutze and scripted by Philip Gerard. The documentary presents many of the issues facing the coast through conversations with historians, scientists, boat builders, fishermen, wildlife specialists, decoy carvers and many other North Carolina citizens whose lives and livelihoods are affected by the changing nature of the coast.

Area residents included in the documentary are: Hannah Block, Bill Freeman, Michael Mallin, Mary Moser and Steve Ross of Wilmington; Tony Caudle of Wrightsville Beach; and Bill Hickman and Homer Wright of Southport. While the documentary interviews several southern coastal residents, it explores the entire North Carolina coast travelling northward through Beaufort, Harker's Island and Nags Head.

Singer/songwriter Mike Cross's song "Graveyard of the Atlantic" provides the musical backdrop for the documentary's segment on early lifesaving stations. The song is from his upcoming CD Mike Cross Somewhere at Large in the World. Cross also collaborated with composer Scott Pearson to provide additional music for the original score.

All funding for the documentary was from private sources with major funding provided by Duke Energy and Harris Teeter.

Bookstore to Hold Booksigning

Religion Professor's Book Chronicles History of Death Penalty

Is death as punishment for any crime ever justifiable? The answer for most is an emotional one rooted in philosophical and religious beliefs. Proponents view capital punishment as biblically mandated or a deterrent to crime, while opponents insist that life is sacred — all life.

It is a debate that has become a question of faith and a renewal in the value of the sacredness of life, according to James Megivern, professor of religion at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington, who has been researching the history and practice of capital punishment for years. He is about to see the fruits of his labor published by Paulist Press as a 640-page book, The Death Penalty: An Historical and Theological Survey.

Megivern, in his 24th year of teaching at UNCW, traces the death penalty through its early and medieval use in Western Christendom, then follows changes stemming from the Renaissance through the Enlightenment. The book concludes with the turnaround that has taken place during the last 25 years in Europe and America with people, especially Catholic leaders, rejecting the death penalty.

Megivern began his work to find the "the missing story" that might account for how Christian churchmen became entangled with capital punishment in the Middle Ages. He is satisfied that he has identified some of the more important elements in that "missing" story.

His interest in capital punishment was first sparked by a request he received from a public defender in a 1979 murder trial in Wilmington. Megivern said she wanted him to explain to the jury that the Bible does not require that all murderers be killed. In preparing for this presentation, he said he became aware of how sparse and inadequate the available English works on the death penalty were.

His quest for this story took him to a host of research collections over the years. Besides the Library of Congress, the search included the libraries of Duke, UNC-Chapel Hill, Georgetown, Catholic University, St. Louis, University of California at Santa Barbara, Harvard and Emory, as well as those in Bonn, Munich, Paris and the Vatican.

Megivern said a unique feature of the resulting book is that it summarizes in English much historical information and theological discussion previously available only in Latin, German, French, Italian and Spanish sources.

The University Bookstore will conduct a special pre-publication booksigning featuring Megivern from 5 to 7 p.m., today, and 10 a.m. to noon September 5. The public is invited to attend. The cost of the book is $29.95.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 9 to 10 a.m. September 5 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Degree Audit Training

Computer training sessions on the On-Course degree audit and advising system will be held at 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. September 22-25 in Hoggard Hall, Room 212. These introductory sessions on the SIS and On-Course system are designed for any interested faculty member. To register, call Becky Fancher at ext. 3036.

At the Hawk's Nest

The faculty and staff dining room buffets are available again each Tuesday and Friday from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. The room is available the other weekdays for your use as a quiet spot to enjoy lunch.

The September 5 menu will include seafood casserole, grilled pork chops with apple and raisin chutney, rice pilaf, mixed vegetables, buttered corn, tossed salad with dressings, cole slaw, assorted desserts and beverages.

The September 9 menu will include turkey and broccoli with cheddar cheese sauce, vegetarian stuffed peppers, chef's potatoes, southern green beans, mixed vegetables, potato salad, cole slaw, assorted desserts and beverages.

N.C. Biotechnology Center to Visit UNCW

The Office of Research Administration (ORA) will host an information session on North Carolina Biotechnology Center's (NCBTC) grants programs for all interested faculty and staff. Joanna Massey, manager, Science and Technology Development Program, will discuss upcoming NCBTC interests and deadlines. A brown bag luncheon is scheduled for noon to 1:30 p.m. September 8 in the Madeline Suite. Beverages and desert will be provided by ORA. To RSVP, contact Bonnie Smith at ext. 3810.

UNCW-TV Mission

Seahawk Vision, UNCW-TV, under the auspices of the Division for Public Services and Extended Education, shares the university's educational and cultural resources with the service region by providing quality educational, cultural and unique television programming to our viewing audience. Anyone interested in having a class or original program videotaped and edited for broadcast on Seahawk Vision, contact Michelle R. Howard-Vital, vice chancellor for the Division for Public Service and Extended Education, at ext. 4138. If you are interested in having your event videotaped only, not for broadcast, contact Telecommunications Audio Visual Department.

Fiftieth Fact

On this date 50 years ago, Wilmington College opened its doors to17 faculty members and 238 students. The basic requirement for both academic and technical courses was the satisfactory completion of a four-year course in an accredited high school. Classes were conducted before and after New Hanover High School classes. There were five departments of the college: vocational school, adult education, technical school, college parallel, and terminal courses.

A couple of blocks away, Williston College enrolled 26 students.Although Williston College, the local black unit of Fayetteville State Teachers College was not officially part of Wilmington College at the time, it served the same purpose as Wilmington College and eventually became part of the university.

UNCW-TV Rebroadcasts Convocation; Announces Hurricane Program Time Change

Fifty years ago, on September 4, the doors of Wilmington College opened to students. In honor of that day, UNCW-TV will rebroadcast the 1997 UNCW convocation ceremony on Time Warner Cable Channel 11.

Convocation, a ceremony that dates back to medieval times, marks the beginning of the academic year. This year's convocation ceremony featured honored guests and speakers including, UNC president Molly Broad and N.C. Governor Jim Hunt.

The convocation ceremony will be broadcast at 10 p.m. September 4 on Time Warner Cable channel 11.

Also, "Hurricane Fran: The Impact" will now air at 10:30 p.m. September 5 on Time Warner Cable channel 11.

Faculty Moderators Needed for Film Series

The UNCW Activities and Leadership Center is seeking faculty moderators for its fall Leadership Film Series. Moderators would lead a short discussion of the leadership portrayed in the film presented. The fall film series is open to all classes and includes: Stand and Deliver at 7 p.m. September 29 in the University Center Ballroom and Dead Poet's Society at 7 p.m. October 20 in the University Center Ballroom. Also as part of the Leadership for the 21st Century, a lecture by Edward James Olmos, star of Stand and Deliver, will be held at 7 p.m. September 30 in Kenan Auditorium. For more information, call Julie at ext. 3797.

CTE Open House

The Center for Teaching Excellence is having an open house reception to welcome faculty to its new office in Friday Hall, Room 102. The reception is from 1 to 4 p.m. today. Coffee and biscotti will be served. For more information about the Center for Teaching Excellence, call ext. 3034 or e-mail TurrisiP.

Barry Salwen, music, gave his paper "The Piano Music of Maximilian Kreuz" at the College Music Society International Conference in Vienna. Kreuz is a leading Austrian composer; this was the first paper ever given on his music.

Maurice Martinez, specialty studies, presented a workshop on "Diversity in the Workplace" in an Advanced Supervisory Skills Training Course for 24 supervisors in administrative positions with the City of Wilmington.

Remonda B. Kleinberg, political science, delivered the paper "Prospects for Democracy in Mexico in NAFTA," at the International Political Science Association 17th Congress in Seoul, South Korea. She is involved in the international study group "A New World Order?" in preparation for the next congress in Quebec, Canada in the year 2000. Kleinberg gave a paper on economic liberalization and inequality in Mexico at the Society for Latin America Studies Annual Conference at St. Andrews University in Fife, Scotland.

Robert Kieber, Joan Willey and Brooks Avery, chemistry, attended the Chemical Oceanography Gordon Research Conference at Meridian, N.H. Each presented a paper detailing recent research findings.

Darrell Irwin, criminal justice, has been appointed to the editorial advisory board of Annual Editions: Drugs, Society and Behavior, a publication series designed to provide educators with current articles for classroom use.

James Johnson, psychology, had his paper "Perceptual Ambiguity, Gender, and Target Intoxication: Assessing the Effects of Factors that Moderate Perceptions of Sexual Harassment" published as the lead article in the most recent Journal of Applied Social Psychology. The article was co-authored with his students Carmel Benson, Sarah Simmons and Anthony Teasdale.

Kristin Howell, economics and finance, had her paper "Comparison of Effects of Lending to Central European Countries" accepted for publication by the East European Quarterly.

David Carter, economics and finance, gave a seminar "Derivatives and Derivatives Markets" at the Byblos campus of the Lebanese American University. The focus of the seminar was how financial institutions hedge risk through the use of options, futures, and swaps.

David Miller, HPER and director of Summer Sessions, had his book Measurement by the Physical Educator: Why and How, third edition, published by WCB/McGraw-Hill.

Philip Furia, English, has his essay "Irving Berlin: Troubadour of Tin Pan Alley" reprinted in the Johns Hopkins University Press paperback edition of Inventing Times Square: Culture and Commerce at the Crossroads of the World originally published in 1991 by the Russell Sage Foundation.

Diane Levy, Steve McNamee and Gary Faulkner, sociology, participated in a refereed roundtable on undergraduate education at the American Sociological Association annual meeting in Toronto, Canada. The roundtable topic was "International Faculty Exchanges and Undergraduate Education in Sociology." Other participants were John Eade from Roehampton Institute London and Chris Mele, a former UNCW faculty member, now at the State University of New York, Buffalo.

Paul Wilkes, English, wrote the cover article in the September issue of US Catholic, entitled "The Seven Secrets of Successful Catholics." It can be accessed on the Internet at claret.org/~uscath.

Stanley Colbert, English, has had an article accepted by Creative Screenwriting, entitled "My Mother, 90210." It is a humorous memoir of Colbert's experiences as an agent in Hollywood for Aaron Spelling, when Spelling's writing career was just beginning, and how Spelling almost made the author's mother a star.

Volunteers Help Students Move-In

Approximately 500 volunteers including faculty, staff, students and members from the Wilmington community assisted with "Move-In '97" August 16. The volunteers helped about 1,400 students and their parents get settled before the start of classes.

E-mail submissions to COMMUNIQUE

Staff Training and Development

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursdays, through-August 28 and 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays, September 4 to November 20.

New Employee Orientation, 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. September 11.

Defensive Driving, 8 a.m. to noon, September 12.

Connections F, 2 to 4 p.m. September 15 and 9 to 11 a.m. September 22 and 29.

Timebombs: Dealing with Angry Customers, 9 a.m. to noon September 15.

What You Should Know About the Americans with Disabilities Act, 9 a.m. to noon September 16.

Yoga, noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays September 17 to November 25.

The Book in You, 2 to 4 p.m. September 17.

Please refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357.

HIV/AIDS Discussion

A Psychology Department colloquium titled "HIV/AIDS: Clinical Overview into the Second Decade" will be given by Lou Flacks, registered pharmacist, at 3 p.m. September 5 in the Science Building, Room 111. Flacks will describe current understanding of the pathogenesis and effects of HIV/AIDS, the latest therapeutic regimens for those with HIV/AIDS, developments in prevention and characteristics of his clients who are HIV positive or have AIDS.

Flacks, a pharmacist registered in New York and North Carolina, is the owner of an independent pharmacy in Yonkers and national director of continuing education programming for the Alpha Zeta Omega Pharmaceutical Fraternity. He is also acting chairman of continuing education programming for the Westchester-Rockland (NY) Pharmaceutical Association. Sixty-four of his clients are HIV positive or have AIDS.

Early Morning Walkers

A new program for anyone interested in walking for exercise will begin from 7 to 7:30 a.m. September 15. The program will be Monday-Friday, rain or shine. Interested walkers should meet on the second floor of Trask Coliseum at the the top of the stairs using the north entrance facing the tennis courts. Participants can earn points by recording the distance walked. Points can be redeemed for prizes. For more information, or to preregister, call Marsha Todd at ext. 4168. This wellness effort is being co-sponsored by the Hundley Wellness Promotion Center and campus recreation.

Employee Appreciation Week

Employee Appreciation Week is September 8-12. Everyone is invited to the following events: "Breakfast is Served" from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. September 8; "Lunch is on the House" from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. September 10; and "Ice Cream Social" from 1 to 3 p.m. September 12. All events will be in the University Center Ballroom.

Educational Lab Offers Tutoring

The Educational Lab will offer tutoring for children K-9 in reading/language arts and math from September 8 to November 20. UNCW education students will be matched one-on-one with a child for the tutoring sessions. Children will attend one-hour sessions once or twice a week between 3 and 6 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. in King Hall, Room 203.

Tutoring fees are: 20 hours of elementary reading/language arts, $150; 25 hours elementary reading/language arts, $187.50; 10 hours elementary math, $75; and 10 hours of diagnostic testing, $75. For more information, call ext. 3633.

Retirement Reception

A reception celebrating Betsy Stallard's retirement from postal services will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. September 5 in the post office lobby. All faculty and staff are invited.

Procedures Update

The following substantially revised policies for the Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual have been approved by senior management. Key revisions are as follows:

PUR 1.30 - Procurement of Contractual Services

Before making any commitment to a service provider for contractual services, an electronic purchase order must be prepared. A task description (providing the information specified in this policy) must be sent as an attachment to the requisition.

PUR 1.40 - Procurement of Contracted Personal Services and Consultant Services

Most importantly, before making any commitment to individual(s) providing contracted personal services, an Independent Contractor Payment Certification must be prepared and forwarded to human resources. This new form may be ordered from the printing services forms catalog.

For repetitive contracted personal services, departments or divisions may contact the Director of Human Resources Administration to request blanket approval.

Before making any commitment to a consultant, departments should continue to contact the Director of Purchasing Services for assistance.

These policies may be viewed in their entirety on the Web. The Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual is linked off the UNCW home page under Administration and is also accessible via the Business Affairs home page.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Shane Baptista, Center for TeachingExcellence; Nancy Feeney and Neal Richardson, Jr., admissions; Douglas Kipp, NURC; Gary Piatak, housing and residence life; and Frederick Thompson, telecommunications.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 6 September 11, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

Music Department Benefits from Baldwin "Grand" Program

Making five new grand and eight upright pianos available to the Music Department at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington is a "grand" program sponsored by Baldwin Piano Company.

The pianos, to be housed in Kenan Hall, will be used for music instruction at the university. Also, community organizations, such as the Wilmington Symphony Orchestra, that use Kenan Hall for informal recitals and rehearsals, will benefit from the program.

"No other local venue can provide facilities with instruments of this quality," said Frank Bongiorno, chair of the Music Department.

The new pianos at UNC Wilmington are part of a program the Baldwin Piano Company offers to universities nationwide, according to Bill Glisson, manager of R.A. Daffer Inc., the Wilmington dealer for Baldwin pianos. Five grand pianos were delivered and installed

September 4. The uprights were delivered September 5.

According to Bongiorno, the company's program began with a pilot program at UNC Chapel Hill. Other North Carolina universities that now participate are Appalachian State University and N.C. State University, added Glisson.

Glisson said the university would have use of the "world-class" pianos for one year. At year's end, the pianos will be offered for sale to the public and the university will again receive new instruments.

UNCW's administration approved the program this year, said Bongiorno, adding that while the university does not own the pianos, the Music Department paid shipping costs and must maintain additional insurance on the pianos which are valued at approximately $150,000. The educational benefits of this investment in the program outweighed the university's cost of $3,100, said Bongiorno. To compare the cost, he said the money invested would have enabled the university to lease only one baby grand piano.

And, having quality instruments will help educate and recruit students to the Music Department, said vocal professor Joan Heller, who helped initiate the program at UNCW. "Without fine instruments to sing with or play, you don't have music."

The new pianos are part of on-going renovations that began two years ago at Kenan Hall. These renovations consist of acoustical improvements and soundproofing to some music studios and the construction of a new art gallery in the lobby.

University Marks 50th Birthday with Party; Bellringing

Wilmington College opened its doors to faculty and students at 4 p.m. September 4, 1947. Fifty years later more than 200 people gathered to celebrate the university's "birthday" with cake and lemonade.

Chancellor James R. Leutze started the celebration by ringing a brass bell that was used to signal the change of classes during the university's early years. Also on hand for the celebration were Don Blake and Zeke Pittard, the first and current student body presidents, as well as Hannah Gage, chair of the UNCW Board of Trustees.

Zeke Pittard, Don Blake, Chancellor Leutze with brass bell and Hannah Gage, above. Left, crowd enjoys birthday cake.

Fall Faculty Meeting

The fall faculty meeting will be at 4 p.m. today in Cameron Auditorium, Room 105. All faculty members are encouraged to attend.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. September 11 and 3 to 4 p.m. September 17.

International Students Reception

All faculty, staff and students are invited to a reception for UNCW's international students. The reception will be held from 4 to 5:30 p.m. September 17 in the University Union Living Room. Refreshments will be served. This fall there are 44 new and 45 returning international students representing 34 different countries.

Goldwater Scholarships

The Barry Goldwater scholarships offer substantial awards of up to $7,500 per year to college juniors and senior who are planning careers in mathematics, the natural sciences or engineering. The nominating forms and regulations are in the Honors Program Office. The deadline is January 14, 1998. Consider nominating your best students for this prestigious scholarship. For more information, contact Diane Levy at ext. 4181.

Coastal Educational Technology Conference and Vendor Fair

The Consortium for the Advancement of Public Education (CAPE) in the Watson School of Education is sponsoring "Surfing for Solutions, Strategies and Successes" October 9 and 10 in King Hall and the University Center Ballroom. This Coastal Educational Technology Conference and Vendor Fair will feature more than 70 sessions presented by educators. Also, there will be new products at vendor exhibits. Keynote presenters include Tim Fleck, author of HyperStudio for Terrified Teachers, and Caroline McCullen, creator of the award-winning Midlink Magazine.

For more information concerning presenting or registering for the conference, contact Wendy Marshall at ext. 7287. The deadline for returning applications for presenters is September 19. The registration deadline to attend is September 26.

Note of Appreciation

Grace James-Corbett expresses her thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness during the illness and recent death of her brother Willie Albert (Buddy) James, Jr.

Fiftieth Fact

On September 11, 1947, Wilmington College graduated its first class.The class, an air-conditioning and refrigeration class, began on September 15, 1946 as part of the technical division of the extension center, which existed a year before the start of Wilmington College.

Help Needed for Odyssey Project

Anyone interested in helping with an elementary school Odyssey of the Mind (OM) project should contact Sue McCaffray at 686-1962. People are needed who can discuss OM, share their own experiences, assist coaches or judge.

Feminist Colloquium

The Feminist Colloquium will hold its first meeting at 12:15 p.m. September 18 in the faculty common of Morton Hall. The reading "From Practice to Theory, or What Is a White Woman Anyway?" by Catharine MacKinnon is on reserve, or call J. Ellerby at ext. 3764 for a copy or futher information. All are welcome.

UNCW Honors Student Accepted for NY Program

Adrian Varnam, a UNCW honors student, has been accepted for the program "Globalization and Communication: Dynamic Transformations" for the fall semester. The program will be held at the Brooklyn campus of Long Island University. Twenty-eight students nationwide were chosen for this intensive, honors level study. The New York Honors Semester is sponsored by the National Collegiate Honors Council and is open to students enrolled in university honors programs who maintain at least a 3.30 grade point average.

While living on campus in Brooklyn, the students will take courses in global communications, economics, political science, sociology/urban studies, art, anthropology and field research.

History Lecture

Chris E. Fonvielle, Jr., history, will present the lecture "Last Rays of Departing Hope: Wilmington and the Collapse of the Confederacy" at 7:30 p.m. September 24 in Bryant Auditorium, Morton Hall. Fonvielle is the author of the newly published book The Wilmington Campaign.

Leadership Wilmington Class of '97 Includes Four from UNCW

Four of the 25 participants in this year's Leadership Wilmington program are from UNCW. They are Pat Corcoran, advancement; Leslie Langer, SBTDC; and Sandra Harris and Cecil Sutton, public service and extended education. The program will expose participants to community issues and leaders through 11 weekly sessions. This exposure will provide the background for the development of collective conclusions that participants will present to the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors in early 1998.

Leadership Wilmington is sponsored by the Greater Wilmington Chamber Foundation, Division of Public Service and Extended Education and 360 Communications.

Poet Jessica Care Moore to Perform

As part of the new Arts in Action performing arts series, Jessica Care Moore, a Detroit native who believes in taking poetry out of cafes and straight to the people, will perform at 8 p.m. September 20 in Kenan Auditorium. Ticket prices are $10 for general public, $5 for UNCW faculty and staff and $3 for students and children. For more information, call Debo Cox at ext. 4230.

ORA New Faculty Open House

The Office of Research Administration (ORA) is having an "open house" for all new faculty from 2 to 4 p.m. September 24 in Hoggard Hall, Room 227. Refreshments will be provided. RSVP to Bonnie at ext. 3810 by September 19.

Chancellor Leutze to Address World Trade Association Meeting

Chancellor James R. Leutze will discuss "Strengthening International Ties" at the annual meeting of the Cape Fear Chapter of the World Trade Association. The luncheon presentation will be at noon September 17 at the Wilmington Hilton. For more information, call the Greater Wilmington chamber of commerce at 762-2611.

UNCW Alumni Take Golden Tour to Charlotte

The UNCW Alumni Association kicks off its Golden Alumni Tour September 13 at Ericsson Stadium in Charlotte.

The tour is one of several ways the alumni association is celebrating the university's 50th anniversary. The tour will include stops at seven cities in North Carolina and Virginia, giving alumni an opportunity to celebrate UNCW's growth and progress since the doors of Wilmington College opened in 1947.

Of the UNCW's 25,000 alumni, approximately 950 live in the Charlotte area and have been invited to the event which will be held in Ericsson Stadium's Queen City Room. It will begin at 6 p.m. with a social hour including a cash bar and beer donated by Bealer Wholesaler. The dinner will begin at 7 p.m. followed by the program featuring the video "Dare to Dream: Celebrating 50 Years of Education," an alumni speaker and greetings from Kevin Jacques, vice chancellor for university advancement.

The Charlotte Chapter of the UNCW Alumni Association is being organized with Wayne Tharp '75 as chapter representative to the board of directors.

Biology Seminar

Joel Mintzes, biological sciences, will present the seminar "Minds of Our Own: A Miniseries on Cognition and Learning in the Sciences" at 2 p.m. September 12 in the New Science Building, Room 103.

Chemistry Seminar

Jack Levy, chemistry, will present the seminar "Computational Studies of Structure and Bonding in Model Organophosphorus Compounds" at 3 p.m. September 12 in the New Science Building, Room 132. Everyone is invited.

Degree Audit Training

Computer training sessions on the On-Course degree audit and advising system will be held at 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. September 22-25 in Hoggard Hall, Room 212. These introductory sessions on the SIS and On-Course system are designed for any interested faculty member. To register, call Becky Fancher at ext. 3036.

Mail News of UNCW's 50th Anniversary

Faculty and staff sending metered mail will help spread the word of UNCW's 50th anniversary. The university post office has incorporated the 50th anniversary logo into its postal indicia, which takes the place of a stamp on metered mail. All off-campus metered mail will receive the indicia except for bulk mailings, return mailings and hand-metered mail.

Third Civil War Conference

The third annual "North Carolina: The Civil War Connection" will take place September 26 to 28 at the Coast Line Convention Center in Wilmington.

This year's conference will cover the war in eastern North Carolina, the Wilmington campaign and the Civil War atmosphere of the city. Featured speakers include writers Rod Gragg and Chris Fonvielle covering the battle of Fort Fisher and the Wilmington Campaign, respectively. For more information contact Chris Fonvielle, history, at ext. 3449.

Mediation Program

The UNCW Mediation Program, jointly sponsored by UNCW's Faculty Senate, Division for Academic Affairs, Dean of Students Office, Department of Human Resources and the Dispute Settlement Center of Cape Fear, is a free and confidential means to settle conflicts of all kinds. The mediation process involves a neutral mediator who works to resolve a dispute between two parties. Disputes between faculty, staff and students are suitable for mediation. In order for both parties to have a neutral environment, mediation will take place at the Dispute Settlement Center of Cape Fear, located at 4607 Franklin Ave., Suite 225. Mediation is a voluntary process that both disputants must agree to undertake. To schedule mediation, call the center at 350-2900.

Cape Fear Museum Exhibit Features 50 Years of UNCW

Cape Fear Museum's Spotlight On exhibits features "50 Years of Higher Education: The University of North Carolina at Wilmington." The display, which continues through December 19, documents the evolution of UNCW over the past 50 years. In addition to the Spotlight On display, the museum is featuring a lecture by Chancellor Emeritus Dr. William H. Wagoner and Marshall Crews at 11 a.m. September 12. In this free lecture "From Wilmington College to College Road" Crews and Wagoner share memories of their time at Wilmington College and UNCW.

Shared Leave Requests

Sharon Appleton and Dorothy Taylor need shared leave donations to help them avoid leave without pay. For more information, call Dale at ext. 3161.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employee:

Elizabeth Tucker, advancement.

Bookstore Announcements

The bookstore is having a faculty, staff and student appreciation week September 10-16. Purchase 50th anniversary merchandise with a 20-percent discount. The bookstore has a wide assortment of 50th anniversary gift items.

The bookstore will soon begin returning textbooks. Any academic department that requires books being held for late purchases should call ext. 3188 or e-mail Bookstore.

The National Association of College Stores recently reported that even though operations at UPS have resumed, the two-week strike created a backlog that may require months to clean up. College store buyers are being encouraged to place winter orders as early as possible.

Early Morning Walkers

A new program for anyone interested in walking for exercise will begin from 7 to 7:30 a.m. September 15. The program will be Monday-Friday, rain or shine. Interested walkers should meet on the second floor of Trask Coliseum at the top of the stairs using the north entrance facing the tennis courts. Participants can earn points by recording the distance walked. Points can be redeemed for prizes. For more information or to preregister, call Marsha Todd at ext. 4168. This wellness effort is co-sponsored by the Hundley Wellness Promotion Center and campus recreation.

Union Displays Work of Jane Baldridge

A collection of paintings by Wilmington artist Jane Baldridge will be on display through September 19 in the University Union Living Room.

Baldridge is an active environmentalist and directs efforts at heightening peoples' awareness of the value of preserving Wilmington's natural resources. She has shown her works in numerous exhibitions throughout North and South Carolina.

Staff Training

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20.

Connections F, 2 to 4 p.m. September 15 and 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. September 22 and 29.

What You Should Know About the American with Disabilities Act, 9 a.m. to noon September 16.

Yoga, noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays September 17 to November 25.

The Book in You, 2 to 4 p.m. September 17.

Performance Collaboration, 9 a.m. to noon, September 19.

Please refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357.

Ethics Policy Conflict of Interest

Administrative Procedure MSC 1.50 is designed to assist employees in avoiding situations where conflict of interest may arise. Conflict of interest situations could arise, for example, whenever: university resources are utilized for personal gain; an employee utilizes the influence of his/her position within the university to profit personally; or an employee knowingly fails to uphold the trust of the state or agency by which he/she is employed.

This procedure also identifies specific areas where conflict of interest situations would more likely occur. Examples include: vendor relationships; secondary and dual employment; use of university resources (supplies, equipment and facilities); contractual arrangements; political activities; management of contracts and grants; or management and use of financial resources.

Administrative Proceduce MSC 1.50 is the primary source to assist employees in identifying and avoiding conflict of interest situations. Faculty employees may find additional guidance in the Faculty Handbook and in guidelines provided by UNC General Administration.

This is recyclable.

Joanne Nottingham, education, had her book An Introduction to the Profession of Teaching: Critical Thinking Approaches published by Kendall/Hunt.

Marlene Rosenkoetter, nursing, and John Garris, business, presented their research "Psychosocial Changes in Retirement" at an interdisciplinary conference "Vitality Throughout the Adult Lifecycle" sponsored by the Gerontological Nursing Interventions Research Center and the College of Medicine of the University of Iowa and the American Academy of Nursing, in Iowa City, Iowa.

Granetta Richardson, English, had her paper "Screen Play: Ethos and Dialectics in Film" accepted for publication in the collection entitled The Terministic Screen, edited by David Blakesley of Southern Illinois University for Rutgers University Press.

Nora Noel and Katherine Bruce, psychology, received funding for "Psychology Substance Abuse Research Assistant."

Katherine Bruce and Mark Galizio, psychology, received funding for "Graduate Scholarship in Psychology."

Rick Mathieu, production and decision sciences, had his paper "Teaching Data Quality in the Undergraduate Database Course" accepted for publication in the proceedings of the 1997 Information Quality Conference at MIT in Cambridge, Mass.

Lee Schweninger, English, delivered papers at two conferences. He read on Native American identity in the work of Louis Owens at the Native American Literature Conference in Eugene, Ore. Also, at the Association for the Study of Literature and the Environment Conference in Missoula, Mont., he reported on land ethics in the works of Gerald Vizenor. He also presented in a roundtable discussion of "Ecocriticism and the Academic Job Market."

Lavonne J. Adams, English, and Jesse Waters, undergraduate, read their poetry for the residents of the Kennedy Home on Aug. 29. The reading was sponsored by the North Carolina Poetry Society.

Paul Shotsberger, mathematical sciences, had his paper "The INSTRUCT Project: Web Professional Development for Mathematics Teachers" accepted for publication in the Journal of Computers in Mathematics and Science Teaching.

Chester Loeffler-Bell, art and theatre, recently designed the lighting for the Temple Theatre production of The Moving of Lilla Barton. It is Loeffler-Bell's first project with the Sanford, N.C., theatre.

Patricia Lerch, anthropology, had her paper "Uma discussao sobre multiculturalismo nos campi universitarios dos Estados Unidos: a cultura de quem dominara o curriculo?" in Universidade, Pesquisa e Inovacao, a publication of the Universidade Federal do Rio Grande do Sul, Porto Alegre, Brazil.

Aquarius Rededication Held August 26

Aquarius 2000, the world's only undersea research laboratory has undergone a high-tech overhaul enabling it to better study coral reef habitat and transmit video and other data from the ocean floor. The lab is scheduled to resume underwater studies later this year.

The August 26 rededication and recommissioning ceremony capped a year-long effort to improve and expand the communications of Aquarius 2000. The refurbishment was the result of a partnership between communications engineers at Harris Corporation; ocean engineers at Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institution; Aquarius's owner, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration; and its operator, the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

Above left, the refurbished Aquarius 2000. Right, Representatives from the four partners. Bottom left, Provost Marvin Moss speaks to reporters in front of the 33-foot unmanned navigational buoy equipped with microwave tranmitting equipment that will enable Aquarius to communicate to a shore-based station seven miles away.

Faculty and Staff ID Replacement

Faculty and staff who did not replace their identification cards in July can get replacements during the week of September 15 at auxiliary services. If you have questions, call ext. 3560.

Students must trade in their old ID's by October 31. Beginning with the spring semester, the previous UNCW ID's will not be valid.

Regalia Sale

A representative from Oak Hall Cap and Gown will be in the bookstore taking orders for custom regalia on September 16 and 17. The bookstore will be offering a 20 percent discount on all orders placed during this sale. A 50 percent deposit of the purchase is required at the time of order with the balance due on delivery. Call Jessiebeth at ext. 3054 to make an appointment.

ARAMARK Invoices

Effective July 1 a new procedure was instituted for payment of ARAMARK invoices using trust fund accounts (Administrative Procedure Aux 2.10). The charges will be assessed accounts via decentralization. Departments are not to process check requests for these payments. Departments authorized to use state funds for ARAMARK invoice payments should continue to process via check request.

Bookstore Purchases for University Business

Departments purchasing supplies at the bookstore that are not available in central stores must pay for those items by using an interdepartmental invoice (IDI), not petty cash reimbursement.

American Express Applications

Individuals eligible for the Corporate American Express card may contact Betty Mills at ext. 3149 for an application. Return completed applications to Betty Mills for review, signature and submission to American Express.

Change at Student Development Center

Phillip Sharp has taken new responsibilities as the doctoral level licensed psychologist of the Student Development Center. In that capacity, he no longer coordinates disability services.

Re-employed Retired State Employees

Anyone receiving N.C. state retirement system benefits who are re-employed by the state should remember that there are limits on annual earnings from employers covered under the state retirement system.

The general limit is one-half of the base salary received for the last year worked. If limit is exceeded, retirement income and medical benefits stop; re-application for reinstatement must be made after meeting the earning limit.

To find the amount allowed to earn without affecting retirement benefits, call the state retirement system at 919/733-4191.

Health Plan Choices Effective October 1

The annual enrollment period for changing health plans ended September 2. Premium increases or premium changes due to switching plans will be reflected in September pay checks. Changes in coverage will be effective October 1.

Salary Increases

SPA employees who were in permanent status on June 30 with a performance rating of good or above will receive a 2 percent cost of living adjustment and a 2 percent career growth adjustment. SPA legislative increases will be reflected in September 30 paychecks with adjustments retroactive to July 1. Overtime and premium pay rate changes will be reflected in September 15 paychecks with retroactive adjustments for time paid on August 15. Adjustments for longevity paid in July and August will be reflected in September 30 checks.

EPA and faculty increases are awarded on a discretionary basis and will be reflected in October 31 paychecks retroactive to July 1.

Liability Insurance

In past years about this time a brochure describing supplemental liability insurance was sent to all employees for their consideration. Human resources has been advised by the plan's representatives that the company, Accordia, will not be offering coverage this year.

Professional liability coverage up to $1 million is provided for employees ($150,000 by the Defense of State Employees Act and $850,000 by the university). If anyone would like additional coverage, it may be possible to obtain coverage through a rider to homeowner's insurance.

Business Affairs Web Site Reminder

With the start of a new academic year, business affairs reminds everyone there are many business services that can be accessed through the web such as: moving services request form, UNCW chart of accounts (updated daily), UPS package tracking, travel links and zip code directory, links to on-line directories for the 16 UNC constituent institutions and administrative policies and procedures. A recent addition is the Master Plan 2020.

Also, visit the home pages of the following business affairs departments and areas: bookstore, purchasing services, systems and procedures, telecommunications, university police and auxiliary services.

Business affairs is continually expanding its site to provide the services needed. Send suggestions for additional services to the e-mail addresses on the web pages.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 7 September 18, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW Sponsors Salute to Frank Capra, Sr. and Jimmy Stewart

Faculty, staff and students are invited to attend a special evening at the movies titled "A Film Salute to Jimmy Stewart and Frank Capra, Sr." at 8 p.m. September 23 at United Artists College Road Cinemas. Admission is free, but tickets are required for admission. Tickets are available at the University Union Information Center.

UNCW theatre professor Terry Theodore organized the evening at the request of Chancellor James R. Leutze. The evening will feature a special showing of the documentary Frank Capra's American Dream, a tribute to his father by Frank Capra, Jr., president of Screen Gems Studio in Wilmington. Jimmy Stewart appeared in three of Frank Capra, Sr.'s major films and is featured prominently in the documentary.

Both Chancellor Leutze and Frank Capra, Jr. will be on hand that evening. Capra has been instrumental in the development of the film studies minor at UNCW and the placement of university students as interns at the film studio.

Capra's documentary is being reviewed this week by individuals who will decide if it is to be up for consideration for an Oscar, said Professor Theodore. "We will actually be screening the copy of the film that the judges are using to evaluate it," he said. "The film has received excellent reviews. It has been playing at selected theaters around the country."

Staff Award Winner Michael Lloyd Named Governor's Award of Excellence Recipient

UNCW's Staff Award of Excellence winner Michael Lloyd has been selected as a recipient of the 1997 Governor's Award of Excellence.

Lloyd will be honored at an awards ceremony at 2 p.m. October 15 at the Executive Mansion in Raleigh. He is one of 11 recipients being honored this year during North Carolina's first "Excellence in State Government" week.

A special committee appointed by Gov. James B. Hunt selected recipients from among 62 nominees in five categories: innovation, devotion to duty, safety and heroism, public service and human relations. According to Lavonda Van Benthuysen with the N.C. Office of State Personnel, Lloyd received the award in the devotion to duty category, the same category he received UNCW's Staff Award of Excellence which enabled him to be nominated for the Governor's Award of Excellence.

Lloyd said the award suprised him. "I don't look at what I'm doing as extraordinary. It's just part of my job and my life."

Wellness Safari

Wellness Safari '97 will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. September 24 in the University Center. Free health screenings, community resources and great prizes will be offered. This event is sponsored by the Hundley Wellness Promotion Center, campus recreation, human resources and the SGA.

Actor Edward James Olmos to Lecture

Award winning actor Edward James Olmos will present a lecture at 7 p.m. September 30 in Kenan Auditorium.

The lecture, part of the "Arts in Action" Performing Arts Series, gives Olmos an opportunity to deliver his message that self-discipline and determination can overcome the most daunting obstacles.

Olmos is best known for his Emmy-winning role as Lt. Castillo on "Miami Vice" and as a spokesman for the Hispanic community. Following the 1992 riots in Los Angeles, he helped restore the city's grief-stricken neighborhoods, earning him the title of "unofficial mayor of L.A."

Olmos produced "Lives of Hazard," an expose of gang life in America and won a Golden Globe Award as Best Supporting Actor in HBO's "Burning Season."

The lecture is free for UNCW faculty, staff and students. Admission for the general public is $5.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Blood Drive

A blood drive sponsored by UNCW Volunteers! will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. September 23 in the University Center Ballroom. For more information, call Tisha Petteway at ext. 3925.

Satellite Seminar

The satellite seminar "The Nonprofit Leader of the Future" will be held from 1 to 4:30 p.m. September 25 in Wagoner Hall's Madeline Suite. This free seminar, featuring Peter Drucker, Max DuPree and other leadership experts, is co-sponsored by the Leadership Center, the Camerson School of Business and the Division for Public Service and Extended Education. Reservations are required due to space limitations. For more information and registration, call ext. 3193 by September 22.

At the Hawk's Nest

Faculty and staff dining room buffet menus: September 19 - bayou jambalaya, ham and broccoli au gratin, chef's potatoes, southern green beans, mixed vegetables, potato salad, cole slaw, assorted desserts and beverages; September 23 - marinated grilled chicken, eggplant parmesan, wild rice with mushrooms, steamed broccoli with lemon butter, buttered baby carrots, greek salad, pasta salad, assorted desserts and beverages.

50th Fact

During the early years, Wilmington College classes were held at New Hanover High School before and after high school classes convened. During the 1948-49 academic year, the college also had exclusive use of one office and one classroom in the Isaac Bear Building, located across the street from New Hanover High School at 13th and Market streets. It wasn't until 1956 that the entire Isaac Bear building was available for the college's use.

Wilmington in Black and White

"Wilmington in Black and White" is a series of 10 Thursday evening conversations being sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division of Public Service and Extended Education. The conversations will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays September 18 to November 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103. This week's topic is "Black and White in 1898 Wilmington" featuring Tom Schmid, philosophy and religion, and Diane Lomax, Cape Fear Community College. Attendance is free. To preregister call ext. 3195.

Grad Student Awarded Membership

Michelle Bruce, graduate student in geology, Department of Earth Sciences, was awarded a one-year membership in the National Association of Geoscience Teachers as an outstanding teaching assistant.

Learning Center Seeks Canopy

The UNCW Learning Center will participate in the Hundley Wellness Center Safari from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. September 24 at the University Center. The center's exhibit is outside and needs a canopy. Anyone interested in loaning the center a canopy for the day should call Gail York-Scimeca at ext. 3978.

Carowinds Coupons

Discount coupons for admission to Carowinds theme park are available to faculty and staff. Valid dates are September 27 to October 12 and October 18 and 25. Coupons make be picked up in human resources.

Spring International Travel

Faculty requests for financial help with international travel for spring 1998 are due October 15 in the Office of International Programs. Forms are available from departmental chairs or by calling international programs at ext. 3685.

University Union Art Exhibit

Husband and wife artists Lou and Ruth Gratch will be featured in an art exhibit September 22 to November 7 in the University Union Living Room. A reception with the artists will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. September 24 in the UU Living Room.

The exhibit "East-West Revisited" will feature watercolors and collages by Ruth Gratch, as well as sumi-e, an ink medium derived from Japan brush paintings, by Lou Gratch.

Gratch developed an interest in Oriental art during military assignments in Japan at the end of World War II. He studies sumi-e at Chicago's Japanese Buddhist Temple. Ruth Gratch attended art schools in New York and apprenticed in a commercial art studio in Chicago. After moving to Wilmington in 1979, she discovered her best work was in watercolors and collages. Her work can be seen at the New Elements Gallery in Wilmington.

University Center Art Exhibit

"Go Figure It: Paintings of and with People from Realism to Abstraction" is an exhibit featuring the work of three artists that will be displayed September 22 to November 7 in the University Center. The featured artists are Jane Staszak, Greta Swaim and Ortrud Tyler.

A reception for the artists will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. September 25 in the University Union Living Room.

Staszak, a Pennsylvania native, attended Mary Washington College and received her formal training with the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

Swaim received classical art training in Vancouver, British Columbia, as well as the Vancouver Museum of Fine Art.

Taylor has studied extensively in Berlin, Germany, and the United States.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employee:

Patrick Dever, university police.

Your Student Career Journal

UNCW Career Services • Vol 2, No 1 • September 1997

What Can I Do With a Major In....?

Many students find themselves asking this question. Freshmen and Sophomores ask it as they explore different academic majors. Juniors and Seniors ask it as they consider how they will apply their learning in the work world.

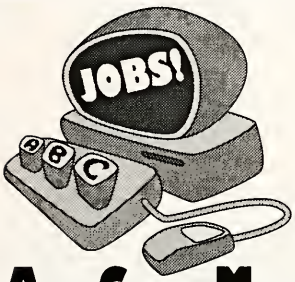
To help students explore this proverbial question, Career Services has spent this past year developing a series of web pages.

Each of these pages features a specific UNCW academic major, and includes a listing of related occupational titles, plus a collection of helpful web sites to provide up-to-date information on those career fields and sources of internship and employment contacts.

Today's work world is changing so rapidly that it is difficult for anyone to stay abreast of all the changes. New technologies and international competition create new occupational specialities, and other career fields undergo dramatic transformations or are eliminated all together. Internet sites allow for instantly updated information. It is difficult for printed resources to keep up with this frenzied pace of change.

Information includes diverse topics such as the most frequently asked questions about Accounting careers, the biggest Science career hazards and how to avoid them, Business publications in Charlotte and the Research Triangle Area, the public school districts in North Carolina, the range of jobs in Communications, Fine Arts careers, and Nursing careers outside the traditional hospital.

Check it out!



At the Click of a Mouse

Two UNCW databases now list part-time jobs, internships and full-time opportunities for students and alumni. Only jobs listed within the past 30 days are listed, and the database currently includes over 650 listings! At the Career Services homepage, click on "UNCW Careers Job Listings" and "JobTrak." (Both require a password you can get from Career Services.)

Career Services homepage
http://www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/career

Career Workshops

Working for Uncle Sam: Federal Civil Service Employment
US Office of Personnel Management on how to apply.
Friday, Sept 19, 11am-12noon
Cameron Auditorium

CAREER DAY '97
Visit with over 80 organizations for career and employment information.
Wednesday, Oct 1, 11am-2pm
Trask Coliseum

Finding Jobs with the State of North Carolina
NC Office of State Personnel and other departments on finding state jobs.
Thursday, Oct 23, 3-5pm, UU 100

So, You Want To Go To Law School
NC Bar Association and practicing attorneys talk about getting into law school, and a law career.
Monday, Nov 3, 4-5:30pm, Cameron 123

Making That "MAJOR" Decision
Ideas to help you begin choosing your academic major.
Thursday, Oct 16, 4-5pm, UU 201
Wednesday, Oct 22, 4-5pm, SASP in Wagoner Hall
Tuesday, Oct 28, 9:30-10:30am, SASP in Wagoner Hall

Selling Yourself on Paper: Resumes & Cover Letters
How to represent yourself with a powerful resume, formats, style, etc.
Monday, Sept 15, 9-10am, UU 201
Thursday, Oct 16, 9:30-10:30am, UU 201
Wednesday, Nov 12, 3-4pm, UU 201

Interview To Win: Preparing for Job Interviews
How to prepare for today's job interviews, typical questions you'll be asked, etc.
Monday, Oct 6, 3-4pm, UU 201
Thursday, Nov 18, 9:30-10:30am, UU 201

Job Hunting: Your Senior Project
Job hunting strategies for today's job market.
Monday, Oct 20, 3-4pm, UU 201
Thursday, Nov 20, 9:30-10:30am, UU 201

GRADUATE & PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL DAY '97
Representatives from over 25 institutions will provide info on applying and getting accepted.
Wednesday, Nov 5, 1-4pm, UC Ballroom

On-Campus Recruiting • Fall '97

New Employers are added throughout the semester, so for the most current schedule please see the "Services for Students" section of our Career Services homepage <http://www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/career>
Sign-up sheets are first available in Career Services, UU 106, on Mondays three weeks before the scheduled interview dates. Students must be registered with our office by uploading their UNCW Careers disks at least one week prior to the scheduled interview. Any cancellation of an interview appointment must be made at least 24 hours prior to the scheduled interview.

Grainger Tuesday, September 23
Position: Inside Sales, Outside Sales, Warehouse Majors: All

Atlantic Seaboard Tuesday, September 9
11am - 2pm (Table in University Center) Info about part time jobs

US Marines Thursday, September 11
10:00 am - 2:30 pm (Table in University Center)

Walt Disney World
Monday, September 29 Presentation: Cameron Aud 6:00-9:00 pm
Tuesday, September 30 Interviewing: Career Services UU 106
You MUST attend on the 29th to sign up for interviews the next day!

Career Day '97 Wednesday, October 1
Over 80 Employers, Trask Coliseum, 11:00 am - 2:00 pm

Peace Corps Wednesday, October 1
Informational/presentation Session, University Union 201 - 3:00 - 500

Elon Home for Children Thursday, October 2
Position: Counselors, Teachers, Therapists
Majors: CRJ, Psychology, SW, Sociology, Special Ed., Art, PE

McGladery & Pullen, CPA's Thursday, October 2
Position: Staff Accountants, Majors: Accountancy

IBM Thursday, October 2
Majors: CSC, PDS, Math
Position: Application Integration, Sys Mngt, Sys Mngt Integration, Network Management, Network Integration

SAS Thursday, October 2
Majors: CSC, PDS
Position: Research & Development, Software Testing, Technical Support, Information Systems, Consulting Services

The Financial Group Thursday, October 2
Position: Sales Majors: All

Columbus County Schools Tuesday, October 7
Majors: All Education Position: Teaching

BB&T Tuesday, October 7
Position: To Be Announced

John Hancock Financial Services
Monday, October 13 Presentation: Cameron Hall Room 123 5:30 - 6:30
Tuesday October 14 Interviews: Career Services UU 106
Position: Sales Majors: All

Integon Tuesday, October 14
Majors: PDS, CSC Position: Entry level Programmers
Majors: All Position: Claim Adjusters

NC Highway Patrol Tuesday, October 14
Majors: CRJ, PLS Position: Highway Patrolmen

Intelligent Information Systems Wednesday, October 15
Majors: CSC, PDS

Burlington Industries Wednesday, October 15
Majors: Management, Finance, Chemistry, PDS, CIS, Accounting
Position: Manufacturing

FootAction Thursday, October 16
Position: Management Trainee Majors: All

CAREER SERVICES

University of North Carolina at Wilmington
Division Of Student Affairs
104 & 106 University Union
910.962.3174

CAREER SERVICES

UNCW Careers Registration

The new Windows version is here! Now it's even easier for students to become part of this powerful electronic database. What can your UNCW Careers disk do for you?

- A portfolio for gathering all collegiate activities & leadership experiences.
- Preparation for internship opportunities.
- A tutorial for developing four powerful, professional resumes.
- Software to create cover letters and other job search correspondence.
- Referral of your resume for internships & job openings in small & large organizations.
- Option to post your resume on the World Wide Web.
- Access to on-campus recruiting schedules.

On-Campus Recruiting • Sept – Oct 1997 (continued)

Northwestern Mutual Life Friday, October 17
Position: Sales - Full Internships Majors: All

Lady Footlocker Wednesday, October 22
Position: Management Trainee Majors: All

Olde Discount Wednesday, October 22
Position: Stock Broker Majors: All

Sherwin Williams Thursday, October 23
Position: Management Trainee Majors: Management, Marketing

Tru Green ChemLawn Thursday, October 23
Position: Management/Sales Majors: All

Perdue Farms Tuesday, October 28
Majors: PLS, Psychology, Management, Business Systems, MBA
Positions: Management

Victaulic Thursday, October 30
Positions: To Be Announced

Choosing a major? Looking for a career? Got a dream job in mind, but don't know where to start? Get a REALITY CHECK with SIGI-PLUS, the fast, easy-to-use software that helps you make important decisions about your future. And it's free!

- Understand your work-related values, interests and skills.
- Get current, reliable, in-depth info on jobs and how to prepare.
- Find out the skills employers want.
- Develop your own education and career plan to make your way to a brilliant future.

SIGI PLUS

Call Career Services at 962-3174
to schedule your time with SIGI-Plus.
• 104/106 University Union •

UNCW

Career Day 97

Wednesday, Oct. 1

11am-2pm
Trask Coliseum

- For All UNCW Students
- Career Information
- Contacts for Internships & Jobs
- Door Prizes & Soda for Students
- Over 80 Organizations, Including

Burlington Industries • IBM • Wachovia • RJ Reynolds • Lowe's
Drug Enforcement Admin • NC State Govt Internships
Vision Software • Aerotek • Winston Hospitality • AFLAC
Cities of Roanoke, Jacksonville, High Point, Greensboro,
Winston-Salem, and Wilmington • Hannaford Bros
New Hanover Reg Med Ctr • Pitt County Hospital •
SE Reg Med Ctr • Perdue Farms • BellSouth Advertising
and many others...

Career Services • Division of Student Affairs • 104/106 University Union • 910.962.3174

UNCW Career Day 97

Wednesday, Oct. 1
11am-2pm • Trask Coliseum

How Will You Benefit from Career Day '97?

UNCW's Career Day '97 is a unique opportunity for students, faculty and staff to talk with people representing a wide range of occupational fields, from accounting to vocational rehabilitation. These representatives come to Career Day prepared to answer a wide range of career questions.

- General Career Questions-
  - What is a typical day like in this career field?
  - What changes are occurring in this field?
  - What specific skills, education and experience do you look for in new college graduates?
  - What kinds of advancement opportunities does your organization offer?
  - What trends do you see impacting the future of this field, and organizations like yours?
  - How do salaries in this field compare with other fields?
  - What are the biggest challenges in this field?
  - What are some professional associations in this field, or other sources of career information?
  - How should I prepare myself to be a strong candidate for jobs with organizations like yours?
  - Tell me more about your organization: products and services offered, age, size, location, ownership, current challenges, future trends, etc.
- Internship Questions-
  - Does your organization have an established internship program? If not, are you interested in setting up an individual college student internship?
  - In what types of activities are your interns able to become involved?
  - Are your internships paid or volunteer?
  - How does your internship supervisor coordinate the learning experience with campus faculty?
  - Do you prefer a student intern to work full-time for a semester, or work part-time while taking classes?
  - What is your application process for internships?
  - Tell me more about your organization: products and services offered, age, size, location, ownership, current challenges, future trends, etc.
- Employment Questions-
  - What types of employment opportunities does your organization represent?
  - Tell me more about your organization: products and services offered, age, size, location, ownership, current challenges, future trends, etc.
  - What characteristics do you look for in applicants?
  - What factors seem to contribute to success in your organization?
  - How does your organization provide supervision and training?
  - What opportunities for advancement are available within your organization?
  - What is your application process for new college graduates?
  - May I leave you a copy of my resume?
- Faculty & Staff Questions-
  - What characteristics, skills and education do you look for in new college graduates?
  - How could UNCW or our department better prepare students for today's work world?
  - What UNCW graduates are currently on your staff?
  - Are you available for classroom visits, or class tours of your facilities?

Career Services • Division of Student Affairs • 104 & 106 University Union • 910-962-3174

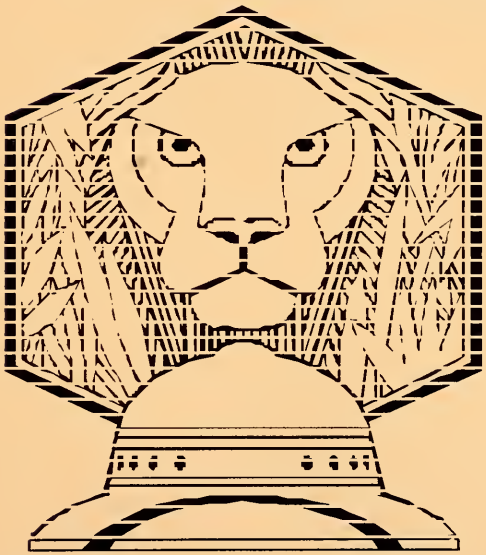
FREE HEALTH SCREENINGS

FOOD

ARTS & RECREATION

WEDNESDAY
SEPTEMBER 24, 1997
10a-2p • University Center

FOR MORE INFO: 962-4137



WELLNESS SAFARI

Sponsored by UNCW Division of Student Affairs, Hundley Wellness Promotion Center, Campus Recreation, Human Resources, and the Student Government Association.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Kudos Reception

A reception for KUDOS recipients was held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. September 10 at Kenan House, the residence of Chancellor James R. Leutze.

More than 45 employees were recognized for exceptional customer service at the reception. KUDOS, an initiative by Chancellor Leutze and senior officers, promotes recognition of university employees who offer outstanding customer service in their job performance. The KUDOS recipients were:

Dan Aspenleiter, Daniel Aten, Alessandro Bocconcelli, Gerald Compeau, Lance Horn, Kenneth Johns, Thomas Potts, Andrew Shepard, Glenn Taylor, academic affairs; Patricia Deanes, enrollment; Charlotte Durbino and Bobbie Turner, information technology; Glenda Bowen and Muriel Rockwell, Watson School of Education; Grace Corbett, Mary Forsythe, Patsy Parker, Kathleen Shallcross, George Syles, Kay Ward, business affairs; Dale Lockwood and Yvonne Smith, institutional research; Jan Beyma, Sandra Harris, Woody Sutton, public service; Jim Dragna, Dianne Matthews, Peter Blutreich, Marquita Brown, Shay Davis, Jim Harris, Sandra Jackson, Chris Kaberline, Bill McCartney, Kimberlyn Murphy, Jamie Penven, Linda Register, Helen Rice, Frances Carr, Russell Doles, Dana Little, Thom Rakes, Lisa Small and Karen Thompson, student affairs; and Gennie Beatty, Jennifer Elam, Elaine Penn, advancement.

African-American Heritage Trail

Margaret Mulrooney, assistant professor, Marymount College, will guide the inaugural tour for the African-American Heritage Trail project October 4. The tour will begin at 10 a.m. at the Bellamy Mansion, 503 Market Street. It will then proceed to St. Mark's Episcopal Church, the Chestnut Street Presbyterian Church, Giblem Lodge, the Sadgwar house. The tour concludes at the Cape Fear Museum with a brief presentation and reception.

The African-American Heritage Trail project was developed by students in "Community Studies," a course offered through the public history program. Under the direction of Mulrooney, a visiting professor in the History Department, students researched the history of African-Americans in Wilmington and prepared a brochure that presents a self-guided tour of 17 points of interest intended to highlight the contributions of Wilmington's black citizens to the city's collective heritage. Faculty and staff are encouraged to attend this event and celebrate the inaugural tour.

Greek Summit

The Dean of Students and Greek Affairs Offices will be hosting a Greek Summit September 19-21. This event will be a time for university faculty, staff and administrators to meet with Greek organizations and their members, advisors and national officers to discuss the past, present and future of these organizations. Anyone interested in attending the summit can contact Keith Waller, Greek affairs coordinator, at ext. 3119 or wallerk@uncwil.edu.

Biology Seminar

W. J. Kenworthy will present the lecture "The Ecological and Regional Implications of Extraordinary Vertical Growth and Canopy Development in a Large Marine Seagrass Ecosystem of the Southeastern Gulf of Mexico at 2 p.m. September 19 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Chemisty Seminar

G. Brooks Avery, Jr. will present the lecture "Applications of 13C and 14C Isotopes in Studies of Global Carbon Cycling" at 3 p.m. September 19 in the new Science Building, Room 132.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Mike Perko, HPER, will be awarded the Early Career Award from the American Public Health Association, the world's largest organization of health professionals, at the association's 125th annual conference November 11 in Indianapolis, Ind. The award is given annually for outstanding contribution to the practice of health education within 10 years or less of receiving a terminal degree.

Randy Hanson and Jim Smith, accounting and business law, were invited to the Institute of International Business and Research in Pune, India, to give seminars to students studying international business. Hanson lectured on international law, and Smith lectured on international tax.

Charles Sanders, purchasing, will serve on a question-and-answer panel at the fall 1997 regional conference of the National Association of Educational Buyers and the UNC Purchasing Association in Boone October 20. He and purchasing directors from N.C. State University and ECU will address the topic "Purchasing Cards and Where We Are Going with Them."

Khoon Koh, HPER, presented the paper "Understanding Community Tourism Entrepreneurism: Some Evidence from Texas" at the Leisure, Tourism and Community Development International Conference held in Viana do Castello, Portugal.

James Merritt and Michael Mallin, CMSR, received funding for their project "Water Quality Analysis of New Hanover County's Tidal Creeks."

William Cooper, chemistry, received funding for his project "A Novel Treatment Process for Odor Control at Wastewater Treatment Plants."

Ned Martin, chemistry, received funding for his project "Visualization of Remote Intermolecular Interactions, including Magnetic Shielding, Charge-Transfer and Dipole-Dipole Effects."

Tom Macie, art and theatre, taught a day-long workshop in three-dimensional computer modeling for college theatre faculty. The workshop was a part of the U.S. Institute for Theatre Technology's southeast section annual master class series held at the University of Georgia, Athens.

E-mail submissions to COMMUNIQUE

Honors Program Information Session

The Honors Scholars Program will hold an information session for students interested in departmental honors at 7 p.m. September 23 in the Randall Library Auditorium. A panel of faculty and students will discuss senior honors projects. Ele Byington, Mark Galizio and Fritz Kapraun will participate. For more information, call ext. 4181.

Student Timesheets Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for October 15 payment is 3 p.m. September 30 in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to department representatives, not to payroll. Students not listed on the departmental recaps sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received prior to adding students to recap sheets.

Reimbursement for Entertainment Expenditures

Reimbursement for entertainment expenditures must only be processed using a check request. The business entertainment expenditure form must still be attached to the check request along with the appropriate receipts. Signature and approval requirements remain the same. Refer to ACG 2.40 in the Administrative Procedures and Policies Manual.

Degree Audit Training

Computer training sessions on the On-Course degree audit and advising system will be held at 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. September 22-25 in Hoggard Hall, Room 212. These introductory sessions on the SIS and On-Course system are designed for faculty members. To register, call Becky Fancher at ext. 3036.

Check Request Reminders

If paying multiple invoices on one check request, an adding machine tape must be attached and must equal the amount of the check request.

The processing time for check requests is three days if received in accounting by noon, providing the check request is correct, receipts attached, appropriate signatures included, etc. Justification must be made for overnight or demand checks. Checks are available for pickup after 11 a.m. on any given day.

Original invoices and receipts must be submitted with check requests, petty cash reimbursements and travel reimbursements. A faxed copy is not considered an original copy.

If requesting that a copy of the backup be mailed with the check, the department is responsible for providing that extra copy at the time the check request is submitted to accounting.

Petty Cash Reimbursement Reminder

Requests for reimbursement for petty cash expenditures must be submitted within 30 days of the date of purchase. Refer to CSH 1.20 in the Administrative Procedures and Policies Manual.

Staff Training and Development

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20.

Connections F, parts 2 and 3, 9 to 11 a.m. September 22 and 29.

Yoga, noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays through November 25.

Performance Collaboration, 9 a.m. to noon September 19.

Travel Procedures, 9 to 11 a.m. September 23.

Grief and Children's Issues, 9 a.m. to noon September 23.

Please refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357.

Administrative Procedures Update

The following substantially revised policies for the Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual have been approved by senior management. Key revisions are noted below:

PUR 1.30 - Procurement of Contractual Services

Before making any commitment to a service provider for contractual services, an electronic purchase requisition must be prepared. A task description providing the information requested in this policy must be sent as an attachment to the requisition.

PUR 1.40 - Procurement of Contracted Personal Services and Consultant Services

Most importantly, before making any commitment to individual(s) providing contracted personal services, an Independent Contractor Payment Certification must be prepared and forwarded to human resources. This new form may be ordered from the printing services forms catalogs.

For repetitive contracted personal services, departments or divisions may contact the director of Human Resources Administration to request blanket approval.

Before making any commitment to a consultant, departments should continue to contact the director of purchasing services for assistance.

These policies may be viewed in their entirety on the World Wide Web. The Administrative Procedures and Policies Manual is linked off the UNCW home page under Administration and is also accessible via the business affairs home page.

Sexual Harassment Teleconference

"How to Respond Effectively to Claims of Sexaul Harassment," a national teleconference presented by the University of Vermont, will be held from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. September 29 in the University Center Ballroom. To register call ext. 3274 or 3712. The conference is co-sponsored by student affairs and human resources.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 8 September 25, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW Employees Asked to Become Partners in Giving

Tackling a problem alone or in a partnership, which way is best? Most people would agree that having a partner makes the task easier to accomplish and more enjoyable.

UNC Wilmington employees have such an opportunity by joining fellow state employees as partners to provide financial support for people in need. "Partners in Giving," this year's theme for the State Employees Combined Campaign (SECC), is the only authorized charitable giving program to which state employees can contribute through payroll deduction.

Kicking off UNCW's drive for the SECC during a breakfast meeting September 22, Chancellor James R. Leutze urged the university leadership and campus community to join him in this annual partnership.

"We have made great efforts to get UNCW involved in the community," said Chancellor Leutze. "But we need to be as fully involved as possible. We are concerned about the Cape Fear area and the region's quality of life. There is no clearer way to demonstrate our concern than through giving to the United Way. I am confident that working in unison, we can achieve an unparalleled level of participation over previous campaigns. Please join me in becoming a partner in giving."

Donna Cameron, UNCW chair of the SECC, said that employee participation has decreased over the last four years. Last year, East Carolina University had a participation rate of 63 percent, while UNCW had the second lowest participation rate among the 16 constituent institutions at less than 15 percent. In 1993, the employee participation rate was 25 percent.

'Our goal is to exceed last year's average participation rate of the UNC system, which was 32 percent'

- Donna Cameron, UNCW's SECC Chair

"Our goal is to exceed last year's average participation rate of the UNC system, which was 32 percent," said Cameron. "UNCW is an exceptional institution, not an average institution." She added all levels of contributions were needed to support the many worthwhile charitable organizations in the Wilmington community and throughout the state. UNCW employees along with fellow state employees can choose from more than 1,000 charitable organizations to receive help through this one process. The "combined campaign" refers to the federations and independent agencies that receive donations and must apply annually for consideration.

While this is a uniform procedure, employees have control over who receives their contribution. So if you want your contribution to help the environment, designate your gift to the National Audubon Society, the Nature Conservancy or the Wilderness Society. Interested in helping health organizations? Your gift could support the Alzheimer's Association, N. C. Society to Prevent Blindness or the N. C. Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America. Or earmark funds to support the N. C. Partnership for Children or the Legal Services of N. C., Inc. For contributors who want to support Wilmington area efforts, the Cape Fear United Way is a local agency that supports 23 charities. Employees can earmark donations for the area United Way or any of the organizations it supports.

During the five-week campaign, Cameron said every university employee will be contacted by partners within their divisions about participating. The following volunteers will serve as solicitors for this year's campaign: Ron Whittaker, enrollment affairs; Stephanie Haley, management and information systems; Bev Stouffer, Office of Information Technology; Charles Sanders, business affairs; Sandra Harris, public service and extended education; Tim McNeilly, student affairs; Elizabeth Tucker, advancement; Frank Ainsley, earth sciences; Lisa Pollard, history; Allyson Hardison, chemistry; Xin Lu, mathematical sciences; Sharon Bourque, HPER; Frank Trimble, communication studies; Daniel Noland, English; Steven Errante, music; William Lowe, foreign language; Clyde McDaniel, sociology; Sheila Adams, Cameron School of Business; Sandra Moore and Saul Bachner, Watson School of Education; Doretha Stone, School of Nursing; Kate Bruce, Graduate School and Research; Gloria Crowell, Center for Marine Science Research; Beth Roberts, Randall Library; Nikki Howard, chancellor's office; and Jerry Wainwright and Pat Howey, athletics.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

College Night

The Admissions Office and Hoggard and Laney high schools are cosponsoring a college night featuring more than 80 recruiters from North Carolina and national colleges. The event will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. October 1 in the University Center Ballroom. All area high school students and parents are invited to attend.

Visitation Day

A visitation day for high ability students will be held from noon to 5 p.m. October 18 in the University Center. For more information, contact Anne Collins in admissions at ext. 3133.

Information Center

Departments and campus organizations should send information about planned events to the e-mail address Infocntr. Fax event agendas and brochures to ext. 3915 or send to Susie Goodrum, University Union Operations Office, Room 202. This will assist the Information Center in answering questions and distributing accurate information to campus and community callers and visitors.

Social Work Program in Friday Hall

The Social Work Program has moved from Academic Support to the second floor of Friday Hall, formerly occupied by earth sciences. The main office extension is 3872.

50th Fact

September 18, 1948

The first student newspaper, a four-page mimeographed edition christened The Seahawk appeared on this date. Its staff consisted of the editor, R. L. Piner and three students.

NCCIU Dinner Meeting

The Wilmington Chapter of the North Carolina Citizens for International Understanding (NCCIU) is having an autumn potluck dinner meeting to plan its 1998 schedule of group international exchange visits. The meeting, which is open to the public, will be at 5 p.m. September 28 at 1400 Carolina Ave. North, Carolina Beach. For more information, call Barbara VanDuyne at 458-5035.

Real Estate Expert to Speak

The current market outlook for real estate investments and related securities will be the topic of a talk by national real estate investment expert Michael Miles. The lecture will be at 11 a.m. October 3 in Cameron Hall Auditorium. Miles is the real estate research director and portfolio manager for Fidelity Investments' institutional real estate investment vehicles. This lecture is the kick-off of the 1997-98 Cameron School of Business Executive Lecture Series.

Candidates Forum

The City Council and Mayoral Candidates Forum will be at 7:30 p.m. October 2 in the University Center Ballroom. Faculty and staff are invited to attend this SGA-sponsored event.

Biology Seminar

Mark Fonseca will present the lecture "Seagrass Hydroscapes: Issues of Form and Function" at 2 p.m. September 26 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Seeking Extra Star-News Supplements

Anyone who received the September 21 Wilmington Star News supplement "UNCW at 50" and is not keeping it should send it to University Relations, Alderman Hall, Room 108.

"Heart Walk"

The American Heart Association will hold its annual "Heart Walk" October 25 at Wrightsville Beach Park and Recreation area. Registration begins at 9 a.m., and the walk begins at 10 a.m. Funds raised by this event benefit research to prevent heart disease and stroke. Anyone interested in walking or sponsoring a walker, contact Jeanne Harmon, recruiter for the walk, at ext. 3406 or e-mail HarmonJ.

CAPE Hosts Stakeholder Meeting

The Consortium for the Advancement of Public Education (CAPE) hosted its annual stakeholders meeting September 24 in Trask Auditorium's Golden Hawk Room.

Highlighting the meeting was the unveiling of CAPE's 1997-98 agenda. The keynote address "Educational Assessment: Lessons Learned and Hopes for the Future" was presented by Darrell Luzzo of Auburn University. Guests included area public school superintendents, community college presidents, board chairs, state legislators, UNCW faculty and graduate students.

Ron Singletary, chair of the CAPE board and Onslow County School superintendent, touted CAPE's agenda as "focused and based on the real needs of education." Some of this year's initiatives include: a technology conference in October, producing a "What's Right with Education" video, Distinguished Scholars and Watson Leadership Fellows programs for teacher development, target research grant program for UNCW graduate students, leadership seminars for school superintendents and community college presidents and Razor Walker Awards for individuals serving youth.

CAPE is a non-profit consortium housed at UNCW and committed to improving the quality of education in southeastern North Carolina.

UNCW

Career Day 97

Wednesday, Oct. 1

11am-2pm
Trask Coliseum

- For All UNCW Students
- Career Information
- Contacts for Internships & Jobs
- Door Prizes & Soda for Students
- Over 80 Organizations, Including

Burlington Industries • IBM • Wachovia • RJ Reynolds • Lowe's
Drug Enforcement Admin • NC State Govt Internships
Vision Software • Aerotek • Winston Hospitality • AFLAC
Cities of Roanoke, Jacksonville, High Point, Greensboro,
Winston-Salem, and Wilmington • Hannaford Bros
New Hanover Reg Med Ctr • Pitt County Hospital •
SE Reg Med Ctr • Perdue Farms • BellSouth Advertising
and many others...

Career Services • Division of Student Affairs • 104/106 University Union • 910.962.3174

UNCW Career Day 97

Wednesday, Oct. 1
11am-2pm • Trask Coliseum

How Will You Benefit from Career Day '97?

UNCW's Career Day '97 is a unique opportunity for students, faculty and staff to talk with people representing a wide range of occupational fields, from accounting to vocational rehabilitation. These representatives come to Career Day prepared to answer a wide range of career questions.

- General Career Questions-
  - What is a typical day like in this career field?
  - What changes are occurring in this field?
  - What specific skills, education and experience do you look for in new college graduates?
  - What kinds of advancement opportunities does your organization offer?
  - What trends do you see impacting the future of this field, and organizations like yours?
  - How do salaries in this field compare with other fields?
  - What are the biggest challenges in this field?
  - What are some professional associations in this field, or other sources of career information?
  - How should I prepare myself to be a strong candidate for jobs with organizations like yours?
  - Tell me more about your organization: products and services offered, age, size, location, ownership, current challenges, future trends, etc.
- Internship Questions-
  - Does your organization have an established internship program? If not, are you interested in setting up an individual college student internship?
  - In what types of activities are your interns able to become involved?
  - Are your internships paid or volunteer?
  - How does your internship supervisor coordinate the learning experience with campus faculty?
  - Do you prefer a student intern to work full-time for a semester, or work part-time while taking classes?
  - What is your application process for internships?
  - Tell me more about your organization: products and services offered, age, size, location, ownership, current challenges, future trends, etc.
- Employment Questions-
  - What types of employment opportunities does your organization represent?
  - Tell me more about your organization: products and services offered, age, size, location, ownership, current challenges, future trends, etc.
  - What characteristics do you look for in applicants?
  - What factors seem to contribute to success in your organization?
  - How does your organization provide supervision and training?
  - What opportunities for advancement are available within your organization?
  - What is your application process for new college graduates?
  - May I leave you a copy of my resume?
- Faculty & Staff Questions-
  - What characteristics, skills and education do you look for in new college graduates?
  - How could UNCW or our department better prepare students for today's work world?
  - What UNCW graduates are currently on your staff?
  - Are you available for classroom visits, or class tours of your facilities?

Career Services • Division of Student Affairs • 104 & 106 University Union • 910-962-3174

DIVISION OF Student Affairs

Newsbreak – Fall 1997

The purpose of this publication is to introduce university faculty and staff to the services and programs provided by the Division of Student Affairs. We have identified those individuals responsible for major departments within the division. The division continues to work toward the development of the whole student body while supporting the overall mission of the university. We look forward to working with you in this effort.

Mission

The Division of Student Affairs at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington strives to cultivate a campus community where students can achieve success and become responsible citizens. Our purpose is to support the university's mission by providing services and programs, encouraging student learning in and out of the classroom, and developing a diverse community which is educationally purposeful, open, just, disciplined, caring, and celebrative.

Vice Chancellor

Patricia L.Leonard, M.S.
Alderman Hall, Room 101 • 962-3117

The vice chancellor for student affairs is a spokesperson for students services, student needs, and the quality of life and education outside the classroom. The office is also responsible for policy development, long-range planning, budget, personnel, and coordination of the departments which together comprise the Division of Student Affairs.

The Office of the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs (from left): Lori Barrett, program assistant; Teresa Lee, publications specialist; Pat Leonard, vice chancellor; Li-Shing Wang, director of student life studies; and Diane Billings, executive assistant.

Dean of Students

Terrence Curran, Ed.D
Alderman Hall, Room 101 • 962-7250
Office of the Dean of Students
University Union, Room 209 • 962-3119

The Office of the Dean of Students serves as the primary advocate for students in addressing needs, issues, and concerns. The central goal is to serve as a resource and referral office for all faculty, staff, and students. The dean of students is responsible for representing the student perspective to the university community. The Office of the Dean of Students provides consultation, initiates new program development, and assists the vice chancellor for student affairs with special projects. Specifically, the Office of the Dean of Students oversees off-campus student services; greek affairs; non-traditional student services; the university student judicial system, including violations of the Academic Honor Code; Student Media Board; educational programs and services on sexual assault and sexual harassment awareness and prevention; and human relations. The Office of the Dean of Students serves as the liaison to the Council of Ministries; coordinates with University Police all crisis intervention and emergency response strategies; assists the affirmative action officer in cases of discriminatory conduct (i.e. sexual harassment); and publishes the Student Handbook/Code of Student Life.

The dean also oversees the areas of Orientation, University Union and Center, and the Activities & Leadership Center.

The Departments

Dean of Students • Campus Recreation • University Union • Career Service

Campus Recreation

Rex Pringle, M.A., director
Hanover Gym, Room 202
962-3261

The Office of Campus Recreation organizes and administers a variety of recreational services that are either structured or self-directed, and enhance the overall wellness of the university community. The primary goal of the program is to provide quality recreational experiences within the university environment and direct these toward the individual's physical, cognitive, and social life thus enhancing the educational experience. This goal is accomplished by offering a variety of recreational activities, conducting educational workshops, and providing professional training.

Programs available through the Campus Recreation office include:

- Heart and Sole Fitness
  Aerobics
  Fitness Center
  Recreational Swim
- Intramurals
- Discover Outdoor Programs
  Adventure Trips
  Challenge "Ropes" Course
  Resource Center & Rentals
- Special Events
- Club Sports

University Union

Carolyn Farley, M.S., director
University Union, Room 202 • 962-3285

The University Union and Activities & Leadership Center staf is committed to providing facilities and programs designe to enhance student development. The University Union is a 53,000-square-foot facility which houses student organiza tions, student government, conference rooms, lounges, the University Information Center the Hawk's Nest, assorted student service offices, art exhibits, the courtyard, and a forma living room. The University Center is a 43,000-square foot facility which houses the pos office, game room, Discover Outdoor Center, Center Stage Cafe, Ballroom, and automati teller machines. The union staff provides equipment and personnel with technical expertis to produce a wide variety of audio-visual capabilities. Students are actively engaged in the planning and operation of both the University Union and University Center.

The Activities & Leadership Center is the community's connection to entertainment, in volvement, leadership, and service. The staff provides support and advising to over 100 studen organizations, the Association for Campus Entertainment, UNCW Volunteers, the Student Gov ernment Association, and Arts in Action. The Activities & Leadership Center staff help student become involved in campus life, and create opportunities for students to develop leadership skills, as well as a positive attitude toward lifelong learning.

Career Services

Thom Rakes, M.Ed., director
University Union, Room 106
962-3174

The central purpose of Career Services is to help students prepare for academic and career success. Freshmen and sophomores are assisted with career assessment, values clarification, and occupational data to help them make informed choices of academic majors. Students also are provided opportunities for experiential learning and discovering the relationship of skills acquired to the broader work world. Career Services helps prepare graduating seniors to be successful candidates by helping them translate their academic and co-curricular experiences into successful job campaigns or graduate school applications.

Specific services include: a computerized career exploration program, SIGI-Plus; the Self-Directed Search, a career interest inventory; UNCW Career Registration, an electronic registration program for all students; internship resources; workshops on a wide range of topics from choosing an academic major to job search strategies; a career resource library; job listings that include part-time jobs, Work Study employment, internships, summer jobs and full-time employment opportunities; on-campus recruiting; an annual Career Day and Graduate School Day; and a home page on the World Wide Web with a directory of helpful career and employment sites.

Orientation Programs

Karla Carney, M.S., director
University Union,
Room 202 • 962-3089

The UNCW new student orientation program provides a comprehensive program which assists new students in their transition to the institution. Specifically, the program exposes new students to UNCW educational opportunities, orients new students into the academic and co-curricularlife of the institution, and assists parents of new students in their understanding of the UNCW environment and services. The director also serves as an advisor in the Center for Academic Advising, an instructor for the Freshman Seminar, and an advisor to the Seahawk Parent's Association.

Housing and Residence Life

William L. McCartney, M.A., director
Residence Life Activity Center • 962-3241

The Office of Housing and Residence Life is located directly east of Schwartz Hall. This office is responsible for the overall administration and supervision of all campus-owned housing: five residence halls, thirteen apartment buildings, and seven suite-style buildings housing over 1,900 students. The purpose of Housing and Residence Life goes beyond providing a clean, safe, and well-maintained living environment; it also includes fostering an atmosphere that is conducive to each resident students's personal growth and academic success. Co-curricular learning opportunities are provided through educational, cultural, and social programs; leadership positions in self-governance; peer advising; and various volunteer and student employment positions. Housing and Residence Life administers the National Student Exchange program, which allows UNCW students to attend any of 150 colleges and universities in the United States on a semester or full-year exchange.

Student Health Center

Judy Bowers, B.S.N.,R.N.C., director
Westside Hall, Second Floor • 962-3280

The Student Health Center provides confidential quality health care on an outpatient basis to UNCW students. The services include diagnosis and treatment of general and acute medical problems and referrals for specialized care. The SHC is also a valuable resource for health care information whether it be for the prevention of disease or for the promotion of healthier lifestyles. Health care is available to students from 8:00 am to 4:30 pm, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday; 9:30 am to 4 pm on Thursday.

The Student Health Center pharmacy offers prescription services, over the counter medications and crutch rental. A registered pharmacist is available to assist students with their pharmacy needs.

Student Life Studies

Li-Shing Wang, M.A., director
Alderman Hall, Room 101 962-3735

The Office of Student Life Studies conducts student affairs research as well as departmental and program evaluations for the purpose of better meeting the needs of students and to ensure effective resource management. Both programs and students are periodically assessed to determine the degree to which programs and services are necessary and successful in terms of encouraging student growth and development. Assessment data are used to make decisions about the continuation, modification, or termination of programs and/or services.

Student Development Center

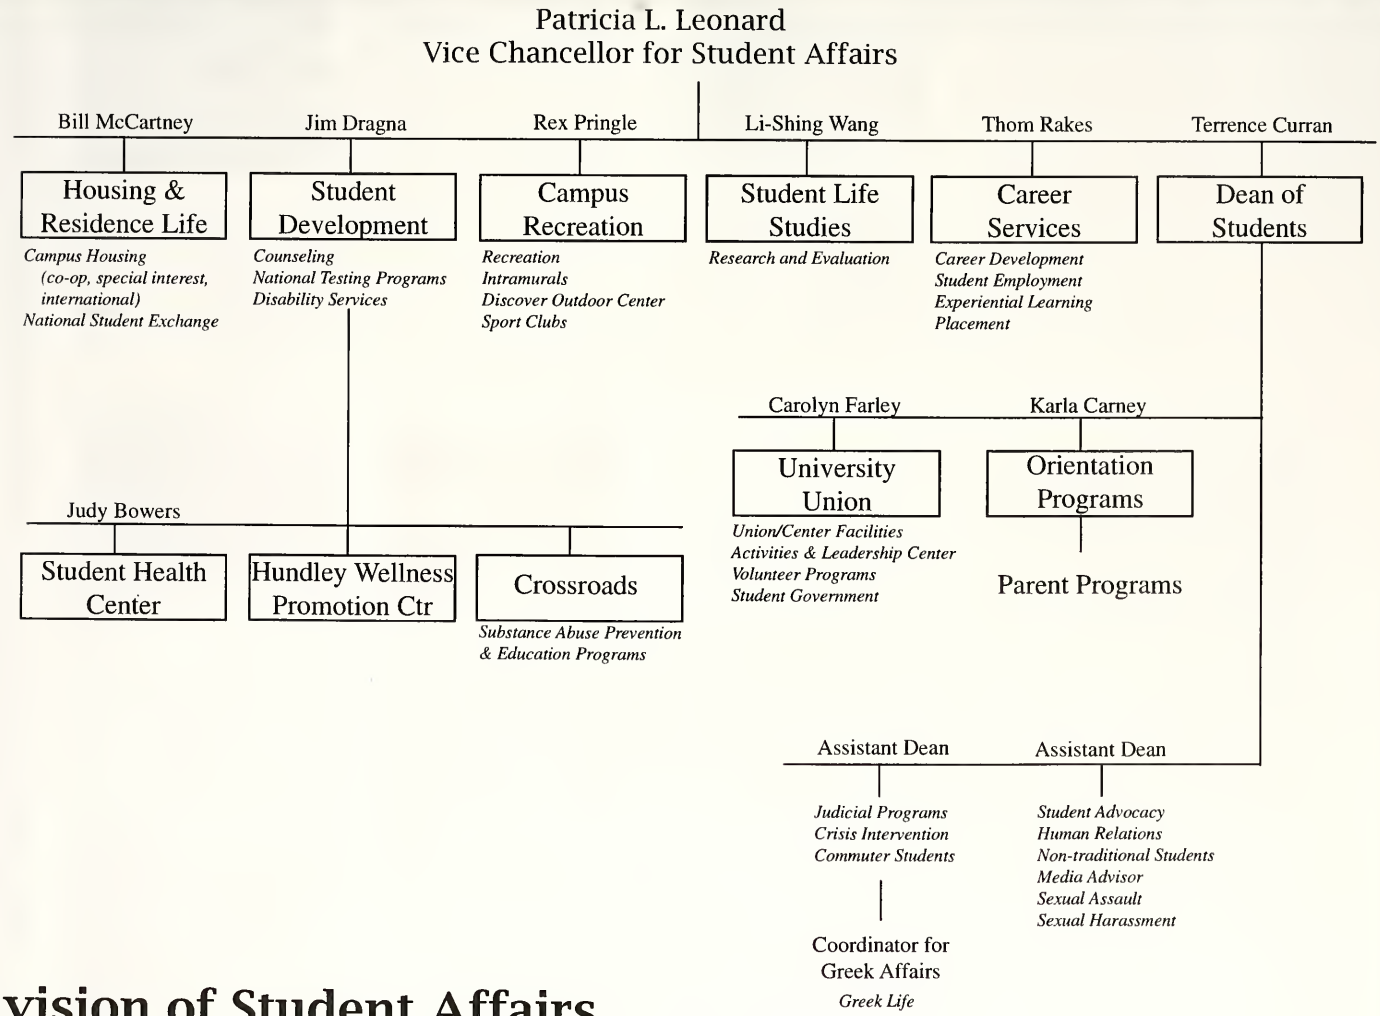
F. James Dragna, Ph.D., director
Westside Hall, Second Floor • 962-3280

The Student Development Center provides confidential counseling services to students to assist with the management and resolution of concerns which interfere with the ability to focus on academic concerns. Individual and group counseling, presentations, and skills training are provided by professionally trained staff to address emotional and psychological development, functioning, and well-being. Service areas include but are not limited to personal, social, academic, and substance abuse issues. The office also administers the national testing programs such as PRAXIS, GRE, GMAT, LSAT, and MAT, as well as the campus CLEP tests.

Disability Services is committed to providing an opportunity for students with disabilities to enjoy the total experience of campus life. Academic accomodations frequently requested incude tutoring, testing accomodations, note takers, and registration assistance. Disability Services is also available for advocacy and consultation. Students needing accommodations should return the Disability Disclosure Form, included in the admissions packet, to the Disability Services Office.

The Hundley Wellness Promotion Center is the campus resource for health education programs and services. Positive health decisions are promoted and reinforced as students work toward their academic and personal goals. The center sponsors educational programs and events that address topics such as nutritional wellness, healthy relationships, cancer prevention, and sexual health and well-being. Services include a self-care area where students can check their blood pressure, weight, and treat minor cold and flu symptoms. Additionally, a resource center is available which provides brochures, videos, life assessment software, consultations, and referrals as needed.

Crossroads, UNCW's substance abuse prevention and education program, is an integrated, centralized service that provides education, training, and promotes awareness about alcohol, tobacco, and other drug use to all campus constituencies. Resources include peer education programs which address a range of contemporary substance abuse issues, special events to promote awareness and prevention, a resource library, individual and group education, consultation and training, and referrals.



Division of Student Affairs Organizational Chart

9/97

Olmos Lecture

Award-winning actor Edward James Olmos will present a lecture at 7 p.m. September 30 in Kenan Auditorium.

Olmos is best known for his Emmy-winning role as Lt. Castillo on "Miami Vice."

The lecture, part of the "Arts in Action" Performing Arts Series, is free for UNCW faculty, staff and students. Admission for the general public is $5.

Wilmington in Black and White

"Wilmington in Black and White" is a series of 10 Thursday evening conversations sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division of Public Service and Education. The conversations will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Tonight's topic is "Black and White in Public Schools" featuring speakers Bertha Todd and John Godwin. The October 2 topic is "Woodward's Burden of Southern History" featuring Melton McLaurin and Fred McRee. Attendance is free. To pre-register call ext. 3195.

Spring International Travel

Faculty requests for financial help with international travel for spring 1998 are due by October 15 in the Office of International Programs. Forms are available from departmental chairs or by calling international programs at ext. 3685.

Speakers Bureau Update

Community response to the 50th anniversary Speakers Bureau has been great. More than 125 copies of the publication have been sent to area civic and business organizations. Faculty and staff members who missed the initial publication can be included in the second edition. For more information or to request signup forms, contact Phillip Brown at ext. 7223 or e-mail BrownP. The deadline for inclusion in this edition is October 31.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Hana Noor Al-Deen, communication studies, had her book Cross-Cultural Communication and Aging in the United States published by Lawrence Erlbaum Associates. The foreword was written by Jennings Bryant, the Ronald Reagan Endowed Chair of Broadcasting and director of the Institute for Communication Research at the University of Alabama. The book's 13 chapters are composed of original research covering technology to popular culture and focusing on older Americans in various communicative contexts.

Joe Hickman, music, published a new performing edition of the choral motet Die Mit Traenen Saeen from the collection "Fontana d'Israel, Israelis Bruenlein" by Johann Hermann Schein. This edition, based on the work's 1623 publication, involved gathering material from the Bayerische Staatsbibliothek in Munich and the Bibliothek der Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde in Vienna. Hickman's edition, published by Masterworks Press in Olympia, Wash., provides a score with a suggestion for performance with basso continuo, or keyboard and bass melody instrument, along with a singing translation and the original German text.

Susan Bullers, sociology and anthropology, presented her paper "Social Support and Psychological Distress: The Mediating Role of Perceived Control" at the 1997 American Sociological Association meetings in Toronto, Canada.

Deborah Haywood, Hundley Wellness Promotion Center, hosted the annual meeting of the National Commission for Health Education Credentialing and its Division Board for Professional Development. This board is responsible for policies and procedures related to continuing education programs for certified health education specialists.

Candace Gauthier, philosophy and religion, had her paper "Tracking the Virtues: Justifications and Recommendations" published in the Cambridge Quarterly of Healthcare Ethics.

David Berman, Sandra McLaurin and Douglas Smith, mathematical sciences, had their paper "Additional Results on Fairness in Spouse-Avoiding Mixed Doubles Round-Robin Tournaments" accepted for publication in Congressus Numerantium.

Elizabeth Hines, earth sciences, published her paper "Cousin Jacks and the Tarheel Gold Boom: Cornish Miners in North Carolina, 1830-1880" in The North Carolina Geographer.

Patricia H. Kelley, earth sciences, co-presented "The Effect of Mass Extinctions on Escalation in Cenozoic Molluscs: Are Recovery Faunas More Vulnerable to Predators?" at the final meeting of the UNESCO IGCP Project 335 "Biotic Recoveries from Mass Extinctions" conference held in Prague, Czech Republic. Her co-presenter was Thor A. Hansen, Department of Geology, Western Washington University.

Jim Smith, accounting and business law, had his article "Careers in Taxation Offer Plenty of Options" published in the September issue of New Accountant.

Frank Bongiorno and Robert Nathanson, music, have been invited to perform at the 11th World Saxophone Congress in Valencia, Spain, on September 27-30. They will perform a recital featuring the world premiere of David Kechley's "Driveline: A Power Walk for Saxophone and Guitar" which was written for them by the composer.

Mike Perko, HPER, had his 60-minute program "A Vision for the Future: Innovative Approaches for Professional Development" accepted for presentation at the 1998 American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance Association's national conference in Reno, Nev. April 6.

Healing Works 1998

Art that celebrates healing and recovering from sexual assault and child sexual abuse is sought for "Healing Works 1998," a campus art exhibit that will be on display March 3 to April 7 in the University Union Living Room.

Anyone wishing to exhibit or receive more information can call ext. 3119 to be placed on a mailing list. Exhibits are welcomed from the university and surrounding communities.

A public "meet-the-artists" reception will take place from 6 to 7:30 p.m. March 3 in the UU Living Room.

Meddings Joins Financial Aid Office

Meredith Meddings has joined financial aid as a financial aid counselor. Meddings previously served as assistant director of admissions and financial aid at Louisburg College. She assumes the position previously held by Jane Scott, who has moved to housing and residence life.

Student Timesheets Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for October 15 payment is 3 p.m. September 30 in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to department representatives not to payroll. Students not listed on the departmental recaps sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received prior to adding students to recap sheets.

Cellular Discount

360° Communications will offer permanent UNCW employees a discount plan of 60 local minutes of airtime for $16.95 a month. 360° Communication representatives will be on campus October 6-9. Promotional equipment and service must be purchased through Ann Downing, 360° account executive. Her phone number is 520-7500. For more information, call Gia Todd Long at ext. 3920.

Staff Training and Development

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20.

Connections F, part 3, 9 to 11 a.m. September 29.

Yoga, noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays through November 25.

Budget Procedures, 9 to 11 a.m. October 7.

Business Etiquette, 2 to 5 p.m. October 13.

PowerPoint 7, 2 to 4 p.m. October 15.

Supervision for Managers and Professionals, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. October 22 and 23 and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. October 24.

Interaction Management, 8:30 a.m. to noon October 27-31.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357.

Public Service and Extended Education Classes

Come Fly with Me, noon to 1:30 p.m. October 14.

Drawing Fundamentals with Sibyl O'Thearling, 7 to 8:30 p.m. Mondays October 6 - December 1.

Photo Albums as Heirlooms with Carol Smith, 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays October 7 - October 28.

For more information, cost and registration (three days before class starts) or to inquire about other available classes, call ext. 3195.

Degree Audit Training

Computer training sessions on the On-Course degree audit and advising system will be held at 9 and 10:30 a.m., 2 and 3:30 p.m. today in Hoggard Hall, Room 212. These introductory sessions on the SIS and On-Course system are designed for any interested faculty member. To register, call Becky Fancher at ext. 3036.

Administrative Procedures Update

To reduce the complexity of information regarding the procurement of contracted personal services, other contracted services and consultant services, the following two policies have been substantially revised and replace Procedures HR 1.70, PUR 1.30 and PUR 1.40. Key revisions are noted below:

PUR 1.30 - Procurement of Contractual Services

Before making any commitment to a service provider for contractual services, an electronic purchase requisition must be prepared. A task description providing the information specified in this policy must be sent as an attachment to the requisition.

PUR 1.40 - Procurement of Contracted Personal Services and Consultant Services

Most importantly, before making any commitment to individual(s) providing contracted personal services, an independent contractor payment certification (ICPC) must be prepared and forwarded to human resources for approval. Upon completion of the services, the approved ICPC must be attached to the check request to initiate payment to the individual. This new form may be ordered from the printing services catalog and replaces the non-state employee payment certification previously found in procedure HR 1.70.

For repetitive contracted personal services, departments or divisions may contact the Director of Human Resources Administration to request blanket approval.

Before making any commitment to a consultant, departments should continue to contact the Director of Purchasing Services for assistance.

Procedure HR 1.70 has been deleted. Applicable information is now found in PUR 1.40.

These policies may be viewed in their entirety on the World Wide Web. The Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual is linked off the UNCW home page under administration and is also accessible via the business affairs home page.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 9 October 2, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

Distinguished Visiting Professor First Recipient of International Arbuzovs Prize

Distinguished Visiting Professor Louis D. Quin of the Department of Chemistry at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington is the first recipient of the International Arbuzovs Prize.

Quin received the award from Vice Prime Minister I. K. Khairullin of the Tatarstan Republic of Russia during a ceremony September 11 at Kazan State University. Named in honor of Russian chemists Alexander and Boris Arbuzov, the award recognizes Quin's 47 years of work in research and teaching organic phosphorus chemistry.

While serving as a visiting professor at UNCW for the fall semester, Quin is studying organophosphorus compounds in lower marine animals. While phosphorus compounds mainly exist in these animals as derivatives of phosphoric acids, Quin is studying phosphorus compounds that have combined with carbon. He said these lower marine animals, such as sea anemones and mollusks, are relatively rich in this "unusual" type of phosphorus compound.

Quin taught at Duke University for 30 years, chairing the university's chemistry department from 1970-76. He retired as James B. Duke Professor of Chemistry in 1986. Following his retirement, Quin taught at the University of Massachusetts, serving as chair of the chemistry department from 1986-94.

A special organizing committee of scientists from Russia, Poland and Switzerland selected Quin for the award, given by the Arbuzov Institute. Dr. Quin called the institute "the world's premier research facility for organic phosphorus chemistry."

The Arbuzovs, father and son, were pioneers in the field of organic phosphorus chemistry. According to Quin, research by the Arbuzovs served as background for other researchers in the later development of insecticides and herbicides, petroleum additives and other uses. He added that one field of organic phosphorus chemistry research currently involves the use of phosphorus compounds in the development of anti-AIDS medication.

Guided Tour to Begin at Bellamy Mansion

Public History Program Initiates African-American Heritage Tour Oct. 4

The UNCW Public History Program has published a brochure marking the first African-American Heritage Trail in Wilmington, a city the brochure calls "one of the most historically-significant African-American cities in the United States."

The brochure was researched and written as part of a Community Studies class of the Public History Program under the direction of Margaret Mulrooney, formerly on the history faculty at UNCW and now at Marymount University in Arlington, Va. It was published by the Division for Public Service and Extended Education and the Chancellor's Office.

The tour is also the first of its kind based on Mulrooney's contacts with the N.C. Historic Sites office of the Department of Archives and History. "In general, the history of African-Americans, women, working people and immigrants is not offered to the public," Mulrooney commented. "This bias is changing, but only slowly, so African-American tours (especially the published kind) are very few and far between."

The product of extensive historical research, the brochure identifies 17 sites that "span more than two centuries and range from the homes of ordinary people to national historic landmarks. The 17 points of interest. . . highlight the contributions of Wilmington's black citizens to this city's collective heritage."

The Public History Program will offer its first African-American Heritage tour at 10 a.m. Oct. 4 at the Bellamy Mansion. Everyone is invited to attend this guided tour featuring four of the 17 sites identified as being of particular significance to African-American history. Mulrooney will attend the event and make a presentation during the opening activities.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wilmington College Reunion

The UNCW Alumni Association is sponsoring a Wilmington College reunion Oct. 17 and 18. A reception honoring retired Wilmington College faculty and members of the Order of Isaac Bear will be held 7 to 9 p.m. Oct. 17 at the Wise Alumni House. A sock hop will be held from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Oct. 18 at the Center Stage Cafe. Tickets for both events are $19.47 per person. Call 251-2682 by Oct. 15 to RSVP.

Women's Studies Meeting

Anyone who has taught or would like to teach a course for the women's studies minor is invited to an informal meeting of current participating faculty at 5 p.m. Oct. 17 at the home of Janet Ellerby. For more information, call ext. 3764.

Alumni Golden Tour in Jacksonville

The UNCW Alumni Association continues its Golden Alumni Tour tonight at the Jacksonville Country Club, 2201 Country Club Road, Jacksonville.

The tour is one of several ways the Alumni Association is celebrating the university's 50th anniversary. It will include stops at six cities in North Carolina and Virginia, giving alumni an opportunity to celebrate UNCW's growth and progress since the doors of Wilmington College opened in 1947.

Nearly 700 UNCW alumni live in Onslow County and the Jacksonville area and have been invited to the event which will begin at 6 p.m. with a social hour and cash bar. The dinner will begin at 7 p.m. followed by the program featuring the video "Promises Made, Promises Fulfilled"; a talk by UNCW alumnus Ron Choate '72; greetings from Kevin Jacques, vice chancellor for University Advancement; and comments from representatives of the Seahawk Club and UNCW Office of Admissions. There will also be door prizes and special giveaways throughout the evening.

Alumni Association Seeks Nominees

Each year the UNCW Alumni Association sponsors two awards to honor individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the university and the community. The awards are presented during Homecoming festivities. The Alumnus/a of the Year Award is open to all who attended and/or graduated from Wilmington College or UNCW. The Distinguished Citizen Award is open to anyone for notable service to the university and the community.

In 1997 the awards were presented to two couples. John Manly '70 and Caroline Smith '73 Pollard were named Alumni of the Year, and Lillian and Leslie Boney were recognized with the Distinguished Citizen Award.

Nominations for both the alumni association's 1998 Golden Alumni Awards can be made by writing a letter of recommendation to the UNCW Alumni Association Board of Directors. Specify the award category and describe why you think the nominee merits the award. Include the nominee's name, address, daytime telephone number and work place.

Letters should be mailed to Patricia Corcoran, UNCW alumni relations director, Wise Alumni House, 1713 Market Street, Wilmington, N.C. 28403. Additional information can be obtained by calling the alumni office at 251-2682 or 1-800-596-2880.

Deadline for nominations is Nov. 24.

50th Fact

Student organizations have played an important role in campus life throughout Wilmington College and UNCW history. Familiar academic groups including the Dramatic Club and the Accounting Club were mixed in with such unusual organizations as the Pen Pushers, the Out-of-Town Club, the Cotillion Club, the Archery Club, and the Isshinryu Karate Club. Today more than 130 student organizations enhance student life.

Art and Theatre Production Set

The Department of Art and Theater's first production for the 1997-98 season is Observe the Sons of Ulster Marching Towards the Somme by Frank McGuiness. Performances will be Oct. 23-25 at Thalian Hall's Main Stage. The production is the story of eight boys from Northern Ireland sent to France during World War I to fight at the Battle of the Somme.

Tickets are $8 for general admission, $4 for faculty and staff and free for UNCW students with valid ID.

Third Annual UNCW Jim Humphries Memorial Golf Tournament

The UNCW Triad Alumni Chapter invites everyone to play in the Third Annual Jim Humphries Memorial Golf Tournament noon Oct. 4 at Greensboro's Longview golf course. Tournament proceeds will benefit a scholarship for a UNCW student in memory of Jim Humphries. Humphries, SGA president from 1989-90, died on July 3, 1995, after a battle with brain cancer.

For more information about the tournament, contact Bret Kinney at 910/643-2008 or Wes Ward at 910/282-6118.

Wellness Safari

The Wellness Safari had more than 800 participants attend. More than 30 community and campus organizations sponsored an exhibit with a safari theme. Student votes determined the following winning exhibitors: Most Educational, (three-way tie) School of Nursing, Crossroads/Substance Abuse Prevention and Education Program and the Writing Place; Most Creative, The Learning Center; Most Interactive, Spiritual Wellness from United Christian Campus Ministry; Most Inviting, Ecological Concerns Organization; and Best in Show, Crossroads/Substance Abuse Prevention and Education Program.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

Newsbreak

Campus Recreation

THE DIVISION OF STUDENT AFFAIRS • OCTOBER 1997

Campus Recreation: An Overview

The Office of Campus Recreation organizes and administers a variety of recreational services that are either structured or self-directed and enhance the overall wellness of the university community. The primary goal of the program is to provide for quality recreational experiences within the university environment and direct this toward the individual's physical, cognitive and social life thus enhancing the educational experience. This goal is accomplished by offering a wide variety of recreational activities, conducting educational workshops and providing professional training for our employees. Currently we share the Trask and Hanover facilities with Athletics and HPER classes. Facilities are utilized daily from 6 am - 12 midnight. IDs are required!

Heart & Sole Fitness

Heart & Sole Fitness includes Aerobics Classes, Recreational Swim hours and Fitness Center opportunities. The fitness center provides nautilus. hammer strength, gravitron and free weight equipment. Cardiovascular equipment such as ergometers, lifecycles, step machines, and treadmills are available. Aerobics classes offered include step, sweat & sculpt, multi-impact, abs & toning, combo, slide & sculpt and changing paces. The aerobics room and the fitness center are located in Hanover Hall. The Office of Campus Recreation provides Recreational Swim at lunch, in the evenings and on weekends. The swimming pool is located in Trask Coliseum.

The American College of Sports Medicine recommends the F.I.T. prescription for exercise. F.I.T. is the acronym for frequency, intensity and time (or duration). A good exercise program consists of exercising 3-5 times a week (frequency), at a moderate intensity and doing the exercise for 20 to 60 minutes.

A convenient way to measure the level of intensity is doing the "talk test." If talking in a casual manner is difficult, slow down. If talking in a casual manner is easy, increase the intensity. Most importantly, pick an enjoyable activity so you will stick with it! Campus Recreation Programs provide a variety of aerobic classes and exercise equipment for a well-balanced exercise program. The following benefits are derived from a cardiovascular and strength-training workout:

- Increased: self-esteem, cardiac output, energy, metabolism, strength, flexibility and quality of life.
- Reduced: stress, bodyfat, blood pressure, cholesterol, depression, risk of disease and risk of injury.

Intramural Sports

The Intramural Sports Program provides students, faculty and staff with the opportunity to participate in organized individual and team sports. The program promotes sportsmanship and teamwork as well as friendly competition and the opportunity to develop leadership skills. Intramural sports are open to all currently enrolled students (3 hours), faculty and staff. Everyone is encouraged to participate, either on a team or as an individual. Please remember to bring your ID to all games/events.

Discover Outdoor Programs

Discover provides quality outdoor recreation opportunities that are open to all students, faculty, and staff. Activities include hiking and camping throughout North Carolina, kayak pool clinics, kayak tours in the immense resources of the area, and rock climbing in the northern piedmont. In addition, the Discover Outdoor Center offers resources including equipment rentals, maps, videos, and books.

Discover is also available for special programs that may serve as retreats or class field experiences utilizing the UNCW Challenge "Ropes" Course and the adventure trip program. To take advantage of the services and programs of Discover stop by the Outdoor Center located in University Center 138, or call 962-4052. The Discover Outdoor Center is open Monday-Friday, 9 am-5 pm, and until 7 pm on Thursdays.

Seahawk Fitness Club

Campus Recreation challenges students, faculty and staff to set a personal fitness goal. After setting a goal, individuals track their progress as they integrate fitness into their lives. Individuals are responsible for tracking their progress and turning in their points on the last working day of each month. This program runs from August 1 to June 30 each year. Rewards include waterbottles, t-shirts, coffee mugs and Campus Recreation shorts. Come by and join the Seahawk Fitness Club today!!

Sport Clubs

The Sport Clubs program at UNCW is open to all students, faculty, and staff. The primary goal of these organizations is to promote and develop interest in a particular sport. Clubs may be instructional, recreational, competitive, or a combination of these elements. The clubs are registered student organizations; therefore, faculty and staff may have the opportunity to serve as an advisor for one of the groups as well. The clubs are organized, developed, and governed by students with adminsitrative assistance from the Office of Campus Recreation. Some clubs compete intercollegiately; check campus bulletin boards and other media for time and dates of these on-campus events.

FALL 1997
HEART & SOLE FITNESS

EFFECTIVE 8/20/97

Recreational Swim

Days	Times
M-F	11:00am-1:00pm
M-Th	6:15pm-8:30pm
Fri.	6:15pm-8:00pm
Sat.	1:00pm-3:00pm
Sun.	6:00pm-8:00pm

Weight Room

Days	Times
M-F	10:00am-1:00pm
M-Th	5:45pm-10:00pm
Fri.	5:00pm-8:00pm
Sat.	12:00pm-4:00pm
Sun.	4:00pm-8:00pm

Aerobics Classes

Class	Days	Times
Slide & Sculpt	Mon.	12:00pm
Abs & Toning	Wed.	12:00pm
Multi Impact	Fri.	12:00pm
Step	T, Th	12:00pm
Step	M,W	4:00pm
Abs & Toning	T,Th	4:00pm
Slide & Sculpt	Fri.	4:00pm
Abs & Toning	M,W	5:15pm
Combo	T,Th	5:15pm
Changing Pace	Fri.	5:15pm
Step	M,W	6:30pm
Sweat & Sculpt	T,Th	6:30pm
Sweat & Sculpt	Mon.	7:45pm
Step	T,Th	7:45pm
Multi Impact	Wed.	7:45pm
Step	Sat.	11:00am
Step	Sat.	12:15pm
Step	Sun.	4:00pm
Step	Sun.	5:15pm

Schedules change during Holidays, University Breaks & Final Exams. Please check with the Office of Campus Recreation for updates.

Bookstore Bosses Day Special

In celebration of Bosses Day Oct. 16, the bookstore will deliver a custom-designed 9-inch cake for your boss, along with one Bosses Day balloon and two latex balloons for $15. Or, the bookstore will deliver a bosses day mug filled with eight ounces of selected favorite jelly bellys and one bosses day mylar balloon and two latex balloons for only $9.95.

For early morning delivery place your cake orders prior to Oct. 10. Call ext. 4021 or ext. 3054 to order.

Candidates Forum

The City Council and Mayoral Candidates Forum will be at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the University Center Ballroom. Faculty and staff are invited to attend this SGA-sponsored event.

Coastal Educational Technology Conference and Vendor Fair

The Consortium for the Advancement of Public Education (CAPE) in the Watson School of Education is sponsoring "Surfing for Solutions, Strategies and Successes" Oct. 9 and 10 in King Hall. This Coastal Educational Technology Conference and Vendor Fair will feature more than 70 sessions presented by educators. Keynote presenters include Tim Fleck, author of HyperStudio for Terrified Teachers and Caroline McCullen, creator of the award-winning Midlink Magazine. Vendor exhibits will be held in the University Center Ballroom and will be open to the public.

For more information concerning the conference, contact Wendy Marshall at ext. 7287.

Wilmington in Black and White

"Wilmington in Black and White" is a series of 10 Thursday evening conversations being sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division of Public Service and Education. The conversations will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Tonight's topic is "Woodward's Burden of Southern History" featuring Melton McLaurin and Fred McRee. The October 9 topic is "Race Issues in Police Work" with Terry Gandy and Ricky Simpson.

Attendance is free. To pre-register call ext. 3195.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Khoon Koh, HPER, in coauthorship with Nancy Gladwell of UNC Greensboro had their book chapter "Commercial Recreation in N.C." published in Introduction to Leisure Services in North Carolina, edited by Paul L. Gaskill. Also, Koh and coauthors, Ute Jamrozy of Appalachian State University and Heather Gibson of UNCG, had their book chapter "Tourism in N.C." published in Introduction to Leisure Services in North Carolina.

Robert Wicklund, CMSR, received funding for his project "Redirection of Funds from West Coast NURC to UNCW NURC."

Lawrence Cahoon, biological sciences, received funding for his project "South Brunswick Water and Sewer Authority Storm Water Quality Monitoring Program."

Lynda Rolfes, music, attended a master class held at New York University conducted by violin pedagogue Dorothy Delay of the Julliard School. Rolfes was one of four performers in the master class that had 28 participants representing Schools of Music and string programs nationwide.

Andrew Hayes, specialty studies, received funding for his project "Research on Family Literacy."

N. Samuel Murrell, philosophy and religion, published "Hermeneutics as Interpretation and the Caribbean Student: Part 1" in BINAH a journal of religious and cultural issues published by the Caribbean Graduate School of Religion.

Arthur Spivack, earth sciences, co-authored the papers, "Stable Cl Isotopes" and "The Origin of High-Chlorine Magmas of the Stillwater Complex, Montana" in the journal, Geology, and "Boron Isotopic Geochemistry of Carbonates and Pore Waters, Ocean Drilling Program Site 851" in Earth and Planetary Science Letters. He also co-authored the presentation "Stable Chlorine Isotopic Compositions of Normal and Enriched Type Mid-Ocean Ridge Basalts" at the RIDGE/NORDVULK meeting in Iceland.

Michelle Howard-Vital, vice chancellor for public service and extended education, and Maurice M. Martinez, specialty studies, have co-authored an empirical study, research analysis and future-oriented, interactive text Entering School Leadership. This book, published by Kendall/Hunt Publishing Co., is recommended for teachers to engage in self-assessment regarding their role in educational leadership.

Lee Schweninger, English, had his essay "Irony and the Balance of Nature in Mathews's Talking to the Moon" published in Sail: Studies in American Indian Literatures. In his book Mathews recalls the ten years he spent living in a cabin on the blackjack ridges in Oklahoma.

William J. Cooper, chemistry, presented an invited paper "The Application of High Energy Electron Beam Irradiation in Pollution Control: An Overview And Research Needs" at a symposium on radiation chemistry in the physical chemistry section at the 214th American Chemical Society National Meeting held in Las Vegas, Nev. September 7-11. Additionally, Cooper co-authored the paper "Dye Decolorization Using Fe2+ and High-Energy Electron Beam Irradiation" that was presented at the Ninth Emerging Technologies Symposium, Division of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry of the American Chemical Society, held in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Patricia Kelley, earth sciences, received funding for her project "Escalation and the Role of Mass Extinction in the Cenozoic Evolution of the Naticid Gastropod Predator-prey System."

Self Defense Classes

University police is offering two three-week self defense classes for women called Rape Aggression Defense (RAD). The classes will be from 7 to 9:30 p.m, Tuesdays and Thursdays Oct. 14-30, and Mondays and Wednesdays Nov. 3-19. To sign up for either class, contact university police at ext. 3184.

Board of Trustees Meeting

The regular quarterly committee meetings of the UNCW Board of Trustees will be held Oct. 7. The full board meeting will be at 8:30 a.m. Oct. 8 in Wagoner Hall's Madeline Suite.

The Business Affairs Committee will meet at 8 a.m. Oct. 7 in Alderman, Room 211. The Academic Affairs Committee will meet at 10 a.m. Oct. 7 in Alderman, Room 215. The Long Range Planning Committee will meet at noon Oct. 7 in Trask Coliseum's Golden Hawk Room. The University Advancement Committee will meet at 2 p.m. Oct. 7 in the University Center, Room 104. The Student Affairs Committee will meet at 2 p.m. Oct. 7 in Alderman, Room 215.

Events on the Web

Information placed on the Facility Management System (FMS) can be accessed on the UNCW homepage. On the main menu select News and Events. On the News and Events menu select Events. A calendar will appear that you can "surf."

Flu Shots

Flu shots will be available to faculty and staff from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 13-17 at the Student Health Center in Westside Hall. The cost is $10. No appointment is necessary. For more information, call ext. 3280.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 16 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

UNCW-TV Mission

UNCW-TV, under the auspices of the Division for Public Services and Extended Education, shares the university's educational and cultural resources with the service region by providing quality educational, cultural and unique television programming to our viewing audience. Anyone interested in having a class or original program videotaped and edited for broadcast on UNCW-TV, contact Michelle R. Howard-Vital, vice chancellor for the division at ext. 4138. Anyone interested in having your event videotaped only, not for broadcast, contact telecommunications.

Randall Library Fall Break Schedule

Randall Library will observe the following schedule during fall break:

7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Oct. 8; 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Oct. 9; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 10; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Oct. 11; and 1 p.m. to midnight Oct. 12.

Student Paychecks

Effective Oct. 15 student payroll checks will be in student post office boxes. The payroll checks will not be distributed at the cashier's office. Call ext. 3538 with any questions.

Cellular Discount

360° Communications will offer permanent UNCW employees discounts on some equipment and service. The discount rate plan will be $16.95 with 60 minutes of local airtime. All equipment and service purchases must be made through 360° account executive Ann Downing. 360° Communications representatives will be on campus from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Oct. 6 and 7 in the University Center Ballroom and from 1 to 5 p.m. October 8 and 9 in the University Center, Room 104. For more information, call Gia Todd Long at ext. 3920.

Staff Training

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20.

Yoga, noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays through November 25.

Budget Procedures, 9 to 11 a.m. October 7.

Business Etiquette, 2 to 5 p.m. October 13.

Supervision for Managers and Professionals, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. October 22 and 23 and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. October 24.

Interaction Management, 8:30 a.m. to noon October 27-31.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Donnie Autry and Jennifer Judah, university police; Wendy Larimer, SBTDC; Oscar New, printing services; and Kathleen Williams, biological sciences.

"Heart Walk"

The American Heart Association will hold its annual "Heart Walk" Oct. 25 at Wrightsville Beach Park and Recreation area. Dan Cameron is the honorary chair for the walk. Registration beings at 9 a.m., and the walk begins at 10 a.m. Funds raised by this event benefit research to prevent heart disease and stroke. Anyone interested in walking or sponsoring a walker, contact Jeanne Harmon, recruiter for the walk at ext. 3406 or e-mail HarmonJ.

Book Sale

The Friends of New Hanover County Public Library is sponsoring a book sale Oct. 2-4 at the main library basement, 201 Chestnut St.

Biology Seminar

David Padgett, biological sciences, will present the seminar "A Tale of Two Kingdoms" at 2 p.m. Oct. 3 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 10 October 9, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW Alumni Association Receives Award for Wise House Preservation

The University of North Carolina at Wilmington Alumni Association received the Gertrude S. Carraway Award of Merit for its renovation of the Wise Alumni House.

The award was presented Sept. 27 by the Historic Preservation Foundation of North Carolina. Accepting the award at Preservation North Carolina's annual conference in Tarboro was Norm Melton '74 and Jim Stasios '70, former alumni association board chairmen.

Made possible by a generous grant from the Kellenberger Historical Foundation, this Carraway Award is one of 12 presented annually to individuals and organizations that have demonstrated an outstanding commitment to historic preservation.

The alumni association was recognized for its work in restoring Wise Alumni House, which was deeded to UNCW by the heirs of Jessie Hargrave Kenan Wise in 1968. The house sat vacant and neglected for the next 25 years until the UNCW Alumni Association, under the direction of Patricia A. Corcoran '72, made the commitment to take on the massive task of renovating the historical neoclassical mansion which is one of Wilmington's largest and most distinctive old homes. The association took on the project because it needed office space, meeting rooms, a place for alumni, university and community functions and room to grow as the alumni base expanded.

In March 1993, the alumni association formed a partnership with United Carolina Bank and received a four-year $400,000 loan for phase one of the renovations. The money was used for the removal of asbestos, basic repairs to the electrical, plumbing and heating and air conditioning systems which would bring the aging structure up to current codes and make it a usable facility.

Paying back that money has been the alumni association's driving force for the past four years as it conducted numerous fund-raisers including the Designers Showcase in 1995, the Fantasy Auction in 1996, the raffle of a GMC Jimmy donated by former alumni board chairman Robert S. King '66 and the $19.47 appeal (in conjunction with UNCW's 50th anniversary celebration). In addition, the university has come to the aid of the alumni association contributing more than $200,000 for improvements to the property, including the addition of a lighted parking lot, reconstruction of the sunken garden, landscaping of the grounds and renovation of the carriage house.

The final payment on the loan ($400,00 principal plus $71,799 in interest) was made May 1, and the house was formally dedicated on June 7.

SECC Enters Third Week

The State Employees Combined Campaign is entering its third week. University campaign coordinators are seeking participants within each division.

"Increased participation is a key factor for UNCW to outperform last year's ranking among the 16 constituent universities," said UNCW SECC chair Donna Cameron. "We want employees to give, not until it hurts, but until it feels good."

There are more than 1,000 charities employees can designate contributions, and the United Way is only one aspect of the campaign. Cameron said campaign coordinators would be discussing the many charities that employees could elect to designate contributions.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Nature Preserve

Ev-Henwood, UNCW's nature preserve in Brunswick County, is open to the public daily from dawn to dusk. Features include woods, streams, a picnic area, an historic tar kiln and numerous well-maintained trails with learning stations. October through April are excellent months to visit the preserve. For more information call ext. 3197 or Ev-Henwood, 253-6066.

Afternoon Tea with Carolina Authors

The American Association of University Women is sponsoring an afternoon tea with four Carolina authors: Wendy Brenner, creative writing; G. D. Gearino; Susan Kelly and Suzanne Tate. The event will be held at 2 p.m. Nov. 22 in the University Center Ballroom. Tickets are $10 and proceeds will help fund the AAUW Educational Foundation for graduate studies and grants for local undergraduate scholarships.

The River Keeper Speaks

UNCW's Geography Club will sponsor a presentation on the Cape Fear River Watch by Bouty Baldridge, entitled "The River Keeper Speaks" at 2 p.m. Oct. 14 in DeLoach Hall, Room 114. Everyone is welcome.

50th Fact

On October 9, 1958, the Building and Grounds Committee selected two architectural firms to jointly design three buildings for the new campus of Wilmington College and instructed them to submit preliminary plans to the committee. On September 15, 1959, the board voted unanimously to approve the modified Georgian style seen on campus today.

Athletic Council Appointments

The Athletic Council is appointed annually by the chancellor to provide advice and counsel regarding UNCW's intercollegiate athletic program. Faculty appointees for 1997-98 are William Atwill, Kathleen Benzaquin, Robert Buerger, John Clifford, Deborah Dowd, Randall Hanson, John Nasuti, Joanne Rockness, chair, and Joan Willey. Two students also serve on the council, along with two ex-officio members, Paul Miller, director of athletics, and James Sabella, NCAA faculty athletic representative. Any questions or concerns regarding athletics, especially as they relate to academics, can be addressed to any member of the council or the chancellor's office. The council's next meeting is Oct. 24.

Charlotte Hornets Bus Trip

A bus trip to see the Charlotte Hornets take on the Indiana Pacers will leave at 3 p.m. Nov. 8. The trip, sponsored by campus recreation, includes transportation and ticket for $20. It is open to students, faculty and staff with a valid UNCW ID. For more information, call ext. 3261.

National Scholarships Available

The Honors Scholars Program has information on two national scholarships that may interest UNCW's best students. The Morris K. Udall Scholarship provides awards of up to $5,000 for juniors and seniors planning careers in environmental public policy. The Harry Truman Scholarship Foundation offers $30,000 merit-based scholarships to students who wish to attend graduate school in preparation for careers in public service. The deadlines for these highly competitive scholarships are in early spring semester. For more information, contact Diane Levy at ext. 4181.

ACE Hosts Candela Festival

UNCW's Association for Campus Entertainment (ACE) is hosting the Second annual Candela Festival from 6 p.m. to midnight Oct. 15 in the University Union Ballroom. The festival is designed to look into the creation of independent films. The feature presentation will be The Bakery, a 16mm black and white production. Michael Anderson, director of The Bakery, will be a guest speaker. For more information, call ext. 3842.

Wilmington College Reunion

The UNCW Alumni Association is sponsoring a Wilmington College reunion Oct. 17 and 18. A reception honoring retired Wilmington College faculty and members of the Order of Isaac Bear will be held 7 to 9 p.m. Oct. 17 at the Wise Alumni House. A sock hop will be held from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Oct. 18 at the Center Stage Cafe. Tickets for both events are $19.47 per person. RSVP by Oct. 15 by calling 251-2682.

Women's Studies Meeting

Anyone who has taught or would like to teach a course for the women's studies minor is invited to an informal meeting of current participating faculty at 5 p.m. Oct. 17 at the home of Janet Ellerby. For more information, call ext. 3764.

Bookstore Bosses Day Special

In celebration of Bosses Day Oct. 16, the bookstore will deliver a nine-inch cake, custom-designed for your boss, along with one Bosses Day balloon and two latex balloons for $15. Or, the bookstore will deliver a Bosses Day mug filled with eight ounces of selected favorite jelly bellys and one Bosses Day mylar balloon and two latex balloons for only $9.95.

Place your cake orders prior to Oct. 10 for early morning delivery, call ext. 4021 or ext. 3054 to order your cake.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

Wilmington in Black and White

"Wilmington in Black and White" is a series of 10 Thursday evening conversations sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division for Public Service and Education. The conversations will be held 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Tonight's topic is "Race Issues in Police Work" with Terry Gandy and Ricky Simpson. The Oct. 16 topic is "White Supremacy at Home and Abroad in 1898" with Chancellor James R. Leutze and John Haley. Attendance is free. To pre-register call ext. 3195.

CTE Lunch Discussions

The Center for Teaching Excellence is hosting three informal lunchtime discussions on "Interactive Teaching and Learning" in the CTE faculty work room, Friday Hall Room 101. "Grading Essays and Essay Examinations" will be held noon Oct. 15; "Experiential Learning - Thinking Beyond Formal Labs" will be at noon Oct. 31; and "Designing and Using Class Discussions" will be at noon Nov. 12. Cold drinks, coffee and dessert will be provided. For more information, call ext. 3034 or e-mail CTE.

Speakers Bureau Update

Community response to the 50th anniversary Speakers Bureau has been great. More than 125 copies of the publication have been mailed area civic and business organizations. Faculty and staff members who missed the initial publication can be included in the second edition. For more information or to request signup forms, contact Phillip Brown at ext. 7223 or e-mail BrownP. The deadline for inclusion in this edition is Oct. 31.

Spring International Travel

Faculty requests for financial assistance with international travel for spring 1998 are due by October 15 in the Office of International Programs. Forms are available from departmental chairs or by calling international programs at ext. 3685.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Paul Wilkes, English, published the article "That's the Spirit" about American Catholic parish life in The Tablet, an international Catholic weekly based in London.

Charles Ward, chemistry; Rick Dixon, sociology and anthropology; Allen Gray, nursing; Gabriel Lugo, mathematical sciences; Patty Turrisi, philosophy and religion; and Ronald Vetter, mathematical sciences, attended and participated in the UNC Workshop on the Use of Technology for Distance Education held at the McKimmon Center on the campus of North Carolina State University. The workshop was held in conjunction with NCSU's Instructional Technologies Expo. Ward and Lugo gave a poster presentation on their paper "The UNCW Technology College." Gray gave a poster presentation on his paper "The RN ACCESS Program at the UNCW School of Nursing." Vetter gave an oral presentation on his paper "Developing an Online Internet-based Course."

William McLellan, Ann Pabst, Laela Sayigh, biological sciences, received funding for their "Mid-Atlantic Humpback Whale Study."

Dianne Matthews, Student Development Center, attended the Southeastern Testing Association Conference in Williamsburg, Va., and was moderator for the session "The Good, the Bad and the Ugly." Computer-based testing and test security were the main topics of discussion. Matthews has served as state director for the past two years.

Bill Atwill and Diane Levy, Honors Program, and three students attended the 1997 annual meeting of the North Carolina Honors Association at Appalachian State University in Boone on Sept 26. The honors scholars, Melva Brown, Kathy Cole and Vicki Cranford, led a panel entitled "Honors Scholars Associations: Sharing Ideas."

Tom Barth, political science, made a presentation on "Building an MPA Urban Concentration: Process and Content Issues" at the 1997 Southeastern Conference on Public Administration in Knoxville, Tenn.

Laela Sayigh, biological sciences, received funding for "Photo Identification of Coastal Bottlenose Dolphins off Wilmington, N.C."

Mary Moser, CMSR, received funding for "Low Light Impediment to Fish Migration with Particular Emphasis of River Herring."

Sridhar Narayan, mathematical sciences, was awarded the Object Oriented Programming Systems and Languages (OOPSLA) 1997 Educators' Scholarship to attend the OOPSLA conference Oct. 4-9 in Atlanta. The scholarship is sponsored by the Association for Computing Machinery (ACM) special interest group on programming languages.

William Cleary, earth sciences and CMSR, was keynote speaker at a workshop on coastal change sponsored by N.C. Sea Grant, N.C. Division of Coastal Management and the N.C. Real Estate Commission. Cleary's seminar was part of a day-long workshop held in Wilmington Sept. 29. His presentation focused on the process and condition of the shorelines in southeastern North Carolina.

Brooks Dodson, English, spoke to the Friends of the Brunswick County Public Library on changes in the English language.

Joseph Pawlik, biological sciences, received funding for "Assessing the Chemical Defenses of Caribbean Sponges."

Karen Shafer, SMEC, received funding for "1997 Earth Science Workshop."

Students Sent Balance Due Bills

Balance due bills have been mailed to students' home addresses. These bills include the 3 percent in-state tuition increase that was approved by the Board of Governors in August. Student accounts must be paid in full in order to pre-register for spring classes. Pre-registration begins Nov. 3. If anyone has questions, call Tammy Blizzard at ext. 3143.

Campus Rec Fall Break Schedule

The following is the fall break schedule for campus recreation: aerobics, noon to 1 p.m. Oct. 9-10 and 5:15 to 6:15 p.m. Oct. 12; recreational swim, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Oct. 9-10; fitness center, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Oct. 9-10 and 5 to 8 p.m. Oct. 12. Facilities will be closed Oct. 11.

Spring Event Calendar

If you would like to have your events in the 1998 spring calendar, submit the information by Oct. 31. If possible, include photographs and any details about the events. The calendar will be ready for distribution by Jan. 5. All students, faculty, and staff will receive a copy.

Send information by e-mail to Bennettm or to the Activities and Leadership Center office in the University Union, Room 214. If you have any questions, call ext. 3827.

Physical Plant Open House

The Physical Plant Open House will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Oct. 16. Tours will be conducted at 9, 10 and 11 a.m. and 1 and 2 p.m. Faculty and staff are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served at the end of each tour and door prizes will be awarded.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 16 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Self-Defense Classes

University police are offering two three-week self-defense classes for women called Rape Aggression Defense (RAD). The classes will be from 7 to 9:30 p.m, Tuesdays and Thursdays Oct. 14-30 and Mondays and Wednesdays Nov. 3-19. To sign up for either class, contact university police at ext. 3184.

Flu Shots

Flu shots will be available for faculty and staff from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 13-17 at the Student Health Center in Westside Hall. The cost is $10. No appointment is necessary. For more information, call ext. 3280.

Student Paychecks

Effective Oct. 15 student payroll checks will be in student post office boxes. The payroll checks will not be distributed at the cashier's office. Call ext. 3538 with any questions.

Anti-virus Software Upgrade

The Office of Information Technology (OIT) has received an upgrade to Dr. Solomon's Anti-Virus software. Check with your departmental liaison for more information and installation disks. If your department does not have a liaison, call the help desk at ext. 4357.

The university site license allows faculty and staff to install the software on their home computers. Your liaison can provide you with the software, or if you do not have a liaison, copies can be made at the help desk in Hoggard Hall, Room 218. Bring the following new, unformatted high density disks to the help desk for each version: Macintosh, one disk; Windows 3.x, six disks; Windows 95, five disks; and clean up boot disk, one disk. For best service, call ahead and inform the help desk which disks you will need.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Zella Lee and Sandra Rowell, physical plant and Nancy McLemore and Kim Proukou, School of Nursing.

Nomination Forms for All-USA Academic Team

Faculty interested in nominating students for the 1998 All-USA Academic team should contact Sharon San Diego in university relations at ext. 3861. Sixty full-time undergraduate students nationwide will be chosen and featured in a two-page color package in USA Today. Winners will be determined by a panel of educators selected by USA Today, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education and the Council for Advancement and Support of Education. The criteria, developed by the co-sponsors, are designed to find students who excel in both scholarship and leadership roles, on and off campus. A key element will be a student's outstanding original academic or intellectual product. Judges will be influenced by the student's ability to describe that endeavor in his/her own words and will rely solely on this composition, recommendations from the nominating professor and recommendations of three other persons of the nominee's choice.

Nominations must be postmarked by November 29. To obtain a nominating form, contact Sharon San Diego, university relations, at ext. 3861.

Staff Training

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20.

Yoga, noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays through November 25.

Business Etiquette, 2 to 5 p.m. October 13.

Supervision for Managers and Professionals, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. October 22 and 23 and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. October 24.

Interaction Management, 8:30 a.m. to noon October 27-31.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No.11 October 16, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW Breaks Ground for New Center for Marine Science Research

Pouring buckets of seawater into an aquarium, UNCW officials signaled the beginning of a new era in marine science research at the ground breaking for UNCW's Center for Marine Science Research at Myrtle Grove.

The $17.5 million facility will replace the Wrightsville Beach complex which is made up of approximately 20 buildings/ trailers. Construction begins this month and should be completed by summer 1999 in time for the opening of the fall 1999 semester. The facility was designed by Sharpe Architects. Miller Building Corporation will serve as the general contractor. Primary funding for the building was appropriated by the 1995 N.C. General Assembly.

UNCW Chancellor James R. Leutze thanked those legislators who were instrumental in the appropriation of funds for the facility, including Sen. Patrick Ballentine and Rep. Danny McComas.

A significant feature of the 70,000-square foot facility is the running seawater system that will bring raw, unfiltered and purified seawater into aquariums and a greenhouse. Located along the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway, the facility will provide easy access to regional marine environments such as tidal marshes, mud and sand flats, tidal creeks, barrier islands and tidal inlets, nearshore marine environments, the Gulf Stream, hard bottom communities, sand dunes and maritimes forests and estuarine environments. The site includes a 769-foot pier with floating docks along the intercoastal waterway that can accommodate a large research vessel and several smaller ones.

The facility will house 25 permanent faculty and provide laboratory and office space for 10 visiting faculty. Administrative staff, operations staff, research associates and graduate students will bring the total served by the facility to approximately 80. The center will serve the following disciplines and agencies: oceanography, coastal and estuarine systems, marine geology, aquaculture, marine chemistry, marine biotechnology and public service.

Research space will be available for faculty from seven UNC campuses and three schools in the N.C. Community college system and extension offices for the N.C. SeaGrant Program, the National Undersea Research Program, the Marine Quest Program of UNCW's Division for Public Service and Extended Education and the N.C. Estuarine Research Reserve Program. Incorporation of all these services into the facility will create an unparalleled marine research and education campus at Myrtle Grove.

In addition to the ground breaking, the university also christened the newest addition to its fleet of research vessels, the RV/Cape Fear. Built in 1988, Cape Fear is 63 feet long, 20.6 feet wide, with a 4.5 foot draft. She has already begun missions and adds an important capability for overnight research opportunities at sea. Typical missions include diving operations, side scan and seismic surveys and oceanographic instrument deployment and retrieval.

Cameron Professor Joanne Rockness Wins N.C. Outstanding Educator Award

Joanne Rockness received the N.C. Association of Certified Public Accountants' 1997 Outstanding Educator Award at a certified public accountant meeting Oct. 3 in Greensboro. Rockness, director of the Cameron School of Business' Master of Science in Accountancy Program, is a member of the 10,000-strong state association of certified public accountants.

The Outstanding Educator Award recognizes one college educator each year who has made significant contributions through teaching and involvement in the accounting profession. Among the past winners of this award is Harold Langenderfer of UNC Chapel Hill, who has long been recognized by many certified public accountants as the foremost accounting educator in the United States.

Commenting on the award, Rockness said, "It is deeply gratifying to receive this prestigious award since it focuses on the importance of teaching."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Big Band Holding First Concert of the Season

The UNCW Big Band, under the direction of Frank Bongiorno, will perform at 8 p.m. Oct. 23 in Kenan Auditorium. This will be the band's first concert in Wilmington since its European tour this summer. Arrangements being performed include John Coltrane's Impressions, Bunch of Blues by Les Hooper, Dave Eshelman's Pacheco and others. Tickets are $4 for general admission, $2 for faculty and staff and free to UNCW students with valid ID. Tickets available at the Kenan Auditorium box office.

Leuci Lecture

Bob Leuci will speak on "Ethics, Morality and the Police" at 7 p.m. Nov. 4 in the University Center Ballroom. Leuci worked as an undercover police officer in New York City. For more information call the Activities and Leadership Center at ext. 3827. This event is sponsored by the Association for Campus Entertainment (ACE) Lectures Committee.

Golden Alumni Tour

The next stop on the UNCW Alumni Association's Golden Tour is at the Waccamaw Academy Cafeteria in Whiteville. The tour is one of several ways the alumni association is celebrating the university's 50th anniversary. At each stop on the tour alumni have an opportunity to celebrate UNCW's growth and progress since the doors of Wilmington College opened in 1947.

50th Fact

The first college bookstore consisted of a box of five-cent Milky Way candy bars sold on the honor system from a closet in the basement of the old Isaac Bear Building. The bookstore was formally established by the student government in the early 50's, but remained, in effect, a snackbar since the sale of textbooks took place in the bursar's office.

Interlibrary Service Helping 50th Celebration

Randall Library's Interlibrary Services Department is helping spread the word of UNCW's 50th anniversary by incorporating the 50th anniversary logo on book bands that go around every volume loaned to other libraries. Also, the department uses the bands on books borrowed from other libraries for UNCW faculty, staff and students.

Bowling League Update

The UNCW Bowling League competes at 5:45 p.m. Thursdays at Cardinal Lanes on Shipyard Blvd. There are eight four-person teams. As of Oct. 10, the team of Becky Chilcote, Gennie Beatty and Phillip Brown, advancement, and Herb Beatty was in first place. Stars of the week included Liz Johnson, accounting, with a 528 series, scratch; Linda Ferrell, enrollment affairs, with a 177 game, scratch; Paula Greene, registrar's office, with a 232 game, handicap; Sam Chance, information technology, with a 517 series, scratch; and Michael McQuery, telecommunications, with a 645 series, handicap.

Boykin Lecture

Keith Boykin will speak on the topic "Black and Gay in America" at 7 p.m. Oct. 22 in the University Center Ballroom. Admission is free and open to the public. For more information, call the Activities and Leadership Center at ext. 3827. This event is sponsored by the Association for Campus Entertainment Lectures Committee, Office of Minority Affairs, UNCW NAACP Chapter, and the P.R.I.D.E. Organization.

Halloween Carnival

Anyone interested in volunteering for the fourth annual Halloween Carnival for Children from 6 to 9 p.m. Oct. 29 in the University Center Ballroom should attend a volunteer meeting at 7 p.m. tonight in the University Union, Room 212. For more information, call ext. 3925.

Cahoon Speaking at New Hanover Library

Larry Cahoon, biological sciences, will speak and answer questions about the environmental impact of the hog industry and other intensive livestock industries at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 23 at the New Hanover County Main Library.

Dialogues on Racism

The Upperman African-American Cultural Center invites everyone to three dialogues to understand racism. "The Notion of Race: Its Origin, Its Validity, Its Use" by Dale McCall, sociology and anthropology, will be held at 3:30 p.m. Nov. 5. "How Has Racism Affected Communication Across and Within Racial Groups?" by Deborah Brunson, communication studies, and Robert Smith, specialty studies, will be held at 3 p.m. Nov. 14. "How Has Racism Shaped Our Social Organizations and Social Institutions?" by Robert Miller, sociology and anthropology, will be at 3 p.m. Nov. 19.

Poet Alice Fulton Returns

Poet Alice Fulton will return to UNCW for a week-long seminar beginning Oct. 27. As visiting writer-in-residence, Fulton will conduct a five-day workshop for students enrolled in the Master of Fine Arts Program. She will also hold a reading at 7 p.m. Oct. 29 in Cameron Auditorium. It is free and open to the public.

Also, Fulton will hold two informal sessions from 5 to 7 p.m. Oct. 28 and 30 in Randall Library. Oct. 28 is a question-and-answer session on contemporary poetics and poetry writing. The Oct. 30 session will be devoted to a taped performance of songs written by Fulton, as well as a discussion of the songwriting process. Both sessions are free and open to the public.

Note of Appreciation

Liz and Doug Johnson would like to thank everyone for their kind expressions of sympathy during the recent loss of Liz's brother Lewis Harvin, Sr.

UNCW EMPLOYEES

16.95

monthly for 60 local minutes of airtime

CELLULAR SERVICE

360°

COMMUNICATIONS

OFFER NOT VALID THROUGH ANY 360 LOCATION.

SERVICE AND EQUIPMENT MUST BE PURCHASED THROUGH ACCOUNT EXECUTIVE

ANN DOWNING

AT 910 520-7500

OFFER EXPIRES OCTOBER 31, 1997

but call now to process credit information!

BOT Approves Updated Concise Mission Statement

The following is an updated concise university mission statement approved by the UNCW Board of Trustees on Oct. 8.

"The University of North Carolina at Wilmington is an evolving comprehensive university dedicated to excellence in teaching, in scholarly and artistic achievement and in service to regional and global communities. As the only university in the region, it has a special responsibility to education and service. In fulfilling this responsibility, the university recognizes and accepts the primary importance of its undergraduate teaching mission, while at the same time offering strong graduate programs that complement its undergraduate programs. The university seeks to stimulate intellectual curiosity, imagination, rational thinking, thoughtful expression and love of learning in a broad range of discipline and professional fields. Knowledge of the humanities, the social and natural sciences and the fine arts is central to this curriculum. The university considers research and creative activities essential for effective learning and strives to create an academic environment in which faculty and students can reach their full potential for scholarship. The university's location in a historic Atlantic seaport provides special opportunities for teaching and research in a variety of fields, among them marine and environmental sciences, the humanities and business. In its public service role, the university serves as a resource and catalyst for regional growth and development."

Wilmington in Black and White

"Wilmington in Black and White" is a series of Thursday evening conversations sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division for Public Service and Education. The conversations will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Tonight's topic is "White Supremacy at Home and Abroad in 1898" with Chancellor James R. Leutze and John Haley. The Oct. 23 topic is "Communicating in Black and White" with Stephanie Richardson and Robert Smith. Attendance is free. To preregister call ext. 3195.

Leadership Giving for the State Employees Combined Campaign

Leadership Giving is a personal gift of 1 percent or more of gross annual salary to the State Employees Combined Campaign. The Leadership Giving Society is being introduced this year as a way to encourage and recognize state employees who give at one of three leadership levels. State employees contributing 1 percent of gross annual salary will be recognized with membership in the Dogwood Club. Contributions of 1.5 percent merit membership in the Cardinal Club and 2 percent in the Emerald Society. Members of these levels will be recognized in the 1997 Leadership Giving Society brochure and will receive a token of appreciation recognizing the North Carolina symbol of their club.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in the order received. Due to the volume of submissions there may be a two-to-three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated. Also, grant information is not published until official confirmation is received from the Graduate School and Research.

Teresita J. Parra, foreign languages and literatures, participated in the Foreign Language Faculty Development in International Business Conference at Duke University. The conference's main purpose was to integrate international business issues into the foreign language curriculum.

Sharon Bourque and Deborah Dowd, HPER, presented at the 1997 International Conference on Aging and Physical Activity in Austin, Texas.

Ann Conner, art and theatre, is exhibiting 47 woodcuts in the solo exhibition "Relief Prints" through Oct. 31 at Mimms Gallery, Dunn Center for the Performing Arts, N.C. Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount. The exhibition features "Appalachia 1–4" suite of relief prints, created during her fall 1995 Faculty Reassignment Award. The artist gave a gallery talk Oct 2.

Peter Thomas, foreign languages and literatures, had his article "La ciudad de Quito como signo del laberinto en la novela ecuatoriana" published in Estudios Ecuatorianos, the humanities journal of the Catholic University of Ecuador.

John Clifford, English, had an essay-review of Rhetorics, Poetics and Cultures published in JAC: A Journal of Composition.

Charles Lewis, HPER, presented a paper "All Educated and No Where to Go" to a Region II and III Conference of the N.C. Recreation and Park Society at Ft. Fisher State Recreation Area.

Rex Pringle, campus recreation, and Charles Lewis, HPER, coauthored the chapter "Campus Recreation and Intramurals" in the third edition of Introduction to Leisure Services in North Carolina recently released by Kendall Hunt Publishing Co. Lewis also coauthored a chapter on "The Private, Non-Profit Sector."

Jonathan Geller, biological sciences, presented "Molecular Ecology of Marine Invasions" at the International Marine Biotechnology Conference in Sorrento, Italy.

William Overman, psychology, gave an invited address to the Psychology Department at Duke University. The presentation concerned research conducted by Overman and his students on early childhood learning and memory and gender differences in mental ability. Three UNCW psychology students also attended and interacted with Duke graduate students on a similar research project.

John Bennett and Charles Lewis, HPER, participated in the Citizens for Progress Forum at Carolina Beach. The forum focused on revitalization of business and tourism, law enforcement needs and trends and recreation and youth services for the millenium. Bennett delivered a keynote address.

Moorad Alexanian, physics, had a letter accepted for publication in Physics Today, published monthly by the American Institute of Physics. Alexanian proposed that major research universities use the Internet-based interactive conferencing service known as the Multicast Backbone (Mbone) network to disseminate seminars, conferences and other events that take place on their campuses.

Sally Sullivan, English, attended the 13th Annual Southern Writers Symposium at Methodist College in Fayetteville, which was devoted to Fred Chappell's writing. She read her paper "Irony and Allegory in I Am One of You Forever: How Fantasy and the Ideal Become the Real."

Chancellor's Awards Reception

The Chancellor's Achievement Awards reception will be held from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 22 in the University Center Ballroom. The campus community is invited to attend the reception honoring students who received an "A" average carrying a minimum of 15 credits during the spring semester.

Basketball Season Tickets

Faculty and staff can purchase home season basketball tickets for $65 a person. Ticket purchases are payroll deductible. Seating is located in Trask Coliseum's east and west upper end zones. To order, call Mack Moore at ext. 3233 before Oct. 24.

Seahawk License Plates for Students

The UNCW Alumni Association has a donor willing to fund the $25 application fee for the first 20 UNCW students who apply for a UNCW Seahawk license plate from the N.C. Department of Motor Vehicles. Renewal fees would be the responsibility of the students. Applications can be obtained from auxiliary services, advancement or the alumni association and returned to Pat Corcoran, executive director of the UNCW Alumni Association, at Wise Alumni House on Market Street. For more information, contact the alumni association at 910/251-2682.

Be the Pulse

Be the pulse of the campus. UNCW students will see these words more in the upcoming weeks as part of a new initiative from the Division of Student Affairs. The division is beginning a marketing campaign for this new e-mail account developed for students to share their perspectives on the campus life experience. The vice chancellor's office will monitor the account and respond to students' comments and questions.

Travel Contract News

Purchasing has added Twin Travel and Cruises to its list of travel agencies on contract. Allen Travel and IN Travel remain along with Travel Agents International, now known as Carlson Wagonlit Travel. Contact any of these agencies to arrange for travel needs: airfare, lodging and car rentals.

A travel expo is planned for Nov. 11 to exchange information with all travel partners.

Student Timesheet Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for Nov. 15 payment is 3 p.m. Oct. 31 in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to department representatives, not payroll. Students not listed on departmental recaps sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received prior to adding students to recap sheets.

Spring Event Calendar

Oct. 31 is the deadline to submit events for the 1998 spring calendar. If possible, include photographs and any details about the events. The calendar will be ready for distribution by Jan. 5. All students, faculty, and staff will receive a copy.

Send information by e-mail to Bennettm or to the Activities and Leadership Center office in the University Union, Room 214. If you have any questions, call ext. 3827.

Art and Theatre Production

The Department of Art and Theatre will present Observe the Sons of Ulster Marching Toward the Somme by Frank McGuinness Oct. 23-25 at Thalian Hall. The play follows eight volunteers of the 36th (Ulster) Division from the beginning of WWI through the battle of the Somme on July 1, 1916.

For more information, contact the Department of Art and Theatre at ext. 3440.

Staff Vacancy Announcements

The following are vacant staff positions with application deadlines:

09-006 Police Officer I, Oct. 31; 98-034 Office Assistant IV, Oct. 17; 98-047 MIS Systems Liaison, Oct. 17; 98-050 Graphic Designer, Oct. 17; 98-051, Office Assistant IV, Oct. 17; and 98-052 General Utility Worker, Oct. 24.

Additional information is available in the vacancy announcement distributed Fridays, the UNCW Jobline at ext. 3791 or the human resources website at www.uncwil.edu/hr. The state application can be downloaded from this website.

Project HOPE

Project HOPE is a federally-funded grant program that focuses on identification, assessment, networking and education regarding physical and emotional aspects dealing with hurricanes. Two one-hour sessions, from 9 to 10 a.m. and 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., will be offered on Oct. 23 in the University Center Ballroom. To register, call ext. 3274.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employee:

Sheryl Donaldson, printing services.

Midnight Madness

UNCW kicks off its pre-season basketball drills Oct. 17 during "Midnight Madness" at Trask Coliseum. The men's and women's basketball teams will take the floor at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 18. Also there will be an appearance by Charlotte Hornets mascot Hugo and autograph sessions starting at 5 p.m. in the Trask Coliseum lobby.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 16 and 10 to 11 a.m. Oct. 24 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No.12 October 23, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

Basketmaker Billie Ruth Sudduth Named N.C. Living Treasure

Billie Ruth Sudduth, a Bakersville, N.C., basketmaker, has been named the 10th North Carolina Living Treasure by UNCW's Museum of World Cultures.

Sudduth will receive the award at a banquet 7 p.m. Nov. 1 in the University Center Ballroom.

As a North Carolina Living Treasure, Sudduth will receive a bronze medal custom-designed by Stephen D. LeQuire, sculptor and associate professor of art at UNCW. Each medal given to a Living Treasure recipient is unique and incorporates a significant aspect of the recipient's craft.

Sudduth considers herself a self-taught basketmaker. While inspired by the classical forms of Shaker and Appalachian baskets, Sudduth said her greatest influence was the 13th-century Italian mathematician Leonardo of Pisa, better known as Fibonacci. Fibonacci's Numbers, or the Nature Sequence, is the mathematical expression of the ratio 5:8 or 1:1.618, which is known as the Golden Mean. In nature, that ratio is found in the spacing of spirals on seashells and pineapples and in the arrangement of florets in the center of a daisy or sunflower.

"My weaving utilizes a mathematical structure of spiral growth found in nature to create baskets with a rhythmic, naturally flowing design," said Sudduth. "They are both visual and tactile. I do not separate myself from nature but, through my weaving, affirm being a part of it."

Since 1983, Sudduth has worked as an artist, basketry teacher and owner of JABOBS - Just a Bunch of Baskets. From 1983 to 1989, she combined weaving with her career as a school psychologist working in Pender and Craven counties and in Clark County, Nev. In 1989, she retired from her 20-year professional career to devote her full attention to basketry.

Billie Ruth Sudduth and her husband Doug at the Smithsonian's Renwick Gallery, where one of her baskets was on display.

She has taught basketry in several areas of the country, including North Carolina's Penland School of Crafts. In 1991, she taught in the New Hanover County School District using an Eisenhower Grant to teach basketry as a math manipulative to middle school students.

Sudduth said that as a school psychologist, she knew that incorporating the tactile art of basketry to teach math would make it more meaningful. She has developed a program "Math in a Basket" which she uses to teach math to elementary, middle school and high school students. Using Fibonacci's 800-year-old universal sequence, Sudduth is able to teach such mathematical concepts as addition, ratios, fractions, measurement and angles. When viewing a basket, she said, it is more than a vessel. "It contains math, science and history."

Sudduth's work has been displayed at the Smithsonian Institution's Renwick Gallery and the Museum of Decorative Art in Copenhagen, Denmark. At the 1997 Smithsonian Craft Show held April 24-27, Ms. Sudduth received an award of merit, one of five awarded from among 120 exhibiting artists from several mediums including glass, leather, jewelry, pottery, woodworking and furniture making. Her artwork was also displayed in Wilmington at the exhibit "The Nature Sequence - Baskets of Billie Ruth Sudduth," which was held at St. John's Museum of Art in 1996.

Sudduth said she hoped the Living Treasure award would inspire others to pursue the art of basketry, an underexposed art form. "It's the oldest craft form known to man, yet the number of professional basketmakers is the smallest among professional crafters."

Sudduth will be the 10th recipient of the North Carolina Living Treasure Award. She was selected by a committee chaired by Joyce Morden, director of UNCW's Museum of World Cultures. Originated by Gerald Shinn, retired director of the Museum of World Cultures, the North Carolina Living Treasure Award is presented biennially. Additionally, it is made possible through an endowment from Dr. Martin Meyerson, M.D. in memory of his mother, Dorothy Meyerson. The award is designed to honor a North Carolina citizen working in traditional handcrafts using wood, glass, ceramics, metal and textiles who transforms them into art. In recognition of the university's 50th anniversary and the selection of a 10th recipient, the Museum of World Cultures is inviting former recipients to this year's awards ceremony.

The public is invited to a reception for Sudduth from 2 to 4:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 31 in the University Union Living Room. She will be demonstrating her basket weaving at that time.

Feminist Colloquium

The Feminist Colloquium will hold its next meeting at 12 noon Oct. 31 in Bear Hall, Room 261. The readings "Encountering the Sacred" by Cynthia Eller and "The Witches Return" by Mary Daly are on reserve or call J. Ellerby at ext. 3764 for a copy or further information. All are welcome.

Mood Study Needs Test Subjects

Pyschologists are studying different mood experiences and need participants. Earn $9 for undergoing the 45-minute test. Anyone who doesn't suffer from hemophilia or has a history of mood disorders can take part in this experiment. There are several experiments with some involving mild physical discomfort, such as light pressure applied to the wrist. A sign-up sheet for interested participants is posted next to the main bulletin board on the first floor of the Behavioral Science Building. New times are posted on Monday, and you can participant only once. For more information, contact Len Lecci at ext. 7262.

UNCW Concert Choir

The UNCW Concert Choir will present Brahm's A German Requiem at 3 p.m. Nov. 2 in Kenan Auditorium. Admission is free.

50th Fact

Dr. William Randall, president of Wilmington College from 1958-68, came to the college in 1951 through unusual recruiting methods. Dr. Randall and his family were in Wilmington recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident when word of his experience in academia reached the college. He was prevailed upon to leave his position as director of libraries at the University of Georgia and become dean of the college prior to serving as president.

UNCW Cape Fear Alumni Golf Classic

The fifth annual UNCW Cape Fear Alumni Golf Classic will be at 8 a.m. Nov. 10 at The Cape Golf and Racquet Club. The tournament format is captain's choice. Individual entry fee is $50 per person for UNCW alumni, faculty, staff and students and $65 for friends of UNCW. All participants receive unlimited range balls, cart/green fees, cookout following tournament and deluxe gift bag with a sleeve of Seahawk golf balls, a pair of golf footies, tee and divot set and snacks. Closest to the pin prizes include golf getaways for two, a gourmet food package and a framed golf print. For more information, contact Mike Arnold at 251-2684.

Earth Sciences Seminar

A. Conrad Neumann from the Department of Geology and Marine Science at UNC Chapel Hill will present "Rapid Sea-level Changes at the End of the Last Interglacial Period" at 1 p.m. Oct. 24 in DeLoach Hall, Room 114. Everyone is invited.

Honors Program Exhibition

"Symbiosis: Word and Image" is an Honors Program exhibition by non-traditional student Betty Brown. The exhibition, which centers around Brown's study of the relationship between word and image, will be displayed from Nov. 3 - 25 in Kenan Hall's Claude Howell Gallery. Brown will also give a slide lecture at 3 p.m. Nov. 16 in Kenan Hall, Room 121.

Special Communique Deadline

The submission deadline for the Oct. 30 issue of the Campus Communique is 5 p.m. Monday Oct. 27. The Oct. 30 issue will be an eight-page issue.

Classical Guitarist to Perform

Classical guitarist James Day will perform at 8 p.m. Nov. 10 in Kenan Auditorium. Day is artist teacher of guitar studies at the College of New Jersey in Trenton. Admission is free. The concert is sponsored by the Department of Music, The Golden Gallery, Allen and Lynn Masterson and the Arts Council of the Lower Cape Fear. For more information, contact the Music Department at ext. 3390.

NetDay Participants

Did you participate in the 1997 NetDay? If so, contact Woody Sutton, technology outreach coordinator for distance learning, at ext. 7074 or e-mail SuttonC. Provide the school name, district and type of work performed.

WAMO

WAMO, the Wilmington Area Macintosh users Organization, meets at 7 p.m. every second Wednesday of the month in Cameron Auditorium. New "Mac" users are encouraged to attend and learn tips, watch vendor demonstrations and participate in software and hardware giveaways. Additional experienced users are needed to share their wisdom and and support for Macintoch computers. For more information, contact Geri Vital at ext. 4282 or e-mail VitalG@pop2.uncwil.edu.

Heartwalk

Put on your walking shoes to help the American Heart Association (AHA) battle heart disease and stroke. This year's walk will be at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 25 at Wrightsville Beach Parks and Recreation. Dan Cameron is honorary chair. Also, the UNCW's men's basketball team will be in attendance. For more information about the walk or sponsorships, contact Jeanne Harmon, UNCW AHA volunteer recruiter, at ext. 3406, or e-mail HarmonJ.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

UNCW

Graduate School Day 97

Wednesday, Nov. 5
1-4pm • University Center

- For All UNCW Students
- Tips on Preparing for Graduate or Professional School
- Contacts for Admissions & Testing
- Over 20 Graduate and Law Schools

American Univ
Appalachian State Univ
Campbell Univ (Law)
Duke Univ (Law & Nursing)
East Carolina Univ (Grad & Social Work)
James Madison Univ
Kaplan Educ Ctr
NC State (Vet Medicine)
Ohio Northern Univ (Law)
Radford Univ
Regent Univ
UNC-Chapel Hill (Law, Nursing & Social Work)
UNC-Wilmington
Univ of Charleston
Univ of South Carolina (Grad & Nursing)
Virginia Commonwealth Univ
Wake Forest Univ (Grad & Law)
Webster Univ
Western Carolina Univ
Winthrop Univ

Career Services • Division of Student Affairs • 104 & 106 University Union • 910-962-3174
"Creating Experiences For Life"

At the Hawk's Nest

Faculty and staff dining room buffet menus:

Oct. 24 - turkey and broccoli divan, vegetarian stuffed peppers, chef's potatoes, southern green beans, mixed vegetables, potato salad, cole slaw, assorted desserts and beverages.

Oct. 28 - BBQ pork and chicken, corn on the cob, macaroni and cheese, hushpuppies, potato salad, cole slaw, assorted desserts and beverages.

For daily menus at Wagoner Hall, call the menu hotline at ext. 3708.

Dialogues on Racism

The Upperman African-American Cultural Center invites everyone to three dialogues to understand racism. "The Notion of Race: Its Origin, Its Validity, Its Use" by Dale McCall, sociology and anthropology, will be held at 3:30 Nov. 5. "How Has Racism Affected Communication Across and Within Racial Groups?" by Deborah Brunson, communication studies and Robert Smith, specialty studies, will be held at 3 p.m. Nov. 14. "How Has Racism Shaped Our Social Organizations and Social Institutions?" by Robert Miller, sociology and anthropology, will be held at 3 p.m. Nov. 19.

YWCA Week Without Violence

Join the YWCA of Wilmington from 10 a.m to 2 p.m. Oct. 25 at Independence Mall to look at alternative ways of dealing with stress and pressure that can lead to aggression.

Biology Seminar

James Campbell from the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C. will present "Stable Carbon Isotope Analysis to Evaluate Microbial Roles and Biogeochemical Cycles" at 2 p.m. Oct. 24 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Faculty Regalia

Faculty needing to rent regalia for December graduation should contact Jessiebeth Geddie at ext. 3054 by Nov. 17.

Big Band Concert

The UNCW Big Band, under the direction of Frank Bongiorno, will give a concert at 8 p.m. tonight in Kenan Auditorium. This is the band's first concert in Wilmington since its European tour this summer. Arrangements to be performed include John Coltrane's Impressions, Bunch of Blues by Les Hooper, Dave Eshelman's Pacheco and others. Tickets are $4 for general admission, $2 for faculty and staff and free to UNCW students with valid ID. Tickets available at the Kenan Auditorium box office.

Wilmington in Black and White

"Wilmington in Black and White" is a series of conversations sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division for Public Service and Education. The conversations will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.Thursdays through November 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Tonight's topic is "Communicating in Black and White" with Stephanie Richardson and Robert Smith. The Oct. 30 topic is "Religion and Racism: A Look at the Bible and the Qur'an" with Sam Murell and Herbert Berg. Attendance is free. To pre-register call ext. 3195.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

William J. Cooper, chemistry, presented a paper "Recent Advancements in the Environmental Application of Electron Beam Irradiation" to the Municipal Water and Wastewater Program Meeting in Charleston, S.C., sponsored by the Electric Power Research Institute's Community Environmental Center, St. Louis, Mo.

William McCarthy, history, gave a symposium "Manila e intercambios com Macau na Època dos Filipes (1580-1640): cooperacao e conflitos" at the Biblioteca Nacional, Lisbon, Portugal. He attended a conference "A expansao Portuguesa e as Culturas do Oceano Indico" sponsored by the Luso-American Foundation for Development in Lisbon.

Mike Mallin, CMSR, gave the invited presentation "The New Hanover County Tidal Creeks Project" at the American Public Works Association, Water Resources Division meeting at Research Triangle Park.

Paul Wilkes, English, was the grand rounds speaker to internal medicine residents, interns and staff at New Hanover Regional Medical Center. His topic was "Spirituality and the End of Life."

Amy Zeng, production and decision sciences, presented her paper "On the Use of Fill-Rate Criterion to Determine the Optimal Order-Point-Order-Quantity Inventory Control Policy: A Theoretical Perspective and a Case Study" at the 1997 Annual Meeting of Southeastern Chapter of the Institute for Operations Research and Management Sciences at Myrtle Beach. The paper was published in the conference proceedings and won the best paper for the Production and Operations Management track. She was recognized at the president's luncheon.

Robert Y. George, biological sciences, participated in the workshop "Impact of Global Warming on the Melting of the Antarctic Ice and Its Influence on Krill and Whales" at the University of California at Santa Barbara. Also, he presented a paper in the plenary session on "Origin and Evolution of Isopod Crustacea in the Deep Sea Environment" at the Eighth International Deep Sea Biology Symposium at the Monterey Bay Aquarium, Monterey, Calif. He was elected to chair a committee to organize the Symposium on the Concepts and Future of Deep Ocean Biology in Ireland, scheduled for July 2000.

Marlene M. Rosenkoetter, nursing and John M. Garris, business, presented a paper and gave a poster presentation on their research "Psychosocial Adjustment to Retirement" at a combined convention of the National Gerontological Nursing Association and the Case Management Society in Nashville, Tenn. Rosenkoetter and Garris were one of four sets of finalists for the Judith V. Braun Clinical Research Award in gerontology.

BOT Business Affair Committee Meeting

There will be a brief meeting of the UNCW Board of Trustees Business Affairs Committee at 8 a.m. Oct. 27 in Alderman Hall, Room 211.

1998 Orientation Dates

The following 1998 Orientation dates have been approved:

Jan. 5-6, transfers, freshmen and unclassified; May 19, transfers; June 7-8, 10-11, 14-15, 17-18, 22-23, freshmen and parents; June 24, transfers; Aug. 13, unclassified orientation; Aug. 14, transfers; Aug. 16-17, freshmen and parents. Thanks in advance for everybody's help with orientation. If anyone has questions, call ext. 3089.

Accounting Room Change

Accounts payable is now located in Alderman Hall, Room 207 and financial accounting is now located in Alderman Hall, Room 205.

Basketball Season Tickets

Faculty and staff can purchase home season basketball tickets for $65 each. Ticket purchases are payroll deductible. Seating is located in Trask Coliseum's east and west upper end zones. To order, call Mack Moore at ext. 3233 before Oct. 24.

Student Timesheet Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for Nov. 15 payment is 3 p.m. Oct. 31 in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to department representatives, not payroll. Students not listed on departmental recaps sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received prior to adding students to recap sheets.

Spring Event Calendar

Oct. 31 is the deadline to submit events for the 1998 spring calendar. If possible, include photographs and details about the events. The calendar will be ready for distribution by Jan. 5. All students, faculty and staff will receive a copy.

Send information by e-mail to Bennettm or to the Activities and Leadership Center office in the University Union, Room 214. If you have any questions, call ext. 3827.

Self-Defense Class

University police is offering a three-week self-defense class for women called Rape Aggression Defense (RAD). The class will be from 7 to 9:30 p.m Mondays and Wednesdays Nov. 3-19. To sign up, contact university police at ext. 3184.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 10 to 11 a.m. Oct. 24 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Seeking Host Families

The North Carolina Citizens for International Understanding is seeking New Hanover County families to host a group of Japanese government workers Feb. 20-22. An application, interview and orientation meeting must be completed to participate as a host. For more information, call Beverly Cree at 458-4136.

U.N. Association Luncheon

In celebration of United Nations Day, the Wilmington area chapter of the U.N. Association will have an international luncheon at noon Oct. 25 at the Commons Building of Plantation Village on Porters Neck Road. The event is open to the public. For more information about cost and reservations, call Virginia Sherman at 686-4676. The program will also feature two speakers, Donald Bergstrom and Charlie West.

Mediation Program

The UNCW Mediation Program, jointly sponsored by UNCW's Faculty Senate, Division for Academic Affairs, Dean of Students Office, Department of Human Resources and the Dispute Settlement Center of Cape Fear, is a free and confidential means to settle conflicts of all kinds. The mediation process involves a neutral mediator who works to resolve a dispute between two parties. Disputes between faculty, staff and students are suitable for mediation. In order for both parties to have a neutral environment, mediation will take place at the Dispute Settlement Center of Cape Fear, located at 4607 Franklin Ave., Suite 225. Mediation is a voluntary process that both disputants must agree to undertake. To schedule mediation, call the center at 350-2900.

Staff Training

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20.

Yoga, noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays through November 25.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

Shared Leave Requests

Shared leave donations are needed for Mary Corcoran, library, who is recuperating from surgery. Send your vacation leave donations to human resources to help Mary avoid leave without pay in November. For more information, call Dale at ext. 3161.

Staff Vacancy Announcement

Vacancy	Deadline
98-006 Police Office I	Oct. 31
98-046 Applications Programmer II	Nov. 3
98-052 General Utility Worker	Oct. 24
98-053 Server Manager	Oct. 31
98-054 Telephone Operator	Oct. 31
98-055 HVAC Technician	Oct. 31
98-056 Grounds Worker	Oct. 31
98-057 Environmental Specialist	Nov. 3
98-058 Housekeeper	Oct. 31
98-059 TV/Media Services Coordinator	Nov. 3

This is recyclable.

Campus Communique

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII No. 15 October 30, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW AWARDED $1/4 MILLION GRANT TO CONNECT COLLEGES

The University of North Carolina at Wilmington, on the behalf of the Southeastern North Carolina Challenge Consortium, was awarded more than a quarter of a million dollars Oct. 21 by the Rural Utilities Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the proposal "Global Access: A Vision for Connect."

The award of $261,295 will be utilized by Bladen Community College, Bladen County Schools, Brunswick Community College and James Sprunt Community College to connect the rural areas in which they are located to the North Carolina Information Highway, providing each with global access and interconnective video and data platforms.

The award was announced by Vice President Al Gore and Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman via live satellite transmission from Louisiana State University Medical School in New Orleans. Gathered at UNCW to hear the announcement were Chancellor James R. Leutze, Vice Chancellor for Public Service and Extended Education Michelle R. Howard-Vital, Bladen Community College President Darrell Page, Bladen County School Superintendent Byron Lawson, Brunswick Community College President W. Michael Reaves and James Sprunt Community College President Donald Reichard.

Delane Johnson, technical assistance specialist in the USDA Rural Development office in Raleigh, was in Wilmington to present a ceremonial check.

"UNCW, as part of its public service mission, is pleased that it can lend its support, expertise and long-term assistance to these three fine community colleges that are located in rural communities within the university's service region," said Chancellor Leutze. "In 1993, UNCW received a Rural Electrification Administration grant to connect six counties on the NCIH. This project was successfully completed, and long-term relationships have continued with the six rural institutions through the establishment of the Cape Fear Regional Partnership Network. Now we have an opportunity to expand our educational opportunities and connect three areas to the world. This global access will meet local needs for education, telemedicine and industrial training to be met into the next millennium."

Each of the community colleges has devised unique initiatives based on their indigenous resources and needs. The three community colleges are located in areas that qualify as extremely rural with low educational and economic levels.

Bladen Community College plans to become a telecommunications hub for local and wide-area network using the NCIH as the backbone. A wireless network will be constructed to provide connectivity to the three high schools, two community college satellite campuses, Bladen County Hospital and Bladen County Library. In addition, Internet access for all 14 public schools, as well as for medical and library facilities, will provide entry to distance learning programming for more than 130 interactive video classrooms via the NCIH, on-demand teleconferencing and telemedicine linkage to urgent care facilities. While the Bladen County schools were wired last year by UNCW and Bladen County volunteers on NetDay '96, money was not available to pursue connectivity.

Brunwsick Community College plans to build a strong agricultural extension program using linkages with UNCW and North Carolina State University. BCC also plans extensive education/industry partnerships to develop workforce training programs to meet industry needs in its Industrial Education Center in Leland. It is hoped by BCC officials that the addition of the distance learning classroom at this facility will help increase enrollment, enhance the number of courses the college will offer and contribute to the economic growth of the region.

James Sprunt Community College in Duplin County will play a unique role in training an international workforce for various pork manufacturers through its swine management program. In addition, it will use the connectivity to share course work with several other colleges including workforce development to train several thousand industrial employees.

UNCW will administer the funds and will work jointly with UNC Pembroke to evaluate the results.

"UNCW recognizes the importance of our rural partners in providing equal accessibility to our students and community," Vice Chancellor Howard-Vital said. "We look forward to working with our partners in future endeavors. The university will continue to demonstrate its commitment to improving the quality of life in the region and state through strong partnerships with educational, governmental, cultural, health and business communities."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Faculty/Staff Health Fair

The School of Nursing is hosting the second annual Faculty/Staff Health Fair from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 5 in the University Union. Activities include blood pressure screening, nutrition assessment and education, health teaching and stress management. Free tetanus shots will be available, and flu shots will be $10. A full panel cholesterol screening, or fasting exam, can be done for $20 in the University Union Living Room from 8:30 to 10 a.m. For more information, call 3802.

The Winds of Hurricane Fran Seminar

Sam Houston, a meteorologist with the Atlantic Oceanographic and Meteorological Laboratory, NOAA Hurricane Research Division, will present a seminar on surface wind fields in Hurricane Fran at noon Oct. 31 at the Center for Marine Science Research conference room.

Learning Center Needs Desk

The Learning Center is searching for a standard desk. If you have an unused desk, call Gail York-Scimeca at ext. 3978.

50th Fact

On October 31, 1967, the board approved the Collegiate Civitan Club's proposal to create a time capsule commemorating Wilmington College's first year as an accredited four-year institution and the retirement of two college icons — President William H. Randall and Math Department Chair Adrian D. Hurst. The capsule is a stainless steel canister four inches deep and three inches in diameter containing a microfilm of campus life and a history of the first 20 years of the college. In preparation for burial in front of Randall Library, the canister was sterilized, purged of bacteria and air, suspended in polyethylene pellets and encased in one half-ton of concrete.

Academic Advising Forum

The SGA and Student Academic Advising Program are co-sponsoring an Academic Advising Forum at 7 p.m. Nov. 6 in Cameron Hall, Room 105. Faculty who are attending include Yousry Sayed, director of the student academic advising programs; Denis Carter, associate provost for enrollment affairs; and Patricia Leonard, vice chancellor for student affairs.

For more information, contact Eric Griffin, SGA secretary of services; or Tom Hamilton, SGA secretary of general assembly at ext. 3553; or Yousry Sayed at ext. 3753.

Future of War Speech

James Blackwell, vice president of the Strategic Assessment Center in Washington, D.C., and warfare commentator for CNN during the Persian Gulf War, will give the talk "The Future of War" at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 11 in the new Science Building, Room 134. Blackwell, a strategic defense advisor to the U.S. military, is also a commentator on the History Channel. The speech is co-sponsored by the Departments of History and Sociology and Phi Kappa Phi honorary society.

Psychology Seminar

Stuart Zola, an internationally-known neuroscientist from the Department of Psychiatry, University of California at San Diego, will speak on "The Brain Bias of Conscious Memory in Humans and Non-Human Primates" at 5 p.m. Nov. 5 in the Randall Library Auditorium, upstairs.

Honors Defense

Krista Bowers Von Arx will present "Using Limited Concentration Data to Determine Rate Constants Using the Genetic Algorithm" at 11 a.m. Oct. 30 in the new Science Building, Room 132.

Israeli/Palestinian Conflict Forum

"Images and Realities: An Israeli Issue Forum" will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Nov. 12-13 in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. The Nov. 12 agenda includes a film presentation of Israeli and Palestinian documentaries. Katia Campbell, foreign languages and literatures, and Robert Toplin, history, will provide introductory comments. The next night features a panel discussion by Lisa Pollard, history, and Donald Habibi and Herbert Berg, philosophy and religion. Also on the panel will be photographers Ralph Burns and Susan Page from the N.C. to Israel Photographic Project. In conjunction with the forum, St. John's Museum of Art is featuring the exhibition "A Delicate Balance: Six Israeli Photographers."

Non-traditional Student Gathering

Non-traditional students are encouraged to attend the "Non-Traditional Student Get-Together" from noon to 1 p.m. Nov. 5 in the University Union, Room 207. This is an opportunity for non-traditional students to meet each other and share suggestions with the Office of the Dean of Students on how the university can best serve them. For more information, call Diane Edwards at ext. 3119.

CPA Review Course

A CPA review course for candidates preparing to take the May 1998, Uniform CPA Examination will be offered from 6 to 10 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays Jan. 13 to April 28 in Cameron Hall, Room 214. The "Conviser Duffy CPA Review" is offered through the Division for Public Service and Extended Education. A tuition discount is available to students who register before Nov. 15. There is no cost to register. Students can also wait to register until after they have attended the first two classes free of charge. For more information or to register, call 1-800-274-3926, or contact Richard A. Roscher at ext. 3507.

Farewell Reception

A farewell reception for Chuck Vickery, construction renovation technician, will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Nov. 6 in the Physical Plant Conference Room. Vickery is retiring after almost 12 years with the physical plant.

Documentary Airing In Wilkes' Class

The documentary A Life Apart: Hasidism in America, which is showing in a New York theatre prior to airing on PBS, will be shown on campus at 2 p.m. Nov. 4 in Morton Hall, Room 207 as part of Paul Wilkes' documentary film class. The New York Times review praised the film for its portrayal of the "deep mysticism, colorful, quaint features and surprisingly tender family scenes" of the lives of these orthodox Jews.

Biology Seminar

Gary Winston from North Carolina State University will present the seminar "Organic Xenobiotic-mediated Reactive Oxygen Species Generation and Oxidative Stress in Aquatic Systems" at 2 p.m. Oct. 31 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Charlotte Hornets Bus Trip

A bus trip to see the Charlotte Hornets take on the Indiana Pacers will leave at 3 p.m. Nov. 8. The trip, sponsored by campus recreation, includes transportation and ticket for $20. It is open to students, faculty and staff with a valid UNCW ID. Tickets may be purchased for spouse or dependents. For more information, call ext. 3261.

Halloween Treats at Post Office

Postal Services invites faculty and staff to stop by the post office window Oct. 31 for a Halloween treat. Be careful, you might get tricked as well.

At the Hawk's Nest

Faculty and staff dining room buffet menus:

Oct. 31: fresh fruit salad, chicken salad, tuna salad, tortellini salad with pesto, cucumber and Arizona salads, assorted breads, condiments, desserts and beverages.

Nov. 4 - bayou jambalaya, ham and broccoli au gratin, chef's potatoes, southern-style green beans, mixed vegetables, seahawk pasta salad, tossed salad with dressings, assorted desserts and beverages.

Check the daily menu at Wagoner Hall by calling the menu hotline at ext. 3708.

Earth Sciences Seminar

Richard Luettich from the Department of Marine Sciences at UNC Chapel Hill will give the lecture "Modeling Circulation in North Carolina Coastal Waters: Applications to Storm Surge, Sediment Transport and Larval Transport" at 1 p.m. Nov. 7 in DeLoach Hall, Room 114.

Winter Park Needs NetDay Help

Winter Park Elementary has asked for assistance with NetDay '97. For more information or to volunteer, contact Woody Sutton at ext. 7074 or e-mail SuttonC.

General Motors President Speaking at Cameron School of Business

G. Richard Wagoner, General Motors president of North American Operations, will lecture on current issues and challenges facing the U.S. auto industry at 10 a.m. Nov. 7 at Cameron Hall. This speech is the second in the 1997-98 Cameron School of Business Lecture Series.

Feminist Colloquium

The Feminist Colloquium will hold its next meeting at noon Oct. 31 in Bear Hall, Room 261. The readings "Encountering the Sacred" by Cynthia Eller and "The Witches Return" by Mary Daly are on reserve or call J. Ellerby at ext. 3764 for a copy or further information. All are welcome.

Mood Study Needs Test Subjects

Psychologists are studying different mood experiences and need participants. Earn $9 for undergoing the 45-minute test. Anyone can take part in this experiment who doesn't suffer from hemophilia or has a history of mood disorders. There are several experiments with some involving mild physical discomfort, such as light pressure applied to the wrist. A sign-up sheet for interested participants is posted next to the main bulletin board on the first floor of the Behavioral Science Building. New times are posted on Monday, and you can participant only once. For more information, contact Len Lecci at ext. 7262.

UNCW Cape Fear Alumni Golf Classic

The fifth annual UNCW Cape Fear Alumni Golf Classic will be at 8 a.m. Nov. 10 at the Cape Golf and Racquet Club. The tournament format is captain's choice. Individual entry fees are $50 per person for UNCW alumni, faculty, staff and students and $65 for Friends of UNCW. All participants receive unlimited range balls, cart/green fees, cookout following tournament and deluxe gift bag with a sleeve of Seahawk golf balls, a pair of golf footies, tee and divot set and snacks. Closest to the pin prizes include a golf getaways for two, gourmet food package and framed golf print. For more information, contact Mike Arnold at 251-2684.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Honors Program Exhibition

"Symbiosis: Word and Image" is an honors program exhibition by non-traditional student Betty Brown. The exhibition, which centers around Brown's study of the relationship between word and image, will be displayed from Nov. 3 - 25 in Kenan Hall's Claude Howell Gallery. Brown will also give a slide lecture at 3 p.m. Nov. 16 in Kenan Hall, Room 121.

Leuci Lecture

Bob Leuci, a former New York City undercover police officer, will speak on "Ethics, Morality and the Police" at 7 p.m. Nov. 4 in the University Center Ballroom. For more information call the Activities and Leadership Center at ext. 3827.

This event is sponsored by Association for Campus Entertainment (ACE) Lectures Committee.

Dialogues on Racism

The Upperman African-American Cultural Center invites everyone to three dialogues to understand racism discussions. "The Notion of Race: Its Origin, Its Validity, Its Use" by Dale McCall, sociology and anthropology, will be held at 3:30 p.m. Nov. 5. "How Has Racism Affected Communication Across and Within Racial Groups?" by Deborah Brunson, communication studies, and Robert Smith, specialty studies, will be held at 3 p.m. Nov. 13. "How Has Racism Shaped Our Social Organizations and Social Institutions?" by Robert Miller, sociology and anthropology, will be at 3 p.m. Nov. 19.

Nursing Information

The School of Nursing is hosting an informational meeting about the RN Access Program and the master's degree from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Nov. 11 at Cameron Auditorium. If interested in attending, call ext. 3200 or e-mail Nurmisc.

CTE Lunch Discussions

The Center for Teaching Excellence is hosting informal lunchtime discussions on "Interactive Teaching and Learning" in the CTE faculty work room, Friday Hall, Room 101. "Experiential Learning - Thinking Beyond Formal Labs" will be at noon Oct. 31; and "Designing and Using Class Discussions" will be at noon Nov. 12. Cold drinks, coffee and dessert will be provided. For more information, call ext. 3034 or e-mail CTE.

Afternoon Tea with Carolina Authors

The American Association of University Women is sponsoring an afternoon tea with four Carolina authors: Wendy Brenner, creative writing; G. D. Gearino; Susan Kelly and Suzanne Tate. Tickets are $10, and proceeds will help fund the AAUW Educational Foundation for graduate studies and grants for local undergraduate scholarships. For tickets, call Jean Mulford at 791-7736.

National Scholarships Available

The Honors Scholars Program has information on two national scholarships that may interest UNCW's best students. The Morris K. Udall Scholarship provides awards of up to $5,000 for juniors and seniors planning careers in environmental public policy. The Harry Truman Scholarship Foundation offers $30,000 for merit-based scholarships to students who wish to attend graduate school in preparation for careers in public service. The deadlines for these highly competitive scholarships are in early spring semester. For more information, contact Diane Levy at ext. 4181.

ELECTION DAY
NOV. 4

Issues on the ballot include city elections and bond issues for public schools and Cape Fear Community College.

Alumni Association Seeks Nominees

Each year the UNCW Alumni Association sponsors two awards to honor individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the university and the community. The awards are presented during Homecoming festivities. The Alumnus/a of the Year Award is open to all who attended and/or graduated from Wilmington College or UNCW. The Distinguished Citizen Award is open to anyone for notable service to the university and the community.

Speakers Bureau Update

Community response to the 50th anniversary Speakers Bureau has been great. More than 130 copies of the publication have been sent to area civic and business organizations. Faculty and staff members who missed the initial publication can be included in the revised edition. For more information or to request sign-up forms, contact Phillip Brown at ext. 7223 or e-mail BrownP. The deadline for inclusion in this edition is Oct. 31.

Wilmington in Black and White

"Wilmington in Black and White" is a series of Thursday evening conversations sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division for Public Service and Education. The conversations are from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Tonight's topic is "Religion and Racism: A Look at the Bible and the Qur'an" with Sam Murell and Herbert Berg. The Nov. 6 topic is "The Arts Community in Black and White" with Francine deCoursey and Rhonda Bellamy. Attendance is free. To preregister call ext. 3195.

UNCW Concert Choir

The UNCW Concert Choir will present Brahm's A German Requiem at 3 p.m. Nov. 2 in Kenan Auditorium. Admission is free.

This is recyclable.

UNCW

Graduate School Day 97

Wednesday, Nov. 5
1-4pm • University Center

- For All UNCW Students
- Tips on Preparing for Graduate or Professional School
- Contacts for Admissions & Testing
- Over 30 Graduate and Law Programs

American Univ
Appalachian State Univ
Campbell Univ (Law & Grad)
Duke Univ (Law, Nursing & Physician Assistant)
East Carolina Univ (Grad & Social Work)
Fayetteville State Univ
Kaplan Educ Ctr
NC State (Vet Medicine)
Ohio Northern Univ (Law)
Radford Univ
Regent Univ
Savannah College of Art & Design
UNC-Chapel Hill (Law, Nursing & Social Work)
UNC-Penbroke
UNC-Wilmington
Univ of Charleston
Univ of South Carolina (Grad & Nursing)
Virginia Commonwealth Univ
Wake Forest Univ (Grad & Law)
Webster Univ
Western Carolina Univ
Winthrop Univ

Career Services • Division of Student Affairs • 104 & 106 University Union • 910-962-3174
"Creating Experiences For Life"

Focus on Faculty and Staff

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to -three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Fred Bingham, physics, received $113,000 for "Water Mass Variations in the Western Equatorial Pacific."

James Merritt and Camilla Herlevich, CMSR, received $25,000 for "Cape Fear River Program."

Eric Bolen, biological sciences, received $800 for his project "Feeding Ecology of Pheasants in North Carolina."

Christine Hughes, psychology, received $57,968 for her project "Behavioral Tolerance and Cross-tolerance to Mu Opioids."

Mitch Conover, economics and finance, had the article "The Lead-Lag Relationship Between the Option and Stock Markets Prior to Substantial Earnings Surprises and the Effect of Securities Regulation" accepted by the Journal of Financial and Strategic Decisions.

Steven Miller, CMSR, received $269,085 for "Monitoring in the Florida Keys National Marine Sanctuary."

Richard Dixon, sociology and anthropology, presented the paper "The Internet-Based Alternative to Traditional Classes in Higher Education: Some Reflections Among Some Higher Educated Individuals" at the 16th annual conference of the Southern Association for Public Opinion Research held at the North Carolina University Club, NCSU.

Jim Smith, accounting and business law, had his paper "The Effect of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 on the Capital Structure of Foreign Subsidiaries" published in the fall issue of The Journal of the American Taxation Association.

Liz Hosier, management information support, presented the session "SCT's Housing Module Implementation" at the UNC CAUSE Conference '97 in Boone, N.C. This session consisted of a demonstration of the SCT's housing module as well as comments on the implementation and use of the system at UNCW. She also participated in a roundtable discussion "Y2K - Poor-man Style" with representatives from Western Carolina University and Fayetteville State University.

Eddy Cavenaugh, management information support, presented a session "Electronic Funds Transfer - Cash at the Speed of Light" in Asheville at the annual Carolinas Student Information System User's Conference. The session described how the university utilizes both the internet and value-added networks to transmit loans to students. He also chaired a web discussion group that focused on the secure delivery of student information over the internet.

Joseph Pawlik, biological sciences, had the paper "Fish Predation on Caribbean Reef Sponges: An Emerging Perspective of Chemical Defenses" published in the proceedings of the Eighth International Coral Reef Symposium. He also co-authored a paper with his former graduate student, Brian Chanas, in the same volume entitled "Variability in the Chemical Defense of the Caribbean Reef Sponge Xestospongia Muta."

Robert Buerger and Jeffrey Hill, HPER, received $7,000 for their project "Human Dimensions of Barrier Island Management on Masonboro Island and Rachel Carson National Estuarine Research Reserves."

John Taggert and Steve Ross, CMSR, received $49,500 for their project "FY97 Monitoring Program for the North Carolina National Estuarine Research Reserve."

Michael Durako, biological sciences/ CMSR, received $45,616 for the project "Florida Keys National Marine Sanctuary Seagrass Monitoring."

John Taggert and Susan Lovelace, CMSR, received $42,834 for their project "FY97 Education Program for the North Carolina National Estuarine Research Reserve."

Steve Ross, CMSR, received $30,000 for his project "FY98 Geographic Information System Assistant for the North Carolina National Estuarine Research Reserve."

Susan Lovelace, CMSR, received $30,000 for her project "FY98 Estuarine Educator for the North Carolina Coastal Reserve."

John Taggert, CMSR, received $30,000 for his project "FY98 State Operations Award for the North Carolina National Estuarine Research Reserve."

Peggy Shaffer, history, delivered the paper "'Negotiating National Identity' Western Tourism and 'See America First'" at the Western History Association annual meeting in St. Paul, Minn.

Khoon Koh, HPER, had his paper "A Superior Service Strategy for Small Tourism Enterprises" published in Quality Management in Tourism, edited by Peter Keller of the International Association of Experts in Tourism Studies.

Will Hon, biological sciences, gave a chalk talk at a regional Marine Education Conference in Savannah, Ga. His handout "Design in Marine Life" is available in the biology office in the new Science Building, Room 102.

P. J. Lapaire, foreign languages and literatures, presented the paper "Grandeurs et Faiblesse de Philippe Djian: Une Oeuvre en Creation" at the 47th Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference at East Carolina University.

David La Vere, history, chaired the session "Powwows, Mountain Spirits and Song: Understanding the Power of Dance on the Southern Plains" at the Western History Association conference held in St. Paul, Minn.

James Merritt and Michael Mallin received $20,000 for "An Environmental Analysis of Futch and Howe Creeks."

James J. Kiddle, chemistry, presented the poster "Action of Neuropeptide Y at Opiate Receptors" at the southeast regional American Chemical Society meeting in Roanoke, Va.

Noah W. Allen, III, Luong Vo and Ned H. Martin, chemistry, co-authored the paper "A Proton NMR Shielding Model for the Face of a Phenyl Ring" that Allen presented at the southeastern regional meeting of the American Chemical Society in Roanoke, Va.

Lee Schweninger, English, delivered a paper on "The Literature of Exploration and the Nez Perce Flight (A Crossing of Paths)," at the annual conference of the Western Literature Association in Albuquerque, N.M.

Dianne Matthews, program assistant and coordinator of testing, was certified as a chief examiner by the Professional Examination Service (PES) achieving a score of 49 out of 50 on the competency assurance examination.

Martin Kozloff, specialty studies, gave the presentation "Family Strengths and Needs" at the International Symposium on Autism held at McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill., and sponsored by the Illinois Center on Autism.

FEATURES

Montessori Students' Art Exhibition at UNCW

The exhibit "Follow the Child: Creative Work of Helen Alice Higgins Montessori Students" will be on display from Nov. 11 to Dec. 18 in the University Union. There will be a "meet the artists" reception from 5 to 6 p.m. Nov. 14 in the University Union Living Room.

Wilmington Resident's Artwork on Display

Clara Hodges, a long-time Wilmington resident, will exhibit "Angels, Saints and Pair O' Dice" from Nov. 10 to Dec. 23 in the University Center. Everyone is invited to a "meet the artist" reception from 6 to 8 p.m. Nov. 13.

As an artist, Hodges has illustrated a cookbook, compiled and illustrated a history book of Winter Park School and written and illustrated the book Creek Children. She has also painted numerous portraits.

Squonk Opera Performance at Kenan Nov. 14

Squonk Opera will perform at 8 p.m. Nov. 14 in Kenan Auditorium. Not really an opera, but a performance art-rock quintet which has mastered the absurd, this wacky and artistic Pittsburgh group combine music, performance, art and costumes. Their music ranges from classical piano and Celtic flutes to jazz/funk and folk harmonies. Ticket are $5 for faculty and staff and $3 for students. For more information, contact Debo Cox at ext. 4230.

Celebrate Wilmington! Events for November

Music Concert: Schubert Mass in G (All Saints Memorial Concert) 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1. St. James Church. Admission is free. For more information, call 763-1628.
Art: Highlights of the permanent collection, 2 p.m. Nov. 2 St. John's Lodge.
Tour: "A Delicate Balance: Israeli Photographers and N.C. to Israel Photo Project," a walk-through tour, noon Nov. 7 Hughes Gallery. Admission charged. For more information, 763-0281.
Concert: Season premiere concert of the Wilmington Symphony Orchestra featuring Richard Dowling, piano performing Gershwin's Concerto In F; Copland and Brahms, 8 p.m. Nov. 8 in Kenan Auditorium. For more information, call 791-9262. For ticket prices, call 962-3500.
Celebration: Native American PowWow, Nov. 12-16 Poplar Grove Plantation. For cost or more information, call 686-9518.
Concert: UNCW Jazz Ensemble Concert, 8 p.m. Nov. 13 Center Stage Cafe. For more information, call 962-3500.
Lecture: UNCW History Professor Larry Cable discusses the ways that war affects perceptions of reality, 11 a.m. Nov. 14 Cape Fear Museum. For more information, call 343-4350.
Conference: 13th Annual N.C. Writers' Network Fall Conference, Nov. 14-16 UNCW campus. Cost is $145 fee or partial fees vary. For more information, call 962-3329.
Craft Show: Classic Creations of N.C. Boutique: Handmade crafts representing 30 states, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mon.-Fri. and noon to 5 p.m. Sat. and Sun. Nov. 15 - 30 at the Latimer House. For cost or more information, call 762-0492.

Classical Guitarist James Day to Perform

Classical guitarist James Day will perform at 8 p.m. Nov. 10 in Kenan Auditorium. Day is artist teacher of guitar studies at the College of New Jersey in Trenton. Admission is free. The concert is sponsored by the Department of Music, the Golden Gallery, Allen and Lynn Masterson and the Arts Council of the Lower Cape Fear. For more information, contact the Music Department at ext. 3390.

Opera: San Francisco Western Opera Theater presents Carmen, 8 p.m. Nov. 15 Kenan Auditorium. For ticket information, call 962-3500.
Play: A Pocketful of Rhymes, 7 p.m. Nov. 21 and 3 p.m. Nov. 22 Kenan Auditorium. Free tickets available at participating Wilmington Merchants Associates displaying poster.
Concert: UNCW Jazz Ensemble Concert, 8 p.m. Nov. 24 Center Stage. For more information, call 962-3500.
Ballet: The Nutcracker, 7:30 p.m. Nov. 28 and 29 and 3 p.m. Nov. 30. Kenan Auditorium.

Ev-Henwood Open House

The Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve will hold an open house for the public from 2 to 4 p.m. Nov. 9.

The 110-acre preserve, which is open to the public daily from dawn to dusk, features a historic tar kiln and numerous nature trails. Several of the nature trails are learning trails with labeled trees and displays that explain some of the preserve's natural features. During the last year, the preserve has seen road and trail improvements and the addition of a new bridge on one trail. Also, there are more picnic tables.

The preserve was donated to UNCW in 1991 by Troy Henry. The Henry family had owned the land since the 1790's.

Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve is at 6150 Rock Creek Road, which is near Town Creek in Brunswick County. To reach Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve, follow the signs from the intersection of U.S. Highway 17 and Old Town Creek Road about 10 miles south of Wilmington.

Tours and refreshments will be available during the open house. For more information, call Dave Sieren at ext. 3197.

Campus Communique Inserts

Inserts for the Communique must be approved before being included in an edition. Deliver the original insert accompanied by a printing service request form to 108 Alderman Hall by 5 p.m. Monday for inclusion in that week's issue.

Reception for N.C. Living Treasure Recipient

There will be a public reception for N.C. Living Treasure recipient Billie Ruth Sudduth from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 31 in the University Union Living Room. She will demonstrate her basket weaving at that time.

Administrative Procedures Update

The following revised policy for the Adminstrative Policies and Procedures Manual has been approved by senior management and may be viewed on the World Wide Web:

PSD 1.20 - Personal Protective Equipment

Revisions were made to this policy concerning safety shoes. Effective July 1, the state of North Carolina established a term contract for the purchase of safety shoes. Employees required to wear safety shoes will no longer purchase shoes and file for reimbursement. Departments will order shoes via a purchase requisition.

Also, refer to PSD 1.20 for information concerning other personal protective equipment.

This policy may be viewed in its entirety on the Web. The Adminstrative Policies and Procedures Manual is linked off the UNCW home page under administration and is also accessible via the business affairs home page.

Faculty Regalia

Faculty needing to rent regalia for December graduation should contact Jessiebeth at ext. 3054 by Nov. 17.

Student Timesheet Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for Nov. 15 payment is 3 p.m. Oct. 31 in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to department representatives, not payroll. Students not listed on departmental recaps sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received prior to adding students to recap sheets.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Dian Crum, Priscilla Glisson and Deborah Price, accounting; and Scott Ensign and Carl Johnsen, CMSR.

Spring Event Calendar

Oct. 31 is the deadline for submitting information for the 1998 spring calendar. Include photographs and details about the events. The calendar will be ready for distribution by Jan. 5. All students, faculty and staff will receive a copy.

Send information by e-mail to Bennettm or to the Activities and Leadership Center office in the University Union, Room 214. If you have any questions, call ext. 3827.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Nov. 6 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-006 Police Officer I	Oct. 31
98-046 Applications Programmer II	Nov. 3
98-053 Server Manager	Oct. 31
98-054 Telephone Operator (Temp.)	Oct. 31
98-055 HVAC Technician	Oct. 31
98-056 Grounds Worker	Oct. 31
98-057 Environmental Specialist	Nov. 3
98-058 Housekeeper	Oct. 31
98-059 TV/Media Services Coordinator	Nov. 3
98-060 Financial Aid Counselor	Nov. 7

For more information, call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website.

Casual Fridays

In 1995, the chancellor and senior officers adopted "casual Fridays" yearround, in addition to casual dress during summer hours. While casual Friday is enjoyable, it is important to maintain a reasonable appearance while at work to maintain community wide support for this "perk." Department heads and directors exercise discretion to establish casual dress standards within departments and to ensure that regular business dress is observed during the remainder of the week. Enjoy within reason.

Faculty/Staff Profile

Louis J. Lanunziata: Teaching for the Children

By Susan Carney, PR Intern

The recipient of the 1997 Distinguished Professorship Award along with the Board of Trustees' Teaching Excellence Award, Louis J. Lanunziata began his undergraduate studies at East Stroudsburg University in Pennsylvania. He considered political science, history and physical education as his areas of interest. He said he felt his career would emerge from one of these fields, until the formation of a new program attracted his attention. That program was special education.

Twenty-three years later, Lanunziata is a well-respected professor of curricular studies in the Donald R. Watson School of Education. His focus and commitment within special education is behavioral disorders; he has devoted himself to socially and emotionally disturbed children who he said are the most difficult to educate.

Lanunziata "jumped right into teaching" as he simultaneously worked to complete his master's degree at Bloomsburg State University. During that time he developed a model program class of behaviorally and emotionally handicapped (BEH) children who came from four or five counties in Pennsylvania. In the mid -70s such children were still being neglected, pushed to the side or even more likely placed in special institutions.

"Life in the classroom with these kids is very interesting, unpredictable and exciting; anything can happen and usually does," said Lanunziata, adding the key to successfully educating and giving them the best chance to survive in the world "is learning to control your own responses." They recognize controlled, caring responses as very different from what they usually receive, he said. It eventually earns you their respect and cooperation, and then the task becomes how to get them to respond and work for others.

"I was helping 10 to 12 children a year," said Lanunziata. But for a man who describes himself as having a soft spot for kids, he said he knew there was a better way he could help. Instead of going into administration, he decided to earn a doctoral degree, which would allow him to train students to teach BEH children. In this way he would ultimately help more kids than he ever could one-on-one. Immediately after earning his doctorate at Ohio State in 1982, he joined the UNCW faculty.

"The number of students who are in my program that actually end up going into the field is small because most are scared when they hear 'emotionally handicapped.'" He said making a concerted effort to identify the ones having potential for this work is important. "We have many interviews over the two years they are in the program, but initially I drill them as to why they want to teach this difficult population of children so I am assured the commitment is there, along with clear understanding of what they are getting into."

For Lanunziata, the emotional, psychological and mental attitudes of his students are as important to their eventual success as are the skills and strategies he will teach them.

"I am still so involved in my profession because I promised myself in the beginning of my career to only permit students that I was sure in my heart have the 'effective' skills and 'affective' ability to teach such children."

Only then does he feel comfortable that he has done all that is possible.

"The intangibles that are so difficult to measure are what I try to put into my students so that when they are actually out there they will try and keep trying until something succeeds," he said. To his credit, in the last five years, four of his former UNCW students have become "Teachers of the Year" either for their program, school or district.

His students are quick to express their appreciation for 'Dr. Lou' as they all call him. Laura Greeson, senior special education major with emphasis in BEH, says, "I chose to enter this field because of his example and dedication, I can only hope one day to be as influential as he is."

"If people described me as an excellent teacher and an even better father, that would mean the most to me," Lanunziata said. Becoming a father has given him an entirely different perspective. "My major area of interest now is better training of educators who are responsible for early childhood development."

In particular Lanunziata questions the quality of training preschool and day-care providers receive. "It is a critical age for children with special needs," he said. "This is when children should be identified, or their progress is retarded from the beginning. Sadly in our technologically great nation, it happens much later." This has become a burning issue for Lanunziata. "As one person, I can only do so much."

UNCW recognizes this importance also and now offers a four-year teacher certification program designed for instructors teaching children from birth to kindergarten age. "I continue to talk to groups and promote this accreditation, but the process of changing people's minds is a slow one," he says.

Twenty-three years ago Lanunziata's mentor at East Stroudsburg University who was a professor of special education advised him, "Get your first job focusing on the learning disabled and mentally retarded, those BEH kids are more of a mental health concern." With that statement Lanunziata said his decision was made. " I felt then that the progress being made in genetics and medical testing would help decrease the numbers of mentally retarded and learning disabled students, but the numbers of BEH (students) would only increase, which without a doubt has happened."

"I am only surprised that there are not more disturbed kids" considering the increase in broken homes and how the legal system deals with custody issues, he said.

"Having Nicholas, my son, has really made me question who is teaching kids in general and the BEH specifically," Lanunziata said. So he will continue to be very involved in teaching, advising student groups, researching and working with people in the community schools who request his help.

Congratulations Dr. Lanunziata on the Distinguished Professorship and Teaching Excellence awards.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No.16 November 6, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

School of Nursing Cosponsors Conference: Nursing from Theory to Outcome

Improving nursing care in the managed care environment is the theme of the conference "Nursing from Theory to Outcome - A Celebration: 50 Years of UNCW, 30 Years of Nursing Graduates" being held from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Nov. 7 in the University Union, Room 100.

King

The conference's featured speaker is Imogene King, professor of nursing at the University of South Florida. King, who has almost 50 years of experience as a nurse, administrator and educator, will discuss different ways to improve patient care by examining communication between patient and nurse. King is the author of three books and more than 40 journal articles and textbook chapters. Her work is featured in virtually every major text on nursing theory.

Also speaking at the conference is Jeanne Kemppainen and Charles Smith. Kemppainen, former secretary of the UNCW Faculty Senate, is adjunct professor of nursing at the University of California at San Francisco and clinical nurse specialist at the Veteran Affairs Medical Center's Academic Research Unit in Palo Alto, Calif. Her research on the nursing care of AIDS patients won the 1997 Dissertation of the Year award from UCSF.

Smith, assistant professor of nursing at the University of Virginia, graduated from UNCW in 1974 with an associate degree from the nursing program and is a former New Hanover Regional Medical Center nurse. He will lecture on being a registered nurse and the stress involved in the profession.

The conference will also feature presentations from UNCW nursing honors graduates, Celia Harbison, RN, and Marsha Schroeder, RN; and New Hanover County Regional Medical Center nurses Katherine Helack, RN, MSN, and Debra O'Neil, RN, MSN. O'Neil, a 1992 UNCW graduate, received her master's degree from East Carolina University. Helack received her master's degree from UNC Chapel Hill.

The conference is cosponsored by UNCW's School of Nursing and Nu Omega Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau International Honorary Society in Nursing. Registration is free, but there is a charge for lunch.

UNCW Work-study Funding Supporting Community Service Projects

UNCW students earning money through the Federal Work-Study Program are doing so by serving the community.

According to Mark Williams, director of financial aid, 30 percent of federal funds allocated to the university are being used to employ students in community service projects. Half of these funds will pay UNCW students to work as reading tutors through the America Reads Tutoring Initiative. Williams said universities must use 5 percent of federal work-study funds to support community service.

The America Reads program focuses on tutoring elementary school students to read as part of President Bill Clinton's America Reads Challenge. Twenty UNCW students are working in Dorothy B. Johnson, Winter Park and College Park elementary schools as reading tutors.

Before becoming tutors, UNCW students complete a mandatory training session, said Brad Walker, director of student services at UNCW's Watson School of Education and faculty coordinator for the America Reads tutoring program.

Walker added the university is exploring the possibility of using retired teachers as volunteers to provide the UNCW tutors with on-site coaching and monitoring, helping them refine their techniques.

"There is a great need in the schools for a one-on-one program. The teachers are happy. Our goal is to increase the number of participating tutors," said Walker. The program could only afford to pay 30 tutors this year. If it could afford to pay 100 students, it would make a significant impact on improving children's reading ability, he said.

The America Reads Challenge, introduced by President Clinton this year, is being considered by Congress as the "America Reads Challenge Act of 1997." Submitted by the U.S. Department of Education, it would provide $1.725 billion in mandatory funding to promote literacy among elementary school children from 1998 to 2002.

Tutoring is just one area work-study students are earning money by serving to the community. Williams points out that UNCW students are also helping the Brigade Boys and Girls Club, Big Buddy Program, UNCW Volunteers, Community Boys and Girls Club, the North Fourth Street Partnership and Families Services Afterschool Enrichment Program.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Apple Computer Update

Representatives from Apple Computers' Educational Sales Division will demonstrate the newest Apple products from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Nov. 11 via a video conference in Westside Hall, Room 160. Faculty, staff and students are welcome to attend this free event. Space is limited. For more information, call Woody Sutton at ext. 7074 or e-mail SuttonC.

TV on UNCW-TV

UNCW-TV is broadcasting the Museum of Television and Radio's satellite seminar series, "Television: The Creative Process," 8 a.m. and 10 p.m Tuesdays on Time Warner Cable Channel 11. The seminars in this series include: "Creating Prime-Time Drama: Law and Order," "Creating Prime-Time Situation Comedy," "CBS Evening News with Dan Rather," "Creating Science Fiction: Deep Space Nine," "The Making of an Agnes Nixon Soap Opera: All My Children" and "Making of a William J. Bell Soap Opera: The Young and the Restless."

The series explores how the "American experience" has been, and continues to be, captured by television. By examining the skills of experienced journalists or studying the art of creating a successful situation comedy or a compelling drama, the seminars offer a rare glimpse into the creative process involved in producing all types of distinctive television programming. For more information, contact Kate Walsh, at ext. 4082.

50th Fact

On Nov. 7, 1961, when the citizens of North Carolina approved a bond issue of $31,008,000 for capital improvements for the community colleges, Wilmington College received $1,415,000 for the construction of Hanover Hall. The building was constructed as a teaching facility; however, because the state would not provide funds for a gymnasium, its use became primarily for athletic practices and events.

Bowling League Update

The following are bowling highlights as of Oct. 23: the Killer Bees team of Gennie Beatty, Phillip Brown, Becky Chilcote, advancement; and Herb Beatty is still in first place. Two teams are tied for second: Three Strikes and a Spare, comprised of Terri Joynes, advancement; Charles Sanders, purchasing; Bill Joynes and Margaret Sanders; and Two for Two, whose members are Paula Greene, registrar's office; Tommy Guinn, physical plant; Helen Saulny, minority affairs; and Gregory Greene. High series were rolled by Liz Johnson, accounting, with a 505 scratch series, and Sam Chance, information technology, with a 553 scratch series.

Geography Competition

UNCW's geography team, the Maphawks, competed in the statewide Geography Bowl hosted by UNC Chapel Hill Oct. 24. The Maphawks defeated the Chapel Hill squad in a sudden death play-off, but Appalachian State won the meet.

Also competing were teams from UNC Charlotte, UNC Greensboro, UNC Pembroke, East Carolina University and Duke University. Two Maphawks, Charles Broadfoot and James Pleasants, qualified to take part in the next round of competitions at the meeting of the southeastern division of the Association of American Geographers in Birmingham Nov. 24. The Maphawks "coach" is Elizabeth Hines, earth sciences. Other squad members are Eric Danielsen, Bevin Harris, Todd Richardson and Heather Woodcock.

Religion in Russia

Alexei Krindatch, a research fellow with the Center of Geopolitical Studies of the Institute of Geography, Russian Academy of Sciences, will speak about the revival of religion in Russia at 2 p.m. Nov. 18 in DeLoach Hall, Room 117. The talk is sponsored by the Earth Sciences Department and the Office of International Programs.

Costa Rica Slide Presentation

John Williams, psychology, will give a slide presentation about Costa Rica to the Cape Fear Sierra Club at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 10 in Bear Hall, Room 105. Williams, who taught an animal behavior course in Costa Rica last summer as part of UNCW's International Program, plans to return in June 1998 to teach a UNCW course on rain forest animals of Costa Rica. Sierra Club meetings are open to the public.

Biology Seminar

Ross Ellington from Florida State University will give the lecture "Evolution of Cellular Energy Buffering and Transport Systems" at 2 p.m. Nov. 7 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

The Moon Hides Saturn

A rare astronomical event will occur the evening of Nov. 11. The nearly full moon, as it moves across the sky, will pass in front of the ringed-planet Saturn. Observers will see Saturn disappear on the dark, east side of the moon at 6:52 p.m. and then reappear on the bright, west side of the moon at 7:27 p.m. Brian Davis, physics, will have telescopes and binoculars set up near Randall Library starting at 6 p.m. to aid interested viewers.

Academic Advising Forum

The SGA and Student Academic Advising Program are co-sponsoring an Academic Advising Forum at 7 p.m. tonight in Cameron Hall, Room 105. Faculty who are attending include Yousry Sayed, director of the student academic advising programs, Denis Carter, associate provost for enrollment affairs, and Patricia Leonard, vice chancellor for student affairs.

For more information, contact Eric Griffin, SGA secretary of services, Tom Hamilton, SGA secretary of general assembly, at ext. 3553, or Yousry Sayed at ext. 3753.

UNCW PURCHASING TRAVEL SEMINAR

WHEN: Tuesday, November 11, 1997

WHERE: University Union Room 100

TIME: 10:00 am - 12:00 noon

FOR: Travelers and Travel Arrangers

YES ✈ US Airways is raffling 2 Airline Tickets!

Come and meet Travel Agents on contract!

Allen Travel	395-6500
IN Travel	799-8825
Carlson Wagonlit (formerly Travel Agents Int'l)	256-6292
Twin Travel	799-5225
Uniglobe	392-1930

Wilmington in Black and White

"Wilmington in Black and White" is a series of Thursday evening conversations sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division for Public Service and Education. The conversations are from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., Thursdays, through Nov. 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Tonight's topic is "The Arts Community in Black and White" with Francine deCoursey and Rhonda Bellamy. The Nov. 13 topic is "Growing Up Black and White in Wilmington" with Earl Sheridan and Harry Warren. Attendance is free. To pre-register call ext. 3195.

Afternoon Tea with Carolina Authors

The American Association of University Women is sponsoring an afternoon tea with four Carolina authors: Wendy Brenner, creative writing, G. D. Gearino, Susan Kelly and Suzanne Tate at 2 p.m. Nov. 22 in the University Ballroom. Tickets are $10 and proceeds will help fund the AAUW Educational Foundation for graduate studies and grants for local undergraduate scholarships. For tickets, contact Jean Mulford at 791-7736.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. today in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Mood Study Needs Test Subjects

Psychologists are studying different mood experiences and need participants. Earn $9 for undergoing the 45-minute test. Anyone who doesn't suffer from hemophilia or has a history of mood disorders can take part in this experiment. There are several experiments with some involving mild physical discomfort, such as light pressure applied to the wrist. A sign-up sheet for interested participants is posted next to the main bulletin board on the first floor of the Behavioral Science Building. New times are posted on Monday, and you can participate only once. For more information, contact Len Lecci at ext. 7262.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Lynn Leonard and Richard Laws, CMSR and earth sciences, and students Elizabeth Moundalexis and Jacquie Hilterman attended the 1997 Estuarine Research Federation Conference in Providence, R.I. Leonard chaired the session "Impacts of Coastal Disturbances" where Moundalexis presented "The Effects of Hurricanes Bertha and Fran on the Back Barrier Environments of Masonboro Island, N.C.," coauthored by Leonard and William Cleary. Hilterman presented "Effects of Hurricane Fran on Diatom Assemblages from a Back Barrier Marsh in Southeastern North Carolina," coauthored by Leonard and Laws. Leonard, Moundalexis and Karen Metz also presented "Controls of Sediment Deposition in Back Barrier Marshes of Southeastern North Carolina."

Robert Y. George, CMSR and biological sciences, co-chaired the national conference "Global Warming: Pros and Cons" with Jeremy Cripps of Heidelberg College, Ohio. The Washington, D.C., conference was sponsored by the Fulbright Task Force on Science and Environment.

Wade O. Watanabe, CMSR, gave the invited presentation "Hatchery Issues for Aquaculture of Flounder" at the Flounder Aquaculture Meeting held at the North Carolina Biotechnology Center in Raleigh which was sponsored by the North Carolina Board of Science and Technology, the North Carolina Sea Grant Program and the NOAA Coastal Services Center. Also, he was appointed as an associate editor of the Journal of the World Aquaculture Society.

Martin Posey, biological sciences, Troy Alphin, CMSR, John Rhoads and Lindsay Hancock, from the Benthic Ecology Lab, presented at the biennial meetings of the Estuarine Research Federation in Providence, R.I. Posey and Alphin gave two oral presentations "Interactive Effects of Nutrient Inputs and Predation on Estuarine Bottom Communities" and "Effects of Hemichordate Bioturbation on Soft Substrate Communities." Rhoads gave the poster presentation "Landscape Approach to Epibenthic Use of Oyster and Marsh Habitats." Hancock gave the poster presentation "Patch Size and Edge Effects on Nekton Use of Marsh Islands."

Lavonne J. Adams, English, had her short story Dance published in Poet's Edge Magazine.

Jonathan Geller, biological sciences, received $25,483 for his project "Microbial Associations with Plankton in Ballast Water."

Robert Nathanson and Frank Bongiorno, music, are featured on the CD Winter Branches by composer David Kechley. Bongiorno is the saxophone soloist on Music for Saxophones, and Robert Nathanson is performing with the North Carolina Guitar Quartet on Voices from the Garden.

Donna Lee King, sociology, had her review of Les Margolin's Goodness Personified: The Emergence of Gifted Children published in Contemporary Sociology.

James A. Dockal, Jack Hall, W. Burleigh Harris, Patricia H. Kelley and Michael S. Smith, earth sciences, attended the 1997 international meeting of the Geological Society of America in Salt Lake City, Utah. Harris, a member of the North American Stratigraphic Commission, attended sessions dealing with the identification and review of inconsistencies, imperfections and/or errors, as well as revisions of the Biostratigraphy Section in the North American Stratigraphic Code. Hall, past president of the Southeastern Section of the Paleontological Society and member of the National Paleontological Council, conducted business and presented awards for paleontologic research recognized by the society. Smith co-chaired the Igneous Petrology Session. Dockal presented "Deposition of Mississippian Strata in the Uinta Mountains of Colorado, Utah and Wyoming and its Relationship to North American Paleogeography and Historical Geology." Kelley, Christopher D. Thomann, Thor A. Hansen, Richard B. Aronson and Daniel B. Blake presented "A World Apart but Not So Different: Predation by NaticidGastropods in Antarctica and the U.S. Gulf Coast during the Eocene." Geology graduate students Jennifer Celeste and Christine M. Tappen presented results of their research at this meeting. Celeste with Mary K. Harris and Paul A. Thayer reported on "Determining Permeability of Sandy Sediment Using Cone Penetrometer Technology (CPT) Data." Tappen with Michael S. Smith described her research on "Emerald and Tourmaline Mineralogy of the Crabtree Pegmatite, Spruce Pine District, North Carolina."

Time Change on Nov. 8 Seahawk Game

The Seahawk basketball game originally scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 8 has been rescheduled for 4 p.m. in Trask Coliseum. UNCW-TV will broadcast live coverage of the game on Time Warner cable channel 11. The game will be rebroadcast in its entirety at 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Nov. 10 on Time Warner cable channel 11.

N.C. FLEX Open Enrollment

For the third year N.C. FLEX is available statewide. Open enrollment is through Nov. 17. The program includes a pre-tax traditional dental plan, medical expense spending, dependent care spending, a vision care plan and a voluntary accidental death and dismemberment insurance plan, which is new this year. Take time to read the materials carefully. If you have questions, call ext. 3713 or ext. 3006.

Supplemental Health Plans

November is open enrollment period for supplemental health coverage (cancer, dread disease and intensive care). Detailed information was distributed to all employees, but for more information, contact Elizabeth at ext. 3713.

Shared Leave Requests

Shared leave donations are needed for Mary Corcoran, library who is recuperating from surgery. Send your vacation leave donations to human resources to help Mary avoid leave without pay during her recuperation from surgery. For more information, call Dale at ext. 3161.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Yvonne Brown, telecommunications, and Brian Medlin, registrar's office.

Glass Room Closed

The faculty/staff dining room will be closed through Nov. 28 due to construction of the new coffee bar for the Hawk's Nest dining room.

Ev-Henwood Open House

The Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve will hold an open house for the public from 2 to 4 p.m. Nov. 9.

Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve is at 6150 Rock Creek Road, which is near Town Creek in Brunswick County. To reach Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve, follow the signs from the intersection of U.S. Highway 17 and Old Town Creek Road about 10 miles south of Wilmington.

Tours and refreshments will be available during the open house. For more information, call Dave Sieren at ext. 3197.

Campus Communique Inserts

Inserts for the Communique must be approved before being included in an edition. Deliver original insert accompanied by a printing service request form to 108 Alderman Hall by 5 p.m. Monday for inclusion in that week's issue.

Faculty Regalia

Faculty needing to rent regalia for December graduation should contact Jessiebeth at ext. 3054 by Nov. 17.

Staff Training

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20.

Yoga, noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays through November 25.

Prepare for Tomorrow, 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 19-21.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

Future of War Speech

James Blackwell, vice president of the Strategic Assessment Center in Washington, D.C. and warfare commentator for the CNN during the Persian Gulf War, will give the talk "The Future of War" at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 11 in the new Science Building, Room 134. Blackwell, a strategic defense advisor to the U.S. military, is also a commentator on the History Channel.

Alumni Association Seeks Nominees

Each year the UNCW Alumni Association sponsors two awards to honor individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the university and the community. The awards are presented during Homecoming festivities. The Alumnus/a of the Year Award is open to all who attended and/or graduated from Wilmington College or UNCW. The Distinguished Citizen Award is open to anyone for notable service to the university and the community.

Nominations for both the alumni association's 1998 Golden Alumni Awards can be made by writing a letter of recommendation to the UNCW Alumni Association Board of Directors. Specify the award category and describe why you think the nominee merits the award. Include the nominee's name, address, daytime telephone number and work place.

Letters should be mailed to Patricia Corcoran, UNCW alumni relations director, Wise Alumni House, 1713 Market Street, Wilmington, N.C. 28403. Additional information can be obtained by calling the alumni office at 251-2682 or 1-800-596-2880.

Deadline for nominations is Nov. 24.

Inflammatory Bowel Disease Seminar

The seminar "Quality of Life Issues - Inflammatory Bowel Disease" will be held at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 13 in Bear Hall, Room 105. Guest speaker Wendy Biddle has conducted 13 years of research with gastrointestinal disorders particularly in the area of inflammatory bowel disease. The seminar is sponsored by the Crohn's and Colitis Foundation N.C. Chapter in Wilmington.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-060 Financial Aid Counselor	Nov. 7
98-061 Plumber II	Nov. 14
98-062 Office Assistant	Nov. 14
98-063 Help Desk Manager	Nov. 14

For more information, call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No.17 November 13, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

Defibrillator Donation Makes UNCW Leader in New Lifesaving Capability

The donation of a "semi-automatic defribrillator" announced Nov. 5 makes UNCW a leader in the state in initiating and implementing a new lifesaving capability.

Winneberger

Chancellor James R. Leutze received a donation of a ForeRunner automatic external defibrillator from Dr. Ted Winneberger of East Carolina Emergency Physicians in association with New Hanover Regional Medical Center and in support of New Hanover County Emergency Medical Services.

According to Bob Bailey, chief of the Office of Emergency Medical Services for the state of North Carolina, as far as he is aware, this will make UNCW the first civilian, non-medical responder in the state to incorporate the new automatic defibrillator technology into its emergency health care system.

The defibrillator, manufactured by Heartstream, is valued at $3,500. The unit will be placed in a UNCW university police vehicle for quick dispatch across the campus as needed. Ultimately, UNCW would like to have a defibrillator in each police vehicle, on each police bicycle and at major sites on campus where events draw large crowds, such as Trask Coliseum and Kenan Auditorium.

The gift came about as a result of work by Seahawk Club member Allen Daniels. His motivation was the official felled by a heart attack during the UNC Chapel Hill football game. The official lived due to quick emergency medical help. Daniels made it a personal crusade to obtain one of the recently deregulated defibrillator units to become part of UNCW's emergency medical equipment.

After conversations with Thomas Lemley, UNCW's director of sports medicine, team orthopedist Dr. Jim Hundley and Seahawk Club Executive Director Patton McDowell, Dr. Ted Winneberger gladly made the donation of the new equipment.

Dr. Winneberger pointed out that quick availability of this easy-to-use defibrillator can increase the save rate of individuals who suffer heart attacks by up to 30 percent. "In Seattle, out-of-hospital resuscitations save 30 percent of the people whose hearts stop," he said. "The primary thing that saves life is early defibrillation, and this device is so simple and safe, anyone can use it. These automatic defibrillators are the most important development for public health since advanced life support."

It is Dr. Winneberger's wish that ultimately, automatic defibrillators will be as common in homes and businesses as smoke detectors are today.

Seahawk Club member Allen Daniels, left, with Seahawk Club Executive Director Patton McDowell and the defibrillator.

UNCW Hosts Two-Day Baseball Hitting Camp Nov. 22-23

UNCW will offer a two-day baseball hitting camp Nov. 22-23 to help young athletes gain an edge in developing their hitting skills.

Conducted by the Seahawk coaching staff and former professional players, the camp will concentrate on mechanics and mental preparation with a focus on developing a fundamentally sound hitting approach. Lectures, demonstrations and basic hitting mechanics will be included in the camp. Sessions will be held at the Brooks Field Baseball Complex. Each participant will be provided with a personal hitting tape and a written evaluation. Campers must provide their own bat, shoes and glove. Batting gloves are optional, but recommended.

Cost is $80 per person if paid by Nov. 14. Afterward, the cost is $85. Registration deadline is Nov. 22. Instructors for the camp include Seahawk head coach Mark Scalf, assistant coach Todd Wilkinson and former professional players Battle Holley, Toronto Blue Jays; Trent Mongero, Atlanta Braves; and Bryan Britt, St. Louis Cardinals. The camp is open to young men ages 12 through high school seniors. For more information, call ext. 3793.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Non-traditional Student Get-together

The final non-traditional student get-together of the semester will be from noon to 1 p.m. Dec. 4 in the University Union, Room 207.

All non-traditional students are encouraged to use this informal opportunity to meet each other. Also, non-traditional students can share suggestions with the Office of the Dean of Students on how the university can best serve them. For more information, call Diane Edwards at ext. 3119.

Ambassadors Thank Coat Donors

The UNCW Ambassadors thank all those who contributed coats to WECT-TV's "Clothe the Needy" project last week. Approximately three dozen coats were collected.

Biology Seminar

Marc Frischer from the Skidaway Oceanographic Institute will present the seminar "From Microbes to Mussels: The Use of RNA Targeted Ribosomal Probes in Environmental Sciences" at 2 p.m. Nov. 14 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Everyone is invited.

50th Fact

At a Jan. 1961 board meeting, members discussed the suggestion of local banker Richard Rogers that a foundation for the college be established. Board member Frederick B. Graham took the lead in creating the foundation and made the first contribution to its coffers. This first gift of $1,000 was later supplemented by $10,000 to establish the Benjamin R. and Edith B. Graham Fund for the purpose of "encouraging deserving faculty members to improve and upgrade their faculty status."

Hunger and Homelessness Awareness Week

The Activities and Leadership Center is hosting "Hunger and Homelessness Awareness Week" Nov. 17-22. This week-long experience will involve students in a variety of cultural, educational and recreational activities addressing the needs of homeless Americans. Scheduled events include an educational panel on homelessness, a letter-writing campaign to Congress and an off-campus food and clothing drive. The week concludes with "Footsteps into Change," a multi-image sound and slide show documenting Patrick Giantonio's four-year walk across Africa raising money for hunger issues. For more information, contact Melissa Mozian or Drew Smith at ext. 3925.

Graduate Thesis Defense

Susan Wolfson will defend her thesis "An Analysis of Geographic and Ontogenetic Variation of the Amazonian Tree Frog, Hyla Geographic Spix" at 2 p.m. Nov. 13 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Everyone is invited.

Wellness Profile

More than 90 faculty and staff participated in the Personal Wellness Profile cosponsored by UNCW Wellness Services, Division of Student Affairs, and the WellPLUS Program offered through New Hanover Regional Medical Center. The program involved two clinical and physical screenings. Within the next few weeks, participants will be notified of the results. Based on the group report, specific opportunities will be offered on a regular basis for participants to improve their personal health habits during the next year.

UNCW Gospel Choir Performance

The UNCW Gospel Choir will hold its annual fall concert at 4 p.m. Nov. 16 in the University Center Ballroom. Guest choirs will also perform.

Ribbon for World AIDS Day

The campus community is invited to participate in the "making" of a red AIDS ribbon at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 1 in recognition of World AIDS Day. The event will take place on Alderman lawn with individuals dressed in commemorative T-shirts. Interested persons must register to participate. For more information, contact Deborah Haywood at ext. 4137. This event is sponsored by the HIV/AIDS education program of Wellness Services.

Shell Show

The N.C. Shell Club will hold its annual Shell Show Nov. 21-23 at the Cape Fear Museum. The show is open to the public and free with paid museum admission. Show times are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 21 and 22 and 2 to 5 p.m. Nov. 23. For more information, contact John Timmerman at 341-4350.

Religion in Russia

Alexei Krindatch, a research fellow with the Center of Geopolitical Studies of the Institute of Geography, Russian Academy of Sciences, will speak about the revival of religion in Russia at 2 p.m. Nov. 18 in DeLoach Hall, Room 117. The talk is sponsored by the Earth Sciences Department and the Office of International Programs.

Wilmington in Black and White

"Wilmington in Black and White" is a series of Thursday evening conversations sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division for Public Service and Education. The conversations are from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Tonight's topic is "Growing Up Black and White in Wilmington" with Earl Sheridan and Harry Warren. The Nov. 20 topic is "Blacks, Whites and the English Language" with Maurice Martinez and Dan Noland. Attendance is free. To pre-register call ext. 3195.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Randa Nassar, systems and procedures, and Karen Tobiassen, physical plant. Also, welcome the following new employees to the Division for Public Service and Extended Education: Tammy Rogers, program assistant, and Cathi Phillips, publication specialist.

Honors Program Exhibition

"Symbiosis: Word and Image" is an honors program exhibition by non-traditional student Betty Brown. The exhibition, which centers around Brown's study of the relationship between word and image, will be on display through Nov. 25 in Kenan Hall's Claude Howell Gallery. Brown will also give a slide lecture at 3 p.m. Nov. 16 in Kenan Hall, Room 121.

Squonk Opera Performance

Squonk Opera will perform at 8 p.m. Nov. 14 in Kenan Auditorium. Not really an opera, but a performance art-rock quintet which has mastered the absurd, this wacky and artistic Pittsburgh group combines music, performance, art and costumes. Their music ranges from classical piano and Celtic flutes to jazz/funk and folk harmonies. Tickets are $5 for faculty and staff and $3 for students. For more information, contact Debo Cox at ext. 4230.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Terresita J. Parra, foreign languages and literatures, presented the paper "Rosario Ferre: Mujeo of escritora sebelde" at the Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference at ECU.

Chester Loeffler-Bell, art and theatre, designed the lighting for the Milwaukee Chamber Theatre production of the Pulitzer Prize-winning Angels in America, Part 2: Perestroika by Tony Kushner.

Ron Whittaker, registrar, was named to a UNC General Administration committee to establish electronic data interchange options for student information systems. This group will develop a plan for the 16 UNC system campuses to allow data exchange between universities, community colleges and public schools. Transcripts and applications for admission will be the focal points of this committee.

Janet Ellerby, English, had her paper "Julia Kristeva and the Psychological Dynamics of Writing" published in the Journal of the Assembly for Expanded Perspectives on Learning.

Peggy Turner, coordinator of disability services, and Ginny Lundeen, disability services, presented "Advising the Learning Disabled College Student" at the North Carolina Association on Higher Education and Disability conference held in Rocky Mount, N.C.

Noah W. Allen, III, Luong Vo and Ned H. Martin, chemistry, had their electronic poster "An Ab Initio Proton NMR Shielding Model for the Face of a Phenyl Ring" selected as one of 100 research presentations for the Fourth Electronic Computational Chemistry conference. This worldwide interactive virtual conference, in which World Wide Web viewers may interact with the poster presenters by e-mail, is held in November.

Randall Hanson, accountancy and business law, presented the paper "Update on Franchisor Liability: Excessive Control Leads to Excessive Liability" at the southeastern regional meeting of the Academy of Legal Studies in Business in Orlando, Fla. The publication received the conference's "Best Paper Award."

Ann Conner, art and theatre, chaired the session entitled "Collaboration in the Future/The Future of Collaboration" at the Southeastern College Art Association conference in Richmond, Va.

Hildelisa Hernandez, physics, and Ted Cook, physics major, attended the southeastern section of the American Physical Society conference in Nashville, Tenn. Cook presented a paper on his research from the N.C. State Summer Research Program.

Bill J. Johnston, specialty studies, presented the paper "Critical Theory, Post-Critical Ethnography and Narrative Analysis" at the American Educational Studies Association meeting in San Antonio, Texas.

Mike Mallin, CMRS, gave the presentation "Recovery of Shellfishing Waters from Bacterial Contamination Following Creek Mouth Dredging" at the biannual meeting of the Estuarine Research Federation in Providence, R.I. Coauthors of the paper were Larry Cahoon, James Merritt, Ron Sizemore and Kathleen Williams, CMRS and biological sciences. Also at this meeting, Chris Shank, CMSR, presented "The Effects of Hurricane Fran on Water Quality and Benthos in the Cape Fear River, N.C." with coauthors Mike Mallin, Martin Posey, Matt McIver, Scott Ensign and Troy Alphin, CMSR and biological sciences.

Paul Wilkes, English, is the author of The Good Enough Catholic: A Guide for the Perplexed, which was published in paperback by Ballantine.

Lynne Snowden, criminal justice, was elected vice president of the N.C. Criminal Justice Association at their Charlotte meeting. The NCCJA is a dynamic organization of criminal justice educators, practitioners and students dedicated to the advancement of criminal justice education and practice. Snowden will assume the responsibilities of president-elect and president over the next three years.

Lavonne J. Adams, English, wrote the short story Rendition of Things Held Dear in the current issue of the Princeton Arts Review. Also, Adams' essay "The Holly Pageant" was reprinted in Voices from Home: The North Carolina Prose Anthology.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 10 to 11 a.m. in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Administrative Procedures Update

The following revised policy for the Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual has been approved by senior management and may be viewed on the World Wide Web:

HR 1.60 - Employment of Undergraduate Students

This procedure has been significantly revised. Departments should begin using the revised HR 1.60 form, which is available in the printing services forms catalog. Special attention should be given to:

- establishment of student pay rates using Appendix A
- recap sheets responsibility
- termination of undergraduate student employment.

Additionally, departments are reminded that all undergraduate federal work-study vacancies and all work-assistance vacancies must be listed with career services.

This policy may be viewed in its entirety on the WWW. The Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual is linked off the UNCW home page under administration and is also accessible via the business affairs home page.

N.C. FLEX Open Enrollment

For the third year N.C. FLEX is available statewide. Open enrollment is through Nov. 17. The program includes a pre-tax traditional dental plan, medical expense spending, dependent care spending, a vision care plan and a voluntary accidental death and dismemberment insurance plan, which is new this year. Take time to read the materials carefully. If you have questions, call ext. 3713 or ext. 3006.

Supplemental Health Plans

November is open enrollment period for supplemental health coverage (cancer, dread disease and intensive care).

Detailed information was distributed to all employees, but for more information, contact Elizabeth at ext. 3713.

Staff Training

Come Sign with Us - Part III, 2 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays through November 20.

Yoga, noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays through November 25.

Prepare for Tomorrow, 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 19-21.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

Shared Leave Requests

Shared leave donations are needed for Mary Corcoran, library, who is recuperating from surgery. Send your vacation leave donations to human resources to help Mary avoid leave without pay. For more information, call Dale at ext. 3161.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-058 Housekeeper	Nov. 21
98-060 Financial Aid Counselor	Nov. 7
98-061 Plumber II	Nov. 14
98-062 Office Assistant III	Nov. 14
98-063 Help Desk Manager	Nov. 14
98-064 Office Assistant III	Nov. 21

For more information, call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website, where the state application can be downloaded.

Duplin County and Watson School of Education Awarded $75,000 School Improvement Grant

Improving teacher expertise is the focus of a $75,000 grant awarded by the N.C. Department of Public Instruction to Duplin County in partnership with the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

Duplin County teachers seeking National Board Certification will work together with UNCW faculty from the Professional Development System (PDS) at the Watson School of Education to help advance the year-long certification process.

According to Duplin County Schools Superintendent L.S. Guy, Jr., Duplin County schools believe that teachers interested in their own professional development will be the catalyst to bring about schoolwide and systemwide reform. "The teacher must now become the highly qualified professional we have long envisioned - knowledgeable, capable, informed and caring," said Guy. "He or she must know what needs to be done to impact student learning and how to do it."

Guy added that Duplin County understands their focus should be on teachers' professional development with the goal of increasing their level of expertise and that the growth would affect all professional personnel within the school. "We believe students will be the ultimate beneficiaries of this increased teacher ability. Student learning will be enhanced by the increased capacity of these teachers to assess student performance and to design differentiated instruction tailored to the individual student's needs."

Dean Robert E. Tyndall of the Watson School of Education applauded the efforts of Duplin County. "This is an exciting opportunity for our PDS partnership with Duplin County to advance national board certification and support teachers who aspire to the highest standards of their profession."

To qualify for national certification, a teacher must be able to document before a panel of experts that he or she is at the highest level of competency and demonstrate teaching excellence in his or her educational area, according to PDS coordinator Diane Calhoun. North Carolina teachers who achieve national board certification are paid a 12 percent bonus as a reward for completing the program. Currently, the state has 119 national board certified teachers. Nine of these teachers are from southeastern North Carolina with three of them being UNCW graduates.

The Professional Development System works to improve teacher training and provides a support system for all levels of growth in teacher development, said Calhoun. "Improved instruction improves learning in the schools." She added that UNCW is in partnership with 10 school systems in the region to help improve teaching methodology.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No.18 November 20, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW Awarded $150,000 Mariculture Research Grant

The U.S. Congress has named the University of North Carolina at Wilmington as the recipient of a $150,000 grant to initiate a major mariculture research program.

Sen. Lauch Faircloth, R-NC, who sits on the Appropriations Committee, added the funds to the Subcommittee on Agriculture, Rural Development and related agencies. Both houses of Congress passed the conference report on the agriculture bill including the $150,000 for UNCW this past month.

The research program will address the science and technology of raising marine species for commercial purposes and for enhancing wild stocks of fish depleted by overfishing and habitat destruction.

"Many of the world's commercial fisheries are in trouble," said Robert Wicklund, director of the NOAA/ National Undersea Research Program at UNCW and spokesperson for UNCW's mariculture program. "Several species are facing commercial extinction, and at the same time, demand for seafood is on the rise. Mariculture can help take the strain off our fisheries as well as replenish already depleted stocks," he said.

Senator Faircloth was instrumental in convincing Congress of the value of mariculture and that UNCW was capable of assuming the leadership of this effort. The project will help North Carolina and the nation increase fishery products, develop jobs for displaced fishermen and farmers and assure that commercialization of marine culture technology will be environmentally safe and based on sound scientific principles.

Sen. Faircloth praised the UNCW program and said, "It is no secret that some of our fisheries face real problems, and mariculture offers a way to relieve the pressure and help rebuild the stocks. UNCW is well positioned to make a great contribution."

Chancellor James R. Leutze and Provost Marvin Moss are strong supporters of UNCW's mariculture program. "We intend that UNCW will be a major mariculture center, leading the way in research technology development and training far into the next century. Mariculture both on land and in the open ocean has the potential to be a major industry in North Carolina and the rest of the coastal U.S.," said Chancellor Leutze.

Watanabe checks on the mutton snapper tank at the Wrightsville Beach mariculture complex.

Moss likened mariculture to agriculture in the U.S. 50 years ago. "UNCW has the opportunity to be the major player in mariculture development, and we expect to bring its technology into the 21st century very quickly. The university is grateful for the foresight of Senator Faircloth," said Provost Moss.

The university recently hired Wade Watanabe, one of the nation's leading aquaculture scientists, to head up the finfish research program. The $150,000 will be granted through the U. S. Department of Agriculture and will be used to set up initial research projects at its Wrightsville Beach aquaculture facility. Research will include reproduction, growth, nutrition and survival of flounder and snapper species.

UNCW Fall Commencement Speaker to Be Betty Ray McCain

North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources Secretary Betty Ray McCain will be the commencement speaker at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington December commencement. The graduation exercise is scheduled for 10 a.m., Saturday, Dec. 6, in Trask Coliseum.

The ceremony will feature 171 graduates who met degree requirements over the summer, 593 students anticipating graduation at the end of the fall semester 1997 and approximately 90 graduate students.

Secretary McCain, who was appointed to her position in 1993, has been active in her community and the state for many years. Currently, she is a member of the board of directors of the N.C. Public Telecommunications Agency, the N.C. Art Society and the N.C. Center for Public Television. Also, she is chair of the N.C. Heritage Tourism Advisory Committee. From 1976-79, McCain served as the first woman chair of the state Democratic Party and is a member of the N.C. Democratic Party Executive Committee.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Columbia University, McCain is married to Dr. John Louis McCain. She has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal by the UNC Chapel Hill Alumni Association and the Women in Government Award by the Jaycettes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Activism Lecture Series

The Honors Scholars Program is hosting its "Activism for the 21st Century" lecture series beginning with Chris Mele, SUNY-Buffalo, who will speak on community activism at 7 p.m. Nov. 20 in Morton Auditorium. His talk "Surfing the Net and Making Waves: The Implications of Cyberspace for Community Action" is free and open to the public. For more information, call ext. 4181.

Blood Drive

UNCW Volunteers are sponsoring a blood drive from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Nov. 24 in the parking lot in front of the University Center. To sign up for an appointment or for more information, call ext. 3925. Walk-ins are welcome.

Kwanzaa Marketplace

The Upperman African-American Cultural Center is sponsoring a Kwanzaa Marketplace from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 9 at the cultural center in the University Union, Rooms 208 and 210. Items for sale include books, tapes, clothing, art and a variety of African and African-American artifacts. For more information, call Helena J. Lee at ext. 7087.

50th Fact

In 1965, the James Walker Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees agreed to the transfer of the hospital's nursing associate degree program to Wilmington College. To facilitate this transfer, the hospital board contributed $10,000 to the college. Arrangements were subsequently made for students to train at New Hanover Memorial Hospital during the academic year and at Cherry Hospital during the summer session. The first class graduated in 1967. In July 1984, the School of Nursing's baccalaureate degree program was created.

Pre-Engineering Program Director Named

Ken Diehl has joined UNCW as the director of the new Pre-Engineering Program, also known as the "2+2 Program," which is administered jointly by UNCW and N.C. State University. The program will offer students the opportunity to complete two years of courses at UNCW and transfer to either NCSU, UNC Charlotte or NCA&T to complete a bachelor of science degree in engineering. Diehl's office is in DeLoach Hall, Room 211. For more information, call ext. 4079 or send email to diehlk@uncwil.edu.

Randall Library Thanksgiving Schedule

Randall Library will observe the following schedule Thanksgiving weekend:

7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., Nov. 25; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 26; closed, Nov. 27; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 28; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 29; and 1 p.m. to midnight, Nov. 30.

Futile Care Panel Discussion

A panel discussion on futile care, defined in The Healer's Power as an intervention that fails to promote any reasonable purpose of patient treatment, will be held at 7 p.m. tonight in Cameron Hall. Participants include Dee Leahman, Judy Rice, Linda Salzman, Mary Rudyk and Candace Gauthier, philosophy and religion. The discussion is sponsored by the Coastal Bioethics Network. For more information, call Michelle Harrington at 763-2475.

Holiday Stamps

Holiday stamps are now available at the post office. Suggested mailing dates for international locations and APO/FPO addresses for the upcoming holiday season are available at the window or call exts. 3734 or 3750. If any department has excess intercampus envelopes, please return them to the post office for redistribution.

UNCW Ambassadors Offer Domino's Two-for-One Card

UNCW Ambassadors are selling embossed cards which can be used 20 times through Dec. 1998 to buy one Domino's pizza and get one free. The price is just $10, and proceeds benefit Ambassadors' projects. Embossed with "UNCW Ambassadors," these cards will be accepted at Domino's nationwide and will make good holiday gifts for friends, family or yourself. Cardholders can order a small, medium or large pizza and get another of the same size for free. This offer is good only for pizzas picked up at the restaurant, not on orders placed for delivery.

To order your Domino's pizza card, mail or take $10 checks, made out to UNCW Ambassadors, to Alderman Hall, Room 108. Faculty and staff should indicate their campus address, and the card will be sent through campus mail; otherwise cards can be picked up in Alderman Hall. The deadline for ordering cards is Dec. 18. UNCW Ambassadors give campus tours, assist at special Kenan House and Wise Alumni House events and sponsor community service projects. For more information about this fund-raising project, call Becky Chilcote at ext. 3626, Gennie Beatty at ext. 3751 or Patsy Larrick at ext. 3169.

ACE Presents Footsteps into Change

The Association for Campus Entertainment will host Patrick Giantonio's "Footsteps into Change" at 8 p.m. Nov. 22 at the University Center Ballroom. The presentation is based on Giantonio's journey, by foot, across Africa. Held in conjunction with Hunger and Homelessness Awareness Week, the presentation features photos, sounds recorded in African villages and the rain forest of Zaire, interviews with elders and contemporary and traditional African music. Giantonio uses nine slide projectors, three screens and a soundtrack to document his four-year walk from east to west Africa.

Newsbreak

November 1997

THE DIVISION OF STUDENT AFFAIRS • "Creating Experiences for Life"

Office of the Dean of Students

Non-Traditional Students

The Office of the Dean of Students serves as a resource center for UNCW non-traditional students. "Non-traditional" students include any UNCW undergraduate who does not "fit" the description of "enrolling in college immediately following graduation from high school." We consider "non-traditional" any student who for any reason feels they are "non-traditional." Though we often use age to define "non-trad," there is no hard-and-fast rule that is used to make that determination.

Non-trads make up a sizeable portion of our student population. Currently, we estimate that around 25% of our entire undergraduate population is non-traditional. We understand that for many non-trads, college is just one of many priorities in their lives. For this reason, we at UNCW must be aware of how well our services and programs serve this large segment of our population. We also need to be well-informed about what we can do to provide the best learning environment for non-trads. This information must come from our non-trad students, so one of the roles of the Office of the Dean of Students is to develop and maintain open communication with this group.

Among the ways that we do this are: a semi-monthly newsletter published especially for non-trads – The Finish Line, publication of a non-trad resource guide brochure, a non-trad bulletin board located across from the University Union Information Center, "Welcome to UNCW" socials each semester, a newly formed advisory group and periodic informal get-togethers to meet other non-trads and share concerns. All non-trads are invited to take advantage of these services. Finally, our goal in the Office of Dean of Students is to better understand the service and program needs of non-trads and then to advocate on your behalf with other departments to assure that your issues are considered whenever service and programming decisions are made.

For more information, contact Diane Edwards at x3119 or EDWARDSD.

Commuter Student Services

If a student lives off campus, he/she is considered a commuter student. This means they either walk, drive, ride a bicycle, or take some other form of transportation to get back and forth to campus. Approximately 80% of the students at UNCW are commuter students. As a result, the Office of the Dean of Students has been designated as the resource center for commuter student services. The assistant dean of students, Leah Payne, has been appointed to act as the university's liaison for commuters.

Specifically, the Dean of Students office:

- provides advocacy for students experiencing housing or landlord difficulties.
- acts as a referral agent for university and community resources (ex: Student Development Center, the Learning Center, Mediation Services, the SGA sponsored student attorney).
- furnishes off-campus housing information such as the Wilmington Apartment Finder and a listing of individually owned rentals.
- advises the Off-Campus Student Council.
- coordinates the annual Off-Campus Housing Fair.

During the upcoming semester, additional outreach is being developed for students currently commuting and students planning to move off-campus next semester. These programs will include topics such as the legalities of renting, successful budgeting, and staying connected to UNCW. The newly created Off-Campus Student Council will be active in helping to facilitate these programs and bring forward additional commuter student needs.

The 1998 Off-Campus Housing Fair is scheduled for February 19, 1998 in the University Center. The fair will include representatives from apartment complexes, real estate agencies, local merchants, and university services offices. This program gives students an opportunity to explore various housing options and provides specific information about the cost of living off campus.

For more information, contact Leah Payne at x3119 or PAYNEL.

Greek Affairs hosts Summit

During the weekend of October 19-21, the UNCW fraternities and sororities hosted their first Greek Summit. Along with the theme for the weekend – Building a Greek System for 2000 – the purpose of the Summit was to establish a blueprint for the future of the Greek system at the university. Throughout the weekend, representatives from sixteen of the twenty-four chapters (ΑΔΠ, ΑΦ, ΑΞΔ, ΧΩ, ΧΦ, ΔΣΦ, ΔΖ, ΚΣ, ΔΧΑ, ΦΜ, ΠΚΦ, ΣΑΕ, ΣΝ, ΣΦΕ, ΣΣΣ, ΘΧ) discussed, debated, and reviewed several areas of focus for the Greeks. The weekend event brought together chapter members, advisors, national chapter delegates, and university administrators to discuss the issues of academics and scholarship, philanthropy and community service, housing, leadership and campus involvement, and chapter risk management. At the conclusion of the Summit, the representatives created minimum expectations, short term goals, and long term goals in each focus area for all chapters. For example, the long term goal for all chapters in the area of academics and scholarship is to have the all-Greek grade point average above the all-campus average. Also, the minimum expectations for chapters included increased participation in campus organizations and increased awareness and publicity of campus resrouces. After brunch on Sunday, Chancellor Leutze addressed the participants with his thoughts on the future of the UNCW Greek system. Overall, the weekend was a great success as the Greek system developed its plans for the future. The Greek Affairs office would like to thank all of the participants and, in particular, Chi Omega, Chi Phi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Mu, Sigma Sigma Sigma, and Theta Chi for sending delegates from their national offices to the Summit.

Newsbreak

November 1997

THE DIVISION OF STUDENT AFFAIRS • "Creating Experiences for Life"

Housing and Residence Life: National Student Exchange

It Could Change a Student's Life

The Office of Housing and Residence Life is seeking candidates for an exciting opportunity for student enrichment. The National Student Exchange (NSE) program provides a valuable, affordable opportunity for students to study in new settings within the United States. Students may attend one of 148 universities across the US, including Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands. Students pay the same tuition and fees that they pay at UNCW, making the exchange extremely cost-effective. The NSE program is further able to accommodate students' needs by providing the option to exchange for a single semester or full academic year.

While the NSE program is cost-effective, perhaps more importantly, it is an excellent opportunity to broaden a student's education. The universities involved in the NSE program are diverse, including a wide range of climates, settings, student body compositions and student body sizes. In addition to an exposure to a different location, a student's exposure to a different regional culture may help to replace racial, ethnic, and regional stereotypes with first-hand experience.

Your assistance in recruiting qualified students for the 1998-99 NSE program would be appreciated. A referral from a faculty member is often the extra push which helps give a student the confidence for such a challenge. To be eligible, students must maintain full-time status and a 2.5 GPA.

How do Students Get Involved?

Applying for the National Student Exchange begins by calling or stopping by the Office of Housing and Residence Life to pick up an application packet. The application deadline for the 1998-99 program is January 31, 1998 and NSE placements will be made in mid-March, 1998.

Contact the Office of Housing and Residence Life to arrange a brief classroom presentation or to obtain application packets at extension 3241, or email Jane Scott at: scottja (VAX).

Where are they?

UNCW currently has fourteen students involved in exchanges to other universities and will host 18 students from around the country during the 1997-98 year. The lives of individual students are enhanced and the UNCW community also benefits from the regional history and experience of the students hosted.

WHERE DID THEY GO?

California State University
Humboldt State University
Mesa State
Southern Oregon
University of Georgia
University of Hawaii
University of Montana
University of North Texas
University of Wyoming
Western State College of Colorado

WHERE DID THEY COME FROM?

Bowling Green State
California State University
Humboldt State University
Idaho State University
Moorhead State University
Suny College at Buffalo
Suny College at Plattsburgh
University of Delaware
University of Minnesota
University of Montana
University of Northern Iowa
University of Wisconsin
Utah State University
Virginia Tech

UNCW Concert Band to Perform Nov. 24

The UNCW Concert Band, under the direction of Harry McLamb, will perform its fall concert at 8 p.m. Nov. 24 in Kenan Auditorium. Among the selections being performed are John Cheetham's new march Ha'Penny, Vincent Persichetti's Chorale Prelude: So Pure the Star and Edvard Elgar's Ceremonial Precessional No. 4. On the lighter side, the band will also perform a collection of Gloria Estefan's greatest hits.

General admission is $4; admission for UNCW faculty, staff, senior citizens and children under 12 is $2; and UNCW students are free with valid ID.

Graduate Thesis Defense

David O'Brien will defend his thesis "Genetic Diversity Between Populations of Spartina Alterniflora Loisel Along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts of the U.S. as Detected by RAPD-PCR" at 2 p.m. Nov. 21 in the new Science Building, Room 103. Everyone is invited.

Benefit Bingo

A benefit bingo for Rachel Tew-Orr, the niece of Alice Maile, human resources, will be held at 7 p.m. Nov. 29 at St. Joseph's Church hall, 1303 U.S. Hwy 117 S., Burgaw. Ms. Tew-Orr has been diagnosed with leukemia and requires a bone marrow transplant.

Great American Smokeout

Join Crossroads Substance Abuse and Prevention Program for the Great American Smokeout today at Wagoner Hall, the Hawk's Nest and the courtyard near Cameron. There will be free Smoking Cessation Survival Kits. Also register to win other prizes. For more information, call ext. 4137.

Bookstore Announcement

The bookstore has a new assortment of 1998 planners and appointment books.
All academic calendars and planners are now reduced 15 percent.
Also, the bookstore will have December Sale Days this year from Dec. 1 to 19.
Dec. 1 - Sweatshirts, sweatpants (adult and children) 15 percent off
Dec. 2 - Pewter accessories 15 percent off
Dec. 3 - Christmas ornaments 20 percent off
Dec. 4 - T-shirts (adult and children) 15 percent off
Dec. 5 - Ties/golf shirts 15 percent off
Dec. 6 - Diploma frames 15 percent off
Dec. 8 - Mugs 15 percent off
Dec. 9 - Stuffed animals 15 percent off
Dec. 10 - Hats (adult and children) 15 percent off
Dec. 11 - Jackets (adult and children)15 percent off
Dec. 12 - Umbrellas 15 percent off
Dec. 13 - Backpacks and totes 10 percent off
Dec. 15 - Sweaters/throws 10 percent off
Dec. 16 - Stocking stuffers (novelties) 10 percent off
Dec. 17 - Business accessories 10 percent off
Dec. 18 - Glassware 15 percent off
Dec. 19 - Sweatshirts 15 percent off

Non-traditional Student Get-together

The final non-traditional student get-together of the semester will be from noon to 1 p.m. Dec. 4 in the University Union, Room 207.

All non-traditional students are encouraged to take advantage of this informal opportunity to meet each other and to share suggestions on how the university can best serve them with the Office of the Dean of Students. For more information, call Diane Edwards at ext. 3119.

Ribbon for World AIDS Day

The campus community is invited to participate in the "making" of a human red AIDS ribbon at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 1 for World AIDS Day. The free event will take place on Alderman lawn with individuals dressed in commemorative red T-shirts. Interested persons must register to participate. For more information, contact Deborah Haywood at ext. 4137.

Final Wilmington in Black and White Conversation

Tonight is the last in a series of Thursday evening conversations sponsored by the Philosophy and Religion Department and the Division for Public Service and Education. "Blacks, Whites and the English Language" with Maurice Martinez and Dan Noland will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the new Science Building, Room 103. Attendance is free. To pre-register call ext. 3195.

No Campus Communique Next Week

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, the Campus Communique will not publish next week. The Communique will return to its regular publication schedule Dec. 4 with a submission deadline of noon Dec. 2.

FEATURES

Healthy People Lecture Series Begins Dec. 3

David Hunnicutt, president of the Wellness Councils of America, will kick off the inaugural Healthy People Lecture Series at 7 p.m. Dec. 3 in the University Center Ballroom. Hunnicutt, who is well known for numerous national workplace wellness initiatives, will address current and future health trends. Business leader Warren Buffet and former Secretary for Health and Human Services Louis Sullivan are current members of his board of directors. This free lecture series is sponsored by the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and the New Hanover Regional Medical Center.

Cape Fear Museum Exhibit Features 50 Years of UNCW

Cape Fear Museum's Spotlight On exhibits features "Fifty Years of Higher Education: The University of North Carolina at Wilmington." The display, which continues through December 19, documents the evolution of UNCW over the past 50 years.

Future of War Speech Rescheduled for Dec. 2

James Blackwell's presentation on "The Future of War" has been rescheduled for 7:30 p.m. Dec. 2 in the new Science Building, Room 134.

Blackwell, a special commentator for CNN during the Persian Gulf War, could not make the previously scheduled engagement due to a special assignment with the U.S. Department of Defense.

In his talk, Blackwell will examine the way warfare has changed during the last three decades as the technology of the "information age" has played an increasingly important role in military strategy. The lecture is sponsored by the History Department and the Phi Kappa Phi honorary society.

Sigma Xi Fall Lecture

UNCW's Sigma Xi Chapter will host Andrew J. Read from Duke University, who will present the lecture "Twenty-five years of Protection - Conservation Status of Marine Mammals in the U.S." at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 3 in the new Science Building, Room 134. Everyone is invited to attend, and cookies and punch will be served following the talk.

Guitarist David Leisner to Perform

David Leisner, a top American classical guitarist, will perform at 8 p.m. Dec. 3 in Kenan Auditorium. The performance includes selections from Johann Sebastian Bach, Franz Schubert and Alberto Ginastera. A top prize winner in the 1975 Toronto and 1981 Geneva International guitar competitions, Leisner now performs regularly in solo and chamber music recitals on stage, radio and television both in the United States and abroad.

General admission is $5. The concert is sponsored by the Department of Music, the Golden Gallery, Allen and Lynn Masterson and the Arts Council of the Lower Cape Fear.

Montessori Students' Art Exhibition

The exhibit "Follow the Child: Creative Work of Helen Alice Higgins Montessori Students" will be on display through Dec. 18 in the University Union.

Wilmington Resident's Artwork on Display

Clara Hodges, a long-time Wilmington resident, will have her exhibit "Angels, Saints and Pair O' Dice" on display through Dec. 23 in the University Center.

As an artist, Hodges has illustrated a cookbook, compiled and illustrated a history book of Winter Park School and written and illustrated the book Creek Children. She has also painted numerous portraits.

Afternoon Tea with Carolina Authors

The American Association of University Women is sponsoring an afternoon tea with four Carolina authors: Wendy Brenner, creative writing, G. D. Gearino, Susan Kelly and Suzanne Tate at 2 p.m. Nov. 22 in the University Ballroom. Tickets are $10 and proceeds will help fund the AAUW Educational Foundation for graduate studies and grants for local undergraduate scholarships. For tickets, contact Jean Mulford at 791-7736.

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Mark S. Williams, financial aid, gave the presentation "FWS and Community Service" at the North Carolina Association of Financial Aid Administrators Conference in Asheville. Also, Perry Campbell, financial aid, gave the presentation "Electronic Entrance and Exit Interviews."

Len Lecci, psychology, gave the invited address "Personal Goals and the Cognitive Elaboration of Hypochondriasis" to the Department of Psychology at Wake Forest University.

Robert Tyndall, education, received $15,075 for the project "Strengthening Teacher Education."

Drew Rosen, production and decision sciences, had his article "Service: Manufacturing's New Frontier" published in the National Productivity Review. This article addresses the changes taking place in the U.S. economy and how manufacturers need to incorporate service and service operations in their strategic plans.

Joseph Pawlik, CMSR and biological sciences, gave the invited presentation "Caribbean Sponge Secondary Metabolites Responsible for Chemical Defense Against Predatory Fishes" at the First Euroconference on Marine Natural Products in Athens, Greece.

Jim Megivern, philosophy and religion, delivered one of the keynote addresses Nov. 15 at a national meeting in Washington, D.C. The meeting examined the death penalty from a religious perspective. The keynote speaker on Nov. 16 was Sister Helen Prejean, author of Dead Man Walking.

Sally Sullivan, English, read her paper "The Feminization of Quest-Romance in Alice Adam's Superior Women: Spatial Mobility as Metaphor for the Psychic Journey" at the Social Moves interdisciplinary conference at Tulane University in New Orleans, La.

University Employees Answer the Call to Become Partners in Giving

Thirty-eight percent of UNCW employees joined one another as Partners in Giving in this year's State Employees Combined Campaign, topping last year's participation rate of less than 15 percent.

"I couldn't be prouder of the fine folks who work here and of the way they contributed to the combined campaign," said Chancellor James R. Leutze. "By this outpouring of support we have demonstrated our willingness to help a number of agencies in our community that do outstanding work to make this a better place to live."

The Watson School of Education led the way with 95 percent participation, followed by athletics with 93 percent and advancement with 88 percent. While some campus areas had less than 30 percent participation, all areas exhibited growth over last year, said Donna Cameron, UNCW's SECC chair. She added that 438 UNCW employees who contributed gave a total of $40,659. Last year, total contributions were $17,016.

According to Cameron, UNCW earned two nominations from the state for its effort. "One nomination is for an achievement award, which recognizes local campaigns with outstanding increases over last year's campaign. The other nomination is for the Governor's Award, a statewide award given to state departments that record the highest percentage increase over last year's campaign."

Ned H. Martin, chemistry, presented a poster on his research "Modeling Aryl-Aryl Pi-Stacking Interactions; Application to Stereorecognition in Chiral Chromatography" coauthored by graduate students Scott W. Huffman and Ruth J. Floyd at the sixth conference on Current Trends in Computational Chemistry in Vicksburg, Miss. Martin also coauthored the poster "Development of a Proton NMR Shielding Model for the Face of a Phenyl Ring" with Noah W. Allen, III and Luong Vo at the same conference. Allen presented the poster.

Terry Theodore, art and theatre, had his paper on Sergei Eisenstein's film The Battleship Potemkin (1925) published by M. E. Sharpe in Encyclopedia of Propaganda.

Charles Lewis, HPER, presented the paper: "Comparative Leisure Perspectives Abroad in England-UNC Wilmington 1997, A Case Study" at the 1997 conference of the North Carolina Recreation and Park Society in Charlotte. He also participated in the recreation resources survey research roundtable, projecting research needs in North Carolina for parks and recreation services.

Bill Johnston, Karen Wetherill, specialty studies, and graduate students Hilary Greenebaum and Hope High presented "Teacher Socialization and Change" at the Southern Regional Council on Educational Administration meeting in Charleston, S.C. Johnston and graduate student Cindy Wartel presented "Leadership Style, School Culture and Programmatic Vision."

Ronald J. Vetter, mathematical sciences, presented his paper "Developing an Internet-Based Course" at the worldwide conference on the internet and intranet WebNet '97 in Toronto, Canada.

John W. Myers, art and theatre, was elected to a second term on the board of the directors of the Southeastern College Art Conference at their annual meeting in Richmond, Va.

Lu Huntley-Johnston, English, had her article "How to Do How-To Books: Real-Life Writing in the Classroom" published in the Journal of Adolescent and Adult Literacy.

Tax Deductible Contributions

Anyone wanting to make a 1997 tax deductible contribution to UNCW is reminded to submit donations to the Office of Advancement Services, Alderman Hall, Room 104, by the close of business on Dec. 23. The university will be closed for the holidays beginning Dec. 24.

Travel News from Purchasing

Congratulations to Donna Walker who won the two airline tickets at the travel seminar Nov. 11 and thanks to those who attended. Additional "Traveler's Checklist" brochures are available from accounting. Effective Nov. 12, all major airlines, including USAirways, have raised the cost of changing tickets to $75. Boarding pass policies are also changing. Effective Nov. 18, Northwest Airlines will eliminate advance boarding passes. Other airlines are expected to follow because of FAA-mandated security procedures. Seat assignments will be made in advance by university travel agencies, but boarding passes may need to be picked up on arrival at the airport. The travel agency can answer any questions.

Campus Recreation Thanksgiving Schedule

Campus recreation will observe the following Thanksgiving schedule: Nov 25 - aerobics will be from noon to 1 p.m. and 5:15 to 6:15 p.m., fitness center will be open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 5:45 to 7:45 p.m. and recreational swim will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Nov 26 - aerobics will be from noon to 1 p.m., the fitness center will be open from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and recreational swim will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The facilties will be closed Nov. 27 to Dec. 1.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 10 to 11 a.m. Nov. 21 and 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Dec. 3 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Student Timesheet Deadlines

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for Dec. 15 payment is 3 p.m. Nov. 26 in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to their department representatives, not payroll. Students not listed on the departmental recaps sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received prior to adding students to recap sheets.

Staff Training

Advanced Connections, 9 a.m. to noon, Dec. 8 and 2 to 5 p.m. Dec. 10. Both sessions are needed to complete the course.

Time Bombs: Dealing with Angry Customers, 9 a.m. to noon Dec. 9. Guest presenter is Karen Fields from Virginia Commonwealth University.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

Shared Leave Requests

Shared leave donations are needed for Mary Corcoran, library, who is recuperating from surgery. Send your vacation leave donations to human resources to help Mary avoid leave without pay. For more information, call Dale at ext. 3161.

HR Home Page

Have you visited the human resources home page? Log in to learn about current job vacancies, the 1997-98 SPA salary schedule, performance comparisons of the plans available in the Optional Retirement Program and more.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Mary Louise Andrison, housing and residence life; Eugene Cooper, athletics; Roman Kolodij, business affairs; and Susan LaRowe, specialty studies.

Deadline Nears for Alumni Association Nominations

Each year the UNCW Alumni Association sponsors two awards to honor individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the university and the community. The awards are presented during Homecoming festivities. The Alumnus/a of the Year Award is open to all who attended and/or graduated from Wilmington College or UNCW. The Distinguished Citizen Award is open to anyone for notable service to the university and the community.

Nominations for both the alumni association's 1998 Golden Alumni Awards can be made by writing a letter of recommendation to the UNCW Alumni Association Board of Directors. Specify the award category and describe why you think the nominee merits the award. Include the nominee's name, address, daytime telephone number and work place.

Letters should be mailed to Patricia Corcoran, UNCW alumni relations director, Wise Alumni House, 1713 Market Street, Wilmington, N.C. 28403. Additional information can be obtained by calling the alumni office at 251-2682.

Deadline for nominations is Nov. 24.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-058 Housekeeper	Nov. 21
98-064 Office Assistant III	Nov. 21
98-065 Student Media Coordinator	Dec. 8
98-066 Office Assistant IV	Dec. 1

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No.19 December 4, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW Student Organizes Benefit Concert

Gómez-Tejada

UNCW is sponsoring A Concert of Vocal Music to benefit the José Carreras International Leukemia Foundation at 8 p.m. Dec. 10 in Kenan Auditorium.

The concert features five soloists who are UNCW voice students: Jorge Gómez-Tejada, Alecia Bell, Roxana Blackwell, Katherine Barnes and James Graves. Also performing are the UNCW Concert Choir, under the direction of Joe Hickman, and the Boys' and Girls' Choirs of Wilmington, directed by Sandy Errante. Pianists Gregory Bell and Steven Errante will accompany the singers.

UNCW senior and Colombian baritone Jorge Gómez-Tejada initiated and planned this benefit because of his personal experience with family members afflicted with leukemia. Gómez-Tejada has long admired fellow countryman, José Carreras, the great operatic tenor who was diagnosed with acute leukemia at the height of his career. Although his chances of survival were not good, advances in medical research resulted in his cure following a bone marrow transplant. In 1988, Carreras celebrated his recovery by returning to the stage. It was during this time that he created the Foundation Against Leukemia.

Tickets are available at the Kenan Auditorium Box Office. For ticket prices, call ext. 3500.

Southeastern Sickle Cell Association Honors School of Nursing

The School of Nursing received the "We Care Award" from the Southeastern Sickle Cell Association Inc. at an awards dinner Nov. 18 at the First Baptist Activities Center in Wilmington.

The award recognized the School of Nursing's support of the association's screening efforts, especially the participation of senior nursing students during annual sickle cell screenings at Independence Mall.

Dean Virginia W. Adams accepted the award on the school's behalf.

"Trim the Tree" Party

The campus community is invited to the chancellor's "Trim the Tree" party from 2 to 4 p.m. Dec. 4 in the lobby of Alderman Hall. Come have cookies and hot cider, hang an ornament on the tree and help kick off the holiday season. There are lots of ornaments from previous years, but feel free to bring another one.

INSIDE

COMMENCEMENT NEWS

Departmental reception locations
Graduate reception at Wise House
Commencement videos
UNCW-TV broadcast

Health Professor Receives National Award

Michael Perko, assistant professor of health education, received the Early Career Award from the American Public Health Association (APHA) during an awards luncheon Nov. 11 in Indianapolis, Ind.

According to the APHA, Perko received the award in recognition of his professional work in health communications and media applications. While a doctoral candidate at the University of Alabama, Perko began producing satellite health broadcasts for the employees of Alabama Power Company. Perko said he produced more than 35 videos covering health topics from lower back pain to coping with shift work. He joined the UNCW faculty this year.

The Early Career Award is given to health education professionals who have been in the field less than 10 years. The American Public Health Association, founded in 1872, is the world's oldest and largest organization of health professionals in the world with more than 50,000 members in 50 different occupations.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Cape Fear Alumni Tournament Results

The UNCW Cape Fear Alumni Golf Classic raised $4,782 that will be used to fund several chapter projects, including the Betty Jo Welch scholarship endowment.

Frank Trimble, chair of the Communication Studies Department, said he was honored that the chapter chose the Welch scholarship as a project. He applauded the chapter's efforts and said he was impressed with the tournament. "I hope it will motivate other alumni chapters to participate in supporting scholarship efforts."

The winning team was comprised of Jim Edmundson, Charles Cahill and Art James, who combined for a score of 20 under par. Mike Arnold, UNCW alumni program coordinator, said he was pleased with the sell-out tournament. "I want to thank all the volunteers who helped the tournament run so smoothly," he added.

Video Showing of Wagner Opera

There will be a video screening of Wagner's operatic masterpiece Lohengrin at 1 p.m. Dec. 7 in the Randall Library auditorium. The opera, being shown as part of a music course on Wagner, is open to all interested viewers.

50th Fact

In 1991, UNCW held its first fall commencement ceremony. The Honorable James E. Holshouser, Jr., former Governor of North Carolina, was the commencement speaker. The decision to institute a second yearly ceremony was based on the fact that the graduating class had outgrown Trask Coliseum. In order to continue to hold only one commencement, students would have been reduced to only two guest tickets. In addition, enough students were completing their course work during the summer and fall to make a December commencement a viable option.

Toys for Tots

Toys for Tots, sponsored by the Marine Corps Reserve, is celebrating its 50th anniversary. The Dec. 13 men's basketball game has been designated the McDonald's Toys for Tots game. Admission will be free with the donation of a new unwrapped toy for a needy boy or girl. Also, Toys for Tots drop boxes will be on campus through Dec. 18 for donations at the following locations: university police, physical plant (Joe Hack's office), Alderman Hall, the University Center, the University Union and James Hall.

Marimba Ensemble Concert

The Department of Music is sponsoring noon concert by the UNCW Marimba Ensemble Dec. 9 in Kenan Hall's Claude Howell Gallery. Everyone is invited to bring a lunch to this 30-minute performance that will include light classics and ragtime.

Literacy Open House

The New Hanover County Library will host a literacy open house from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Dec. 6 in the library's main meeting room. The following Wilmington authors plan to attend: Ellyn Bache; Wendy Brenner, English; Diane Cashman; Clifton Daniel; Chris Fonvielle, history; Bill Herman; Clara Hodges; Agnes McDonald; Mike Marsh; Jim Megivern, philosophy and religion; Brook Preik; Greg Watkins; Scott Whisnant; and Virginia Wright-Frierson.

Non-traditional Student Get-together

The final non-traditional student get-together of the semester will be from noon to 1 p.m. today in the University Union, Room 207.

All non-traditional students are encouraged to take advantage of this informal opportunity to meet each other and to share suggestions on how the university can best serve them with the Office of the Dean of Students. For more information, call Diane Edwards at ext. 3119.

UNCW Jazz Ensembles Perform Holiday Concert

The UNCW Big Band, under the direction of Frank Bongiorno, and the Jazz Combo, under the direction of Rebecca Kane, will present a concert at 8 p.m. Dec. 5 in Kenan Auditorium.

The Jazz Combo will open with jazz standards and an original composition "Just a Little Bit" by student member Steven Thorne. The combo is composed of alto saxophonist Thorne, guitarist Greg Davis, bassist Ryan Woodall, pianist Justin Depuydt and drummer Colby Wahl.

The UNCW Big Band, a unique blend of UNCW students and community musicians including talented area high schools musicians, will perform music that includes swing through bebop styles. Among the arrangements being performed are "It Might As Well Be Spring" by George Stone and "500 Miles High" and "Mode Man" by Mark Taylor.

General admission is $4; UNCW faculty, staff, senior citizens and children under 12, $2; UNCW students admitted free with valid ID. Tickets are available at the Kenan Auditorium box office, call ext. 3500.

Premier of Noah, An Ark Musical

The Thalian Hall will host the premiere of Noah, An Ark Musical at 8 p.m. Dec. 11-13 and 2 p.m. Dec. 14 on the hall's mainstage. Book, lyrics and music are by Frank Trimble, communication studies, with vocal arrangements by UNCW alumnus Kristin Graf and orchestrations and soundtrack instrumentation by UNCW alumnus Rodney Ingle. In this production of the biblical story, the tale is told from the perspective of Noah's wife. Music is a mixture of jazz, blues, country, gospel and rock.

Diabetic Student Luncheon

UNCW students with diabetes are invited to a luncheon from noon to 1 p.m. Dec. 11 on the second floor of Westside Hall. RSVP to the Student Health Center by calling ext. 3280.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

Graduation on UNCW-TV

UNCW-TV will provide live coverage of commencement beginning at 10 a.m. Dec. 6 on Time Warner Cable Channel 11. UNCW-TV will rebroadcast the ceremony at 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Dec. 8 on Time Warner cable channel 11.

Graduates Reception

The UNCW Alumni Association will host one reception for graduating students and their families from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Dec. 5 at Wise Alumni House. The program honoring this year's graduates begins at 7 p.m. Please note this change in format from previous years' receptions.

Graduation Videos

The UNCW Alumni Association is sponsoring the videotaping of the commencement ceremony. Order forms will be available at commencement. Tapes are $30, and proceeds benefit Wise Alumni House.

Geography Bowl

North Carolina's Geography Bowl team won the southeastern regional competition Nov. 24 at the southeastern division of the Association of American Geographers annual meeting in Birmingham, Ala.

The team members were Bill Welsh, UNC Chapel Hill, Baker Perry, ASU; Mike Russell, ECU; Dave Wrubel, UNC Charlotte; Katherine Nichols and Juan Battle; Duke University; and James Pleasants, UNC Wilmington.

North Carolina defeated teams from West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and South Carolina. North Carolina's World Geography Bowl is sponsored by the North Carolina Geographical Society. John Florin, UNC Chapel Hill, and Elizabeth Hines, earth sciences, are faculty advisors of the team.

Departmental Receptions

Following the graduation ceremony, academic departments will host receptions for their graduates and guests at the listed locations. All receptions will take place at 12:30 p.m.

Anthropology	Randall Library Auditorium
Art/Theatre and Music	Kenan Hall - Lobby
Biological Sciences	University Center Ballroom
Chemistry	New Science Building - Room 202
Communication Studies	Morton Hall - Room 100
Criminal Justice	Hawk's Nest
English	Cameron Hall - Room 105
Foreign Languages and Literatures	Cameron Hall - Room 212
Geography, Geology and Environmental Sciences	New Science Building - Room 134
History	University Union - Living Room
Mathematical Sciences	King Hall - Room 101
Philosophy and Religion	University Center - Center Stage
Health and Physical Education	Trask Coliseum , Room 115
Physics	DeLoachHall - Room 212
Political Science	University Center - Center Stage
Psychology	Hanover Hall
Recreation	Golden Hawk Room/Nixon Annex
Social Work	University Union - Glass Room
Sociology	Hawk's Nest
Cameron School of Business	Trask Coliseum
School of Nursing	Hoggard Hall - Lobby
Watson School of Education	Kenan Auditorium

Student Health Center Sponsors Sock Box

The Student Health Center is sponsoring the "sock box" to collect socks and toiletries for homeless men and women in the Wilmington area. Anyone interested in donating new or clean worn socks should take them to the sock box in the lobby of the Student Health Center on the second floor of Westside Hall. All contributions will be given to the Good Shepherd House on Dec. 19. For more information, contact the Student Health Center at ext. 3280.

Poinsettia Sale

Girls Incorporated is holding its annual fund-raising poinsettia sale. Red, white or pink plants are available in six-inch foil-covered pots for $7. Free delivery to the university is available on Dec. 5, 12 and 19. To order, call Jan Riemersma at ext. 3227 or Girls Incorporated at 763-6674.

Holiday Dinner

Wagoner Hall's annual holiday dinner will be from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. Dec. 4. The menu will include: carved prime rib, marinated grilled chicken breasts, eggplant parmesan, baked potatoes, honey-glazed carrots, buttered corn, broccoli spears with lemon, assorted salads and desserts. Cost is $5.45 for adults, $2.65 for children 3 to 12 years old and free for children under 3.

Also, watch the mail for a "Take the Hassle Out of the Holiday" order form for fresh baked holiday breads and pastries. To place an order, call ext. 3600.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Timothy Blair, John Bullock, Patricia Ivey, Denise Sylvester, Gregory Waddell and Milton Wetherington, landscape services; Phyllis Croom, management information support; Angelia Edwards, graduate school and Maureen Madio, printing services.

Focus on Faculty and Staff

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Robert Kieber and Joan Willey, chemistry, had the paper "Comparison of Stripping Coil and Condensate Techniques for the Collection of Gas Phase Hydrogen Peroxide with Applications of Condensate Collection in and off the Coast of North Carolina" published in Environmental Science and Technology. It was coauthored by former graduate student Cindy Deforest who is now in the doctoral program at UNC Chapel Hill.

Lynn Leonard, earth sciences and CMSR, gave the invited presentation "Sediment Transport Dynamics in Diverse Tidal Marsh Systems" at the Skidaway Institute of Oceanography in Savannah, Ga.

Maurice M. Martinez, specialty studies, presented the paper "Once Upon a Time in the Land of Epidermis: Education of Mixed-race Gens De Couleur (Creoles of Color) in New Orleans" with slide illustrations at the National Association of Multicultural Education meeting in Albuquerque, N.M.

Candace Gauthier, philosophy and religion, delivered two papers "Respect for Autonomy and Moral Responsibility: Meeting the Communitarian Challenge" and "Medical Drama as a Form of Medical Narrative: The Value of ER" at the Society for Health and Human Values annual meeting in Baltimore, Md.

William Cleary, earth sciences and CMSR, presented a series of seminars for the towns of Holden Beach, Ocean Isle and Long Beach in Brunswick County. The seminars focused on coastal erosion and storm impacts in southeastern N.C. and sand resources for long-term erosion mitigation for the Brunswick County beaches.

Yael Gold, Dee Casey, Dianne Matthews, Student Development Center, Carol Thysell, philosophy and religion, Aida Toplin, international programs, and Barbara Waxman, English, presented "Feminist Consciousness Raising in the 90's: Transforming Our Visions Into Realities on the University Campus" at the fourth annual conference of the southeastern regional chapter of the Association for Women in Psychology.

Andrew F. Clark, history, presented the paper "The Ties that Bind: Servility and Dependency Among the Fulbe of the Upper Senegal Valley (West Africa), c. 1930s-c. 1980s" to the annual meeting of the African Studies Association held in Columbus, Ohio.

Rebecca Lee, English, had her short story "Banks of the Vistula" published in The Atlantic Monthly.

Kathy Rugoff and Barbara Waxman, English, attended the South Atlantic Modern Association convention in Atlanta, Ga. Rugoff chaired the Society for the Study of the Multi-Ethnic Literature of the U.S. (MELUS) panel. Waxman delivered the paper "Loss, Gain and Survival in an Adopted Language: Eva Hoffman's Lost in Translation and Alice Kaplan's French Lessons." Also, Waxman was elected secretary of the MELUS panel for 1998.

Ned H. Martin, chemistry, presented the poster "Integration of Molecular Modeling into the Undergraduate Chemistry Curriculum" at the fifth Chemical Congress of North America in Cancun, Mexico. He also coauthored the poster "An NMR Shielding Model for the Face of a Phenyl Ring" with Noah W. Allen III and Luong Vo, which was presented by Allen.

GLOBE WATCH Thailand

UNC TV
9:30 to 11 p.m.
Tuesday, Dec. 9

The host of UNC-TV's Globe Watch, UNCW Chancellor James Leutze (center), talks with Thai students during the filming of the new Globe Watch *Thailand series. The three-part series, a fascinating investigation into the changing country, premieres in its entirety on Tuesday, Dec. 9, from 9:30 to 11 p.m., and repeats individual episodes on three consecutive Sundays at 6 p.m. beginning Dec. 14.

Major funding provided by The Randleigh Foundation Trust

Celebrate Wilmington! Events for December

Concert: Joy to the World with the Paramount Brass, 8 p.m. Dec. 5 Thalian Hall. For ticket prices and more information, call 343-3664.
Ice Show: Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates, 4 and 7:30 p.m. Dec. 6 Thalian Hall. For ticket prices and more information, call 343-3664.
Christmas Open House: Victorian decorations, traditional craft demonstrations, wassail bowl, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and noon to 5 Dec. 6-7 Poplar Grove Plantation. For more information, call 686-9518.
Reenactment: A Civil War Winter Encampment, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 6 and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dec. 7 at Poplar Grove Plantation. For more information about this free event, call 686-9989.
Historic Home and Church Tour: 24th Old Wilmington Candlelight Tour 4 to 8 p.m. Dec. 6-7 historic district. Cost is $15. For more information, call 762-0492.
Holiday Concert: Selections from Tchaikovsky's The Nutcracker, 4 p.m. Dec. 7 Kenan Auditorium. For ticket information, call 962-3500.
Speaker: Jeff Fleming, chief curator of exhibitions at SECCA, 2 p.m., Dec. 7 Cameron Gallery. For more information, call 763-0281.
Preview Reception: Artists of Southeastern North Carolina: A Juried Exhibition, 7 to 9 p.m. Dec. 11 Hughes Gallery. For ticket prices, call 763-0281.
Exhibit: Artists of Southeastern North Carolina, Dec. 12 to Jan. 11 Hughes Gallery. For cost, call 763-0281.
Film Series: Cinematique presents Fire, 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14-16 Thalian Hall Main Stage. For cost, call 343-1640.
Auditions: Lettice and Lovage, 7 p.m. Dec. 15-16 Community Arts Center. For more information, call 251-1788.
Concert: Holiday Pops, 8 p.m. Dec. 17 Kenan Auditorium. For ticket information, call 962-3500.

Business Affairs Desk Reference

This desk reference highlights ongoing processes (within the Division of Business Affairs) that are designed to enhance communication in support of service quality and continuous improvement. Please feel free to tap in to these processes so that our division may better serve your needs. An updated organizational chart is provided on the back of this document to assist you in locating our staff members and identifying services provided by our division.

Bookstore Advisory Committee

Purpose: The Bookstore Advisory Committee provides feedback to the campus bookstore regarding services provided and products available. Membership includes:

Hathia Hayes
Lori Leitch
Melton McLaurin
Towana Moore
Cathy Morris
Terri Schutte-Beck

Chair: Towana Moore, Ext: 3711, Vax Mail: MOORETH

Business Services Committee

Purpose: The Business Services Committee meets to discuss business/administrative issues affecting campus operations. Topics/agenda are determined by the committee members. Suggestions for improvement are forwarded to managers responsible for the function involved. Current membership includes:

Linda Adkins
Anne Beach
Diane Billings
Tammy Blizzard
Sharon Boyd
Becky Chilcote
Greg Dalton
Mary Forsythe
Kay Fryar
Dan Geddie
Peggy Hendrix
Cindy Hucks
Donna Lamont
Jutta Lovas
Stephen Mastro
William McCartney
Betty Mills
Sandra Moore
Towana Moore
Warren Rice
Jan L. Riemersma
Charles Sanders
Peggy Segars
Kay Ward
Pam Whitlock
Ronald Whittaker

Chair: Tammy Blizzard, Ext: 3143, Vax Mail: BLIZZARDT

Pac'n Program

Purpose: This is an outreach program to residence students. This program primarily targets our student population to enhance safety and security on campus.

Chair: Billy Dawson, Ext: 3184, Vax Mail: DAWSON

Workplace Safety Committee

Purpose: This committee performs functions necessary for the effective implementation of the State Employees Work Place Requirements Program for Safety and Health. Membership includes:

Anne Beach
Michael Bianco
Dolores Brookshire
Bill Deale
Joan Greene
Duane Grooms
Sherman Hayes
Terri Joynes
Chester Loeffler-Bell
Al Monteith
Warren Rice
Dorothy Taylor
John Geddie, Ex-Officio
JoAnn McDowell, Ex-Officio

Chair: To be determined.

FRS Team

Purpose: This group includes individuals that interact with the FRS system. Members discuss procedures, processes, system upgrades, and data flow issues to ensure effective utilization of the FRS system. Membership includes:

Sandy Anderson
Jane Bailey
Diana Bellamy
Kathy Dennis
Liz Johnson
Don Sloan
Carol Strickland
Kevin Ulmer

Chair: Carol Strickland, Ext: 3856, Vax Mail: STRICKLANDC

HRS Production/Advisory Teams

Purpose: These groups include individuals with expertise in various statewide/local administrative systems used to manage payroll, personnel, and compensation budget information. Group members discuss issues involving the effective use of these systems and develop procedures to streamline other related activities. Membership includes:

HRS Production Team:

Lisa Allred
Sherry Batson
Frances Carr
Donna Chi
Doris Dawson
Elizabeth Greene
Anne Howell
Donna Lamont
Dale Lockwood
Alice Maile
Willina Mitchell
Patsy Parker
Sandie Ward

HRS Advisory Team:

Jane Bailey
Donna Chi
Kay Fryar
Art Goodwin
Stephanie Haley
Cindy Hucks
Kathy Reeves
Jan L. Riemersma
Carol Strickland
Kay Ward

Chair: Donna Chi, Ext. 7206, Vax Mail: CHID

Other Avenues of Communication

Focus Groups: Business Affairs will utilize focus groups to establish forums to explore new possibilities for improving or enhancing service. Printing Services and Food Services have used this method as part of their continuous improvement process.

Informal Meetings: Business Affairs will set up informal meetings to discuss individual customer issues. Purchasing Services schedules meetings with department heads throughout the year as a method to improve service delivery.

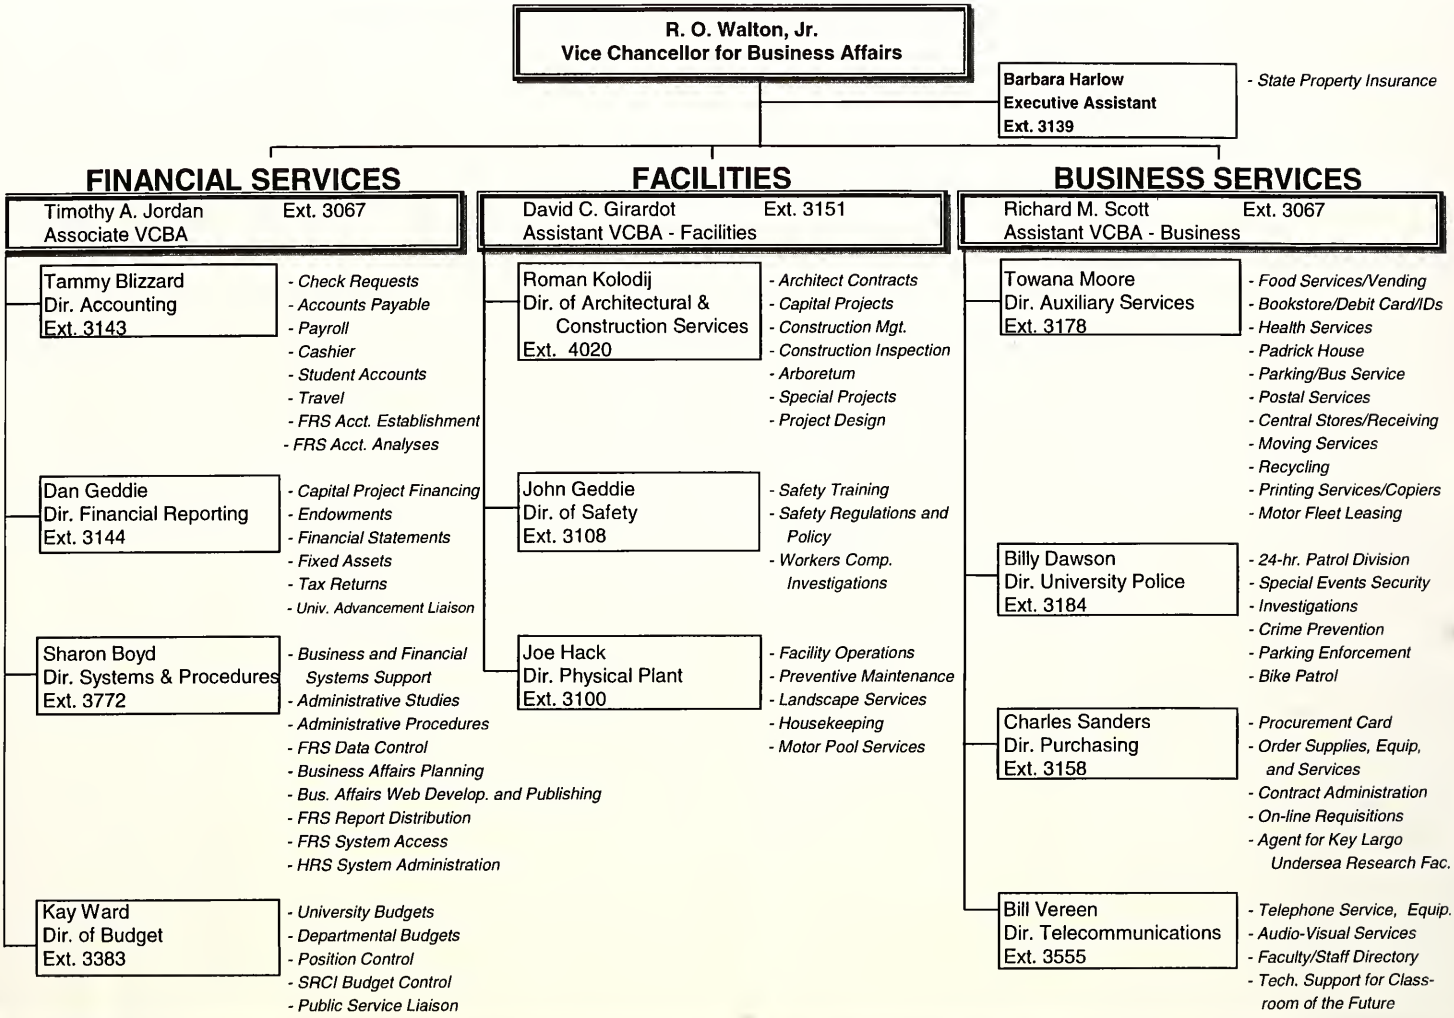
Revised: November 1997

University of North Carolina at Wilmington
Division of Business Affairs



November 1997

TIMEBOMBS:
DEALING WITH ANGRY CUSTOMERS

December 9, 1997
9am-Noon
Human Resources Training Room
Presenter: Karen Fields
Virginia Commonwealth University

CALL EXT. 3274 TO REGISTER

According to Kristin Anderson and Ron Zemke, co-authors of Delivering Knock Your Socks Off Customer Service, there are three types of difficult customers: Blasé Blue, Ornery Orange, and Raging Red...Knowing the emotional color of your customer can help you choose the appropriate problem-solving technique.

In this workshop, you'll learn:

- Ten Sure-Fire Ways to Defuse The Angry Customer
- How to Say "No" Tactfully
- How to Treat the Customer as if He Is Right, Even When She Isn't
- The Difference Between Red Rules and Blue Rules, and
- How to Develop Methods for Maintaining a Safe Environment.

FEATURES

Countdown on the Cape Fear '97 is a major visual and performing arts festival committed to broadening the public's awareness of the arts through an innovative and diverse New Year's Eve program that is accessible and affordable to all.

There will be music, song, theater, stories and spectacles for every age and interest imaginable, over 20 activities to enjoy in a safe, alcohol-free setting.

Historical Downtown Wilmington is the venue for Countdown on the Cape Fear. The celebration will take place in both indoor and outdoor locations such as, churches, public buildings and cultural centers.

These festivities will be held from 6 p.m. until 10 p.m., and a purchase of a button provides general admission to the events. Continue the festivities at the main stage with live musical entertainment from 9 p.m. to 12:30 am. When the New Year is drawing near, count down with the crowd the few remaining seconds of 1997 at the grand finale of breathtaking fireworks from the USS North Carolina Battleship Memorial.

Countdown on the Cape Fear is being sponsored by WECT-TV6, WGNI 102.7, International Paper, CP&L and Wilmington Health Associates. UNCW is a venue sponsor. For more information, call WECT-TV6 at 791-8070, fax 791-9406 or visit the internet at www.wect.com. The following is a list of events, times and locations:

The Story Company
Husband and wife team telling lively, active stories for all ages
6 to 6:30, 8 to 8:30, 9:30 to 10 p.m.
503 Market Street

Susi Clontz
In full pirate costume, this storyteller recalls the adventures of North Carolina's most notorious ships' captains
7 to 7:45, 8:45 to 9:15 p.m.
503 Market Street

Rebecca Kane and Vince Stout
Jazz pianist Kane accompanied on the bass by Stout.
6 to 6:30 and 7 to 7:30 p.m.
15 North 5th Street

The Roy Alexander Orchestra
Seven-piece ensemble plays jazz and swing
8:30 to 9 and 9:15 to 10 p.m.
15 North 5th Street

Benny Hill Jazz Quartet
6 to 6:45 and 7 to 7:45 p.m.
25 South 3rd Street

Don White
Pianist who plays all styles from classical to the classics
8:30 to 9:15 and 9:30 to 10 p.m.
25 South 3rd Street

The Rockin' Chair Players
Catch the laughs when an "uptight" woman meets up with a bag lady at the bus stop
6 to 6:30, 7:30 to 8 and 9 to 9:30 p.m.
24 North 3rd Street

Wycuff Skipper
Original home-spun poetry with a country flavor
6:45 to 7:15 p.m.
24 North 3rd Street

Jean Jones
Original readings from his published and non-published works
8:15 to 8:45 p.m.
24 North 3rd Street

Shaun Mitchell
Theatrical recitation of classical poetry
9:45 to 10 p.m.
24 North 3rd Street

Shannon Helton
Storytelling for children of all ages
6 to 6:30 and 8 to 8:30 p.m.
24 North 3rd Street

Shannon Stewart
Stories for school-aged children and the young at heart
7 to 7:30 and 9 to 9:30 p.m.
24 North 3rd Street

Save Our Kids Outreach
Live puppets who dance and sing a message of encouragement and hope
6 to 7, 7:30 to 8:30 and 9 to 10 p.m.
201 Chestnut Street

Betty Turner
Face painter
6 to 10 p.m.
201 Chestnut Street

Cindy Golonka
Caricaturist
6 to 10 p.m.
201 Chestnut Street

Silent Movies
An evening of silent movies on the outside wall of New Hanover County Library
6 to 10 p.m.
201 Chestnut Street

The Comically Impaired
Six comedians
6 to 7 and 8:30 to 9:15 p.m.
201 Market Street

Dale Hoffman
Stand-up comic
7:30 to 8 and 9:30 to 10 p.m.
201 Market Street

Cape Fear Chordsmen
The four-part harmony of Wilmington's men's barbershop chorus
6 to 6:30 and 7 to 7:30 p.m.
208 Dock Street

Cape Fear Contra Dancers
Twenty dancers demonstrate the folk styles of Ireland, Scotland and the Appalachian Mountains
8:15 to 10 p.m.
208 Dock Street

2 Peas in a Pod
Children's theater group retelling the life of Charles Dickens
6 to 7 and 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.
120 South 2nd Street

Jacob the Clown
Magic show and balloon sculptures
7:30 to 8 and 9:45 to 10 p.m.
120 South 2nd Street

Scrap Exchange
Create a work of art
6 to 10 p.m.
114 Orange Street

The Usuals
Opening band, which plays rock and roll from the 1950's to the 90's
9 to 10:30 p.m.
Water Street

Far to Jones
Headline band with a sound a little like Hootie and the Blowfish
11 to 12:30 a.m.
Water Street

Fireworks
Midnight
USS North Carolina Battleship Memorial

Non-traditional Student Discussion

A meeting to discuss the formation of a campus advisory group for non-traditional students will be held from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Dec. 10 in the University Union, Room 201. Faculty, staff and students interested in addressing the need for this group should attend. For more information, contact the Office of the Dean of Students at ext. 3119.

Tax-deductible Contributions

Anyone wanting to make a 1997 tax-deductible contribution to UNCW is reminded to submit donations to the Office of Advancement Services, Alderman Hall, Room 104, by close of business on Dec. 23. The university will be closed for the holidays beginning Dec. 24.

Staff Training

Advanced Connections, 9 a.m. to noon Dec. 8 and 2 to 5 p.m. Dec. 10. Both sessions are needed to complete the course.

Time Bombs: Dealing with Angry Customers, 9 a.m. to noon Dec. 9. Guest presenter is Karen Fields from Virginia Commonwealth University.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

Courier Mail

Postal services is having a problem with outgoing courier mail being returned because of wrong courier numbers. Double check courier numbers before sending mail. Departments without a 1997 updated courier book should call ext. 3734.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-067 Employment Services Coordinator	Dec. 5
98-068 Police Officer I	Dec. 5

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application. Also available on the HR home page is the 1997-98 SPA salary schedule, performance comparisons of the plans available in the Optional Retirement Program and more.

Seahawk License Plate Almost Ready to Hit the Streets

The Seahawk license plate is almost ready to take to the streets. Tom Lamont, vice chair of the UNCW Alumni Association board of directors, recently presented the prototype of the license plate to Chancellor Leutze. The N.C. Department of Transportation needs less than 20 applications from people interested in having a Seahawk plate to begin its issue. The special plate costs $25 in addition to the normal license renewal fee. However, $15 from every plate sold does go to benefit the UNCW Alumni Association scholarship program.

CMSR and NURC Telephone Extensions

CMSR's phone number is 256-3721. NURC's phone number is 256-5133.

Troy Alphin	ext. 276	Matt McIver	ext. 272
Dan Aspenleiter	ext. 220	Marion McPhaul	ext. 222
Dan Aten	ext. 238	James Merritt	ext. 203
Renee Aten	ext. 255	Amy Miller	ext. 250
James Bahen	ext. 212	Neil Miller	ext. 224
John Bichy	350-2027	Ron Moore	ext. 205
Alex Bocconcelli	ext. 201	Mary Moser	395-3905
Shonda Borden	ext. 263	Liz Moundalexis	ext. 228
Ken Broomfield	ext. 205	David O'Brien	ext. 211
Frank Chapman	ext. 213	Doug Parsons	ext. 274
William Cleary	ext. 251	Daniel Plyler	ext. 208
Gerry Compeau	ext. 202	Tom Potts	ext. 267
Gloria Crowell	ext. 218	Chris Powell	ext. 226
Mike Durako	ext. 216	Spencer Rogers	ext. 264
Ben Ellison	ext. 236	Eddie Roggenstein	ext. 227/235
Scott Ensign	ext. 252	Steve Ross	395-3905
Chris Freeman	ext. 250	Mary Ellen Sault	ext. 250
Wilson Freshwater	ext. 211	Chris Shank	ext. 274
Mark Gay	ext. 209	Andy Shepard	ext. 257
Kim Gridley	ext. 245	Spivack, Art	ext. 225
Jude Grimley	ext. 261	Kim Stowell	ext. 204
Paul Grimshaw	350-2027	John Taggert	ext. 243
Lance Horn	ext. 262	Glenn Taylor	ext. 270
Ken Johns	ext. 271	Bill Thompson	350-2027
Carl Johnsen	ext. 250	Marla Trobaugh	ext. 200
Debbie Johnston	ext. 258	Wade Watanabe	ext. 245
Matthew Kerns	ext. 202	Tracey Wheeler	ext. 249
Doug Kesling	ext. 269	Bob Wicklund	ext. 265
Max Kloster	ext. 235	Sandra Williams	ext. 273
Katie Laing	ext. 276	Andrea Wimmers	ext. 214
Lynn Leonard	ext. 224	Jennifer Woodhead	ext. 210
Susan Lovelace	919/728-2170	Bob York	ext. 211
Mike Mallin	ext. 275	Aquaculture facility	256-6817
Tara Marden	ext. 250	Pump House	256-8203
Steve Mastro	ext. 260	Wet Lab	256-6807
		Shellfish	256-3035

CLIP and SAVE

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No.20 December 11, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

McDonald's and UNCW Unveil Trask Coliseum Baby-changing Stations

What do the new additions to the bathrooms in Trask Coliseum and the McDonald's Toys for Tots exhibition game have in common? Both are designed with children in mind and were revealed at a news conference Dec. 9.

Chancellor James R. Leutze unveiled eight new baby-changing stations which were donated by Dennis Anderson, owner of 10 local McDonald's franchises. The donation of the stations fulfills a goal of the university - to attract young families to home games which provide an atmosphere of wholesame family entertainment. Also, the news conference, held in Trask Coliseum, promoted the McDonald's "Toys for Tots" Seahawk basketball game scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Dec. 13. Anyone who brings a new, unwrapped toy will be admitted to the game free.

The decision to accommodate families with young children who attend UNCW's home games followed two past observations by university officials of attendees changing babies' diapers on the floor of Trask Coliseum's public area. Patton McDowell, director of the Seahawk Club, and Paul Miller, director of athletics, approached Anderson with the request that he contribute $4,050 toward the eight baby-changing stations.

Anderson, who is the father of six children himself, agreed to the request. "We at McDonald's love UNCW, and we love children. It's an honor to be considered for this donation. We hope the stations will benefit, not only the children, but parents who attend the games."

The Koala Bear Kare Changing Stations are installed in all eight men's and women's bathrooms in Trask Coliseum. Each station is capable of supporting up to 250 pounds and has adjustable safety straps to hold the child in place while he or she is being changed. The multi-lingual safety instructions explain its correct usage, and its rounded corners guarantee its safety to users.

Seahawk Club Executive Director Patton McDowell and daughter Lauren demonstrate the new McDonald's changing stations.

Elvis Will Be in the Building on Jan. 16

There's gonna be a whole lotta shakin' going on at 8 p.m. Jan. 16 in Kenan Auditorium. William M. Henderson - author, creative writing professor and acclaimed Elvis impersonator - will gyrate and croon his way into UNCW stage history.

In addition to the evening performance, Henderson will give a lecture from 2 to 4 p.m. in Cameron Auditorium regarding his books about Elvis impersonators, then will perform I, Elvis: Confessions of a Counterfeit King at 8 p.m. Both events are part of the Buckner Lecture Series, sponsored by the English Department, and are free and open to the public.

Henderson's afternoon lecture is a multimedia presentation and discussion on the writing of I, Elvis. Friday evening's performance opens with a reading and discussion on his new book; then Henderson dons his Elvis regalia and the music begins.

A popular professor, he has taught at N.C. State University, Duke and UNC Chapel Hill. A graduate of the Iowa Workshop Creative Writing program, Henderson is best known for the novels Stark Raving Elvis and I Killed Hemingway.

Trading in his chinos and oxfords for a jeweled jumpsuit, Henderson discovered what it takes to travel a road once covered only in his imagination. In his live show, Henderson takes the story of his novel on stage and boogies with the best of Elvis impersonators.

Following the evening performance, Bristol Books will have copies of Henderson's book for sale, and the author will be available for signing.

For additional information, contact Paula Kamenish, Buckner Committee chair, at ext. 3617.

Student Health Center Sponsors Sock Box

The Student Health Center is sponsoring the "sock box" to collect socks and toiletries for homeless men and women in the Wilmington area. Anyone interested in donating new or clean worn socks should take them to the sock box in the lobby of the Student Health Center on the second floor of Westside Hall. All contributions will be given to the Good Shepherd House on Dec. 19. For more information, contact the Student Health Center at ext. 3280.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Note of Appreciation

Bonnie Howard and her family wishes to thank everyone for the many warm expressions of sympathy conveyed following the death of her father.

Metaphysics Expo

The fourth annual Metaphysics Expo will be held from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Dec. 27-28 at the Coast Line Convention Center. According to event organizer Jim Hecker, the expo's purpose is to introduce the community to the potential of self-awareness and health through the application of metaphysics. Admission is $3. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to New Hanover Animal Control.

Cape Fear Holiday Men's Chorus

The Cape Fear Holiday Men's Chorus will perform Christmas carols and other holiday music at 8 p.m. Dec. 12 in the Roland Grise Middle School Auditorium. Tickets are $5 for adults and $2 for students and children. The event is co-sponsored by the Cape Fear Chordsmen and the Salvation Army. For more information, call Don Schmitt at 799-5850.

50th Fact

The first buildings constructed on the Wilmington College campus were Alderman Hall, Hinton James Hall and Hoggard Hall. They were built in 1961 at a combined cost of $1.2 million. Hoggard Hall was named for John T. Hoggard, who was the second president of Wilmington College. Alderman Hall was named for Edwin A. Alderman, a native of Wilmington who during his career in education served as president of the University of North Carolina, the University of Virginia and Tulane University. The namesake of Hinton James Hall, originally named the Hinton James Student Services Building, was the first student from New Hanover County to enroll in the University of North Carolina.

New Art Exhibits

The Museum of World Cultures is sponsoring two new art exhibits. The first exhibit features the off-loom weaving of Gretchen Fabisch-Stankowski, who uses looms made from tree branches, window frames and anything else she can adapt to create her artwork. The exhibit is on display through Feb. 1998 in Randall Library.

The museum is also sponsoring "Go Figure" which features carvings of African, Central and South American and Asian peoples rendered in wood and woodblock, clay and metal. On display in the Social and Behavioral Science Building, the exhibit also features textiles from these regions.

Seahawk Bus Trip

Get your seat on the bus for the UNCW vs. Coastal Carolina basketball game on Dec. 22. The bus will depart UNCW at 2 p.m. to travel to Myrtle Beach for the 7:30 p.m. basketball game and will return around 11 p.m. Cost is $30 and includes round-trip bus transportation and one basketball ticket. Departing from lot "K" at Trask Coliseum, the bus will arrive at Broadway at the Beach at approximately 3:30 p.m. To reserve a seat, call Rob Brickels at ext. 7297.

Student Timesheet Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for Jan. 15 payment is 3 p.m. Dec. 23 in the payroll office. Check with Frances Carr in career services if a student does not appear on your recap sheet before adding. Also, if there are students listed on your recap sheets that no longer work for you, send Frances a copy of the recap to delete them from your department.

Graduate Thesis Defense

Lynn Bullard, chemistry, will defend her thesis "Determination of 15N Nitrate and Nitrite in Natural Waters" at 9 a.m. Dec. 15 in the new Science Building, Room 132.

SEANC Scholarship Program

One of the benefits of membership in the State Employees Association of North Carolina is the association's College Scholarship Program. Members, their spouses and their children are eligible to apply for scholarships to attend technical schools, community colleges, trade schools, junior colleges or four-year colleges and universities on a full-time basis. Applications and further information for District 62 members may be obtained by calling Gloria Crowell at 256-3721, ext. 218 or 392-2785.

Toys for Tots

Toys for Tots, sponsored by the Marine Corps Reserve, is celebrating its 50th anniversary. Toys for Tots drop boxes will be on campus through Dec. 18 for donations at the following locations: university police, physical plant (Joe Hack's office), Alderman Hall, the University Center, the University Union, the bookstore and James Hall.

Premier of Noah, An Ark Musical

The Thalian Hall will host the premier of Noah, An Ark Musical at 8 p.m. Dec. 11-13 and 2 p.m. Dec. 14 on the hall's mainstage. Book, lyrics and music are by Frank Trimble, communication studies, with vocal arrangements by UNCW alumnus Kristin Graf and orchestrations and soundtrack instrumentation by UNCW alumnus Rodney Ingle. In this production of the biblical story, the tale is told from the perspective of Noah's wife. Music is a mixture of jazz, blues, country, gospel and rock. For ticket information, call 343-3660.

Note of Appreciation

Gail York-Scimeca would like to thank the staff at Westside Hall for donations to her daughter and son-in-law whose house burned down Nov. 30. Will and Lelania are doing fine and appreciate your thoughts.

Adult Scholars Leadership Program at UNCW Provides Insight Into Community

Older adults who want to learn more about their local and regional communities are invited to apply for the Adult Scholars Leadership Program (ASLP) sponsored by the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. Designed as an intensive learning experience, the program gives retired and/or semi-retired persons insight into the needs, challenges and opportunities available in southeastern North Carolina and, at the same time, provides networking and fellowship with their peers.

Now in its eighth year, the program has an alumni core of more than 185 persons who are volunteering in various community, government, educational and nonprofit agencies.

"The primary goal of the ASLP is to bring older adults together with community experts to learn more about the issues, problems, creative possibilities and future plans of our region," said Judy Thomas, interim director of Lifelong Learning in the Division for Public Service and Extended Education. "This Leadership Program complements our Adult Scholars Enrichment Series of classes, seminars, training and enrichment programs we offer throughout the year."

The program meets from 8 a.m.-3:30 p.m., Feb. 5-March 19 with a graduation ceremony slated for March 24. Topics to be addressed include Discover the Possibilities on Feb. 5, History and Government on Feb. 12, Regional Growth and Development 1 on Feb. 19, Criminal Justice/Regional Growth and Development II on Feb. 26, Education on March 5, Health/Department of Aging/Human Relations on March 12 and Cultural Activities/The Media on March 19.

Tuition for the entire program is $225 and includes seven sessions, graduation reception, program and resource materials, speaker honoraria, continental breakfasts, refreshments and lunches.

Application deadline is Dec. 19. For more information, contact Thomas at ext. 3194.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two-to-three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Karan Smith and Paul Shotsberger, mathematical sciences, had their paper "Assessing the Use of Graphing Calculators in College Algebra: Reflecting on Dimensions of Teaching and Learning" published in the November issue of the journal School Science and Mathematics.

Robert Y. George, CMSR and biological sciences, presented the research report "Krill, Whales and Mermaids: Impact of Overfishing and Global Warming on Marine Food Chain" at the 12th annual symposium of the Duke-UNC Oceanography Consortium at the National Marine Fisheries Beaufort laboratory.

Mariela Shirley, psychology, presented two papers at the annual meeting of the Association for Advancement of Behavior Therapy (AABT) held in Miami, Fla. The papers "Alcohol Treatment Histories: Differences Among Vietnam Era Veterans" and "Cognitive Behavioral Treatment of Concurrent Alcohol Use and Anxiety Disorders" were coauthored with colleagues at the Addiction Research Foundation in Toronto, Canada, and the Research Institute on Addictions in Buffalo, N.Y. In addition, Shirley served on the AABT program committee and concluded a three-year term on the association's board of directors.

Don Bushman, English, presented his paper "A Conversation of Gestures in the Classroom: George Herbert Mead's Theory of Language" at the South Atlantic Modern Language Association meeting in Atlanta.

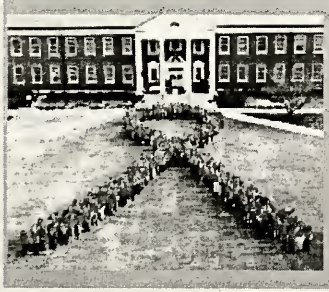
Ronald J. Vetter, mathematical sciences, published the paper "Web-based Education Experiences" in the Nov. 1997 issue of IEEE Computer magazine. The paper, coauthored with Charles Severance at Michigan State University, is available online at http://www.computer.org/computer/.

Tom Schmid, philosophy and religion, delivered the invited paper "Socratic Dialectic and the Ideal of Rationality in Plato's Charmides" at the annual meeting of the Society for Ancient Greek Philosophy in Binghamton, N.Y. He also gave a three-week series on "Healing" to the adult Sunday school at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Nov 2 to 16.

Andrew F. Clark, history, has two reviews on books about African history in the current issue of the Journal of Third World Studies.

John Bennett, HPER, and 25 HPER students along with Ellie Thomas from Appalachian State University and some her students made the joint presentation "Mountains to Sea: Skills Are Where It's At!" at the N.C. Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance (NCAHPERD) annual state convention in Greensboro. In addition, three UNCW students were elected to leadership positions in NCAHPERD's Student Major's Association: Elli Gerdes was elected president-elect and Steven Sarigiannis and Scott Newhall were elected as student district representatives. Bennett was elected for a three-year term as vice-president for the alliance.

"Be a Part of the Ribbon" Held Dec. 3



"Be a Part of the Ribbon" for World Aids Day was held Dec. 3 on the Alderman lawn. More than 350 students, faculty and staff participated in the "forming" of the ribbon.

The generous donations of toys have been given to the Coastal AIDS Resource Christmas party for children affected by HIV/AIDS.

The food donations will be given to Mother Hubbard's Kitchen. Wellness Services would like to thank all who participated in this event.

E-mail submissions to COMMUNIQUE

Check Request Reminder

Check requests with multiple invoices/receipts must have an adding machine tape attached with the total amount on the request. Check requests will be returned if the tape is not attached.

Work Study Reminder

Departments that have work study positions allocated for spring 1998 should get job orders (HR 1.62) to career services as soon as possible. Students are seeking work study positions, and job orders are needed to place these students. Also, notify career services if any student(s) are not returning to your department for spring 1998.

Holiday Hours for University Center and Union

The University Center and Union will observe regular operation hours through Dec. 18. Both will be open from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 19, 22 and 23; closed Dec. 20, 21 and 24-Jan. 3 and open from 5 to 11 p.m. Jan. 4. Regular operation hours resume Jan. 5.

Cashier's Office Closing at 3 p.m. Dec. 23

The cashier's office will close at 3 p.m. Dec. 23 for month-end processing and to prepare required reports for the state treasurer's office. Heavy activity is expected at the cashier's office Dec. 16 and Jan. 6. To accommodate faculty and staff on these days, university business should be taken to Sharon Polley through the student accounts entrance.

Holiday Mail Notice

Postal services will provide limited staffing to sort campus mail received over the holiday vacation. Departments may arrange to pick up mail sorted on the Dec. 30 by calling Doris Moore at ext. 3734 by Dec. 23. Mail will be available for pickup between 1 and 4:30 p.m. on Dec. 30.

Spring Semester Reserve Reading Lists

Faculty are asked to submit reserve reading lists for spring 1998 before Dec. 19. Send lists to Carolyn Andrews in Randall Library or e-mail AndrewsC. To renew previous lists, call ext. 3790.

Tax-deductible Contributions

Anyone wanting to make a 1997 tax-deductible contribution to UNCW is reminded to submit donations to the Office of Advancement Services, Alderman Hall, Room 104, by close of business on Dec. 23. The university will be closed for the holidays beginning Dec. 24.

Randall Library Hours for Exam Days and Intersession

Randall Library will observe the following exam and holiday hours: 7:30 to 2 a.m. Dec 11, 7:30 to midnight Dec. 12, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Dec. 13, 1 p.m. to 2 a.m. Dec. 14, 7:30 to 2 a.m. Dec. 15-17, 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Dec. 18, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 19, closed Dec. 20-21, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 22-23, closed Dec. 24-Jan. 4, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Jan. 5 and 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Jan. 6. Spring 1998 hours begin Jan. 7.

FRS Closing

Due to accounts payable closing, the Financial Records System (FRS) will be down from 7 a.m. Dec. 23 until 7 a.m. Dec. 24.

Campus Rec Holiday/Exam Schedule

Campus recreation will observe the following schedule during exams and the holidays:

Dec. 12
- Aerobics ..... noon to 1 p.m. and 5:15 to 6 p.m.
- Fitness Center ..... 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5 to 8 p.m.
- Recreational Swim ..... 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 6:15 to 8 p.m.

Dec. 13
- Aerobics ..... noon to 1 p.m.
- Fitness Center ..... noon to 4 p.m.
- Recreational Swim ..... 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Dec. 14
- Aerobics ..... 5:15 to 6:15 p.m.
- Fitness Center ..... 4 to 8 p.m.
- Recreational Swim ..... 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Dec. 15
- Aerobics ..... noon to 1 p.m.
- Fitness Center ..... 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5:45 to 9 p.m.
- Recreational Swim ..... 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Dec. 16
- Aerobics ..... noon to 1 p.m. and 5:15 to 6 p.m.
- Fitness Center ..... 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5:45 to 9 p.m.
- Recreational Swim ..... 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Dec. 17
- Aerobics ..... noon to 1 p.m.
- Fitness Center ..... 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- Recreational Swim ..... 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Dec. 18-19 and Dec. 22-23
- Aerobics ..... noon to 1 p.m.
- Fitness Center ..... 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.
- Recreational Swim ..... 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Facilities closed Dec. 20-21 and Dec. 24-Jan.4.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 21 December 18, 1997 | Phillip Brown, editor

Twenty-one Faculty Receive Cahill Awards

Twenty-one faculty have been awarded Charles L. Cahill Awards for faculty research and development. The selection committee, comprised of representatives of each school appointed by their respective deans, determined the winners from 39 proposals.

An annual fall competition, the awards are funded through the provost's office. This year's recipients are: Frederick Bingham, physics; Yixin Chen, history; Dale Cohen, psychology; William Cooper, chemistry; Christopher Dumas, economics and finance; Philip Furia, English; Christopher Halkides, chemistry; Paula Kamenish, English; James Kiddle, chemistry; Stephen Kinsey, biological sciences; Xin Lu, mathematical sciences; Richard Mathieu, production and decision sciences; Susan McCaffray, history; Michael Messina, chemistry; John Rack, music; Laela Sayigh, biological sciences; Lee Schweninger, English; Mariela Shirley, psychology; Robert Spaulding, history; Karen Wetherill, specialty studies; and Amy Zeng, production and decision sciences.

The Cahill Awards for faculty research and development is a long-standing university program. According to Pam Whitlock, director of the Office of Research Administration, the award is named in honor of former Provost Charles L. Cahill in recognition of his efforts to support research and scholarly activities on campus. Professor Cahill currently teaches in the chemistry department.

Steven Miller Elected AAAS Fellow

Steven Miller, associate director of the Florida Keys Research Program for the National Undersea Research Center/ UNCW, has been elected a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS).

According to the AAAS, Miller is being honored for his research on the effects of nutrients on marine algae and his leadership in coral reef research and management on a global scale, especially in the southeastern United States.

Miller will receive his award certificate during the AAAS Fellows Forum on Feb. 14 as part of the association's annual meeting in Philadelphia, Pa.

King to Speak at UNCW Jan. 14

Martin Luther King III will lecture at 7 p.m. Jan. 14 in Kenan Auditorium as part of the university's Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Birthday Celebration.

A motivational speaker for more than 20 years, King was recently elected president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the organization which his father co-founded in 1957.

He is the second oldest child of the late Dr. King and Coretta Scott King. Admission is free. Ticket information to be released at a later date.

Second Wilmington Walk of Fame Recipient Named

Celebrate Wilmington! announced the second inductee to Wilmington's Walk of Fame. Wilmington native and noted artist Minnie Evans will have a plaque dedicated in her memory as the second star on the walk located at the Cotton Exchange in downtown Wilmington. The induction ceremony will take place on Dec. 31. The Willis Richardson Players will begin the festivities by performing at approximately 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Evans was born and raised in the Wilmington area and created her first drawings in 1935. She was famous for using crayons, pencils and ink for her drawings inspired by visions she had. In 1948, she began working as gatekeeper at Airlie Gardens, where she painted and sold her works to visitors.

Mrs. Evans died at the age of 95 in 1987. A permanent exhibit of her works is on display at St. John's Museum of Art.

The Walk of Fame is the primary fund-raiser for Celebrate Wilmington! Established in 1997, the walk is designed to entice the local population and visitors to discover Wilmington's prosperous past, present and future in the arts community. The walk creates a permanent record of the notable people who've lived and worked in and around the local area.

Note of Appreciation

Nadya Labib, commencement coordinator, wishes to express her thanks to the staff who served as commencement assistants on Dec. 6. Commencement assistants played a vital role in making the ceremony a memorable event for our graduates and their families.

Bookstore Sale

The bookstore is holding a managers sale Dec. 18. All clothing, children and adults, is on sale at a 20-percent discount. Come early to get your last-minute shopping done with this special discount.

Randall Library Retires Transparency Machine

Randall Library is retiring its transparency maker after many long years of service. Transparencies can be made at the Copy Center in Westside Hall for 50 cents per sheet, transparency film included.

50th Fact

This year the U.S. Marine Corps Reserves celebrates the 50th year of its Toys for Tots program. UNCW is proud to have supported this program since its inception. On Dec. 13, UNCW men's basketball exhibition game was designated a Toys for Tots event.

Diversity Training Completed

Fourteen members of the university community were able to be part of a first for UNCW - they participated in the "Train the Trainers" workshop on diversity. The Chancellor's Human Relations Advisory Board sponsored the three-day training by the internationally recognized National Coalition Building Institute (NCBI). The organization helped UNCW set up a team that will go out and provide diversity workshops for any and all groups on campus. Training participants were: Helen Saulny, director of minority affairs; Grace Burton, education; Linda MacRae, minority affairs; Linda Adkins, College of Arts and Sciences; Anthony Wade, New Hanover County Human Relations; Heather Smith, international programs; Brenda Jordan, human resources; Sherri Batson, academic affairs; Betty Osteen, athletics; Bob Haywood, campus minister; Li-Shing Wang, student affairs; and Jane Scott, Kimberlyn Murphy and Chris Kaberline, housing and residence life.

Saulny is the UNCW chapter NCBI campus coordinator. Information about presentations/workshops can be obtained from the Office of Minority Affairs.

Metaphysics Expo

The fourth annual Metaphysics Expo will be held from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Dec. 27-28 at the Coast Line Convention Center. According to event organizer Jim Hecker, the expo's purpose is to introduce the community to the potential of self-awareness and health through the application of metaphysics. Admission is $3. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to New Hanover Animal Control.

Seahawk Bus Trip

Get your seat on the bus for the UNCW vs. Coastal Carolina game on Dec. 22. A bus will depart the campus at 2 p.m. to travel to Myrtle Beach for the 7:30 p.m. basketball game. The bus will return to UNCW around 11 p.m. The cost is $30 and includes round-trip bus transportation and one basketball ticket. The bus departs from Lot K at Trask Coliseum and will arrive at Broadway at the Beach at approximately 3:30 p.m. To reserve a spot on the bus, call Rob Brickels at ext. 7297.

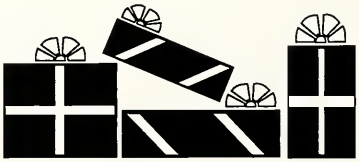
Student Timesheet Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for Jan. 15 payment is 3 p.m. Dec. 23 in the payroll office. Check with Frances Carr in career services if a student does not appear on your recap sheet before adding. Also, if there are students listed on your recap sheets who no longer work for you, send Frances a copy of the recap in order to delete them from your department.

SEANC Scholarship Program

One of the benefits of membership in the State Employees Association of North Carolina is the association's College Scholarship Program. Members, their spouses and their children are eligible to apply for scholarships to attend technical schools, community colleges, trade schools, junior colleges or four-year colleges and universities on a full-time basis. Applications and further information for District 62 members may be obtained by calling Gloria Crowell at 256-3721, ext. 218 or 392-2785.

Happy Holidays



Student Health Center Sponsors Sock Box

The Student Health Center is sponsoring the "sock box" to collect socks and toiletries for homeless men and women in the Wilmington area. Anyone interested in donating new or clean worn socks should take them to the sock box in the lobby of the Student Health Center on the second floor of Westside Hall. All contributions will be given to the Good Shepherd House on Dec. 19. For more information, contact the Student Health Center at ext. 3280.

Elvis Will Be in the Building

There's gonna be a whole lotta shakin' going on at 8 p.m. Jan. 16 in Kenan Auditorium. William M. Henderson - author, creative writing professor and acclaimed Elvis impersonator - will gyrate and croon his way into UNCW stage history.

In addition to the evening performance, Henderson will lecture from 2 to 4 p.m. in Cameron Auditorium regarding his books about Elvis impersonators, then will perform I, Elvis: Confessions of a Counterfeit King at 8 p.m. Both events are part of the Buckner Lecture Series, sponsored by the English Department, and are free and open to the public.

Henderson's afternoon lecture is a multimedia presentation and discussion on the writing of I, Elvis. Friday evening's performance opens with a reading and discussion on his new book, then Henderson dons his Elvis regalia and the music begins.

A popular professor, he has taught at N.C. State University, Duke and UNC Chapel Hill. A graduate of the Iowa Workshop Creative Writing program, Henderson is best known for the 1980s novels Stark Raving Elvis and I Killed Hemingway.

For more information, contact Paula Kamenish, Buckner Committee chair, at ext. 3617.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

John J. Manock, chemistry, and Scott Huffman presented the poster "The Use of the Monte Carlo Model to Simulate the Fate of Anthropogenic Chemicals in the Environment" at the 18th annual Society of Environmental Toxicology and Chemistry meeting in San Francisco.

Doug Kesling, NURC, presented the paper "Scientific Diving Beyond 190 FSW: The NURC/UNCW Experience" coauthored with Andy Shepard, NURC, at the 17th annual American Academy of Underwater Sciences scientific diving symposium "Diving for Science 1997" held at Northeastern University in Boston.

Bill Harris, earth sciences, coauthored the paper "Significance of Young Paleocene Rb-Sr and K-Ar Glauconite Dates from the Lang Syne Formation, Savannah River Site, South Carolina," which was published in Southeastern Geology. His coauthors were Paul Fullagar of UNC Chapel Hill and Laura Tovo of the Westinghouse Savannah River Company.

John Clifford and Janet Ellerby, English, presented papers at the South Atlantic Modern Language Asssociation convention in Atlanta. Clifford's paper was "Ethics in Cultural Studies," and Ellerby's was "Writing the Personal: Cultural Studies and the Memoir." Ellerby was also elected chair of the Society for Critical Exchange.

Amy Zeng, production and decision sciences, presented her paper "Investigating the Relationships Between Shortage Costs and Service Measures in (s, Q) Inventory Systems" at the 1997 national meeting of Decision Sciences Institute in San Diego. It was published in the conference proceedings. In addition, she served as a discussant for the tracks of production and operations management, international business and quality and productivity.

Charlotte Rath and Susan Bullers, sociology and anthropology, received the 1997 Governor's Award for Outstanding Volunteer Service for their report "Status of Women in New Hanover County" for the New Hanover Commission for Women. Gov. James Hunt presented the honor Dec. 1 in Williamston.

Mike Mallin, CMSR, gave the invited presentation "Implications of Water Quality Issues for Land-use Management" at the joint conference of the North and South Carolina chapters of the American Planning Association in Myrtle Beach.

Carol Thysell, philosophy and religion, presented her paper "Un-knitting the Napkin, Unearthing the Treasure: The Parable of the Talents as a Justification for Early Modern Women's Preaching and Prophesying" at the American Academy of Religion's annual meeting in San Francisco.

Ann Pabst, biological sciences, received an additional $154,170 for her project studying dolphin blubber and its effects on swimming capability.

Steven Dworkin, received $15,000 for "Continuing Research on Quantitative Analysis of the Reinforcing Efficacy of Stimulants."

Randy Hanson, business law, and James Smith, accounting, had their article "Proposals to Toughen Bankruptcy Law: Good News for Credit Managers" published in the December issue of Business Credit.

Rudi Kiefer, earth sciences, and Jeff Hill, HPER, presented the papers "A Hypermedia-based Study of Rainfall Characteristics of Coastal Storms and Tropical Systems in Eastern North Carolina, 1996" and "Rainfall Chemistry and Storm Type: Frontal Systems and Thunderstorms in the North Carolina Coastal Plain During 1996" at the southeastern division of the Association of American Geographers' Golden Anniversary Conference in Birmingham, Ala.

Charles Lewis, HPER, participated in the southeast parks and recreation directors forum held at the Jacksonville Commons and Recreation Complex. State Parks personnel and N.C. Recreation Resource Services staff updated conferees on the Parks and Recreation Trust Fund Act and developments in state parks in eastern North Carolina. Lewis was also appointed to the advisory board of the Cape Fear Boy Scout Council's Inner City Boys Sports Program.

Year-to-date Information on Dec. 19 Paycheck

The following information will be included on pay stubs for Dec. 19: FICA and MQFE YTD taxes and wages represent earnings for all of 1997 and federal and state taxes represent earnings from July 1 to Dec. 31, 1997.

Employees Will Receive Two W-2 Forms

Due to the transition to an internal payroll system, employees paid at the end of each month will receive two W-2 forms in January. One W-2 represents wages paid between Jan. 1 and June 30, 1997 and the other depicts wages from July 1 to Dec. 31, 1997. Both forms should be used to complete 1997 federal and state income tax returns. A letter of explanation will be mailed to assist employees in reconciling the two forms.

Procedure for Student Basketball Tickets

Students will be able to pick up their tickets to men's basketball games in advance at the Information Center in the University Union. Students will still need their student ID and will only be allowed one ticket. Students with tickets will still need to enter the coliseum at game time through the student gate and will need to show their IDs. Students will be able to purchase additional tickets in the student section the day after each home game when tickets for the following game will be available. For more information, call the information center at ext. 3841, or the Athletic Department ticket office at ext. 3233.

Work Study Reminder

Departments that have work study positions allocated for spring 1998 should get job orders (HR 1.62) to career services as soon as possible. Students are seeking work study positions, and job orders are needed to place these students. Also, notify career services if any student(s) are not returning to your department for spring 1998.

Faculty/Staff Admission to UNCW Varsity Sporting Events

Season tickets to men's basketball games are still available at the Athletic Department ticket office. For more information, call Mack Moore at ext. 3233. Tickets for all other sports at UNCW are free to faculty and staff at the gate. Faculty and staff may purchase guest tickets at the gate for $2 per guest. For more information call the Athletic Department ticket office at ext. 3233.

Fire Alarm Tests

Physical plant electric shop personnel will be testing fire alarms in the following buildings during the holiday break period Dec. 19, 22 and 23 and Jan. 5 and 6:

Belk, Galloway, Graham, Hewlett and Schwartz halls; Hawk's Nest fire suppression system; Hoggard Hall Computing Center halon system; Randall Library halon system; University Suites/Service Building; and Wagoner Hall fire suppression system.

Questions concerning these tests should be directed to the physical plant electric shop at ext. 3100.

Investment Opportunities

It is not too late for part-time faculty and temporary EPA employees to participate in a tax-deferred annuity plan that allows deferment of up to 20 percent of salary into a fixed account, mutual fund or other investment vehicle. Anyone who missed the scheduled meetings, but would like further information should call Willina Mitchell in human resources at ext. 3006.

Check Request Reminder

Check requests with multiple invoices/receipts must have an adding machine tape attached with the total amount on the request. Check requests will be returned if the tape is not attached.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-069 Office Assistant IV	Jan. 2
98-070 Copier Coordinator	Jan. 2
98-071 Police Officer I	Jan. 2
98-072 Business Career Counselor	Jan. 16
98-073 Police Telecommunicator	Jan. 2
98-074 Housekeeper (3/4)	Jan. 2
98-075 Office Assistant III	Jan. 2

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Shared Leave

Kea Foreman, CMSR/NURC, needs shared leave donations to help her avoid leave without pay while her husband is recovering from a severe illness. Send shared leave donations to human resources. Also, vacation hours in excess of 240 will convert to sick leave as of Jan. 1. If you have any questions, call Dale at ext. 3161.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 22 January 8, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Martin Luther King III to Speak in Kenan Auditorium Jan.14

UNCW will host Martin Luther King III as keynote speaker at the annual program of commemoration honoring his late father at a public lecture at 7 p.m. Jan. 14 in Kenan Auditorium.

Tickets are required for admission to this free event and may be picked up at the following locations: Kenan Auditorium box office, University Union Information Center and the Office of Minority Affairs in the University Union, Room 211. Tickets are also available at the Community Boy's and Girl's Club at 901 Nixon St. from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. The program will also air live on UNCW-TV, channel 11 on Time Warner Cable.

Sponsoring the event are the Office of Minority Affairs and the Upperman African-American Cultural Center. In addition to King's talk titled "The Dream Deferred: An Examination of the Dream of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in Today's Society," the program will include music from the UNCW Gospel Choir.

King, a motivational speaker for nearly 20 years, will assume leadership of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference on Jan. 15. A human rights advocate, community activist and political leader, King has been actively involved in significant policy initiatives to maintain the fair and equitable treatment of all citizens, at home and abroad.

In the late 1970s, he represented President Jimmy Carter in two official delegations to promote peace in foreign countries. In 1984, he toured five African nations on a fact-finding tour, the outcome of which was the "Africa Initiative," a program developed to end starvation in Africa.

In 1986, King was elected as an at-large representative on the Fulton County, Ga., Board of Commissioners. After leaving public office, King started "Americans United for Affirmative Action," a national coalition of organizations to prevent the dismantling of affirmative action initiatives across the nation. On Nov. 1, 1997, King was unanimously voted the next president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the organization which his father co-founded in 1957.

Born in Montgomery, Ala., the second oldest of the four children of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and Coretta Scott King, he majored in political science at Morehouse College in Atlanta where he received a bachelor of arts degree.

Teacher Guides and "Treasure Coast" Videos Released

UNCW Promotes Environmental Education

Teaching issues about the North Carolina coastline will be easier thanks to a teachers' guide released by UNCW. The guide expands on issues presented in the documentary Treasure Coast: The Natural Heritage of the North Carolina Shore, produced by UNCW in cooperation with N.C. State University. Treasure Coast aired on North Carolina Public Television in September. Superintendents statewide have been provided with copies of the documentary and educational guide for distribution to middle school teachers. A total of 750 guides and videos were distributed: five each to every school district in the state and one each to every county library.

Development of the guide took several months and involved educators from UNCW, public schools in coastal counties and the N.C. Department of Public Instruction. It includes activities as well as an appendix of supplemental resource materials also developed by the teacher committee. The following UNCW faculty and staff were instrumental in the guide's development: Phillip Brown, Grace Burton, Ann Crawford, Carolyn Dunn, Rich Huber, Rudi Kiefer, Ann Lockledge, Mary Moser, John Myers, Elaine Penn, Cathi Phillips, Karen Shafer and Diane Talley.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

NationsBank Executive to Speak at Cameron

James H. Hance, Jr., a vice president and chief financial officer of NationsBank Corporation, will lecture at 2 p.m. Jan. 8 in Cameron Hall. He will address the accelerating trend of consolidation in the banking and securities industry.

This is the third speech of the 1997-98 Cameron School of Business Executive Lecture Series. Everyone is invited to this free lecture.

American Studies Lecture

Professor Walter Hoelbling of Karl Franzens University in Graz, Austria, will lecture on American Studies in Europe at noon Jan. 9 in Bryan Auditorium. Hoelbling's lecture, which is free and open to the public, will focus on the European Association of American Studies that was established in Salzburg, Austria, in 1954.

Earth Sciences Seminars

Mary K. Harris, principal scientist at the Westinghouse River Technology Center, Aiken, S.C., will lecture on "Computer Mapping: Fiction or Reality?" at 1 p.m. Jan. 9 in DeLoach Hall, Room 109. Gerald Blount of the Westinghouse Savannah River Company will discuss "The Practicing Environmental Geologist" following Harris's lecture.

50th Fact

UNCW's athletic program has grown from the beginnings of Wilmington College's first basketball team. In the early years, games were played at various gymnasiums around town with only a handful of people in the stands. In fact, when Wilmington College's Charles Nivens led the nation with a 37-point average and scored a record 58 points, few people were there to celebrate his achievement.

First Seahawk Basketball Golden Social

Make your reservations for this year's first basketball pregame/post-game golden social 5:30 to 7 p.m. Jan. 17 at the Center Stage Cafe. The event is sponsored by the UNCW Alumni Association.

Prepaid reservations are required for this buffet social. Door prizes will be awarded. Active alumni and friends contributing $250 or more annually to the alumni association will be admitted with one guest for $5 per person. Other alumni and guests will be admitted for $7 per person. Children, ages six to 12, will be admitted for $5. There is no charge for children five and under. For more information, call the UNCW Alumni Association at 251-2682.

Educational Lab Spring Tutoring

The Educational Lab will offer tutoring in reading/language arts and math for children grades K-9. UNCW education students will be matched one-on-one with a child for tutoring sessions. Sessions will be once or twice a week between 3 and 6 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. Jan. 26-April 23 in King Hall, Room 203. Tutoring fees are: 20 hours of elementary reading/language arts, $150; 25 hours elementary reading/math, $187.50; 10 hours elementary math, $75; and 20 hours special needs tutoring, $150. For more information, call ext. 3633.

Wilmington Symphony Orchestra Receives Grant

The Wilmington Symphony Orchestra, jointly represented by the Department of Music and W.S.O., Inc., received a three-year grant from the New York Times Foundation to support its presentations. The orchestra is conducted by Steven Errante of the Music Department.

Mosaic Artwork on Display

Arts in Action is hosting an exhibit of mosaic artwork by Belinda Bizic. The exhibit will be displayed through Feb. 20 in the University Union Living Room. Everyone is invited to a "meet the artist" reception from 6 to 8 p.m. Jan. 8.

Bizic is actively involved in the local art community. Her interests range from acting to designing posters for local theatre productions to creating mosaics. She said she considers herself self-taught and draws her inspiration from everyone and everything. In describing her artwork, she said the appeal "is the wild, irregular shapes coming together and forming something harmonic. There is a sense of motion in the finished image that stimulates, yet soothes."

Non-traditional Students Social Planned

The Office of the Dean of Students will sponsor a "Welcome to UNCW" social for all new and returning non-traditional students from 4 to 5:45 p.m. Jan. 28 in the Glass Room of the Hawk's Nest. All faculty, staff and non-traditional students are invited to attend. Limited space will be available for schools or departments to provide informational displays during the social and will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis on the day of the event. Departments interested in having a display should contact Diane Edwards at ext. 3119 by Jan. 21.

Cape Fear Museum Lecture

Harry Warren, assistant director of the Cape Fear Museum, will present "Everything You've Ever Wanted to Know About Cape Fear Museum, but Were Afraid to Ask" at 11 a.m. Jan. 9 at the museum. The program will take a light-hearted look at the museum's history and will preview the centennial exhibit Looking Back: Cape Fear Museum's First 100 Years. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Activities at the Hawk's Nest

The following events, cosponsored by student affairs, auxiliary services, University Union and the Activities and Leadership Center, are scheduled at the Hawk's Nest: Friday Night Live, 8 p.m. Jan. 9; ESPN basketball: Georgetown vs. Villanova, 7:30 p.m. Jan. 12; ACE movie: Rebel Without a Cause, 8 p.m. Jan. 13; ACE Underground: Night at the Apollo, 9 p.m. Jan. 14; and Hawk's Nest Grand Opening Bash, 4 p.m. Jan. 15.

Elvis Impersonator Show

There's gonna be a whole lotta shakin' going on at 8 p.m. Jan. 16 in Kenan Auditorium. William M. Henderson - author, creative writing professor and acclaimed Elvis impersonator - will gyrate and croon his way into UNCW stage history.

In addition to the evening performance, Henderson will give a lecture from 2 to 4 p.m. in Cameron Auditorium regarding his books about Elvis impersonators, then will perform I, Elvis: Confessions of a Counterfeit King at 8 p.m. Both events are part of the Buckner Lecture Series, sponsored by the English Department, and are free and open to the public.

Janson Curates St. John's Art Museum Exhibit

Anthony Janson, art and theatre, guest curated the exhibit "Barbara Chase-Riboud: The Monument Drawings," which will be on display from Jan. 23 to April 11 at St. John's Museum of Art. Additionally, he designed and wrote the full-color catalogue that will accompany the exhibition.

Chase-Riboud is a painter and sculptor who has exhibited internationally. She is also the author of four novels, including Sally Hemings, a historical novel about Thomas Jefferson and his slave/mistress, and Echo of Lions, a novel that has been a source of dispute in relation to Steven Spielberg's film Amistad. Chase-Riboud will give a talk about her art and career at 2 p.m. Feb. 1 at the museum. For more information and cost, contact Richard Sceiford at 763-0281.

Summer Initiative Recipients for 1998 Named

Twenty-three faculty in the College of Arts and Sciences have been awarded Summer Initiatives for 1998. The following 15 faculty were selected by a college-appointed committee of former recipients to receive $3,000 stipends to support their research: Lindsay P. Aegerter, Wendy Brenner, Janet Ellerby, Rebecca Lee and Keith Newlin, English; Gur Saran Adhar and David Berman, mathematical sciences; Herbert Berg, philosophy and religion; Maria Cami-Vela and Peter Thomas, foreign languages and literatures; Dale Cohen, psychology; Jocelyn Gaudet, earth sciences; Lisa Pollard and Mark Spaulding, history; Stephen Skrabal, chemistry.

Eight faculty were chosen to receive $2,500 stipends for initiatives related to curriculum development: Timothy Ballard, Lawrence Cahoon and Courtney Hackney, biological sciences; Thomas Barth, political sciences; Raymond Burt, foreign languages and literatures; Eleanor Covan, sociology; Robert Cutting, environmental studies; and Ned Martin, chemistry.

A total of 35 faculty applied for the awards, which were funded through the dean's office by the provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Lloyd Jones and Steve Meinhold, political science, presented the paper "Natural Disasters and Trust in Public Officials" at the Southern Political Science Association annual meeting in Norfolk.

Paula Kamenish, English, gave the multimedia lecture "Two Maids Came to Murder - On Stage, On Screen, In Print" to faculty and students of Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio. Her talk was sponsored by the foreign languages lecture series. A version of the same lecture was given at UNCW to faculty, students and the Wilmington community.

Sue Cody, Randall Library, had her article "Historical Museums on the World Wide Web: An Exploration and Critical Analysis" published in The Public Historian.

Tom Macie, art and theatre, completed a scaled architectural model of the Poughkeepsie Municipal Building and multi-level parking garage for R.V. Buric Construction Consultants. The model is a courtroom exhibit for construction litigation in New York.

Andrew F. Clark, history, has a review of the book Africans: The History of a Continent in the current issue of The Historian (Vol. 60, No. 1, 1997): pp. 114-15.

Lisa Pollard, history, served as chair and discussant on the panel "Egyptomania: The Commodity Aesthetics of Ancient Egypt" at the annual meeting of Middle East Studies Association in San Francisco.

Michael J. Durako, biological sciences, presented the seminar "Fisheries Habitat Restoration: A Tale of Tubes, Bags and Coconuts" at the MEAS faculty seminar at North Carolina State University.

Art Spivack, earth sciences, co-authored the paper "Boron Isotope Systematics of Groundwater Pollution" presented at the meeting of the International Atomic Energy Association in Vienna, Austria. The paper will be published in the IAEA proceedings.

Mike Mallin, CMSR, gave the presentation "The Role of Phosphorus Loading in Neuse Estuary Eutrophication" at the conference "Nutrients in the Neuse River: Working Toward Solution" in New Bern.

Yoko Kano, foreign languages and literatures, presented the session "How Can Culture Be Taught in the Language Classroom" at the 31st annual American Council of Teachers of Foreign Language conference in Nashville, Tenn.

Stephen A. Skrabal, chemistry, presented the research report "Fluxes of Metal-complexing Ligands from Estuarine Sediments" at the 12th annual symposium of the Duke-UNC Oceanographic Consortium in Beaufort.

Nancy Grindlay, earth sciences, received $55,053 for her project "A High-Resolution Bathymetric and Geophysical Investigation of the Southwest Indian Ridge: Spatial Characterization of an Ultra-slow Spreading Center."

Steven Dworkin, psychology, received $37,224 for his project "Selective Opioid Receptors Involved in Cocaine Reinforcement."

Susan Lovelace, CMSR, received $20,000 for her project "Estuary-Net National Project Director."

BOT Quarterly Meetings

The regular quarterly committee meetings of the UNCW Board of Trustees are at the following times and locations Jan. 13: Business Affairs, 8 a.m. Alderman Hall, Room 211; Student Affairs, 10 a.m. Alderman Hall, Room 215; University Advancement, 11:30 a.m. Trask Coliseum, Golden Hawk Room; Academic Affairs, 1:30 p.m. Alderman Hall, Room 215; and Long Range Planning, 3:30 p.m. University Center, Room 104. The full board meeting will be at 8:30 a.m. Jan. 14 in Wagoner Hall's Madeline Suite.

Randall Library Retires Transparency Machine

Randall Library is retiring its transparency maker after many long years of service. Transparencies can be made at the Copy Center in Westside Hall for 50 cents per sheet, transparency film included.

Pre-taxing of Medical Insurance Premiums

Medical insurance premium payroll deductions are made on a pre-tax basis, which means that social security, federal, and state taxes are not paid on earnings used for payroll-deducted medical insurance premiums. Currently, 100 percent of eligible employees take advantage of these tax savings. Any employee who would like to have medical insurance premiums deducted on an after-tax basis should complete a request form by Jan. 15. To request a form, contact Elizabeth Greene at ext. 3713 or Willina Mitchell at ext. 3006.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Kea Foreman, NURC/Key Largo and for Charlotte Marion, physical plant/ painting. Help these employees avoid leave without pay by sending vacation leave hours to human resources. Thanks for supporting this valuable program. For more information, call Dale at ext. 3161.

Part-time Faculty Payroll Advantages

Effective Jan. 1, part-time faculty teaching for at least one semester have the opportunity of participating in a tax-deferred annuity that allows a deduction of up to 20 percent of salary on a tax-deferred basis to be invested in one of three university-approved vendors. For more information, contact Willina Mitchell at ext. 3006.

Additional optional deduction programs, including medical and dental insurance, are available to part-time faculty teaching at least nine semester hours for two consecutive semesters. Faculty in this group meet the "half-time" eligibility status and are offered the same benefits as half-time staff employees. Anyone who meets this criteria and is interested in learning more about available deduction programs should attend an informational meeting at 3 p.m. Jan 12 or 13 in the human resources training room. Anyone unable to attend the meeting at these times, but would like to schedule another time should call Willina Mitchell at ext. 3006.

Staff Vacancy

	Deadline
98-072 Business Career Counselor	Jan.16

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Staff Training

- Eudora, 2 to 4 p.m. Jan. 14 and 10 a.m. to noon Jan. 22.
- Microsoft Powerpoint 7, 2 to 4 p.m. Jan 27 and 28.
- Microsoft Word 7, 10 a.m. to noon, Jan. 13 and 21.
- InfoTrac Databases: Searching for Magazine and Newspaper Articles, 2 p.m. Jan. 16, 11 a.m. Jan. 27, 1 p.m. Jan. 28 and 2 p.m. Jan. 29
- Netscape Searching, 10 a.m. Jan. 9, 3 p.m. Jan. 14, 10 a.m. Jan. 23 and 1 p.m. Jan. 28.
- Randall Online Catalog, 10 a.m. Jan. 9, 3 p.m. Jan. 12, 11 a.m. Jan. 13 and 12:30 p.m. Jan. 15.
- Parenting Your Parents: Session I, 9 a.m. to noon Jan. 28.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357. To register for library workshops, call ext. 3760.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Perry Campbell, financial aid; Michael Smith and Raymond Taylor, physical plant; Clifford Rassweiler, NURC; Charles Niforos, university police; Gregory Newport, systems procedures; and Kate Walsh, public service and extended education.

Undergraduate Student Employment

Departments hiring undergraduate students for the spring semester are reminded to follow the instructions provided in Administrative Procedure HR 1.60. Special attention should be given to the following:

Departments must list all undergraduate Federal Work-study vacancies and all work-assistance vacancies with career services via a job order (form HR 1.62).

Once a student has been hired, the department should initiate a HR 1.60 form, which is available in the printing services forms catalog.

Student pay rates should be established in accordance with Appendix A.

Departments must follow instructions regarding recap sheet responsibilities and termination of undergraduate student employment.

This policy may be reviewed on the World Wide Web. The Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual is linked off the UNCW home page under administration and is also accessible via the business affairs home page.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 23 January 15, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW Names Jim Walters New Director of Admissions

The University of North Carolina at Wilmington has named James C. Walters as its new director of admissions.

Currently associate vice chancellor for enrollment planning at UNC Chapel Hill, Walters will assume his duties at UNC Wilmington July 1, Associate Provost Denis Carter said.

Walters said he looks forward to undertaking the position. "It will be exciting to be part of a talented and positive team of college administrators and educators." Walters added he anticipates helping UNCW advance its student enrollment goals. "Although our goal will be aggressive recruitment of quality students, we must always maintain a high degree of personalization that is increasingly difficult to find in today's complex and impersonal world. Our aim will be to provide the best service possible to the institution and prospective students, parents, counselors and friends of UNCW."

In addition to serving as associate vice chancellor for enrollment planning at UNC Chapel Hill, Walters was director of admissions at UNC CH from 1991-97. Walters also served as director of admissions and registration services at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio, from 1975-91 and director of admissions and financial aid at the State University of New York in Oswego from 1971-75.

Walters

Elvis Impersonator, Lecturer to Perform in Kenan Auditorium Jan. 16

Henderson as the "King"

There's gonna be a "whole lotta shakin' going on" at 8 p.m. Friday in Kenan Auditorium. William M. Henderson - author, creative writing professor and acclaimed Elvis impersonator - will gyrate and croon his way into UNCW stage history.

In addition to the evening performance, Henderson will lecture from 2 to 4 p.m. in Cameron Auditorium regarding his books about Elvis impersonators, then will perform I, Elvis: Confessions of a Counterfeit King at 8 p.m. Both events are part of the Buckner Lecture Series, sponsored by the English Department, and are free and open to the public.

Henderson's afternoon lecture is a multimedia presentation and discussion on the writing of I, Elvis. Friday evening's performance opens with a reading and discussion on his new book, then Henderson dons his Elvis regalia and the music begins.

A popular professor, he has taught at N.C. State University, Duke and UNC Chapel Hill. A graduate of the Iowa Workshop Creative Writing program, Henderson is best known for the 1980s novels Stark Raving Elvis and I Killed Hemingway.

Trading in his chinos and oxfords for a jeweled jumpsuit, Henderson discovered what it takes to travel a road once covered only in his imagination. In his live show, Henderson takes the story of his novel on stage and boogies with the best of Elvis impersonators.

Following the evening performance, Bristol Books will have copies of Henderson's book for sale, and the author will be available for signing.

For more information, contact Paula Kamenish, Buckner Committee chair, at ext. 3617.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Honors Scholars Lecture

Barbara Katz Rothman from the City University of New York will discuss the technological issues of reproduction and their implications for gender in her talk "On Order: From Cloning to Cataloguing in Childbearing" at 7 p.m. Jan. 29 in Cameron Auditorium. This is the second lecture in the "Activisim for the 21st Century" Honors Scholars Program Lectures Series. The presentation is free and open to the public. For more information, call the Honors Scholars Program Office at ext. 4181.

Andean Lecture

Luis Zuniga from Quito, Ecuador, will lecture on the indigenous movement in Ecuador, violence in Colombia and the on-going military conflict between Peru and Ecuador at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 28 in Cameron Hall, Room 105. Zuniga is the director of the Andean Office of the American Friends Service Committee. The lecture is sponsored by the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and the UNCW minor in Latin American Studies.

Tax Forms at Post Office

Tax forms are now available in the post office lobby. Also, postal services has a new $3 commemorative stamp for sale that celebrates the landing of the Mars Pathfinder on July 4, 1997.

50th Fact

Pursuant to Chapter 1060, Session Laws of 1945, entitled "An Act to Provide for the Establishment of a Junior College in New Hanover County, N.C.," the New Hanover County Board of Education, at its regular meeting held on Monday, Jan. 13, 1947, unanimously voted to request the County Commissioners of New Hanover County to call for an election that ultimately led to the establishment of Wilmington College.

Funds Available from Friends of UNCW

Friends of UNCW seek proposals from faculty and staff for departmental projects. Limited funding is available, but all proposals will receive careful review and consideration. Request forms are available in the Office of University Advancement, Alderman Hall, Room 108. Proposal deadline is Jan. 25.

Physics Department Lecture

Jorge V. Jose, Matthews distinguished university professor and director of the Center for the Interdisciplinary Research on Complex Systems, Northeastern University, will present the lecture "The Pervasive Presence of Chaos in Nature" at 2 p.m. Friday in Bear Hall, Room 206. Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Basketball on UNCW-TV

The Jan. 31 men's basketball game against George Mason University will be broadcast live by UNCW-TV at 7:30 p.m. on Time Warner Cable, channel 11.

Registrar's Office Selling Refrigerator

The registrar's office is selling a dorm-sized refrigerator. Interested departments should contact Alice at ext. 3126.

Regalia Sale

The bookstore and Jostens will have a special sale of custom regalia Feb 9 and 10. A 20-percent discount on custom regalia will be available, and the bookstore will offer a special custom gown, tam and hood for $359 complete. A Jostens representative will be available for custom fittings. Appointments for fittings are available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; call Jessiebeth at ext. 3054. Also, call Jessiebeth to request a regalia brochure.

Basketball Jersey Retirement Ceremony

The ceremony to retire Billy Mayhew's basketball jersey will be held prior to the men's basketball game at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Financial Aid Workshop

The Office of Financial Aid is sponsoring a workshop from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Jan. 28 in Cameron Auditorium to assist anyone applying for financial aid. Counselors will be able to provide application forms and help with their preparation. Also, questions can be answered during the financial aid phone-a-thon from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Jan. 27-29. Free calls to 1-888-574-5876 will be answered by professionals from the N.C. Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators. Both events are held to celebrate Financial Aid Awareness Week, Jan. 25-31.

Grand Cayman Islands Raffle

Raffle tickets are on sale for a trip to the Grand Cayman Islands. Tickets are $50 each with only 400 being sold. The proceeds will benefit the UNCW Baseball Program. Each ticket holder will receive dinner for two and invitations to the drawing party Feb. 9, two tickets to the UNCW vs. Richmond basketball game and two tournament passes to the Ralston Purina Baseball Challenge. The grand prize includes accommodations for eight days and seven nights, round-trip airfare for two and $500. Raffle tickets may be purchased at the Athletics and Marketing Promotions Office in Trask Coliseum or at any home men's basketball game. The grand prize vacation is being donated by Twin Travel and Cruises. For more information, call Rob Brickels at ext. 7297.

Art Exhibits

Arts is Action is hosting the exhibit Renditions III, which includes artwork by Evonne Phillips, Pat Murphy Carrasco and Phyllis Riley. The exhibit, being held in the University Center Lobby Gallery, will be on display through Feb. 20.

Arts in Action Presents Brosseau Danceworks

Brosseau Danceworks, a nationally recognized modern dance company based in Charlotte, will perform at 8 p.m. Jan. 31 in Kenan Auditorium. Their performances are known for extreme physicality, poetic images and drama. Tickets are available at Kenan Auditorium box office and are $6 for faculty and staff, $12 for the general public and $3 for children.

Faculty Web Pages

How do UNCW faculty use web pages to enrich their courses? Find out from 10 faculty and see how course pages communicate, link other pages and allow interactive participation during a presentation from 7 to 9 p.m. Jan. 22 in the new Science Building, Room 132. The presentations are sponsored by the UNCW Technology College and the Center for Teaching Excellence. Refreshments will be served following the presentations.

Biology Seminar

Martin Posey will present "Regulation of Estuarine Bottom Communities: Effects of Nutrients and Predation" at 2 p.m. Friday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Parliamentary Law Class

The YWCA of Wilmington is offering a parliamentary law class from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursdays Jan. 22-Feb. 12. For more information or cost, contact the YWCA at 799-6820.

Learning Center Offers Tutoring

The UNCW Learning Center offers free tutoring in all 100- and 200-level courses, except math and English. Students who would like to attend one or all of the weekly sessions should sign up at the Learning Center on the second floor of Westside Hall. Faculty are encouraged to announce this free service to classes.

At the Hawk's Nest

The faculty and staff dining room buffet lunches will begin Friday. The menu will include homestyle meatloaf, turkey and broccoli with cheddar cheese sauce, mashed potatoes with gravy, green beans, sauteed zucchini and carrots, assorted rolls, salads, beverages and desserts. The Jan. 20 menu will include Caesar salad, salad taverna, chicken parmesan over fettuccini with marinara sauce, vegetable lasagna, garlic broccoli, Italian roasted vegetables, assorted rolls, beverages and desserts.

The Hawk's Nest new coffee bar is now open and serving Java Estates gourmet coffee, fresh baked bagels, muffins and pastries, and Healthy Choice deli sandwiches. It is open from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. and 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Fridays.

In Memorial

Phillip Windham

May 21, 1953 to Jan. 9, 1998

Purchasing services and UNCW suffered a great loss with the untimely death of purchasing agent Phillip Windham. Purchasing services gratefully appreciates all the support and understanding everyone has shown during the last week. The Windham family has also expressed appreciation for the university-wide response to its suffering. Those who knew and had worked with Phillip experienced his proactive attitude and his conscientiousness about his job. He was the same way with his family, his church, his friends and anything he undertook. Phillip will be missed.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Maura Kropke, Museum of World Cultures, received the First Year Professional Award from the North Carolina Museums Council.

Patricia H. Kelley, earth sciences, has been named to the editorial board of the journal Geology.

Melton McLaurin, academic affairs, received $4,000 for his project "The 1898 Wilmington Racial Violence and Its Legacy: A Symposium."

Paul Cairney, women's soccer coach, participated in the NCAA's Youth Education through Sports (YES) soccer clinic at UNC Greensboro. The camp was held in conjunction with the NCAA Division I Women's Soccer Championships. Cairney was one of 13 collegiate coaches who conducted special sessions for the clinic.

Bruce Ragon and Mike Perko, HPER, received $2,000 for their project "Healthy People Lecture Series and Children with Cancer Health Fair."

John Taggart, CMSR, received $10,000 for his project "FY 98 State Operations Award for the North Carolina National Estuarine Research Reserve."

James Kiddle, chemistry, received $5,000 for his project "Cyclopropane Analogues of Cocaine: New Probes for the Dopamine Transporter."

Lewis Abrams, earth sciences, received $25,458 for his project "Multichannel Seismic Profiling Over Naura Basin and Onton - Java Plateau on University of Tokyo Cruise, KH-98-1."

Stephen A. Skrabal, chemistry, had the paper "Fluxes of Copper-complexing Ligands from Estuarine Sediments" published in vol. 42 of Limnology and Oceanography. Co-authors were J.R. Donat and D.J. Burdige of Old Dominion University.

Wilson Freshwater, CMSR, gave the invited lecture "Multigene Phylogenies Identify Evolutionary Lineages Based on Nutritional Strategies of the Cystocarp in the Gelidiales" at the second International Workshop on Gelidium held in Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, Canary Islands, Spain. Coauthor on the paper was former Biology Department student, J. Craig Bailey who is now a researcher at the Bigelow Laboratory for Ocean Science, Maine.

Brooks Dodson, English, served as an evaluator of essays written as part of the SAT exam. He was one of about 100 college and high school instructors from around the country who gathered in Eatontown, N.J., and collectively read approximately 58,000 essays. Each essay was evaluated by at least two readers.

Student Absences

The Office of the Dean of Students cannot and does not excuse student absences in cases of emergency (e.g., extended illness, hospitalization, death in the family, etc.). If the student or parents are unable to contact instructors directly, a member of the office's staff will forward information to the department. This notification serves to relay information and is not a verification.

W-5 Advance Earned Income Credit Elections

Anyone eligible for the earned income credit (EIC) and wishes to receive advance EIC payments must complete a new W-5 form for 1998. The form is available from payroll. For advance EIC payments to be effective on January paychecks, payroll must receive a new W-5 by 5 p.m. Jan. 21.

Purchasing Reminder

Departments are reminded to return furniture brochures and fabric cards not being considered for projects to Gail Batten in purchasing.

1998 Orientation Dates

The 1998 orientation dates are: May 19, June 24 and Aug. 14, transfers; June 7-8, 10-11, 14-15, 17-18, 22-23 and Aug. 16-17, freshmen; and Aug. 13, unclassified students. If you have any questions, contact the Orientation Office at ext. 3089.

Randall Library Hours for King Holiday

Randall Library will be open from 3 p.m. until midnight Jan. 19, Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday.

Housing Lottery

The sign-up for the 1998-99 on-campus housing lottery continues through Feb. 27. To enter the lottery, students must submit a housing application with the required $100 application fee by Feb. 27. The lottery is UNCW's way of determining room assignments for returning students.

Staff Training

- Eudora, 10 a.m. to noon Jan. 22.
- Microsoft Powerpoint 7, 2 to 4 p.m. Jan 27 and 28.
- Microsoft Word 7, 10 a.m. to noon, Jan. 21.
- InfoTrac Databases: Searching for Magazine and Newspaper Articles, 11 a.m. Jan. 27, 1 p.m. Jan. 28 and 2 p.m. Jan. 29.
- Netscape Searching, 10 a.m. Jan. 23 and 1 p.m. Jan. 28.
- Parenting Your Parents: Session I, 9 a.m. to noon Jan. 28.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357. To register for library workshops, call ext. 3760.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Kea Foreman, NURC/Key Largo and for Charlotte Marion, physical plant/ painting. Please help these employees avoid leave without pay by sending vacation leave hours to human resources. Thanks for supporting this valuable program. For more information, call Dale at ext. 3161.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employee:

James Drew, institutional research.

Eight-page Campus Communique Planned

The Jan. 29 edition will be an eight-page issue of the Campus Communique. The deadline for submissions for this issue is 5 p.m. Jan. 26.

Staff Vacancy

	Deadline
98-072 Business Career Counselor	Jan. 16

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

W-2 Distribution

W-2 forms for 1997 will be distributed Jan. 30. W-2 forms for currently employed permanent faculty and staff will be available for pick-up by departmental representatives at the cashier's office. W-2's for currently enrolled undergraduate students will be sent to students' UNCW post office box. All other W-2 forms will be mailed.

Distribution of Jan. 30 paychecks will not be affected.

Non-traditional Students Social Planned

The Office of the Dean of Students will sponsor a "Welcome to UNCW" social for all new and returning non-traditional students from 4 to 5:45 p.m. Jan. 28 in the Glass Room of the Hawk's Nest. All faculty, staff and non-traditional students are invited to attend. Limited space will be available for schools or departments to provide informational displays during the social and will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis on the day of the event. Departments interested in having a display should contact Diane Edwards at ext. 3119 by Jan. 21.

First Seahawk Basketball Golden Social

Make your reservation for this years's first basketball pregame/ postgame golden social 5:30 to 7 p.m. Jan. 17 at the Center Stage Cafe. The event is sponsored by the UNCW Alumni Association.

Prepaid reservations are required for this buffet social. Door prizes will be awarded. Active alumni and friends contributing $250 or more annually to the alumni association will be admitted with one guest for $5 per person. Other alumni and guests will be admitted for $7 per person. Children, ages six to 12, will be admitted for $5. There is no charge for children five and under. For more information, call the UNCW Alumni Association at 251-2682.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 24 January 22, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW to Begin Planning for Three New Master's Degree Programs

UNCW has been given authorization to plan three new master's degree programs. Approved Jan. 9 by the UNC Board of Governors as part of the university's long-range plan, the programs are:

• Master of Arts in applied information technology, Watson School of Education. The field of instructional technology includes aspects of instructional design and development, communication, product development electronic distance education, management and consultation and library and information technology. Instructional technology includes the theory and practice of design, development, utilization, management and evaluation of the processes and resources for learning. The use of computers, videodisks, multimedia, distance education and other advanced technologies for instruction will be emphasized throughout the program. Students will represent a wide range of undergraduate majors and may include business and industry personnel such as executives, trainers and human resource development employees; teachers and school technology coordinators; persons in the health care field; and community college instructors. It offers a flexible career path which would put graduates in the forefront of innovations in education, business, government and health care industries. This is a 36-credit hour program that could be completed in two years full-time or three years part-time study. Neil Hadley, dean of UNCW's Graduate School, expects UNCW to offer this degree by fall 1999.

• Master of Science in nursing, School of Nursing. In July, UNCW received a three-year $720,199 grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services to plan a master's degree program for rural and urban family nurse practitioners. The proposed 50-credit hour, four-semester program will prepare students to take the American Nurses Association's certification exam and apply for North Carolina licensure as a family nurse practitioner. Additional components of the program will be a competence in Spanish and approximately 700 hours of clinical practice primarily in rural and urban health settings under faculty supervision. With much of the planning process already complete, the university expects quick approval to establish the program by the UNC Board of Governors so it can be offered to students in fall 1998.

• Master of Arts in liberal studies, Interdisciplinary Studies, College of Arts and Sciences. This 30-credit interdisciplinary program is designed for adult scholars who want to engage in both directed and independent scholarship at the graduate level on subjects not bound by the curricula of traditional disciplines. It is geared primarily toward individuals who are not seeking a degree in one specific major, but who would like to take a broad spectrum of courses which would provide them with the critical thinking and articulation skills needed to make connections between their own ideas and problems they face in their communities and in their careers. It will allow students to engage in continuing education under the guidance of university faculty who advise them in the selection of courses and the completion of a final independent project. Although four other constituent institutions offer graduate liberal studies programs, no such program exists at either a public or private institution in the eastern third of the state.The rapid growth of population in southeastern North Carolina, the strong demand for higher education opportunities that UNCW is currently addressing in Onslow County and the ongoing diversification of the region's economic base have resulted in a growing demand for continuing education courses for adult learners. Dean Hadley expects UNCW to offer this degree by fall 1999.

Athletic Hall of Fame Planned for UNCW

In conjunction with UNCW's 50th anniversary celebration, an athletic hall of fame designed to honor former student-athletes, coaches and administrators has been established.

Announced by Paul Miller, director of athletics, the UNC Wilmington Athletic Hall of Fame will have its charter induction on May 9. Up to five individuals will make up the first class of inductees.

"We're very pleased to announce the formation of this hall of fame," said Miller. "It's only fitting that we honor those who have contributed to the success of the program through the years. This will help us recognize key contributors to the program and build on the tradition they started."

An 11-person selection committee will determine inductees from an established criteria. Candidates must have made outstanding contributions during their association with UNCW. As a student-athlete, the individual must have left the university as a graduate. Teacher-coach or administrators candidates must have held their position for at least five years. Also, special consideration will be given to significant contributions to society through community activities and performance in chosen fields that bring credit and distinction to the university.

Inductees will be honored at a ceremony with special plaques commemorating their induction to be displayed at a location to be determined. Anyone can nominate a prospective candidate. The deadline for the first nominees is March 1. Nomination forms can be obtained through the Sports Information Office and must be submitted to the athletics director in the William P. Nixon, Jr. Annex adjacent to Trask Coliseum.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

1998 Recital Series

The Department of Music presents its first of four concerts of the 1998 recital series at 8 p.m. Jan. 29 in Kenan Auditorium.

The first concert will feature the Lanier Trio. Since its debut in 1986, the ensemble has toured extensively in the U.S., Germany, and Poland and has released a two-CD set entitled Anton Dvorak: The Four Piano Trios. The trio is composed of violinist William Preucil, cellist Dorothy Lewis and pianist Cary Lewis. In addition to their evening performance, the trio will present a short lecture/performance on how a professional trio collaborates from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. in Kenan Auditorium. The presentation is free and open to the public. For evening performance ticket information, call the Kenan Auditorium Box Office at ext. 3500.

Note of Appreciation

The family of Ronald Whittaker, registrar, wants to thank the "university family" for its expressions of sympathy and prayers following the recent death of his father.

History Lecture

Stanley Payne of the University of Wisconsin-Madison will present the lecture "The Spanish Civil War and the Second World War" at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 6 in Morton Hall's Bryant Auditorium.

50th Fact

In early 1961, Hubert A. Eaton, local physician and civic leader, joined other African-American community leaders in working with Board of Trustees Chairman John T. Hoggard to integrate Wilmington College. Chairman Hoggard met with a group of African-American citizens in Dr. Eaton's office and committed the college by "gentlemen's agreement" to close Williston College and to admit all qualified students to Wilmington College by the fall of 1962.

Visiting Writer to Hold Informal Poetry Chats

Philip Levine, visiting writer-in-residence, will hold two informal sessions to discuss poetry and other matters at 4 p.m. today and Feb. 12 in the Morton Hall Faculty Commons. Everyone is invited to attend.

CAA Basketball Tournament Information

The 1998 CAA Basketball Tournament will be held Feb. 25 to March 1 at the Richmond Coliseum in Richmond, Va. The tournament will include men's and women's games. Lower level seating is available for Seahawk fans who reserve their tickets before Feb. 16. Embassy Suites will be UNCW's tournament hotel headquarters. Room reservations must be made by Feb. 1. To reserve rooms, call 1-800-Embassy. For more information, contact the Seahawk Club at ext. 3571.

Alumni Association Basketball Social

The UNCW Alumni Association is hosting its second basketball social at 5:30 p.m. Jan. 31 in the Hawk's Nest. For reservations or other information, call ext. 2682.

New Prefix for Alumni Relations

Alumni relations has a new prefix, 962. The change affects the phone numbers for the following: Pat Corcoran, 962-2681; Tracie Chadwick, 962-2682; Cara Hayes, 962-2683; and Mike Arnold, 962-2684. To reach any of the above when calling from a UNCW phone, just dial the extension number. The Office of Alumni Relations is located at Wise Alumni House.

Basketball Tickets

While there is no bus trip planned for the Jan. 24 men's basketball game vs. ECU, tickets can be purchased through ECU by calling 919/328-4500.

Biology Seminars

J. Rudi Strickler, senior scientist at the Center for Great Lake Studies, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, will present "Perceiving the Realm of Plankton" at 2 p.m. today in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Also, Timothy Moerland from Florida State University will present "Moving Around in Muscle" at 2 p.m. Friday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Retirement Gifts at the Bookstore

For departments needing June retirement gifts, the bookstore has a large selection of 50th anniversary gift items, an extended line of brass clocks with the engraved seal, captain's chairs and Boston rockers. Early selection is necessary for personalized items. All gifts purchased with an IDI receive a 20-percent discount.

Volunteers Woodlot Project

The UNCW Volunteers will sponsor a woodlot project Jan. 24. Volunteers will travel to the Salvation Army woodlot to chop and deliver wood to people who do not have electric heat. Anyone interested in helping should meet at 8 a.m. Saturday at the University Union.

Regiment Band Performance

The Regiment Band of the 11th N.C. Troops will perform from 7 to 9 p.m. Jan. 24 in the University Center. Tickets are $8 and can be purchased at the door. Proceeds from the concert, sponsored by the Cape Fear Civil War Round Table, will benefit Civil War battlefield

Funds Available from Friends of UNCW

Friends of UNCW seek proposals from faculty and staff for departmental projects. Limited funding is available, but all proposals will receive careful review and consideration. Request forms are available in the Office of University Advancement, Alderman Hall, Room 108. Proposal deadline is Jan. 25.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

Your Student Career Journal

UNCW Career Services • Vol 2, No 3 • January 1998

Career Events For Spring '98

MAKING THAT "MAJOR" DECISION
Assessing your interests to help you choose an appropriate academic major.
Wednesday, February 25
4-5pm, UU 106

Tuesday, March 31
4-5pm, UU 106

CAREER EXPRESS
Drop-by with quick questions about internships, majors, resumes, etc.
Every Monday
5-8pm, 104 Univ Union

Every Wednesday
12:30-2:00pm, Univ Ctr Lobby

SELLING YOURSELF ON PAPER: RESUMES & COVER LETTERS
Helpful hints on writing powerful resumes and cover letters.
Tuesday, February 3
4-5pm, UU 106

Wednesday, March 4
4-5pm, UU 106

INTERVIEW TO WIN: PREPARING FOR JOB INTERVIEWS
How to research potential employers, prepare for typical questions, etc.
Wednesday, February 11
4-5pm, UU 106

Thursday, March 19
4-5pm, UU 106

JOB HUNTING: YOUR SENIOR PROJECT
Job hunting tips for today's job market.
Thursday, February 19
4-5pm, UU 106

Tuesday, March 24
4-5pm, UU 106

Job Outlook '98

A strong economy, a labor shortage, and low inflation– these define the job market for the Class of 1998, according to the National Association for Colleges and Employers (NACE). This year's college grads will get the graduation gift of choice– lots of job opportunities.

Nearly 70 percent of the employers responding to the NACE survey said they plan to increase new graduate hiring. Overall, hiring will be up 19.1 percent for new grads.

The South (Florida west to Texas and north to Maryland) leads all other regions in potential job market growth. Employers there say they will hire 27.3 percent more new graduates than they did last year, with wholesale and retail merchandisers, computer software/data processing firms, petroleum companies, and textile and apparel firms projecting the strongest increases in hiring.

In the West, employers from the Rockies to the Pacific Coast report they will increase new graduate hiring by 22.8 percent. Stimulating that growth are electronic equipment manufacturers and computer software/data processing firms whose fortunes are tied to strong, across-the-board demand for computers and other technology.

Midwest employers plan to hire 16.2 percent more graduates than last year. Consulting firms, insurance companies, chemicals and allied products firms, merchandisers, and metal products manufacturers project some of the strongest demand in this region.

The Northeast lags behind all other regions in hiring projections, although employers there sill anticipate hiring almost 10 percent more new grads than they did in 1996-97. Communication services firms, insurance companies, and various types of manufacturers project strong hiring needs.

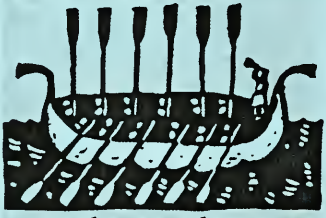
For more information, see the NACE web site at <http://www.jobweb.org/>

A full course workshop and business meal. Preregistration Required. Tickets may be purchased at Career Services, 106 University Union. Limited number of spaces available, so register early. Deadline for ticket purchases: Tuesday, February 17th.

Entrees

- Enjoy a Delicious Six Course Meal
- Learn Dining Do's & Don'ts
- Practice Business Etiquette Skills
- Visit with Business Executives and UNCW Guests
- Review Business Attire– Dress & Casual

Join the Crew...



...at Career Services

Applications are now open for five volunteer positions in UNCW's Career Services for Spring 1998. As a Career Specialist, you will gain training and experience in: career planning, resources, UNCW Careers Registration, the World Wide Web, employer development, etc. Applications available in 104 & 106 University Union. Deadline for applications: 5pm, Friday, January 23, 1998.

On-Campus Recruiting • Spring '98

New Employers are added throughout the semester, so for the most current schedule please see the "Services for Students" section of our Career Services homepage <http://www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/career>

Sign-up sheets are first available in Career Services, UU 106, on Mondays four weeks before the scheduled interview dates. Students must be registered with our office by uploading their UNCW Careers disks at least one week prior to the scheduled interview. Any cancellation of an interview appointment must be made at least 24 hours prior to the scheduled interview.

State Farm Insurance
Majors: All
Mon, Feb 2, Presentation: 5pm, Cameron 132
Tues, Feb 3, Interviews
Positions: Underwriting Trainee, Claim Rep Trainee, Tech Training Admin

K-Mart
Tuesday, February 3
Positions: Management Trainee Majors: All

SAS Institute
Tuesday, February 3
Majors: CSC, PDS, Math
Positions: Various

Hannaford Brothers
Presentation: Wednesday, February 4
6-8pm, Morton Auditorium - Rm 100

North Carolina Highway Patrol
Thursday, February 5
Majors: CRJ, PLS
Position: Highway Patrol Officer

Colorworks
Thursday, February 5
Majors: All
Position: Summer - Territory Managers

First Citizens Bank
Tuesday, February 10
Position: Auditor Trainee Majors: Accounting
Wednesday, February 11
Positions: Management Majors: All

Wachovia Bank
Wednesday, February 11
Position: Retail Bankers Majors: All

BB & T
Thursday, February 12
Majors: Business
Position: Management Associates

Hannaford Brothers
Tuesday, February 17
Position: Management Majors: All

Intelligent Information Systems
Thursday, February 19
Majors: PDS, Math, CSC
Positions: Various

Universal Forest Products
Tuesday, February 24
Positions: Product Mngr Trainee Majors: All

Burlington Industries
Wednesday, February 25
Majors: Accounting, Finance, Chemistry, PDS, Business Management
Position: Internships - Rising Jrs & Rising Srs

Lowes
Wednesday, February 25
Position: Management Trainee Majors: TBA

Keane Incorporated
Wednesday, February 25, 7-8:30pm
Presentation: University Union - 206
Thursday, February 26
Position: Computer Consultants
Majors: PDS, CSC (3.0 GPA or higher)

Victaulic
Thursday, February 26
Positions: TBA

Research Triangle Institute
Friday, February 27
Positions: Chemists Majors: Chemistry

Enterprise Rent A Car
Friday, February 27
Friday, March 20
Friday, April 24
Position: Management Majors: All

Aerotek
Presentation: Monday, March 2, 6-7:30pm
University Union 210
Interviews: Tuesday, March 3

John Hancock
Tuesday, March 3, 6-7:30pm
Presentation: Cameron Hall - 212
Wednesday, March 4
Positions: Marketing Rep Majors: All

Hughes Supply
Thursday, March 5
Position: Sales/Mngt Trainee Majors: All

Central Carolina Bank & Trust Co.
Thursday, March 5
Majors: All Business Administration

Sherwin Williams
Tuesday, March 17
Positions: Management Majors: All

IBM
Friday, March 20
Position: Programmers, etc. Majors: CSC, PDS

Tangram Enterprises
Monday, March 23 Majors: CSC
Positions: Systems Engineer, Entry Level GUI Developer, Software Developer C/C++

Iredell-Statesville County Schools
Monday, March 23
Position: Teaching Majors: All Education

Walt Disney World
Monday, March 23
Presentation: Location to be announced
6:00 pm - Must attend presentation to sign up for interview the next day!

Walt Disney World
Tuesday, March 24
Positions: Part Time Majors: All

Catawba County Schools
Wednesday, March 25
Positions: Teaching Majors: All Education

Guilford County Schools
Friday, April 3
Positions: Teaching Majors: All Education

Wayne County Schools
Friday, April 3
Positions: Teaching Majors: All Education

Pender County Schools
Monday & Tuesday, April 6 - 7
Positions: Teaching Majors: All Education

Moore County Schools
Tuesday, April 7
Positions: Teaching Majors: All Education

Brunswick County Schools
Wednesday, April 8
Wednesday, April 29
Positions: Teaching Majors: All Education

Pitt County Schools
Friday, April 17
Position: Teaching Majors: All Education

CAREER SERVICES

University of North Carolina at Wilmington
Division Of Student Affairs
Creating Experiences for Life
104 & 106 University Union
910.962.3174

UNCW Careers Registration

The new Windows version is here! Now it's even easier for you to become part of this powerful electronic database. What can your UNCW Careers disk do for you?

- A portfolio for gathering all collegiate activities & leadership experiences.
- Preparation for internship opportunities.
- A tutorial for developing four powerful, professional resumes.
- Referral of your resume for internships & job openings in small & large organizations.
- Option to post your resume on the World Wide Web.
- Access to on-campus recruiting organizations.
- Periodic email notices about workshops, on-campus recruiters and job opportunities.

Choosing a major? Looking for a career? Got a dream job in mind, but don't know where to start? Get a REALITY CHECK with SIGI-PLUS, the fast, easy-to-use software that helps you make important decisions about your future. And it's free! Call Career Services at 962-3174 to schedule your time with SIGI-Plus.

Honors Scholars Lecture

Barbara Katz Rothman from the City University of New York will discuss the technological issues of reproduction and their implications for gender in her talk "In Order: From Cloning to Catalogu-ing in Childbearing" at 7 p.m. Jan. 29 in Cameron Auditorium. This is the second lecture in the "Activisim for the 21st Century" Honors Scholars Program Lectures Series. The presentation is free and open to the public. A reception will follow the lecture. For more information, call the Honors Scholars Program Office at ext. 4181.

Symposium on Chemistry and Biochemistry

The Department of Chemistry will host the second UNCW Symposium on Chemistry and Biochemistry Jan. 30 and 31 in the new Science Building. This year's symposium features 12 noted chemists and biochemists who will each provide a lecture on their area of interest. The event begins with a luncheon at 12:15 p.m. Jan. 30 in the University Union, Room 100 followed by a poster session on the second floor of the new Science Building. Talks by the invited participants will begin at 2:15 p.m. in Room 205. The symposium is free and open to all interested; no registration is required. The two luncheons and Friday dinner are open to anyone attending the event; the cost is $5 for lunch, $10 for dinner ($5 for students), payable at the door. Meal reservations are required by noon Jan. 23. To make reservations or for more information, call Ned H. Martin at ext. 3453.

Regalia Sale

The bookstore and Jostens will have a special sale of custom regalia Feb. 9 and 10. A 20-percent discount on custom regalia will be available, and the bookstore will offer a special custom gown, tam and hood for $359 complete. A Jostens representative will be available for custom fittings. Appointments for fittings are available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; call Jessiebeth at ext. 3054.

Andean Lecture

Luis Zuniga from Quito, Ecuador, will lecture on the indigenous movement in Ecuador, violence in Colombia and the on-going military conflict between Peru and Ecuador at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 28 in Cameron Hall, Room 105. Zuniga is the director of the Andean Office of the American Friends Service Committee. The lecture is sponsored by the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures and the UNCW minor in Latin

Faculty Web Pages

How do UNCW faculty use web pages to enrich their courses? Find out from 10 faculty and see how course pages communicate, link other pages and allow interactive participation during a presentation from 7 to 9 p.m. tonight in the new Science Building, Room 132. The presentations are sponsored by the UNCW Technology College and the Center for Teaching Excellence. Refreshments will be served following the presentations.

Financial Aid Workshop

The Office of Financial Aid is sponsoring a workshop to assist anyone applying for financial aid from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Jan. 26 in Cameron Auditorium. Counselors will be able to provide application forms and help with their preparation. Also, questions can be answered during the financial aid phone-a-thon from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Jan. 27-29. Free calls to 1-888-574-5876 will be answered by professionals from the N.C. Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators. Both events are held to celebrate Financial Aid Awareness Week, Jan. 25-31.

Arts in Action Presents Brosseau Danceworks

Brosseau Danceworks, a nationally recognized modern dance company based in Charlotte, will perform at 8 p.m. Jan. 31 in Kenan Auditorium. Performances are known for their extreme physicality, poetic images and drama. Tickets are available at Kenan Auditorium Box Office and are $6 for faculty and staff, $12 for the general public and $3 for children.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Ronald J. Vetter, mathematical sciences, published the paper "The Internet in the Year Ahead" in the January 1998 issue of IEEE Computer magazine. The paper is available online at http://www.computer.org/computer/.

Ron Whittaker, registrar, made the presentation "Voice Response Call Out System/ Automated Reporting" to the Carolinas Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions annual meeting in Myrtle Beach. The topic, which explored tools for sharing critical academic information in a timely manner with college and university departments, was presented to more than 400 professionals who attended the conference from the two-state region.

Lee Johnston, political science, and Jung Gun Kim and Eun Joo Min of Yonsei University School of Law, Seoul, Korea, have been contracted to coauthor a text on the Constitution and laws of the United States for Yonsei University Press.

Bob Toplin, history, served as a commentator on the film Titanic in an hour-long special program that aired on the History Channel.

Michael Seidman, history, had his book Workers Against Work: Labor in Paris and Barcelona During the Popular Fronts translated into Japanese by the Osaka Keizai Hoka University Press. Also, he will be providing a new preface for this edition.

Charles Lewis, HPER, has been named a fellow of England's Royal Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce. The society, founded in 1754, works to embolden enterprise, enlarge science, refine art, improve manufacturing and extend commerce. Lewis was nominated by colleagues in Scotland and England in recognition of his efforts to develop international academic exchange programs for students and faculty. The society has more than 20,000 members worldwide.

UNSea Card Official ID

UNCW ID cards issued prior to Aug. 1997 are no longer accepted as a valid university ID for services at UNCW. The new UNSea Card is now the only official form of identification for the university. The UNSea card may be purchased from the Auxiliary Services Office from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday. There is no charge for the UNSea Card when turning in an invalid ID. Questions can be directed to auxiliary services at ext. 3560.

1998 Orientation Dates

The 1998 orientation dates are: May 19, transfers; June 7-8, 10-11, 14-15, 17-18, 22-23 and Aug. 16-17, freshmen; June 24 and Aug. 14, transfers; and Aug. 13, unclassified students. If you have any questions, contact the Orientation Office at ext. 3089.

Non-traditional Students Social Planned

The Office of the Dean of Students will sponsor a "Welcome to UNCW" social for all new and returning non-traditional students from 4 to 5:45 p.m. Jan. 28 in the Glass Room of the Hawk's Nest. All faculty, staff and non-traditional students are invited to attend.

Staff Training

- Microsoft Powerpoint 7, 2 to 4 p.m. Jan 27 and 28.
- InfoTrac Databases: Searching for Magazine and Newspaper Articles, 11 a.m. Jan. 27, 1 p.m. Jan. 28 and 2 p.m. Jan. 29
- Netscape Searching, 10 a.m. Jan. 23 and 1 p.m. Jan. 28.
- Defensive Driving, 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. Jan. 27.
- Parenting Your Parents: Session I, 9 a.m. to noon Jan. 28, Session II, 9 a.m. to noon Feb. 4 and Session III, 1 to 5 p.m. Feb. 11.
- Microsoft Excel 7, 10 a.m. to noon, Feb. 3 and 4.
- Waking Up to Wellness, Session II 9 a.m. to noon Feb. 4 and Session III 1 to 5 p.m. Feb. 11.
- Creating Web Pages Using Microsoft Front Page, 2 to 4 p.m. Feb. 11.
- TimeQuest, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Feb. 13.
- Interaction Management, 9 a.m. to noon Feb. 16-20.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357. To register for library workshops, call ext. 3760.

W-2 Distribution

W-2 forms for 1997 will be distributed Jan. 30. W-2 forms for currently employed permanent faculty and staff will be available for pickup by departmental representatives at the cashier's office. W-2s for currently enrolled undergraduate students will be sent to students' UNCW post office box. All other W-2 forms will be mailed.

Distribution of Jan. 30 paychecks will not be affected.

Eight-page Campus Communique Planned

The Jan. 29 edition will be an eight-page issue of the Campus Communique. The deadline for submissions for this issue is 5 p.m. Monday Jan. 26.

Staff Vacancies

98-078 Residence Coordinator - Applications accepted until filled, priority given to applications received by April 1.
98-080 Career Development Counselor - Applications accepted until filled, priority given to applications received by Feb. 27.
98-081 Police Officer I - Deadline is Jan. 30.

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

MarineQuest Offers Four Marine and Environmental Studies Summer Camps

The Division for Public Service and Extended Education is offering the following MarineQuest programs in marine and environmental studies. For a catalog, call ext. 3578.

MarineQuest programs, which are a variety of summer programs in aquatic and environmental education for students in various age groups, include:

Wild About Belize for ages 14 and up. This international travel study program offers students an opportunity to travel and study the culture, archaeology, biology and wildlife of Belize. June 13-20. Fee: $2,339 with $700 deposit due Jan. 30.

Summer Science by the Sea Day Camp for ages 7-11 is a week-long commuter program introducing the mysteries of the coastal environment through hands-on experiences. Studies include animal and plant life, natural crafts and creative self-expression. June 1-5, 8-12, 15-19, 22-26, July 6-10, 13-17, 20-24. 27-31 and Aug. 3-7. Fee is $88 per student per week by March 31 and $98 after.

Coast Trek for ages 11-13 is a residential educational program that offers a unique opportunity to study marine life. Projects include assembling and stocking individual saltwater aquaria with animals and plants. June 7-12, 14-19,21-26, July 5-10, 12-17, 19-24, 26-31 and Aug. 2-7. Cost is $475 per week which includes housing, meals, instruction, lab fees and transportation to and from program activities.

OceanLab for ages 14-15 is an intense, residential marine and environmental education program teaching college level scientific skills in both field and laboratory settings, June 14-19, 21-26, July 12-16 and 19-24. Cost is $485 per week includes housing, meals, instruction, equipment, boat fee, T-shirt, text book, lab fees and transportation to and from program activities.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No.25 January 29, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Entertainer Paul Anderson Kicks Off Black History Celebration

Kicking off UNCW's celebration of Black History Month is Paul Anderson's one-man show "Expectations of Triumph" at 7 p.m. tonight in the University Center Ballroom.

Set in a museum, "Expectations" is a one-man production in which Anderson portrays some of African-America's most influential personalities including Frederick Douglass, Paul Robeson and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. The performance includes actual speeches by Douglass and King.

A trained baritone singer, Anderson has appeared in numerous music festivals and theatrical performances. He has appeared on NBC's "Unsolved Mysteries" and was in the action film Double Dragon.

In addition to working as a performer, Anderson worked as a stock broker with Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner and Smith in the early 1980s.

1998 Recital Series Starts Tonight

The Music Department presents its first of four concerts of the 1998 recital series at 8 p.m. tonight in Kenan Auditorium.

The first concert will feature the Lanier Trio. Since its debut in 1986, the ensemble has toured extensively in the U.S., Germany and Poland. It has released a two-CD set entitled Anton Dvorak: The Four Piano Trios. The trio is composed of violinist William Preucil, cellist Dorothy Lewis and pianist Cary Lewis. For ticket information concerning this evening's performance, call the Kenan Auditorium Box Office at ext. 3500.

Calendar of Events for Black History Month

- Feb. 2 - 1898 Discussions, facilitated by Margaret Rogers, 12:15 to 1 p.m. and 1:15 to 2 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 4 - As a Man Thinketh Series with Fred McRee, 3 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 5 - Kiswahili Introductory Workshop, noon to 1 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 6 - Minority Job Fair, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. University Center
- Feb. 7 - Meet the Artists, peruse the work of and meet local African-American artists, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. University Union Living Room
  - Port City Comedy Jam, 7 p.m. Kenan Auditorium
- Feb. 9 - 1898 Discussions, facilitated by Margaret Rogers, 12:15 to 1 p.m. and 1:15 to 2 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
  - "Rethinking Affirmative Action" with Don Habibi, 3 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 11 - Faculty Front with topic "Preferential Treatment or Affirmative Action - What Are We Talking About?" 7 p.m. Morton Hall, Room 100
- Feb. 12 - Kiswahili Introductory Workshop, noon to 1 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 14 - Sweethearts' Film Festival, 7 p.m. to midnight University Union, Room 100
- Feb. 15 - UNCW Gospel Choir Concert, 4 p.m. Kenan Auditorium
- Feb. 16 - 1898 Discussions, facilitated by Margaret Rogers, 12:15 to 1 p.m. and 1:15 to 2 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 17 - Travel the Underground Railroad with historian Anthony Cohen, 7 p.m. Center Stage Cafe
- Feb. 18 - As a Man Thinketh Series with Fred McRee, 3 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 19 - Kiswahili Introductory Workshop, noon to 1 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 21 - African-American Film Festival, 2 to 7 p.m. University Union, Room 100
- Feb. 23 - 1898 Discussions, facilitated by Margaret Rogers, 12:15 to 1 p.m. and 1:15 to 2 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 24 - Prophetic Dance and Lecture with Koyah Alston, 6 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 25 - As a Man Thinketh Series with Fred McRee, 3p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 26 - Kiswahili Introductory Workshop, noon to 1 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 27 - Comedian Melanie Camacho, 8 p.m. Hawk's Nest

Season Tickets for Recital Series

Season tickets for the 1998 recital series, four concerts sponsored by the Music Department, are available at the Kenan Auditorium Box Office for $25. General admission for individual performances is $10. Faculty/staff admission is $5. Proceeds from ticket sales are used to support scholarships for UNCW music students. The first concert of the series is at 8 p.m. tonight in Kenan Auditorium and features the Lanier Trio.

Bookstore Specials for Valentine's Day

The bookstore is offering a Valentine's Day special of one Mylar balloon, two latex balloons and two ounces of Jelly Bellies on Feb. 13. Cost is $2.14. Please call the bookstore before picking up an order. The bookstore will be open from noon to 5 p.m. Feb. 14. Also, there will be a 20-percent discount on red sweatshirts both days.

Art Show

A viewing of paintings by Marcus Van Johnson will be held from noon to 7 p.m. Feb. 28 at the Wilmington Hilton. There will be a "meet the artist" reception from 7 to 9 p.m.

50th Fact

On Jan. 18, 1967, Dean of Students Marshall Crews proposed a testing and counseling program to help students improve their reading and study habits. This led to the development of the Counseling Center the following year. Today, UNCW's student support mission is carried out by the Division of Student Academic Support Programs through the Center for Academic Advising (CAA) and the Learning Center. CAA staff is responsible for advising all freshmen, undecided sophomores and student athletes and also helping in the recruitment and academic enrichment of minority students. The Learning Center includes The Writing Place, The Math Lab and The Reading Lab.

Leadership Film Series Seeks Moderators

The Activities and Leadership Center will show the following films as part of its Spring 1998 Leadership Film Series: Rosewood at 7 p.m. Feb. 23 and White Squall at 7 p.m. March 23. The films will be shown in the Hawk's Nest. The Leadership Center is seeking faculty and staff interested in facilitating a brief discussion on the leadership aspects of either of these films. Anyone interested should call the Leadership Center at ext. 3797 or send e-mail to OwenJ.

Trek Across America

Tired of logging workout miles and not going anywhere? Join the Trek Across America, a virtual trip across the United States sponsored by the Office of Campus Recreation. Each week participants will turn in workout mileage. Individual progress from Wilmington to Barstow, Calif., will be recorded on a map in Hanover Gymnasium. The program ends April 4. For more information or to sign up, call ext. 3261.

New Prefixes for Development Office

The Development Office, located in the Carriage House near the Wise Alumni House, has a new prefix, 962. To reach any of the following numbers when dialing from a UNCW telephone, just dial the extension. The change affects phone numbers for: Donna Cameron, 962-2651; Elaine Penn, 962-2657; Val Lane, 962-2658; and Jennifer Elam, 962-2661. Also, the fax machine telephone number is 962-2656.

True Success Lecture

University of Notre Dame educator Tom Morris will give a 50-minute presentation based on his book True Success: A Philosphy of Excellence at 10 a.m. Feb. 11 in the University Center Ballroom. The lecture is cosponsored by the Department of Communication Studies and the leadership studies minor.

Windham Scholarship Fund

The purchasing services staff again wishes to express their appreciation for the kindness, understanding and patience shown with the passing of co-worker and friend Phillip Windham. Anyone interested in contributing to a scholarship fund for Phillip's son, Jason Windham, should send a check payable to The First Christian Church, 2035 Oleander Dr. Indicate the check is for the Windham Scholarship Fund.

Opera Lecture

Chuck Giles, technical director for the New York City Opera, will lecture on the inner workings of one of the world's largest opera companies at 7 p.m. tonight in Kenan Hall, Room 121. A question-and-answer session for students regarding technical theatre training and career development will be held at 2 p.m. in Kenan Auditorium, Room 103. The lecture is sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences and the Department of Art and Theatre.

SECC Payroll Deductions Begin This Month

Faculty and staff who elected to donate to the State Employees Combined Campaign (SECC) through payroll deduction will have their contribution deducted starting with Jan. 30 paychecks. Donna Cameron, chair of UNCW's SECC, said she appreciated everyone's combined efforts that led to the campaign's success. UNCW employees contributed more than $40,000 to charities affiliated with the SECC.

S.A.T. Prep Course

The Division for Public Service and Extended Education is offering a S.A.T. preparation course for teenagers that outlines skills and strategies to improve scores. It will be offered from 9 a.m. to noon, Feb. 28, March 7, 21, 28. The fee is $69 and includes book, handouts and instruction. Registration deadline is Feb. 17. For more information or to register by credit card, call ext. 3195.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

Biology Seminars

Michael Mallin, CMSR, will give the lecture "Water Quality Impacts of the North Carolina Swine and Poultry Industry" at 2 p.m. Friday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

L. Scott Quackenbush, associate professor at the Department of Biological Sciences, Florida International University at Miami, will present "Endocrine Regulation of Shrimp Reproduction" at 2 p.m. on Feb. 3 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Terry West from the Department of Biology at East Carolina University will present "Is Life in Created Estuarine Habitats Always Worse Than in Natural Estuarine Habitats?" at 2 p.m. Feb. 6 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Wilmington in Black and White

Wilmington in Black and White, a series of eight conversations about Wilmington's past, present and future, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays Feb. 5 to April 2 at the St. Stephen AME Church, 501 Red Cross St. This free event is open to the public and is co-sponsored by the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Foundation and the Department of Philosophy and Religion. The Feb. 5 topic is "Wilmington 1898 -- Pictures and Controversy" with Tom Schmid and Kenny Davis.

Women's History Month

The American Association of University Women, in conjunction with UNCW's 50th anniversary, is compiling a list of outstanding women who worked as members of the UNCW faculty or staff since 1947. Call Hope Cusick at ext. 7315 with suggestions on whom to include or for additional information. The association seeks to compile an accurate, historical listing.

Foreign Languages and Literatures Colloquium

The Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures will hold its next colloquium at 4 p.m. Feb. 4 in Morton Hall's Faculty Commons Room. James McNab will present "Rimbaud, Ginsberg, and Lacan: All Forms of Suffering, Madness and Death." The other speaker will be Mara Cami-Vela on "The Search for Identity in Pedro Almodvar's La flor de mi secreto." A discussion will follow the presentations.

African Artifacts on Display

An exhibit featuring African masks, textiles and jewelry donated to the Museum of World Cultures by Kenneth Brown, former ambassador to Ghana, and other members of the museum's advisory board is on display through March in Randall Library. Starting Feb. 2, the museum's exhibit "African Glory" will be displayed on the Randall Library gallery wall. It will include a hunter's robe, several chief's robes and an authentic kente cloth.

Internationally Known Bible Scholar to Deliver 1998 B. Frank Hall Lecture

Walter J. Harrelson, distinguished professor emeritus at Vanderbilt University, will deliver the 1998 B. Frank Hall Lecture. Harrelson, who currently holds an adjunct position with Wake Forest University, was instrumental in the translation of the new revised standard version of the Bible and is the author of The Ten Commandments and Human Rights and a co-author of The Making of the New Revised Standard Version of the Bible. His talk "Bible Translating and Translations" will be at 8 p.m. Feb. 12 in the Cameron Hall Auditorium. The B. Frank Hall Lecture is sponsored by the Department of Philosophy and Religion. For more information, call ext. 3406.

History Lecture

Stanley Payne of the University of Wisconsin-Madison will present the lecture "The Spanish Civil War and the Second World War" at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 6 in Morton Hall's Bryant Auditorium.

Visiting Writer to Hold Informal Poetry Chat

Philip Levine, visiting writer-in-residence, will hold two informal sessions to discuss poetry and other matters at 4 p.m. Feb. 12 in the Morton Hall Faculty Commons.

CAA Basketball Tournament Information

The 1998 CAA Basketball Tournament will be held Feb. 25 to March 1 at the Richmond Coliseum in Richmond, Va. The tournament will include men's and women's games. Lower level seating is available for Seahawk fans who reserve their tickets before Feb. 16. Embassy Suites will be UNCW's tournament hotel headquarters. Room reservations must be made by Feb. 1. To reserve rooms, call 1-800-Embassy. For more information, contact the Seahawk Club at ext. 3571.

Retirement Gifts at the Bookstore

For departments needing June retirement gifts, the bookstore has a large selection of 50th anniversary gift items, brass clocks with engraved seal, captain's chairs and Boston rockers. Early selection is necessary for personalized items. All gifts purchased with an IDI receive a 20-percent discount.

In Memorial

Retired employee Helen W. Roll died suddenly at Beaumont Hospital, Troy, Mich., on Jan. 15. Roll worked in the Provost's Office and the Office of the Dean, School of Education. Active in the American Association of University Women, she served as secretary until her retirement in January 1997.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Library Lecture Series

The New Hanover County Public Library presents 20th century African American literature as part of its "Let's Talk About It" series. Participants will read a novel prior to meeting, hear a lecture about the novel from a scholar and then meet in small discussion groups. The series begins on Feb. 5 with Family by J. California Cooper, presented by Nancy Jones, a UNCW MFA candidate. On Feb. 19, Suzanne Micallef will present James Baldwin's Go Tell It on the Mountain. Gay Wilentz of ECU will lecture on The Color Purple by Alice Walker on March 5. Lindsay Pentolfe-Aegerter, English, will speak on Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man on March 19, and Barbara Waxman, English, will conclude the series with a lecture on Your Blues Ain't Like Mine by Bebe Moore Campbell. All lectures will be at 7 p.m. in the main library meeting room. For more information, call Dorothy Hodder at 772-7858.

Regalia Sale

The bookstore and Jostens will have a special sale of custom regalia. A 20 percent discount on custom regalia will be available on Feb. 9 and 10, and the bookstore will offer a special custom gown, tam and hood for $359 complete. A Jostens representative will be available for custom fittings. Appointments for fittings are available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; call Jessiebeth at ext. 3054. Also, call Jessiebeth to request a regalia brochure.

Honors Scholars Lecture

Barbara Katz Rothman from the City University of New York will discuss the technological issues of reproduction and their implications for gender in her talk "On Order: From Cloning to Cataloguing in Childbearing" at 7 p.m. tonight in Cameron Auditorium. This is the second lecture in the "Activisim for the 21st Century" Honors Scholars Program Lectures Series. The presentation is free and open to the public. A reception will follow the lecture. For more information, call the Honors Scholars Program Office at ext. 4181.

Grand Cayman Islands Raffle

Raffle tickets are on sale for a trip to the Grand Cayman Islands. Tickets are $50 each with only 400 being sold. The proceeds will benefit the UNCW Baseball Program. Each ticket holder will receive dinner for two and invitations to the drawing party Feb. 9, two tickets to the UNCW vs. Richmond basketball game and two tournament passes to the Ralston Purina Baseball Challenge. The grand prize includes accommodations for eight days and seven nights, round-trip airfare for two and $500. Raffle tickets may be purchased at the Athletics and Marketing Promotions Office in Trask Coliseum or at any home men's basketball game. The grand prize vacation is being donated by Twin Travel and Cruises. For more information, call Rob Brickels at ext. 7297.

Art Exhibits

Arts is Action is hosting the exhibit Renditions III, which includes artwork by Evonne Phillips, Pat Murphy Carrasco and Phyllis Riley. The exhibit, being held in the University Center Lobby Gallery, will be on display through Feb. 20.

UNCW's YOUTH PROGRAMS FOCUS ON ARTS AND SCIENCES

UNCW offers a variety of classes for youth ages 8-12 through its Youth Academy of Arts and Sciences and other programs featuring creative ways to explore a variety of experiences and adventures including art, chemistry, science and drama.

As part of the academy and in co-sponsorship with the North Carolina Aquarium at Fort Fisher, award-winning Pender County school science teacher Sue Cockrum will take small groups of young explorers on field trips to experience hands-on learning in coastal ecology, marine science and plant and animal biology. For each trip, a UNCW van will leave from and return to Kenan Auditorium parking lot. These programs include:

- Clues of the Cliffs: Cliffs of the Neuse-Seven Springs, N.C., April 25. Discover the plant and animal fossils that give clues to the past. Fee is $35 with a registration deadline of April 17.
- Fort Macon - Bogue Banks, N.C., May 9. Travel to the barrier islands, the inlet and natural areas of Fort Macon State Park at the eastern end of Bogue Banks to study how the sand, wind, currents, tides and hurricanes make the North Carolina coast one of the most dynamic geological environments on earth. Fee is $35 with a registration deadlineof May 1.
- Bear Island Adventure - Swansboro, N.C., May 23. Take the ferry to an unspoiled barrier island with sand dunes, a maritime forest and an extensive salt marsh marine environment and see the nesting sites of the threatened loggerhead sea turtle and other bird and animal life. Fee is $35 with a registration deadline of May 15.

Other Youth Academy Programs:

- Acting for Pre-Teens (ages 11-12) with educational television producer Clancy Thompson who uses theater exercises and games to sharpen interpretative skills and establish a foundation for script analysis and character development, 9:30 a.m.to 12:30 p.m. Saturdays, March 7-28. Fee is $55 with a registration deadline of Feb. 23.
- Art in Math ages (ages 7-10) with artist Sybil O. Thearling who uses art materials and methods to help children understand math principles, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. March 12 and 13. Each day will be different so children may register for one or both days. Fee is $27 per day and includes supplies. Registration deadline is March 2.
- Play Building for Children (ages 9-10) with educational television producer Clancy Thompson. This drama course is for the child interested in creating his/her own characters and plays, 3:30 to 5 p.m., Thursdays, March 5-April 9. Fee is $55 with a registration deadline of February 23.
- Positively Reactive Chemistry Adventure (ages 8-11) with UNCW chemistry instructor Kim Jones who offers a world of chemistry using hands-on science, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. March 13. Fee is $40 and includes supplies. Registration deadline is Feb. 20.

This is recyclable.

1997 W-2 INFORMATION

As a result of implementing the in-house payroll system during 1997, some employees will receive two W-2's for 1997. One W-2 will be issued from the payroll system administered by the Office of State Controller (OSC). The other W-2 will be issued from our UNCW payroll system. Use all W-2's you receive to prepare your Federal and State income tax returns.

To illustrate:
In previous years, John and Mary Doe have filed joint tax returns. Both were employed during each of these years. John is employed by UNCW and Mary works for another employer. Each individual received a W-2. Both of these W-2's were used to prepare their joint tax return.

This year, John will receive two W-2's from UNCW. Mary will receive a W-2 from her employer. They must use all three W-2's to prepare their 1997 Federal and State income tax returns.

To assist you in determining the payer and number of W-2(s) you will receive, please refer to the table below.

Type of Employee	Pay Dates	W-2 Payer
Permanent	1/1 - 6/30	OSC
Permanent	7/1 - 12/19	UNCW
Contract Faculty	1/1 - 3/14	OSC
Contract Faculty	4/15 - 12/19	UNCW
Graduate Student	1/15 - 3/14	OSC
Graduate Student	4/15 - 12/19	UNCW
ALL others	1/1 - 12/15	UNCW

We have completed the implementation of our new payroll system. As a result , UNCW is now on one (in-house) payroll system. Therefore, in future years, UNCW employees will receive one W-2 each year. As we develop our new payroll system, we will be able to provide more timely and efficient service to our UNCW employees.

Focus on Faculty and Staff

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Frederick Bingham, physics, presented the research report "A Hydrographic Section Across the Gulf Stream" at the 12th annual Duke-UNC Oceanographic Consortium meeting in Beaufort.

Rob Miller and Steve McNamee, sociology, co-edited the book Inheritance and Wealth in America published by Plenum Press, to which they also contributed two chapters.

Lindsay Pentolfe Aegerter, English, had her article "Michelle Cliff and the Paradox of Privilege" published in the December issue of College English.

Eleanor Wright and Grace Burton, curricular studies, received $9,750 for their project "Teacher Preparation in School to Work."

Steve Dworkin, psychology, received $42,000 for his project "Continuing Research on Quantitative Analysis of the Reinforcing Efficacy of Stimulants."

Bruce C. McKinney, communication studies, had his article "The Relationship Between Conflict Message Styles and Dimensions of Communication Competence" published in Communication Reports (1997, Vol. 10, No. 2). The article's co-authors were Lynne Kelly and Robert Duran of the University of Hartford.

Walter Conser, philosophy and religion, had his co-edited volume Religious Diversity and American Religious History published by the University of Georgia Press. Essays range from Judaic, Catholic and African-American to Asian, Muslim and Native American religious traditions. Other chapters discuss religion and the South, religion and gender and indigenous sectarian religious movements.

Ned Martin, chemistry, received $13,830 for his project "Probing the Effects of Solute-Solvent Interactions and Solvent Free Volume on the 13C Spin-Lattice Relaxation of C60."

Antonia Puente, psychology, received $1,550 to consult with the Psychological Corporation as chair of an expert advisory panel on the Spanish Weschsler scales.

Lou Buttino, communication studies, has been commissioned to write, direct and produce a television documentary on water purification and reforestation efforts in Honduras. This is the 12th project for Buttino, an award-winning documentarian whose work has been broadcast on NPR and PBS. William Bolduc, communication studies, has been named director of photography and will also serve key roles in research and editing. Shooting will begin this summer.

George T. Zervos, philosophy and religion, read his paper "An Early Non-Canonical Annunciation Story" to the Christian Apocrypha Section at the annual meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature in San Francisco. The paper was published in the 1997 seminar papers of the Society of Biblical Literature.

Kelly Easton, English, had her story "Fugue" published in Iris.

Robert Argenbright, earth sciences, had his article "The Soviet Agitation Vehicle: State Power on the Social Frontier" published in the journal Political Geography, Vol. 17, No. 3, 1998.

Celebrate Wilmington! Events for February

Play: The Good Doctor, a comedy by Neil Simon, 8 p.m. Jan. 29 - Feb. 1, 6-8 p.m. Scottish Rite Theatre. For ticket information, call 962-3500.

Auditions: Broadway Bound, 7 p.m., Feb. 2 and 3, Community Arts Center. For more information, call 251-1788.

Exhibit: Spotlight On: International Paper, Cape Fear Museum, museum hours, Feb. 3 - May 1. For cost or more information, call 341-4350.

Play: Lettice and Lovage, 8 p.m. Feb. 5-7 and 2 p.m. Feb. 8 Thalian Hall Main Stage. For tickets or other information, call 343-3664.

Play: To Kill a Mockingbird, 8 p.m. Feb. 5-8, 12-15 and 10 a.m. Feb. 7 and 14, Thalian Hall Studio Theatre. For ticket or other information, call 254-4891.

Lecture: Tony Rivenbark discusses Wilmington's Theatrical History, 10 a.m. to noon, Feb. 5, 12 and 19, New Hanover County Main Library meeting room.

Children's Event: The Great Leggo Adventure, 10 a.m. Feb. 7 Wilmington Children's Museum. For cost or more information, call 254-3534.

Film Series: Cinematique presents Kiss or Kill (Australia rated R), 7:30 p.m. Feb. 9 - 11 Thalian Hall Main Stage. For cost or more information, call 343-3664.

Lecture: Bit of History Series: Former pilot Walter Turner discusses Piedmont Airlines in Wilmington on the 50th anniversary of its first flight, 11 a.m. Feb. 13, Cape Fear Museum. For more information, call 341-4350.

Lecture: "Edmonia Lewis: African-American Sculptor of the 19th Century" by Margaret C. Gregory of Wake Forest University, noon Feb. 13, St. John's Museum of Art. For cost or more information, call 763-0281.

Music: Classics and Pops; Concerto Competition Winners; featuring Grenoldo Frazier, 8 p.m. Feb. 14, Kenan Auditorium. For more information, call 791-9262 or 962-3500.

Exhibit: An Invitation from the Heart, Feb. 14 Wilmington Children's Museum. Call 254-3534 for times.

Family Day: Family Science Saturday, 10 a.m. Feb.21, Cape Fear Museum. For cost or more information, call 341-4350.

Concert: Wilmington Boys and Girls Choirs, 5 p.m. Feb. 22, First Presbyterian Church. For more information, call 762-6688.

Music: The Cassatt Quartet (Children's Concert and Instrumental Petting Zoo), afternoon, Feb. 22, Thalian Hall Ballroom. For more information, call 343-3664.

Concert: The Cassatt Quartet, 7:30 p.m. Feb. 22, Thalian Hall Ballroom. For cost or more information, call 343-3664.

Concert: Showcase: Victor Benedict, bassoon; Brian Regain, violin; Leonid Finkelshteyn, double bass; 8 p.m. Feb. 23, Kenan Auditorium. For ticket information, call 962-3500.

Homecoming Weekend 1998

Alumni Association to Honor Distinguished Alumnus and Citizen

The UNCW Alumni Association will honor Marvin O. Robison and Dorothy P. Marshall at its Golden Awards Dinner on Feb. 6.

Robison will receive the association's Distinguished Alumnus Award, and Marshall will be recognized as the Distinguished Citizen for Service to the University.

Robison, a 1983 graduate of UNCW, is an associate of George Chadwick Insurance in Wilmington and has received national recognition for his work. He has been very active with the alumni association, serving on its board of directors from 1987 to 1995 and as chair in 1993-94. Robison was a key player in the completion of the Wise Alumni House renovation project and repayment of the association's $400,000 bank loan.

His involvement has continued with the UNCW Seahawk Club, as a member of the board of directors; he is currently board secretary and chair of the campaign fund drive. He is also on the UNCW Golden Anniversary Committee and the UNCW Athletic Hall of Fame Committee.

Dorothy P. Marshall is well known in the university community. After graduating from East Carolina University, she began work at Wilmington College in 1949 as secretary to the dean and as a business instructor. She was registrar from 1958 to 1992. From 1973 through 1980, she also served as director of admissions. The Dorothy P. Marshall Scholarship is awarded annually to a junior or senior in the Cameron School of Business who has demonstrated both financial need and scholastic ability.

Marshall retired in 1992 but has remained active as a charter member and executive board member of the UNCW Retired Faculty and the Order of Isaac Bear, an honorary organization whose members include faculty who had taught at Wilmington College in the Isaac Bear Building between 1947 and 1961. She also serves on the UNCW Golden Anniversary Committee. She volunteered her time during the Wise Alumni House Designers Showcase in 1995, the alumni association's largest fund-raiser to restore Wise House.

Time Capsule Set to be Unearthed

Remember the UNCW time capsule? Remember what it contains? How about where it is buried? Did you even know there was a time capsule? All will be revealed at 1 p.m Feb. 7. Come join the UNCW Alumni Association and the 50th Anniversary Committee on the rear steps of Randall Library as the time capsule, buried in 1968, is unearthed. UNCW birthday cake will be served.

UNCW Alumni Association Plans Golden Homecoming Celebration for Feb. 7

Alumni returning to campus for Feb. 7 homecoming are invited to be part of the 1998 Golden Homecoming Celebration, a 50th anniversary event sponsored by the UNCW Alumni Association.

The association's board of directors will meet at 9 a.m. Feb. 7 in Wagoner's Hall Madeline Suite.

Immediately following the men's basketball game against American University, there will be a post-game social in the Hawk's Nest. Admission to the social, cosponsored by the association's alumni chapters, is $7. Prepaid reservations are recommended and can be made by calling ext. 2682.

The featured event is the homecoming dance, scheduled for 9 p.m. at the Blockade Runner Resort, Wrightsville Beach. Dink Perry and the Breeze Band will entertain. Finger foods, a cash bar, soft drinks and coffee will be served. Tickets are $10 per person or $19.47 per couple and can be purchased at Wise Alumni House or from any board member.

The African American Graduates Association Chapter (AAGA) is planning a special weekend for its members. Scheduled are the AAGA Minority Job Fair at 11 a.m. Feb. 6 in the University Center and AAGA social at 8 p.m. Feb. 6 in the Howard Johnson Aquarius Room. On Feb. 7, the AAGA annual meeting and network seminar will begin at 10 a.m. at Howard Johnson's.

For more information on these homecoming events, call ext. 2682 or log on the World Wide Web at http:///www.uncwil.edu/alumni.

Administrative Procedures Update

The following revised policies for the Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual have been approved. Key revisions are noted below.

PUR 1.00 - Functions of Purchasing Services and General Purchasing Policies

This procedure has been revised to provide additional information regarding complaints and protest.

Please direct all complaints of vendor performance or service to the director of purchasing services as indicated in this procedure.

If a university department is contacted by a vendor that wishes to protest a contract award handled by UNCW, the department should refer the vendor to the director of purchasing services, who will provide the vendor with appropriate instructions for filing a written protest.

PUR 1.40 - Procurement of Contracted Personal Services and Consultant Services

Effective Jan. 1, 1998, payments to out-of-state contractors are subject to a 4 percent North Carolina withholding tax.

Departments should begin using the revised independent contractor payment certification form. Departments may order the revised form from the printing services forms catalog or may make a photocopy of the blank form provided in the Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual and in the Administrative Systems Reference Manual.

As a reminder, departments may contact the director of human resources administration to request blanket approval for repetitive contracted personal services.

TRA 1.16 - Travel, Reimbursement of Travel Costs

Travel reimbursement requests for non-state employees must explain the reason for the travel (e.g., interview for prospective employee).

If travel is covered by a blanket travel authorization, indicate the purpose of the trip in the "explanatory remarks" section of the reimbursement form, along with the words "blanket travel" to explain that the travel authorization number indicated covers authorized blanket travel. Note: It is no longer necessary to attach a photocopy of the blanket travel authorization.

If requesting reimbursement for a rental car picked up in the Wilmington area, the original signed vehicle request and invoice documenting the non-availability of a state-owned vehicle must be attached to the reimbursement request.

Travel Appendix A - Rate Table for Transportation, Lodging and Meals

Effective Jan. 1, 1998, the allowable reimbursement rate for an employee's use of a private car on official university business increased from 31.5 cents per mile to 32.5 cents per mile for round trips of 60 miles or less (regardless of state car availability) or for trips when a state vehicle is not reasonably available. The non-availability of a state vehicle must be documented on the vehicle request and invoice.

These policies may be viewed in the entirety on the World Wide Web. The Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual is linked off the UNCW home page under administration and is also accessible via the business affairs home page.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employee:

John Hoxie, university police.

5K Run

Campus recreation will sponsor a Homecoming 5K Run at 9 a.m. Feb. 7. Entry fee is $12 until Feb. 6 and $14 on the morning of the race. The scenic course covers all areas of the campus.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	April 1
98-080 Career Development Counselor	Feb. 27
98-081 Police Officer I	Jan. 30
98-082 Copier Coordinator	Feb. 6
98-083 Maintenance Mechanic II	Feb. 6
98-084 Maintenance Mechanic IV	Feb. 6

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

W-2 Distribution

W-2 forms for 1997 will be distributed Jan. 30. W-2 forms for currently employed permanent faculty and staff will be available for pickup by departmental representative at the cashier's office. W-2's for currently enrolled undergraduate students will be sent to students' UNCW post office box. All other W-2 forms will be mailed.

Distribution of Jan. 30 paychecks will not be affected.

Student Timesheet Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for Feb. 13 payment is 3 p.m. Friday in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to departmental representatives, not payroll. Students not listed on departmental recap sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received prior to adding students to recap sheets. Also, for students listed on recap sheets who no longer work for your department, send Frances a copy of the recap sheet so she can delete them from your department.

Staff Training

Parenting Your Parents: Session II, 9 a.m. to noon Feb. 4 and Session III, 1 to 5 p.m. Feb. 11.

Microsoft Excel 7, 10 a.m. to noon, Feb. 3 and 4.

Waking Up to Wellness, Session II 9 a.m. to noon Feb. 4 and Session III 1 to 5 p.m. Feb. 11.

Creating Web Pages Using Microsoft Front Page, 2 to 4 p.m. Feb. 11.

TimeQuest, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Feb. 13.

Interaction Management, 9 a.m. to noon Feb. 16-20.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357. To register for library workshops, call ext. 3760.

Faculty/Staff Profile: Stephen Pullum

New Role an Opportunity to Further Help All Students

by Susan Carney, PR Intern

For anyone unsure about who Stephen Pullum is, the only description necessary is that he is the very tall man teaching in the Department of Communication Studies. He also has a way of making others around him feel tall, too. He is concerned about others' well-being and has a way of making people feel important. One learns quickly that he is not just being nice, he really does care about others.

"Meticulous planning is just one of the keys to excellence in teaching," said Pullum. "As important, I encourage students to participate and provide a variety of opportunities to consult outside of class." He listens to their many concerns, academic and personal; instills responsibility through high expectations; and he never rewards mediocrity. "The best way to teach lies in straightforward discussion and in striving to exude excellence in your own life," he said.

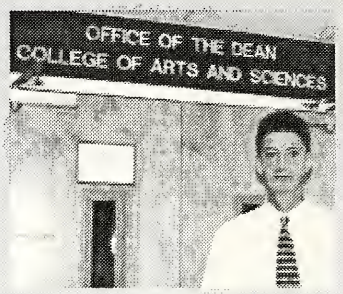
Pullum knew from an early age that teaching would be his profession. "In tenth grade I told my parents that I wanted to be a teacher; I just knew," he said. "By the time I was a sophomore in college, I was serious about my intention." That on-going commitment has benefited UNCW and its students.

Since arriving at UNCW eight years ago, Pullum has received numerous commendations and awards, including the Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Award in 1995 and at fall convocation the Distinguished Teaching Professorship Award, recognizing his outstanding contributions to the university's instructional program.

With the start of the fall semester, he became the new associate dean of arts and sciences.

"As a dean, I now have been given the opportunity to be helpful to students in even more ways along with teaching, and my goal is to be as flexible as I can in meeting the students' requests," said Pullum.

'My goal is to be as flexible as I can in meeting the students' requests.'



Before taking on this new role, Pullum served as a faculty senate member where he acted as parliamentarian and was part of the steering committee. He has also been a member of the university curriculum committee and the academic standards committee.

Pullum attended Florida College where he received an associate degree in 1977. He completed his bachelor's degree in speech communication at Middle Tennessee State University in 1979. A master's degree in speech communication followed in 1981 at the University of Tennessee. By 1988, he completed his doctoral degree in speech communication with a minor in organizational behavior. He was now ready to tackle his chosen profession which he decided upon as a high school student.

An accomplished teacher himself, Pullum credits much of his success to two former professors who became his mentors - Robert Glenn and Lorraine Lester.

Pullum said through the years he has maintained contact with these two important teachers.

"Dr. Robert Glenn at Knoxville - I did not appreciate him then because he was very demanding about writing well. Today, I model myself after him because I have learned how important the ability to write well is to a student," he said. Pullum strongly believes that students must be taught this skill and be held accountable for what they put on paper or the teacher is doing a great disservice to them. "Later, just as I did, they will look back and say 'thank you'," he added.

His other mentor was Dr. Lorraine Lester, Pullum's director when he was a graduate teaching assistant at Tennessee. "I gained the utmost respect for her through our Friday discussions in which all her graduate instructors shared their classroom experiences and gained valuable classroom management skills from her advice," said Pullum.

Pullum said he bases excellence in teaching on the many different skills a professor must acquire and exhibit. "But it all starts with a love for students; I like to learn and then share what I have learned with others."

And he added that while he was grateful that his colleagues respected his work, "If people see me as a good man, fair, competent, demanding yet reasonable, then I am happy with how I am seen."

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 26 February 5, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Notre Dame Educator Tom Morris to Lecture on 'True Success'

University of Notre Dame educator Tom Morris will give a 50-minute presentation based on his book True Success: A Philosophy of Excellence at 10 a.m. Feb. 11 in the University Center Ballroom.

In his book True Success, Morris uses humor, down-to-earth parables and stories that challenge, motivate and inspire,to explain the key to success, which he says lies in the seven C's of conception, confidence, concentration, consistency, commitment of emotional energy, character and capacity to enjoy.

Morris is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He holds two master's degrees, as well as a joint doctorate degree in philosophy and religious studies from Yale University. The recipient of numerous national grants and fellowships, Morris was named Indiana Professor of the Year in 1990 by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education in Washington, D.C.

The lecture is cosponsored by the Department of Communication Studies and the leadership studies minor. Also, 90 copies of True Success: A Philosophy of Excellence will be given away as door prizes.

Tom Morris

Procrastinators Will Be Shocked in the Year 2000

If you are a procrastinator by nature, you will be in for a big shock on Jan. 1, 2000, when your computer fails to recognize the new millennium's date. It is possible that the world will face total chaos because information systems will not read the new date as 2000 but as 00 or even 1900. Many prophets of high-tech doom are predicting that this flaw will create total mayhem for companies and individuals. It may even shut down entire workplaces because bills won't be sent, checks won't be received and data will be lost.

To help understand the problem and find solutions, UNCW is hosting a free forum, "Computer Challenges in the Year 2000," from 1 to 5 p.m. Feb. 24 in the Madeline Suite in Wagoner Hall. Ron Vetter, mathematical sciences, will lead the discussion and offer solutions to keep systems working properly. Vetter's expertise and research interests include high performance computing, multimedia systems and high speed networks. He has published more than 50 journal conference and technical papers and is a member of the ACM and the IEEE Computer and Communication Societies.

While admission is free, those planning to attend should call the Division for Public Service and Extended Education at ext. 3193 to reserve a spot. Space is limited.

Annual Visitation Day Set for Feb. 21

UNCW's annual visitation day has been set for Feb. 21. An opportunity for prospective students to get a firsthand look at the university, the day begins with a program at 12:30 p.m. in Trask Coliseum.

Prospective students and their parents will have the opportunity to obtain information concerning financial aid, housing and residence life and transfers. There will also be a question-and-answer session with UNCW administators. The visitation day concludes with a campus tour, including a visit to the dormitories and an opportunity to talk with representatives from academic departments.

Approximately 1,800 prospective students and parents are expected to attend. This is an 80-percent over the last 10 years.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

1898 Centennial Foundation Dialogues on Race and Reconciliation

In 1898, here in Wilmington, racial tensions increased and resulted in violence, which caused the loss of lives, destruction of property and the expulsion of black and white citizens. As a part of the 1898 Centennial Foundation's activities to tell the story and heal the wounds, a series of city-wide dialogues on race and reconciliation meetings will be held. Each dialogue group will meet for five sessions and will be led by trained facilitators, representing all racial groups, following a standard format. The groups will be racially mixed and small in number. Anyone interested in participating should sign up at the Upperman African-American Cultural Center, University Union, Room 208. Dialogue groups will meet from noon to 2 p.m. Feb. 20, 27 and March 6, 13 and 20 in the Upperman African-American Cultural Center. For more information, contact Helena Lee at ext. 7087.

Crossroads on the Web

Crossroads, UNCW's substance abuse and education program, has a new web page. The site contains information about programs, services, staff members and educational programs. It also includes information on recognizing symptoms of abuse and ways to help. Crossroads' web site address is http://uncwil.edu/stuaff/substance/index.html.

50th Fact

Feb. 5, 1966

Wilmington College held its first men's basketball game in the newly constructed gymnasium Hanover Hall. The building was named to honor the citizens of New Hanover County.

At the Hawk's Nest

Faculty and staff dining room buffets for this week are:

Feb. 6 - assorted salads, grilled pork chops with applesauce, fettucini with meat and marinara sauces, sauteed Italian vegetables, corn on the cob, assorted desserts and beverages.

Feb. 10 - corn and black bean salad, tortilla chips with nacho toppings, chicken and beef tacos, Spanish rice, corn bread muffins, assorted desserts and beverages.

Degree Audit Training

Computer training sessions on the On-Course degree audit and advising system will be held at 8:30 and 10 a.m. and 1:30 and 3 p.m. Feb. 23 and 24 in Hoggard Hall, Room 212. These are introductory sessions on the SIS and On-Course system designed for faculty members. Call Becky Fancher at ext. 3036 to register.

Biology Seminars

Terry West from the Department of Biology at East Carolina University will present "Is Life in Created Estuarine Habitats Always Worse Than in Natural Estuarine Habitats?" at 2 p.m. Feb. 6 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

John E. Reynolds III, professor of marine science and biology at Eckerd College, St. Petersburg, Fla., will present "Biology and Conservation of Manatees - A Model for Marine Mammalogists" at 2 p.m. Feb. 10 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Jonathan Geller will present "Using Phylogenetics: Invasions, Biogeography and the Evolution of Sea Anemones" at 2 p.m. Feb. 13 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Note of Appreciation

The family of Billy W. and Doris F. Dawson, university police and accounting, would like to thank everyone for the thoughts, visits, prayers, cards, flowers and other warm expressions of sympathy expressed to them during the recent death of Billy's mother, Ruby I. Dawson.

Summer Swim Lessons for Children

This year's UNCW Summer Swim Program for children ages three through 12 will consist of four two-week sessions. One-hour classes will be held at 10 and 11 a.m. during the following dates: May 18-29, June 1-12, June 15-26 and July 6-17. Interested faculty and staff can register children before March 28 at the Trask Coliseum Ticket Office. For more information, call ext. 3233.

Earth Sciences Seminar

Johnson R. Haas from the Department of Geography and Earth Sciences, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, will present "Bioaccumulation of Uranium and REE by One Foliose Lichen Species: The Potential Impact of Soil Lichens and Fungi on Radionuclide Cycling in Natural Systems" at noon Feb. 6 in DeLoach Hall, Room 114.

Graduate Fellowships Awarded

The Alton Yates Lennon and Philip Gerard Graduate Fellowships were awarded to Stephen Craig Refroe and Missy Barnes during the English Department's December commencement. Charles F. Green III '71 made the presentations. Green, a Wilmington businessman, is a long-time university supporter. In addition to establishing the two graduate fellowships, he supported the establishment of the Katherine K. Buckner Distinguished Presentation Series in Literature and Creative Writing.

Bookstore Valentine's Day Special

The bookstore will offer a Valentine's Day special of one Mylar balloon, two latex balloons and two ounces of Jelly Bellies on Feb. 13. Cost is $2.14. Stop by the bookstore to place an order and to arrange a time for pickup. The bookstore will be open from noon to 5 p.m. Feb. 14. Also, there will be a 20 percent discount on red sweatshirts both days.

TIMEQUEST

Increasing Productivity through Value-based Time Management

February 13, 1998
8:30am-4:30pm, Human Resources Training Room
Cost: $160

SEMINAR DESCRIPTION

The full-day TimeQuest seminar provides the skills and tools to help you balance the demands on your time, focus on your priorities, and accomplish what matters most in both your personal life and professional life. You'll receive a complete Franklin Day Planner system as part of the seminar.

AGENDA

- Understanding Time Management
  - Basic Element of Time—An Event
  - Key to Time Management—Event Control
- Understanding Control
  - Events Over Which You Have No Control
  - Events Over Which You Have Total Control
  - Effects of Conditioning
- Effects of Control
  - Productivity Tri-Quation
- Planning: The Key To Control
  - Five Steps in Effective Planning
- Prioritizing: Ordering Events
- Productivity Pyramid
  - Values, Long-Range Goals, Intermediate Steps, Daily Tasks
- Identifying Values
- Setting Long-Range Goals
- Leaving the Comfort Zone
- Intermediate Steps
- Today: The Critical Moment
- Using The Franklin Day Planner System
- The New Information Control System
- Defending Your Productivity Pyramid
- Controlling Interruptions
- Overcoming Procrastination

TO REGISTER, PLEASE CALL BRENDA JORDAN AT EXT. 3274.

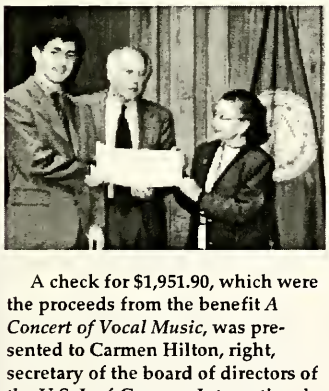
What Makes the South Southern?

John Shelton Reed will lecture on "What Makes the South Southern?" at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 24 in Cameron Auditorium. Reed, director of UNC Chapel Hill's Institute for Research in Social Science and a Kenan professor, is a noted scholar of Southern culture and the author of 1001 Things Everyone Should Know About the South. This free lecture is sponsored by the English Department's Buckner Lecture Series.

Poetry Reading

Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Philip Levine will read from his works at 8 p.m. Feb. 17 in Cameron Auditorium. Currently a visiting writer-in-residence at UNCW, Levine is the author of What Work Is and The Simple Truth, which won the 1995 Pulitzer Prize for poetry. Following the reading, there will be a booksigning and reception. This free event is sponsored by the Katherine Buckner Distinguished Presentation Series and the English Department.

Benefit Check Presentation



A check for $1,951.90, which were the proceeds from the benefit A Concert of Vocal Music, was presented to Carmen Hilton, right, secretary of the board of directors of the U.S. José Carreras International Leukemia Foundation. Provost Marvin Moss, center, made the presentation with the assistance of Jorge Gómez-Tejada, a senior music major who organized the Dec. 10 concert.

Art Show

A viewing of paintings by Marcus Van Johnson will be held from noon to 7 p.m. Feb. 28 at the Wilmington Hilton. There will be a "meet the artist" reception from 7 to 9 p.m.

Wilmington in Black and White

Wilmington in Black and White, a series of eight conversations about Wilmington's past, present and future, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays Feb. 5 to April 2 at the St. Stephen AME Church, 501 Red Cross St. This free event is open to the public and is cosponsored by the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Foundation and the Department of Philosophy and Religion. Tonight's topic is "Wilmington 1898 - Pictures and Controversy" with Tom Schmid and Kenny Davis. The Feb. 12 topic is "Different Perspectives on the Causes of Events of 1898" with John Haley and George Rountree III.

History Lecture

Stanley Payne of the University of Wisconsin-Madison will present the lecture "The Spanish Civil War and the Second World War" at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 6 in Morton Hall's Bryant Auditorium.

Women's History Month

The American Association of University Women, in conjunction with UNCW's 50th anniversary, is compiling a list of outstanding women who worked as faculty or staff at UNCW since 1947. Call Hope Cusick at ext. 7315 with suggestions on whom to include or for additional information. The association seeks to compile an accurate, historical listing.

Bible Scholar to Deliver 1998 B. Frank Hall Lecture

Walter J. Harrelson, distinguished professor emeritus at Vanderbilt University, will deliver the 1998 B. Frank Hall Lecture. Harrelson, who currently holds an adjunct position with Wake Forest University, was instrumental in the translation of the new revised standard version of the Bible and is the author of The Ten Commandments and Human Rights and a co-author of The Making of the New Revised Standard Version of the Bible. His talk "Bible Translating and Translations" will be at 8 p.m. Feb. 12 in the Cameron Hall Auditorium. The B. Frank Hall Lecture is sponsored by the Department of Philosophy and Religion. For more information, call ext. 3406.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Perri Bomar, nursing, had her article "Family Member Discrepancies in Report of a Child's Race" published in Journal of Cultural Diversity.

Magdolna Hargittai, Istvan Hargittai, Jack B. Levy, and Ned H. Martin, chemistry, had their research paper "Intra- and Intermolecular Hydrogen Bonding in 2-Phosphinylphenol: A Quantum Chemical Study" published in the Journal of Physical Chemistry.

Michael Durako, biology, gave the invited presentation "Plant Scale Considerations in Conceptual Models of Seagrasses" at the USGS-sponsored Seagrass Modeling Workshop held in Key Largo.

Wade Watanabe, CMSR, and Robert Wicklund, NURC, co-authored the chapter "Saltwater Culture of the Florida Red and Other Saline Tolerant Tilapias: A Review" in the book Tilapia Aquaculture in the Americas, Vol. 1. The book was published in 1997 by the World Aquaculture Society and the American Tilapia Association. Watanabe gave an invited research update on UNCW's marine finfish aquaculture program at the North Carolina Aquaculture Development Conference held in New Bern.

Jim Megivern, philosophy and religion, was elected co-chair of the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Foundation. He was also a featured speaker on the Martin Luther King, Jr. birthday program of Cape Fear Community College, where he reviewed two recent studies of Dr. King's understanding of "The Beloved Community."

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Feb. 6 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Staff Training

Parenting Your Parents: Session III, 1 to 5 p.m. Feb. 11.

Waking Up to Wellness, Session III 1 to 5 p.m. Feb. 11.

Creating Web Pages Using Microsoft Front Page, 2 to 4 p.m. Feb. 11.

TimeQuest, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Feb. 13.

Interaction Management, 9 a.m. to noon Feb. 16-20.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Jim Bahen and Shonda Borden, CMSR; Tina Hooper, bookstore; Lori Preiss, human resources; and Billie Rosene, student development services.

Grand Cayman Islands Raffle

Raffle tickets are on sale for a trip to the Grand Cayman Islands. Tickets are $50 each with only 400 being sold. The proceeds will benefit the UNCW baseball program. Each ticket holder will receive dinner for two and invitations to the drawing party Feb. 9, two tickets to the UNCW vs. Richmond basketball game and two tournament passes to the Ralston Purina Baseball Challenge. The grand prize includes accommodations for eight days and seven nights, round-trip airfare for two and $500. Raffle tickets may be purchased at the Athletics and Marketing Promotions Office in Trask Coliseum or at any home men's basketball game. The grand prize vacation is being donated by Twin Travel and Cruises. For more information, call Rob Brickels at ext. 7297.

Regalia Sale

The bookstore and Jostens will have a special sale of custom regalia. A 20 percent discount on custom regalia will be available on Feb. 9-10, and the bookstore will offer a custom gown, tam and hood for $359 complete. A Jostens representative will be available for fittings. Appointments for fittings are available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; call Jessiebeth at ext. 3054. Also, call Jessiebeth to request a regalia brochure.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	April 1
98-080 Career Development Counselor	Feb. 27
98-082 Copier Coordinator	Feb. 6
98-083 Maintenance Mechanic II	Feb. 6
98-084 Maintenance Mechanic IV	Feb. 6
98-085 Housekeepers (FT &HT)	Feb. 13
98-086 Departmental Purchasing Agent	Feb. 13

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Barth

Miller

Richardson

Schmid

Inaugural "Faculty Front" Set for Feb. 11

"Faculty Front," a new program developed by the Office of Minority Affairs, will hold its first session "Preferential Treatment or Affirmative Action - What Are We Really Talking About?" at 7 p.m. Feb. 11 in Morton Hall's Bryant Auditorium. Consisting of a series of forums, each "Faculty Front" will feature faculty members who examine social, political, cultural and economic issues that affect minorities and the larger society. This initial forum takes a look at the historical, philosophical and political impetus for affirmative action. The forum panel will consist of Tom Barth, political science; Sue Richardson, English; Robert Miller, sociology; and Tom Schmid, philosophy and religion. The forum moderator will be Deborah Brunson, communication studies.

Brunson

Upcoming Events for Black History Month

- Feb. 6 - Minority Job Fair, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. University Center.
- Feb. 7 - Meet the Artists, peruse the work of and meet local African-American artists, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. University Union Living Room.
  - Port City Comedy Jam, 7 p.m. Kenan Auditorium.
- Feb. 9 - 1898 Discussions, facilitated by Margaret Rogers, 12:15 to 1 p.m. and 1:15 to 2 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center.
  - "Rethinking Affirmative Action" with Don Habibi, 3 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center.
- Feb. 12 - Kiswahili Introductory Workshop, noon to 1 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center.
- Feb. 14 - Sweethearts' Film Festival, 7 p.m. to midnight University Union, Room 100.
- Feb. 15 - UNCW Gospel Choir Concert, 4 p.m. Kenan Auditorium.
- Feb. 16 - 1898 Discussions, facilitated by Margaret Rogers, 12:15 to 1 p.m. and 1:15 to 2 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 27 February 12, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Health Education Technology the Focus of Second Healthy People Lecture

The UNCW Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society and New Hanover Regional Medical Center, is sponsoring its second program of the Healthy People Lecture Series at 7 p.m. Feb. 19 in University Center Ballroom. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Mark Kittleson, professor of health education at Southern Illinois University, will be the featured speaker. Founder and owner of the world's largest Internet directory of health educators, Kittleson is also editor-in-chief of the first International Electronic Journal of Health Education.

A leader in the use of electronic media as a forum for discussion of health issues, Kittleson will address the current state-of-the-art technology in health education, its impact on the nation and how regional educators can access and utilize the medium to their students' benefit.

Kittleson

For more information, contact Bruce Ragon at ext. 3768 or Mike Perko at ext. 3258, Healthy People Lecture Series co-chairs. The lecture series is funded through grants from the UNCW College of Arts and Sciences, the American Cancer Society and New Hanover Regional Medical Center.

Contributions Sought for Healing Works

Healing Works, sponsored by UNCW and the Rape Crisis Center of Coastal Horizons Inc., is seeking works of art for inclusion in the exhibit. Among the art forms being sought are writings, sculpture, drawings, paintings and music. There is no fee to exhibit, but submissions must be registered by Feb. 25 and must be ready to display.

For the fourth consecutive year, Healing Works will be on display in the University Union Living Room March 2-April 8.

Healing Works, which is free and open to the public, is a display of creative works celebrating survival and healing from sexual assault and child sexual abuse. It offers survivors of sexual assault or child sexual abuse as well as their families and friends an opportunity to share with others their experiences.

For more information or to register entries, call Gail DeBose at ext. 3119 or Yael Gold at ext. 3746.

INSIDE

A report on Chancellor James R. Leutze's trip to Thailand, Indonesia and Japan and the region's interest in American higher education technology.

Summer Swim Lessons for Children

This year's UNCW Summer Swim Program for children ages three through 12 will consist of four two-week sessions. One-hour classes will be held at 10 and 11 a.m. May 18-29, June 1-12, June 15-26 and July 6-17. Interested faculty and staff can register children before March 28 at the Trask Coliseum ticket office. For more information, call ext. 3233.

Mastro Completes Public Manager Program

Steve Mastro, administrative officer for the National Undersea Research Center at UNCW, has graduated from North Carolina's Public Manager Program.

Established in 1979, the Public Manager's Program works with select managers from state government to improve their skills and leadership. Participants in the two-year program participate in self assessments and complete 10 core courses and a final project.

Mastro's final project was to organize a cross-departmental advisory team to determine the most effective operations for UNCW's new 63-foot research vessel Cape Fear.

Since 1982, UNCW has enrolled more than 20 candidates in this competitive program, and there are currently nine Public Manager Program graduates employed in various departments. For more information about the program, contact Brenda Jordan at ext. 3274.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Chancellor's Faculty Advisory Committee Meeting

The Chancellor's Faculty Advisory Committee will meet at 7 a.m. Feb. 18 in Alderman Hall, Room 215.

Committee members are: Eleanor Byington, English; Sue Combs, HPER; Ronald Copley, economics and finance; Sally Cummings, School of Nursing; Donald Furst, fine arts; James Hunt, Cameron School of Business; James Kiddle, chemistry; Sally McKain, psychology; Sandra McLaurin, mathematical sciences; Mahnaz Moallem, Watson School of Education; Sam Murrell, philosophy and religion; Joseph Pawlik, biological sciences; Lynn Snowden, sociology and anthropology; and Richard Veit, English.

Chancellor's Staff Advisory Committee Meeting

The Chancellor's Staff Advisory Committee will meet at 7 a.m. Feb. 23 in the Madeline Suite at Wagoner Hall. Members of the committee are:

Annette Anderson, public service; Claude Brown, purchasing; Marquita Brown, housing and residence life; Charles Gagum, vending services; Ray Humphries, information technology; Sherry King, chemistry; Patsy Larrick, advancement; Joanne McDowell, human resources; Cathy Morris, earth sciences; Cathy Olson, institutional research; Beth Roberts, Randall Library; Sandy Rogers, sociology and anthropology; and Peggy Segars, School of Nursing.

50th Fact

UNCW's first dormitory, built in 1970, was known as the Residence Hall until April 1975 when it was renamed Galloway Hall. Edmond Robert Galloway was a freshman who resided in the Residence Hall in the fall of 1974. On Oct. 7, he fell from his bicycle suffering injuries that resulted in his death. The Student Government Association passed a resolution requesting that the hall be renamed in Galloway's honor. The board of trustees approved the resolution, and on April 30, 1975, Galloway Hall was dedicated.

Note of Appreciation

Charlotte Marion, physical plant, would like to thank those who donated to the Shared Leave Program on her behalf. "I greatly appreciate everyone's generosity," she said.

Faculty International Travel Grants

March 15 is the application deadline for faculty international travel grants available through the Office of International Programs. Applications are available from department chairs or from Robin Williams, OIP. For more information, call ext. 3685.

Chancellor's Achievement Awards Reception

The Chancellor's Achievement Awards reception will be held from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Feb. 19 in the University Center Ballroom. The reception honors students who received an 'A' average while carrying a minimum of 15 credit hours during the fall 1997 semester.

Biology Seminar

Jonathan Geller will present "Using Phylogenetics: Invasions, Biogeography and the Evolution of Sea Anemones" at 2 p.m. Friday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

At the Hawk's Nest

The faculty and staff dining room menus are:

Feb. 13 - special Valentine's Day menu.

Feb. 17 - sliced roast beef au jus, Italian vegetable bake, mashed potatoes with gravy, honey glazed carrots, julienne yellow and zucchini squash, assorted salads, desserts and beverages.

Self-Defense Classes

University police are offering two self-defense classes for women called Rape Aggression Defense (RAD). The first class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. Feb. 17, 19, 24, 25 and March 3, 4. The second class will meet from 5:30 to 8 p.m. April 14, 16, 21, 23, 28 and 30. Both classes will meet in Trask Coliseum's Golden Hawk Room. The class is free, but the manual is $12 and can be purchased at the university police department. Classes are limited. To sign up, call ext. 3184. For more information, contact John Burton at ext. 3090.

CROSSROADS on the Web

CROSSROADS, UNCW's substance abuse prevention and education program, has a new web page. Its web site address is http://uncwil.edu/stuaff/substance/index.html.

UNCW-TV Celebrates Black History Month

UNCW-TV, broadcasting on Time Warner channel 11, will celebrate Black History Month by broadcasting three special programs. The presentations include the first "Black and White" series of dialogues focusing on race relations that were held last fall, a rebroadcast of the Martin Luther King III speech delivered on campus in January and a presentation of this month's Faculty Front panel discussion on affirmative action.

The broadcast schedule is:

- 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Feb. 16 - "Black and White in Public Schools"
- 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Feb. 17 - "Black and White: Burden of Southern History"
- 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Feb. 18 - "Black and White: White Supremacy at Home and Abroad in 1898"
- 8 a.m. and 10:30 p.m. Feb. 20 - Martin Luther King III
- 8 a.m. and 10 p.m Feb. 23 - "Black and White: Communicating in Black and White"
- 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Feb. 24 - "Black and White: Religion and Racism"
- 8 a.m. and 10 p.m Feb. 25 - "Black and White: Growing up Black and White in Wilmington"
- 8 a.m. and 10:30 p.m. Feb. 27 - Faculty Front: A Look at Affirmative Action.

For more information, contact Kate Walsh, UNCW-TV director, Division for Public Service and Extended Education, at ext. 4082.

FEATURES

Chancellor Leutze Reports Keen Interest from Thailand, Japan and Indonesia in Access to American Higher Education Technology

Although the conversations took place in four different languages, during his trip to Thailand, Japan, and Indonesia in January Chancellor James R. Leutze heard one recurring message from leaders in government, business, and education — they want access to American higher education via distance learning technologies, and they want it fast. His message back was, although there are some hurdles to overcome, UNC Wilmington is eager and willing to provide the leadership to make it happen.

This special report to the university community is based on Dr. Leutze's conversation with the provost and vice chancellors on Thursday, Feb. 5, 1998.

Thailand

The multi-faceted trip began in Thailand where Chancellor Leutze participated in a Kenan Institute Asia (KIAsia) Board of Directors meeting Jan. 20 in Bangkok. One reason for his appointment to this board was because the three-part UNC-TV "Globe Watch" television documentary focused on Thailand, as well as due to Dr. Leutze's continuing interests in the institute's program.

The Kenan Institute Asia is a Thai non-profit organization in cooperation with the Frank Hawkins Kenan Institute of Private Enterprise at UNC-CH. The goal of the institute is to identify development problems in Thailand and link Thai public and private organizations with U.S. sources of experience, expertise, technology, and technical assistance. In line with its mission, the board meeting focused on the potential of using distance learning technology to deliver American higher education programs to Thailand, especially programs from the University of North Carolina system.

"There are lots of issues that must be dealt with," Dr. Leutze stressed. "It's not simply that we have a course on the internet, and they want to take a course on the internet. There are a number of issues about who gets credits, who gets paid, who gets FTE's, or whether these courses are transferable. These issues were discussed at length during that meeting, which was also attended by UNC President Molly Broad.

"While I wouldn't say we arrived at any specific conclusions, we did have a good exchange of views. One tangible result is a likely association between UNCW and Chulalongkorn University, the Harvard of Thailand. We will be following up with Chulalongkorn."

Dr. Leutze also used this visit as an opportunity to show the Globe Watch series to the board as well as to deliver a copy to Thai officials for future airing on television in Thailand and Australia. A large number of expatriate Thais live in Australia.

In addition to opportunities in distance education, the Cameron School of Business at UNCW and other North Carolina business schools may have an opportunity to assist in training currently unemployed financial and banking personnel in Thailand to become internal auditors. One problem identified by groups trying to help Thailand out of its current economic crisis has been secrecy of corporate activities and lack of information shared with stockholders and the public, or a lack of "transparency" as they stated it.

In return for its help, the International Monetary Fund is requiring the Thais to incorporate internal auditors into their organizations to provide more information to stockholders about what is going on within the organization. They have asked for help from North Carolina. Chancellor Leutze is helping put together a team including at least two audit specialists from UNCW. The courses would probably last about four weeks. Those trained by the North Carolina instructors would in turn teach auditors to work in individual businesses.

"It is an opportunity for us to participate in a rather interesting experiment in opening up a company," Dr. Leutze said.

Other discussions focused on how North Carolina could assist the government of Thailand in providing scholarships to allow its brightest students to study in the United States. The current economic turmoil has drastically reduced the number of students who can afford to study abroad.

"The former prime minister of Thailand made a special appeal both generally and to me personally to see if there was anything we could do to provide scholarship help to Thai students. The Thai government gives 700 scholarships a year to their top students to go abroad to study, and many of those can't afford to take advantage of that scholarship.

"President Broad and I talked about what could be done. I would like to see North Carolina step forward and take 10-12 of these students who would be the equivalent of the Morehead Scholars. They are the best and the brightest that they have." One proposal put forth by Chancellor Leutze was a form of aid similar to the Lend Lease program in World War II where the Thai government provides a portion of the scholarship with the rest from a loan to be repaid in four or five years. He stressed that it would be beneficial to UNCW to have three or four such outstanding foreign students on our campus. Another possibility is to develop an exchange arrangement with Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok. UNCW already has such an arrangement with Chiang Mai University in Thailand's hill country. An exchange arrangement would allow Thai students to study here at the same rate of tuition they pay there.

Chancellor Leutze is looking for ways to help. "If there is something that we can do to help Thailand in its current situation, they will be extremely grateful to us for it, and it will have long-range, positive implications," he said.

(Cont. on Page 4)

(Cont. from page 3)

Japan

As Governor Jim Hunt's designated representative from the UNC system to discuss distance learning opportunities, Chancellor Leutze next traveled to Japan to meet with leaders of the Digital Communities Project, a wide-sweeping program to develop the community of the 21st century. Eleven Japanese prefectures, or states, have formed this effort to find ways to use modern technology to help with their total information delivery system, incorporating education, medicine, and legal and government operations. Working with the prefectures on this project is the Japanese Electronic Industry Development Association, JEIDA, and several university presidents.

The Japanese view the United States as being very far ahead of them in the use of distance learning and digital communication, and they want to learn from the U.S., what we can do and how we do it, Dr. Leutze said.

Next, Dr. Leutze traveled to Iwate in the northern part of the country where he met with Governor Masuda, President Nishizawa of Iwate Kenritsu University, and others with the Digital Community effort. One reason Iwate is interested in distance education is because of its distance from urban centers, and they feel that they do not have access to as good an education as offered in urban areas. It is somewhat similar to rural areas in North Carolina that feel that they are to some extent second-class citizens in access to the same quality education as urban areas.

In Iwate, many of the same issues of accreditation and transferability came up as were discussed in Thailand. But Dr. Leutze was struck by their insistence on getting U.S. degrees.

"We discussed the sticking points and details associated with distance education, but again what struck me is their emphasis on their long-range goal — they want degrees from American institutions. We did reach some commonality at least in understanding what we are talking about. Nobody thinks it is going to be simple. It is going to be complex."

One matter that did surprise Chancellor Leutze was the issue in what language courses would be presented. "To my surprise, every time I would bring up the matter of language, they would say, 'Japanese people are going to learn to speak English. The courses will be in English. We teach English in our grade schools, we are going to start emphasizing it more, it's going to be the international language, so the courses should be in English.' I found that extremely helpful.

"They also did not seem to be particularly put off by the question of the cost of the various delivery methods. They wanted the simplest and most effective delivery method. It was their impression that this was ISDN – Integrated Services Digital Network (the next level of telephone lines that can carry a wide range of services over one or more lines). I told them that was expensive, and they said yes but it's simple. Money didn't seem to be a major objection."

Next was a visit to Mie Prefecture which is in the mid-Southern part of the country. Mei University has a medical and nursing school, and they are very interested in any nursing courses UNCW can provide. Similar discussions took place in Mie as in Iwate, but the clear outcome desired by the Japanese is to get started. The next step is for a delegation of Japanese to come back to North Carolina, probably in March, to meet with some of our professors and at other places in N.C. that are doing distance courses.

"They would like some courses," explained Dr. Leutze. "They understand that this is an experiment, but they would like some courses beginning in October 1998. That is their start-up date. They've got their budget, they've got everything else. They want to get started, they want to see some of these courses, and they want to see how their students react to them. They don't want to hear about accreditation issues. I told them we would set up a working group at UNCW and coordinate their visit to North Carolina with the president of the university and other chancellors.

"I committed to try to move it along as quickly as we can, but I'm trying to be a bit cautious and point out pitfalls. I don't want them to be disappointed, because whether this project works or doesn't work, N.C. has a strong vested interest in good relations with Japan. I was very impressed with the Japanese, with what they are trying to do, and their efficiency. They see this as the wave of the future. They see us as being ahead, they want to catch up, and the way to do that is to pick our brains and take our courses.

"This is not charity on our part. They will have to pay to get the courses and for development of the courses if they are courses we don't already have. I think that we should be looking for some commonality. And in the future, instead of developing courses haphazardly, we should develop courses that lead to credit but also lead to degrees instead of a whole cafeteria of courses, none of which taken together lead to anything. We ought to look at a series that lead to general college requirements, for instance, or in some other area that will be the senior level of courses that lead to a degree. This will take some thought and coordination to do what we want and what they want, but I think it is well worth trying to do."

Also on the itinerary was a trip to Nagoya Gakuin University with which UNCW has a relationship. UNCW currently has a student on exchange there for a year. Dr. Leutze reported that the university is very positive about what is going on, and they are really eager for more faculty, student, and staff exchanges.

Chancellor Leutze concluded by noting that he found Japan less formidable than he had expected. "There were more signs in English than I had expected. People were very friendly and smiled on the street. Everything works in the country. I would commend it to people as a place to visit, particularly if they could do it with a home base at a university.

"I have been enthusiastic about the possibilities of international distance education. This trip has convinced me that there are governments and people who are going to be willing to invest a lot of money to make this technology work. The Japanese are not alone in this. When I stopped in Singapore, three Singaporese businessmen wanted to have lunch with me to discuss distance learning and how they might set up a university in Singapore.

"So wherever I was, I learned that people in these countries want to have access to American education. And they'll find a way to do it. Some of those problems and issues I brought up are problems, they're real problems, but I think they can be solved. If universities don't solve them, I guarantee you that Bill Gates' university will solve it. They'll find a way."

Note: Dr. Leutze expressed appreciation to UNCW Foreign Languages and Literatures Lecturer Yoko Kano for her extensive help in setting up details of the visit and clarifying issues. He also thanked Dr. Khoon Y. Koh, assistant professor of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, for his assistance with the visit to Singapore.

UNCW-TV to Broadcast ECU-Seahawk Men's Basketball Game

UNCW-TV will broadcast live the East Carolina-UNCW men's basketball game with pregame highlights at 7 p.m. and tipoff at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 21 on Time Warner Cable channel 11. The broadcast, which is a student production, will be rebroadcast at 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Feb. 26. For more information, contact Kate Walsh, UNCW-TV director, at ext. 4082.

University Theatre Production

The University Theatre presents The Maids by Jean Genet under the direction of W. Terry Rogers. Performances will be at 8 p.m. Feb. 20-21, 26-28 and 3 p.m. Feb. 22 and March 1 in Kenan Hall's SRO Theatre. Tickets are $8 for general admission and $4 for senior citizens, faculty and staff. Admission is free for UNCW students with valid ID. Tickets are available at Kenan Auditorium Box Office.

Richmond is Next Stop for Golden Alumni Tour

As the Seahawks prepare for the CAA tournament Feb.25-March 1, the UNCW Alumni Association's Golden Tour will stop in Richmond Feb. 26 at the Embassy Suites Hotel, Commerce Center, 2925 Emerywood Parkway. The social hour will begin at 6 p.m.; the dinner and program will be from 7 to 9 p.m. The cost for the event is $15 per person. Reservations should be made by Feb. 23. For more information or to register, call ext. 2682.

Musical Lighting Director to Speak

Don Holder, lighting director for the musical The Lion King, will discuss lighting design techniques at 7 p.m. Feb. 23 in Kenan Hall's SRO Theatre. The Tony Award nominee will also teach a master class in lighting design instruction at 3:30 p.m. in the same location.

Benefit Concert

Pianist John Kamitsuka will perform at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 24 in Kenan Auditorium. The concert will benefit the New Hanover Community Health Center. The program will include works by Bach, Chopin and Prokofiev. Tickets are $15 in advance and $20 at the door and are available at the Kenan Auditorium Box Office.

Earth Sciences Seminar

Eric Wright of Coastal Carolina University will lecture on "Way Down Upon the Suwannee River: Holocene Evolution of a Riverine Siliciclastic Coastline Overlying a Karstic Carbonate Platform" at 2 p.m. Feb. 16 in DeLoach Hall, Room 114.

Wilmington in Black and White

Wilmington in Black and White, a series of conversations about Wilmington's past, present and future, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through April 2 at the St. Stephen AME Church, 501 Red Cross St. This free event is open to the public and is cosponsored by the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Foundation and the Department of Philosophy and Religion. Tonight's topic is "Different Perspectives on the Causes of Events of 1898" with John Haley and George Rountree III. The Feb. 19 topic is "Black and White Stereotypes" with Rob Miller and Clyde McDaniel.

Intercultural Festival Seeks Booths and Entertainment

Participation from university and community organizations is sought for UNCW's fifth annual Intercultural Festival March 23 - 28. Festival activities include a day-long celebration 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. March 28 in the Hawk's Nest highlighting the diverse cultures and countries represented within the university and Wilmington. It will include entertainment, food and a display of tables showcasing various arts, crafts, holidays, music and customs. Display tables will be provided at no cost to organizations. Some money is available to assist student organizations with the cost of putting together a display. Groups wishing to participate with a display table or some form of entertainment should contact Heather Smith at ext. 7009 or e-mail, smithh. The deadline for applications is March 16.

What Makes the South Southern?

John Shelton Reed will lecture on "What Makes the South Southern?" at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 24 in Cameron Auditorium. Reed, director of UNC Chapel Hill's Institute for Research in Social Science and Kenan professor, is a noted scholar of Southern culture and the author of 1001 Things Everyone Should Know About the South. This free lecture is sponsored by the English Department's Buckner Lecture Series.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Jack B. Levy, Ned H. Martin, Istvan Hargittai, and Magdolna Hargittai, chemistry, had their research paper "Intra- and Intermolecular Hydrogen Bonding in 2-Phosphinylphenol: A Quantum Chemical Study" published in the Journal of Physical Chemistry.

Mike Perko, HPER, has been invited by the director of graduate studies at Johns Hopkins School of Public Health to address doctoral and master's-level students on applying theoretical models to real-world situations in the field of worksite health promotion.

Barbara F. Waxman, English, had her book To Live in the Center of the Moment: Literary Autobiographies of Aging published by the University Press of Virginia.

Mitch Conover, economics and finance, had his article "Investor Expectations in Relation to Value Stocks versus Growth Stocks in International Markets" accepted for publication in the Financial Analysts Journal.

Kathy Rugoff, English, presented two papers "When Lilacs Last: Settings by George Crumb, Paul Hindemith and Roger Sessions" and "Parker and Phish: Approaches to Meter and Figure for Literary Texts" at the 1997 Modern Language Association Conference held in Toronto.

New Number for Reporting Work-related Injuries

The telephone number to report work-related injuries to human resources has changed to ext. 3712. All employees accidentally injured at work, including student workers, should follow administrative procedure HR 5.10 to protect benefits under the North Carolina Workers' Compensation Act. For a copy of the workers' compensation pamphlet call ext. 3712.

Exempt Withholding Certificates Expire

The 1997 W-4 and NC-4 tax withholding certificate expires Feb. 17 for those who are currently claiming exemption from withholding. Employees who wish to claim an exemption from withholding after Feb. 17 must submit a new W-4 and NC-4 to payroll by Feb. 27 to be reflected in March paychecks.

Degree Audit Training

Computer training sessions on the On-Course degree audit and advising system will be held at 8:30 and 10 a.m. and 1:30 and 3 p.m. Feb. 23 and 24 in Hoggard Hall, Room 212. These are introductory sessions on the SIS and On-Course system designed for faculty members. Call Becky Fancher at ext. 3036 to register.

Staff Vacancy

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	April 1
98-080 Career Development Counselor	Feb. 27
98-084 Maintenance Mechanic IV	Feb. 13
98-085 Housekeepers (FT &HT)	Feb. 13
98-086 Departmental Purchasing Agent II	Feb. 13
98-087 Office Assistant III	Feb. 20
98-088 Processing Assistant III	Feb. 20

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Staff Training

- TimeQuest, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Feb. 13.
- Interaction Management, 9 a.m. to noon Feb. 16-20.
- Advanced Connections, 9 to 11 a.m. March 3, 10 and 17.
- Travel Procedures, 9 to 11 a.m. March 4.
- Understanding FRS Reports and Screens, 9 a.m. to noon, March 11.
- Compensation Issues, 2 to 4 p.m. March 18.
- Maintaining and Reading Your Budget, 9 to 11 a.m. March 26.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Fred Green, housekeeping, University Union, to help him avoid leave without pay during his recovery from heart surgery. Call Dale at ext. 3161 as soon as possible to donate vacation leave for Green. The payroll cutoff is Friday. Thanks in advance for your support of this program.

Administrative Procedures Update

The following revised policies for the Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual have been approved. Key revisions or additions are noted below.

AUX 7.10 - Motor Fleet Vehicle Rental.

As a reminder, smoking is not allowed in state vehicles.

Departments must notify the UNCW Motor Fleet Office if unforeseen circumstances require an extension of the original reservation for a motor fleet vehicle. Unless permission to keep the vehicle for an extended time is received, the department is subject to a late return fee of $50 per day.

HR 160 - Employment of Undergraduate Students.

Departments must notify career services as instructed in this procedure when the employment or work assignment of an undergraduate student is terminated.

TRA 1.13 - Travel, Transportation Modes and Transportation-related Expenses.

Optional insurance coverage on rental vehicles is not a reimbursable expense unless an exception is made through purchasing services for such circumstances as foreign travel.

Rental vehicles may be picked up in the Wilmington area only if the non-availability of a state-owned vehicle is documented on the vehicle request and invoice. If a state-owned car is not available and a rental car is needed in the Wilmington area, use the employee's UNCW American Express card and request reimbursement via a travel reimbursement. If a van or truck is needed in the Wilmington area and a state-owned vehicle is not available, a purchase requisition must be used.

See this procedure for information regarding state motor fleet cars available in Asheville, Charlotte, Concord, Durham and Greensboro.

These policies may be viewed in their entirety on the World Wide Web. The Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual is linked off the UNCW home page under administration and is also accessible via the business affairs home page.

Procrastinators Will Be Shocked in the Year 2000

On Jan. 1, 2000, your computer may fail to recognize the new millenium's date. To help understand the problem and find solutions, UNCW is hosting a free forum, "Computer Challenges in the Year 2000," from 1 to 5 p.m. Feb. 24 in the Madeline Suite in Wagoner Hall. Ron Vetter, mathematical sciences, will lead the discussion and offer solutions to keep systems working properly. Vetter's expertise and research interests include high performance computing, multimedia systems and high speed networks. He has published more than 50 journal, conference and technical papers and is a member of the ACM and the IEEE Computer and Communication Societies.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 28 February 19, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Chapel Hill Professor to Lecture on What Makes the South Southern

Just what makes the South southern? Find out from John Shelton Reed at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 24 in Cameron Auditorium.

Reed, director of UNC Chapel Hill's Instititute for Research in Social Science and William Rand Kenan, Jr. Professor, is a noted scholar of southern culture. He is also the author of more than a dozen books including Southern Folk, Plain and Fancy, Whistling Dixie, My Tears Spoiled My Aim and 1001 Things Everyone Should Know About the South.

A past president of the Southern Sociological Society, Reed has lectured at more than 100 universities worldwide. In 1987, President Reagan appointed him to the council of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Technology in Health Education the Focus of Second Healthy People Lecture

The UNCW Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society and New Hanover Regional Medical Center, is sponsoring its second program of the Healthy People Lecture Series at 7 p.m. tonight in University Center Ballroom. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Mark Kittleson, professor of health education at Southern Illinois University, will be the featured speaker. Founder and owner of the world's largest Internet directory of health educators, Kittleson is also editor-in-chief of the first International Electronic Journal of Health Education.

A leader in the use of electronic media as a forum for discussion of health issues, Kittleson will address the current state-of-the-art technology in health education, its impact on the nation and how regional educators can access and utilize the medium to their students' benefit.

For more information, contact Bruce Ragon at ext. 3768 or Mike Perko at ext. 3258, Healthy People Lecture Series co-chairs. The lecture series is funded through grants from the UNCW College of Arts and Sciences, the American Cancer Society and New Hanover Regional Medical Center.

Kittleson

Benefit Concert Scheduled for Feb. 24

Pianist John Kamitsuka will perform at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 24 in Kenan Auditorium. The concert is a benefit for the New Hanover Community Health Center. The program will feature works by J.S. Bach, Chopin and Prokofiev.

Kamitsuka has performed throughout the United States, South America, Europe and Japan. He began his formal piano studies at the age of five and by the age of 12 had performed as a soloist with symphony orchestras. He studied music at the Toho School of Music in Tokyo and Indiana University.

Tickets are available at Kenan Auditorium Box Office and are $15 in advance and $20 at the door.

Black History Month Calendar of Events

- Feb. 21 - African-American Film Festival, 2 to 7 p.m. University Union, Room 100
- Feb. 23 - 1898 Discussions, facilitated by Margaret Rogers, 12:15 to 1 p.m. and 1:15 to 2 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 24 - Prophetic Dance and Lecture with Koyah Alston, 6 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 25 - As a Man Thinketh Series with Fred McRee, 3 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 26 - Kiswahili Introductory Workshop, noon to 1 p.m. Upperman African-American Cultural Center
- Feb. 27 - Comedian Melanie Camacho, 8 p.m. Hawk's Nest

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Chancellor's Staff Advisory Committee Meeting

The Chancellor's staff advisory committee will meet at 7 a.m. Feb. 23 in the Madeline Suite at Wagoner Hall. Members of the committee are:

Annette Anderson, public service; Claude Brown, purchasing; Marquita Brown, housing and residence life; Charles Gagum, vending services; Ray Humphries, information technology; Sherry King, chemistry; Patsy Larrick, advancement; Joanne McDowell, human resources; Cathy Morris, earth sciences; Cathy Olson, institutional research; Beth Roberts, Randall Library; Sandy Rogers, sociology and anthropology; and Peggy Segars, School of Nursing.

New Prefix for Alumni Relations Fax Number

The fax number for the Office of Alumni Relations is 962-2685. To fax the office from a UNCW phone, just dial the extension number.

50th Fact

The week of Feb. 21, 1965, was proclaimed Wilmington College Foundation Week by Wilmington Mayor O. O. Allsbrook. "Our American education system, offering universal education for all citizens, has become a source of great strength to American democratic principles," said Mayor Allsbrook. Dr. C. E. Hartford, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Wilmington College Foundation, stressed the foundation's purpose. "It is necessary to raise supplementary funds and donations to help support Wilmington College. The college cannot be expected to provide a full and excellent academic program on state support alone."

Physics Department Lecture

Laurie E. McNeil, Bowman and Gordon Gray Professor, Department of Physics and Astronomy, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, will lecture on "Light from Sand? Luminescence from Silicon Oxide-based Films" at 2 p.m Feb. 27 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

Technology College Courses for Fall 1998

The Technology College (TC) is now preparing course listings for the summer and fall of 1998. Faculty who know they will be teaching an existing TC course again should e-mail the coordinator. Faculty who would be interested in having one or more courses added to the TC list should consult the web site http://www.uncwil.edu/tc for acceptance criteria and an on-line application.

In Search of Everest

Adrian Burgess, a world-renowned mountaineer, will present a slide show documenting his adventures on the world's highest peaks, including Mt. Everest during winter, at 7 p.m. Feb. 25 in the University Center Stage Cafe. This free program is sponsored by the Discover Outdoor Center. For more information, contact the center at ext. 4052.

Musical Lighting Director to Speak

Don Holder, lighting director for the musical The Lion King, will discuss lighting design techniques at 12:30 p.m. in Kenan Hall's SRO theatre and at 7 p.m. Feb. 23 in Kenan Hall, Room 121. The Tony Award nominee will also teach a master class in lighting design instruction at 3:30 p.m. in Kenan Hall, Room 129.

Film Discussion

UNCW's history club, the Chroniclers, is hosting a discussion of the films Amistad and Titanic at 4 p.m. Feb. 24 Morton Hall, Room 212. The discussion will be led by Bob Toplin, history. Toplin is the author of History by Hollywood: The Use and Abuse of the American Past and film editor of the Journal of American History. Light refreshments will be provided.

New Commemorative Stamps

"Celebrate the Century" is a limited-edition stamp series commemorating the most significant people, events and accomplishments of the 20th century. There will be 10 series, each with 15 collector stamps and historical facts. Stamp sets celebrating the 1900 and 1910 decades are now available at the post office for $4.80 each.

Jazz Ensembles Perform

The UNCW Big Band, under the direction of Frank Bongiorno, and the Jazz Combo, under the direction of Rebecca Kane, will perform at 8 p.m. Feb. 26 in Kenan Auditorium.

Opening the program will be the Jazz Combo with student arrangement of jazz standards including Cherokee, Someday My Prince Will Come, I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face. The combo is composed of alto saxophonist Steven Thorne, guitarist Jeff DeBonis, bassist Ryan Woodall, pianist Justin Depuydt and Colby Wahl on drums.

The UNCW Big Band will conclude the concert with a variety of musical styles and compositions including I Love Paris, as recorded by the Stan Keaton Band, an arrangement of I Can't Get Started by Jerald Shynett, music, and the new composition Nighthawks by Paul Ferguson. For more information, contact the Music Department at ext. 3390.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

Salwen to Perform as Part of Artist Recital Series

Barry David Salwen, music, will perform a piano recital at 8 p.m. March 2 in Kenan Auditorium as part of the 1997-98 Artist Recital Series.

Salwen has performed throughout the United States, Central America, Europe and Asia. An active recording artist, his performances have appeared on seven CDs. The March 2 concert will include waltzes by American composers, Beethoven's Op. 31 #1 and Brahms' Fantasies Op. 116.

RAD Class

University police is offering a self-defense class for women called Rape Aggression Defense (RAD). The class will meet from 5:30 to 8 p.m. April 14, 16, 21, 23, 28 and 30 in Trask Coliseum's Golden Hawk Room. The class is free, but the manual is $12 and can be purchased at the university police department. Classes are limited. To sign up, call ext. 3184. For more information, contact John Burton at ext. 3090.

UNCW-TV to Broadcast ECU-Seahawk Men's Basketball Game

UNCW-TV will broadcast live the East Carolina-UNCW men's basketball game with pregame highlights beginning at 7 p.m. and tipoff at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 21 over Time Warner Cable channel 11. The broadcast, which is a student production, will be rebroadcast at 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. Feb. 26. For more information, contact Kate Walsh, UNCW TV director, at ext. 4082.

Graduate Thesis Defense

Katie Laing will defend her thesis "Growth and Nutrient Dynamics of a Calcerous Green Alga in the Florida Keys" at 2 p.m. Feb. 20 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

University Theatre Production

The University Theatre presents The Maids by Jean Genet under the direction of W. Terry Rogers. Performances will be at 8 p.m. Feb. 20-21, 26-28 and 3 p.m. Feb. 22 and March 1 in Kenan Hall's SRO Theatre. Tickets are $8 for general admission and $4 for senior citizens, faculty and staff. Admission is free for UNCW students with valid ID. Tickets are available at Kenan Auditorium Box Office.

Art Show

A viewing of paintings by Marcus Van Johnson will be held from noon to 7 p.m. Feb. 28 at the Wilmington Hilton. There will be a "meet the artist" reception from 7 to 9 p.m.

Wilmington in Black and White

Wilmington in Black and White, a series of conversations about Wilmington's past, present and future, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through April 2 at the St. Stephen AME Church, 501 Red Cross St. This free event is open to the public and is cosponsored by the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Foundation and the Department of Philosophy and Religion. Tonight's topic is "Black and White Stereotypes" with Rob Miller and Clyde McDaniel. The Feb. 26 topic is "Black and White Participation in the Arts in Wilmington" with Rhonda Bellamy and Francine deCoursey.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Joseph Pawlik, biological sciences, had the paper "Seasonal Variation in Biofouling of Gels Containing Extracts of Marine Organisms" published in the journal Biofouling. Alicia Henrikson Armstrong was the first author on the paper, and the work reported was done as part of her master of science dissertation research.

Mike Mallin, CMSR, had the paper "Comparative Effects of Poultry and Swine Waste Lagoon Spills on the Quality of Receiving Waters" published in the Journal of Environmental Quality, vol. 26, pgs. 1622-1631. His co-authors were Matt McIver and Chris Shank, CMSR, and JoAnn Burkholder, Howard Glasgow, Brant Touchette and Jeff Springer, N.C. State University. A related paper, "Impacts to a Coastal River and Estuary From Rupture of a Large Swine Waste Holding Lagoon," was published in the same issue. It was written by Burkholder with co-authors Mallin, Shank and McIver.

John Clifford, English, had his essay "Testing the Limits of Tolerance in the Democratic Classroom" published in the collection Narration as Knowledge (Heinemann, 1998).

Charles Lewis, HPER, participated in the 50th annual Municipal and County Recreation Directors Conference at Research Triangle Park. The focus of the conference, in part, is to recognize the contributions of government supported recreation in North Carolina communities. Also attending were two UNCW alumni, Robert Mazur, director in Bladen County, and Jeff Batten, director in Pinehurst.

Bruce C. McKinney, communication studies, had his play Eracism: A Discussion of Race performed at the studio theater of Thalian Hall. McKinney wrote and directed the play which was part of the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Commission.

Laela Sayigh, biological sciences, made the presentation "Photo-identification and Acoustic Monitoring of Bottlenose Dolphins Near Wilmington, N.C.: Evidence for Residency and Extended Home Range" at the World Marine Mammal Science Conference in Monaco. The presentation was co-authored by K. Urian; Alessandro Bocconcelli, CMSR; D. Koster; G. Jones; K. Halbrook; and A. Read. Koster is an undergraduate student. Halbrook is a former undergraduate student. Urian and Jones are graduate students. Also making presentations were graduate students Mark Allen, Jessica Plant, Jones and Urian.

Istvan Hargittai, distinguished visiting professor, and Magdolna Hargittai, visiting scientist, chemistry, participated in the "Frontiers in Biomedical Research" symposium in Indian Wells, Calif., at the invitation of the Scripps Institute, La Jolla. Istvan Hargittai gave the invited lecture "In Our Own Image: Personal Symmetry in Discovery."

VALIC Representative on Campus

VALIC representative David Haden will be available from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. tomorrow and Feb. 24 to meet with employees interested in investing for retirement in VALIC's portfolio. VALIC has been approved by UNC General Administration as a vendor in the Optional Retirement Plan.

It is also an approved vendor for all UNCW employees for supplemental retirement annuities or 403-b accounts. Employees may invest from $20 to $833 monthly in tax-deferred dollars in addition to your regular retirement plan in funds such as Scudder Vanguard, Putnam and T. Rowe Price. Anyone interested in meeting with David Haden, should make an appointment by calling Willina Mitchell at ext. 3006. If neither scheduled day is convenient, employees can contact Haden locally at 791-4659 to set up another meeting.

Degree Audit Training

Computer training sessions on the On-Course degree audit and advising system will be held at 8:30 and 10 a.m. and 1:30 and 3 p.m. Feb. 23 and 24 in Hoggard Hall, Room 212. These are introductory sessions on the SIS and On-Course system designed for faculty members. Call Becky Fancher at ext. 3036 to register.

Staff Training

- Advanced Connections, 9 to 11 a.m. March 3, 10 and 17.
- Travel Procedures, 9 to 11 a.m. March 4.
- Understanding FRS Reports and Screens, 9 a.m. to noon, March 11.
- Compensation Issues, 2 to 4 p.m. March 18.
- Maintaining and Reading Your Budget, 9 to 11 a.m. March 26.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357. To register for library workshops, call ext. 3760.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	April 1
98-080 Career Development Counselor	Feb. 27
98-087 Office Assistant III	Feb. 20
98-088 Processing Assistant III	Feb. 20
98-089 Applications Analyst Programmer I	March 6
98-090 Pressman	Feb. 27
98-091 Postal Window Clerk	Feb. 27

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Procrastinators Will Be Shocked in the Year 2000

On Jan. 1, 2000, your computer may fail to recognize the new millenium's date. To help understand the problem and find solutions, UNCW is hosting a free forum, "Computer Challenges in the Year 2000," from 1 to 5 p.m., Feb. 24 in the Madeline Suite in Wagoner Hall. Ron Vetter, mathematical sciences, will lead the discussion and offer solutions to keep systems working properly. Vetter's expertise and research interests include high performance computing, multimedia systems and high-speed networks. He has published more than 50 journal, conference and technical papers and is a member of the ACM and the IEEE Computer and Communication Societies.

While admission is free, please call ahead to the Division for Public Service and Extended Education at ext. 3193 to reserve a spot. Space is limited.

1898 Centennial Foundation Dialogues on Race and Reconciliation

In 1898, here in Wilmington, racial tensions increased and resulted in violence, which caused the loss of lives, destruction of property and the expulsion of black and white citizens. As a part of the 1898 Centennial Foundation's activities, a series of city-wide dialogues on race and reconciliation meetings will be held. Each dialogue group will meet for five sessions and will be led by trained facilitators, representing all racial groups, following a standard format. The groups will be racially mixed and small in number. Anyone interested in participating should sign up at the Upperman African-American Cultural Center, University Union, Room 208. Dialogue groups will meet from noon to 2 p.m. Feb. 20, 27 and March 6, 13 and 20 in the Upperman African-American Cultural Center.

Summer Swim Lessons for Children

This year's UNCW Summer Swim Program for children ages three through 12 will consist of four two-week sessions. One-hour classes will be held at 10 and 11 a.m. during the following dates: May 18-29, June 1-12, June 15-26 and July 6-17. Interested faculty and staff can register children before March 28 at the Trask Coliseum Ticket Office. For more information, call ext. 3233.

UNCW Offering Spring Art Classes

The Division for Public Service and Extended Education will be offering the following arts classes. To register by telephone with Mastercard or Visa or for more information, call ext. 3195. Classes include:

- Basket Weaving 101 with Jan Beyma, 6 to 10 p.m. Thursdays, March 5-26. The cost of the class is $65. A supply fee of $50 will be collected by the instructor.
- Beginning Drawing with Sybil O. Thearling, 7 to 9:30 p.m. Mondays, March 2-April 27. The cost of the class is $90. Supplies are not included.
- Drawing Fundamentals II with Sybil O. Thearling, 7 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays, March 3-April 28. The cost of the class is $90.
- Joy of Painting with Norma Moore, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesdays, March 11-April 22. The cost of the class is $70.
- Make It with Paper with Anne Haugh, 7 to 9 p.m. Thursdays, March 5-April 9. The cost of the class is $65.
- Marvels of Chinese Arts: Neolitic to Modern Times with Paula Lee Haller, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays, March 5-April 9. The cost of the class is $65.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 29 February 26, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

"Treasure Coast" Takes First Place in Southeast U.S. Competition

The UNC Wilmington-created and -produced television documentary, Treasure Coast: The Natural Heritage of the North Carolina Shore, received top honors from the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education in District III competition. Narrated by Chancellor James R. Leutze, the documentary was aimed at increasing public awareness about the significance of North Carolina's coastal resource.

This is the second award-winning documentary produced by the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. River Run: Down the Cape Fear to the Sea, produced in 1994, received numerous awards. Treasure Coast's first-place award was in the films and videotape category.

The award was presented last week at the CASE District III conference in Orlando, Fla. The district includes 522 colleges and universities in the nine-state Southeast region.

Treasure Coast aired statewide on the University of North Carolina Center for Public Television in September. Elaine Penn was the executive producer and project director. The script was written by Philip Gerard, creative writing, and the filming was done by North Carolina State University's Creative Services Department.

The radio advertisements promoting Treasure Coast also received a first-place award in the CASE District III competition for radio programs and announcements. The ads were written by Mimi Cunningham, assistant vice chancellor for university relations at UNCW, and Teresa McLamb of McLamb Communications, and were narrated by Stella Shelton, former Wilmington television news anchor. The television promotions received an honorable mention in the television, advertisements and PSAs category.

In addition, UNCW received a special merit award in the general news story or series category for its entry "Cape Fear River Facing Severe and Increasing Threats." A news release on the N.C. General Assembly's $1.5 million appropriation for water quality monitoring on the Cape Fear River was issued by the university and written by Cunningham and Camilla Herlevich, who was at the time director of UNCW Cape Fear River Program. As a result, area media gave extensive coverage to the plight of the river and the university's efforts to stave off further degradation.

Seahawk License Plates Will Hit the Road in April

By mid-April, there will be more than 300 cars in North Carolina sporting new license plates featuring the UNCW Seahawk.

The promotional effort by the UNCW Alumni Association to get the license plates on the road during the university's 50th anniversary has paid off.

"We are indebted to those faithful alumni and friends who supported the program in its early stages and to those who helped us get over the top these last few months," said Pat Corcoran, 1972 UNCW graduate who is director of alumni relations.

A template from which the collegiate plates will be manufactured has already been cast, it will take about eight weeks before all 300 plates can be manufactured by the N.C. Department of Motor Vehicles.

The UNCW license plates are $25 in addition to the regular motor vehicle registration fee. The UNCW Alumni Association will receive $15 from every plate application to fund its scholarship program, which awards ten $1,500 scholarships to deserving UNCW students. The Seahawk license plates can be personalized for $45. For an application, contact the alumni association at ext. 2682.

Seahawk Women Win CAA Championship; Coach Honored

UNCW's women's swimming and diving team set 11 school records to capture its first-ever CAA title. It is the first women's title for UNCW in any sport. The women's title helped Head Coach Dave Allen earn CAA Women's Swimming and Diving Coach-of-the-Year honors.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Jazz Faculty to Perform

The UNCW Jazz Combo Faculty will perform at 8 p.m. March 1 in Kenan Auditorium. The program will consist of originals by band members and various jazz standards by composers such as Hank Mobley, Duke Pearson, Billy Strayhorn, Freddie Hubbard and John Coltrane. Members of the combo are Frank Bongiorno, alto saxophone; Jerald Shynett, trombone; Rebecca Kane, piano; Bob Russell, guitar; and Vince Stout, bass. Joining them will be guest drummer Michael Waldrop from the University of Memphis. General admission is $4; faculty, staff, senior citizens and children under 12, admission is $2.

Healing Works Exhibit Canceled

The 1998 Healing Works art exhibit scheduled for display March 2 to April 1 has been canceled.

Biology Seminar

Robert George, biological sciences, will lecture on "High Latitude Euphausiids, Copepods and Baleen Whales" at 2 p.m. Feb. 27 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Feminist Colloquium

The Feminist Colloquium will meet at 12:15 p.m. March 5 in the faculty common of Morton Hall to discuss "Therapy and How It Undermines the Practice of Radical Feminism" by Celia Kitzinger. The article is on reserve, or call Janet Ellerby at ext. 3764 for a copy.

50th Fact

King Hall was completed in 1969 at a cost of $536,000. It was named in honor of Arnold Kimsey King, vice president for institutional studies at the University of North Carolina from 1964 through 1972. King was instrumental in the expansion of the UNC system to include UNCW.

Former U.S. Poet Laureate to Hold Poetry Reading

Mark Strand, U.S. poet laureate from 1990-91, will read from his work at 8 p.m. March 19 in Cameron Auditorium. He is the author of eight volumes of poetry, a collection of short stories and three children's book. He has also written a book on the painter Edward Hopper. Strand's free reading is sponsored by the Katherine K. Buckner Lecture Series and the English Department. A book signing and reception will follow the reading. For more information, contact the Buckner Lecture Series Committee at ext. 3320.

At the Hawk's Nest

The following are faculty and staff dining room buffet menus:

Feb. 27 - Cajun pork chops, vegetarian linguini with roasted red peppers, confetti corn, Spanish rice, assorted salads, desserts and beverages.

March 3 - sliced roast chicken breast with gravy, sauteed seasonal vegetables, mashed potatoes, whole baby carrots, assorted salads, desserts and beverages.

Vietnam Seminar

The seminar "Vietnam's a Country, Not a War" will be held March 20-21 at Meredith College. The seminar will include a workshop on political liberalization in Vietnam, a screening of Dang Nhat Minh's film Nostalgia for Countryland and a discussion of Nhuyen Huy Thiep's short story with its American translator Dana Sachs, English. There will also be a banquet featuring a talk with Raleigh-area Vietnamese business women and Vietnamese music. The film and lectures are free to faculty, but there is a $15 charge to attend the banquet. The event is sponsored by the South Atlantic States Association for Asian and African Studies. For more information, contact Paula Kamenish, English, at ext. 3617 or e-mail kamenishp.

Richmond Bus Trip Planned If Seahawks Advance to CAA Finals

If the men's basketball team reaches Sunday's final game, two buses will transport Seahawk fans to Richmond. A 7 p.m. tip-off for the game is scheduled. The buses will depart Trask Coliseum's Lot K at noon March 1. The cost is $30 per person and includes round-trip bus fare and game ticket. Registration for approximately 90 seats will begin at 9 a.m. Sunday. Interested persons must register and pay in person. Registrations will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. The game will be televised on ESPN2.

Nominations Sought for Award for Faculty Scholarship

March 31 is the deadline for nominees for the UNCW Award for Faculty Scholarship. Nominees must be full-time faculty who have exhibited genuine interest in scholarship, research and creativity; earned the respect of colleagues and peers; maintained high standards of quality and integrity; fostered interest and involvement of students and colleagues in scholarship and creative work; and demonstrated a significant contribution to scholarship, research, and creativity to the university. One-page nomination letters must be submitted to the chancellor's office by the deadline. The 1998 recipient of the UNCW Award for Faculty Scholarship will be announced at fall convocation.

Faculty International Travel Grants

March 15 is the deadline to apply for faculty international travel grants available through the Office of International Programs. Applications are available from departmental chairs or from Robin Williams, OIP, at ext. 3685.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

Food Services - Faculty/Staff Dining Facility Survey

Auxiliary Services is evaluating the effectiveness of the Faculty/Staff Dining Room located in the Hawk's Nest. Would you please take a few minutes and provide a response to the following questions about the dining facility? Your assistance will help us provide the best service possible to meet your individual needs. Thank you!

1. Were you aware that the faculty/staff dining room/buffet existed? Yes No

2. If so, do you eat there? Yes No

3. How often? _____ per week _____ per month

4. Do you normally purchase your lunch on campus? Yes No

5. What do you feel is a reasonable price to spend for lunch?

   _____$2 - $3 _____$3 - $4 _____$4 - $5 _____$5 - $6

6. Do you feel the price of $5.50 for the faculty/staff lunch buffet is reasonable? Yes No

7. Is the space provided adequate? Yes No

8. Do you feel there is enough variety in the menus? Yes No

9. How would you rate the quality of the food?

   Poor Fair Good Very Good Excellent

10. What overall rating would you give to the faculty/staff dining room experience?

    Poor Fair Good Very Good Excellent

Suggestions:

Please fold and return to Auxiliary Services by campus mail. Thank you!

Wilmington in Black and White

Wilmington in Black and White, a series of conversations about Wilmington's past, present and future, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through April 2 at the St. Stephen AME Church, 501 Red Cross St. This free event is open to the public and is cosponsored by the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Foundation and the Department of Philosophy and Religion. Tonight's topic is "Black and White Participation in the Arts in Wilmington" with Rhonda Bellamy and Francine deCoursey. The March 5 topic is "Wilmington's Share in The Burden of Southern History" with Mel McLaurin and Margaret Rogers.

UNCW Honors Faculty Authors

As part of UNCW's 50th anniversary celebration, the university will honor its authors with a display of books at Barnes and Noble bookstore located in the University Centre on South College Road. The display will begin March 2 and will continue the entire month.

Chancellor James R. Leutze will host a kick-off reception for the display from 7 to 9 p.m. March 4. This reception will focus on authors in the humanities. The following faculty members will give a brief presentation on their books: Frank Ainsley, earth sciences; Lou Buttino, communications studies; Walter Conser and Joe Wilson, philosophy and religion; Philip Gerard and Barbara Waxman, English; Susan McCaffray and Robert Toplin, history; and Terry Mount, foreign languages and literatures.

There will also be a reception from 7 to 9 p.m. March 17 hosted by Provost Marvin Moss. This reception will focus on faculty who have books published in the areas of physical and social sciences, business and education. The following faculty members will give a brief presentation on their books: John Bennett, HPER; Grace Burton, curricular studies; Bill Cleary, earth sciences; Sue Cody, library; Mark Galizio, psychology; Courtney Hackney and Neil Hadley, biological sciences; Donna Lee King, sociology and anthropology; and Roger Lowery, political science.

The free receptions will also feature UNCW musicians and a book signing by several authors.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Ned H. Martin, chemistry, had the article "Integration of Molecular Modeling into the Undergraduate Chemistry Curriculum" published in the Journal of Chemical Education. This article summarizes the NSF-sponsored initiative to incorporate computer modeling into the chemistry curriculum at UNCW.

Peggy Turner, disability services, had her article "Factors Relating to the Post-secondary Success of Students with Learning Disabilities" published in the Journal of Freshman Year Experience and Students in Transition. The article was co-authored by Richard Strasburger and Richard Walls of West Virginia University. Also, Turner has been invited to make the presentation "Teachers as Critical Thinkers: A New Vision of Teacher Education" at the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education in New Orleans.

Randall K. Hanson, business law, had the article "The Franchising Dilemma Continues: Update on Franchisor Liability for Wrongful Acts by Local Franchisees" published in the Campbell

Jimmy Reeves, chemistry, is lead author of the chemistry computer simulation software "ActivChemistry," which was published in version 1.5 by Addison Wesley Longman Publishing Co. The software will be integrated into "The Saunders Interactive General Chemistry CD-ROM" that will be packaged as a supplement to the company's six general chemistry text books.

Bob Buerger, environmental studies, presented "Managing Recreation Impacts in the Coastal Zone" at the 1998 Southeastern Recreation Research Conference in Charleston, S.C. Coauthoring the presentation were Jeff Hill and Jim Herstine, HPER; and John Taggert, National Estuarine Research Reserve Program.

Paula K. Kamenish, English, has been chosen as a residential fellow of the Maison Suger, International Research Center (Maison des Sciences de l'Homme) in Paris during July. "Neglected Artists: Women of the European Avant-Garde" is the project that won her a place at the research institute. The project is being funded by a Charles L. Cahill Award.

Mariela Shirley, psychology, presented the paper "Primary/Secondary Depression in Alcoholics: Patterns of Substance Use, Mood and Concurrent Psychopathology" at the eighth international conference for the treatment of addictive behaviors in Santa Fe, N.M. Coauthors on the paper were Michael Windle from the University of Alabama at Birmingham and Misti Sellers, a UNCW undergraduate student.

Charles Dodson, English, had his review of Nicholas Warner's Spirits of America: Intoxication in Nineteenth-Century American Literature published in the February 1998 issue of Choice.

Don Bushman and Lu Huntley-Johnston, English, had essays published in the fall 1997 edition of the Arizona English Bulletin. The two essays,"From Agitation to Composure: When is Writing Finished?" by Bushman and "Episodes from a Writing Class: Intersections of Possibility" by Huntley-Johnston, were included in a special issue devoted to "Re-examining the Teaching of Writing in English Language Arts."

Philip Levine, Pulitzer Prize-winning poet and visiting writer-in-residence, had the poem Little Apple of My Eye published in New Yorker.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 3 to 4 p.m. March 5 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Blood Drive

UNCW Volunteers! will sponsor a Red Cross blood drive from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. March 30 in the University Center Ballroom. To sign up for an appointment or to volunteer, call UNCW Volunteers! at ext. 3925 or come by the University Union, Room 212.

Student Timesheet Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets and departmental recaps for March 13 payment is 3 p.m. Feb. 27 in the payroll office. Students should submit timesheets to departmental representatives, not payroll. Students not listed on departmental recap sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services if a student does not appear on the recap before adding. Also, for students who are no longer working in a department, send Frances a copy of the recap sheet in order to delete them from the department.

Stress Management

Stress management, a six-hour interactive seminar, will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. March 12 and 13 in the human resources training room. Dr. Chris F. Hauge from Partners in Healing Counseling Center will provide techniques for handling stress. For more information, contact Brenda Jordan at ext. 3274.

Staff Training

- Advanced Connections, 9 to 11 a.m. March 3, 10 and 17.
- Travel Procedures, 9 to 11 a.m. March 4.
- Understanding FRS Reports and Screens, 9 a.m. to noon, March 11.
- Compensation Issues, 2 to 4 p.m. March 18.
- Maintaining and Reading Your Budget, 9 to 11 a.m. March 26.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357. To register for library workshops, call ext. 3760.

TimeQuest Seminar

Time Quest, a seminar to help balance time demands and focus on priorities, will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. April 29 in the human resources training room. The cost of the seminar is $150; attendees will receive a complete Franklin Day Planner system as part of the seminar. To register, contact Brenda Jordan at ext. 3274.

Farewell Reception

Gail York-Scimeca, operations manager at The Learning Center, is transferring to university development in the Division for University Advancement. The Learning Center will hold a farewell reception for her from 2 to 4 p.m. Feb. 26 on the second floor of Westside Hall.

Intercultural Festival Seeks Booths and Entertainment

Participation from university and community organizations is sought for UNCW's fifth annual Intercultural Festival March 23 - 28. Festival activities include a day-long celebration 11a.m. to 3 p.m. March 28 in the Hawk's Nest highlighting the diverse cultures and countries represented within the university and Wilmington. It will include entertainment, food and a display of tables showcasing various arts, crafts, holidays, music and customs. Display tables will be provided at no cost to organizations. Money is available to assist student organizations with the cost of putting together a display. Groups wishing to participate with a display table or some form of entertainment should contact Heather Smith at ext. 7009 or e-mail, smithh. The deadline for applications is March 16.

RAD Classes

University police is offering self-defense classes for women called Rape Aggression Defense (RAD). One class will meet from 7 to 9:30 p.m. March 10, 12, 17, 19, 24, 26 at the Suite Service Building. A second class will meet from 7 to 9:30 p.m. April 14, 16, 21, 23, 28 and 30 in Trask Coliseum's Golden Hawk Room. The classes are free, but the manual is $12 and can be purchased at the university police department. Classes are limited. To sign up, call ext. 3184. For more information, contact John Burton at ext. 3090.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employee:

Michael Holmes, university police.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	April 1
98-080 Career Development Counselor	Feb. 27
98-089 Applications Analyst Programmer I	March 6
98-090 Pressman	Feb. 27
98-091 Postal Window Clerk	Feb. 27
98-092 Help Desk Manager	March 6
98-093 Research Technician III	March 6
98-094 Office Assistant III	March 6

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Motor Fleet Receives New Universal Credit Card

Motor fleet has received a new Voyager universal credit card for each fleet vehicle. This Voyager card will remain in the vehicle's glove compartment. The new credit card is accepted at more stations, including those that are completely automated. Read carefully the instructions on how to use this credit card. Each vehicle has a designated credit card PIN number. Make sure supplied card is for vehicle listed. The vehicle number listed on the card should match the number on the windshield.

The following stations currently accept the Voyager card: Amoco, Ashland, BP, BP Procare, Chevron, Citgo, Conoco, Exxon, Exxon Aviation, Getty, Marathon, Mobil, Phillips 66, Phillips Aviation, Shell, Sunoco, Super America, Texaco, Texaco Aviation, Texaco Express Lube and Wilco.

Anyone having questions should call the Motor Fleet Leasing Office at ext. 3591.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 30 March 5, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Tourism: Bane or Boon?

UNLV Professor to Present "Devil's Bargain: Tourism and the Transformation of Place"

Tourism is not an economic cure-all for communities, according to Professor Hal Rothman of the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. Find out why during his lecture "Devil's Bargain: Tourism and the Transformation of Place" at 7:30 p.m. March 17 in King Hall, Room 101.

The free lecture is based on Rothman's forthcoming book Devil's Bargain: Tourism and the Transformation in the Twentieth Century American West. "Tourism transforms culture, making it something new and foreign. It may or may not rescue economies," said Rothman. He added many regions and communities welcome tourism as an economic boon only to discover it irrevocably changes them. Tourism benefits only a small segment of the population, "the growth coalition" of landowners, developers, planners, builders, real estate agents and interests and bankers, he said.

Rothman is the editor of Environmental History, the journal of the American Society of Environmental Historians. He has written six books on environmental history, preservation and resource management including Preserving Different Pasts: The American National Monuments and The Greening of a Nation? Environmentalism in the U.S. Since 1945. He also served as a consultant on, and appeared in, a three-part documentary on Las Vegas produced by the Arts & Entertainment channel.

Rothman

The lecture is co-sponsored by the Departments of History and Health, Physical Education and Recreation and the Environmental Studies Program.

Survey Reminder

March 6 is the deadline for returning completed Campus Communique readership surveys to the Office of Institutional Research. Thank you for your participation.

SEANC Legislative Breakfast

The State Employees Association of North Carolina (SEANC) will hold its annual Legislative Breakfast at 9 a.m. March 7 in Wagoner Hall's Madeline Suite. All state employees are encouraged to attend to ask questions and get information from the legislators who represent their district. The cost of breakfast is $5.

22 Honored at Leadership Wilmington Graduation Ceremony; 4 from UNCW

The Leadership Wilmington program graduated 22 participants, including four UNCW employees, at ceremonies held Feb. 20 on campus. Leadership Wilmington is sponsored by the Greater Wilmington Chamber Foundation Inc. and the Division for Public Service and Extended Education. Michelle R. Howard-Vital, vice chancellor of the division, and Connie Majure, executive director of the Greater Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, presided.

The keynote speaker was Rep. Mike McIntyre who urged graduates to get involved in their communities and to never give up achieving their goals. Hunter Thompson, public service and extended education, made a presentation to 360° Communication for their corporate support of the program.

Leadership Wilmington is an intensive 13-week program designed to provide a continuous, diverse supply of creative leaders to the community by developing their knowledge of the region and providing the opportunity for meaningful action. For information about next year's program or to be added to a mailing list, contact Paul Laird at the Greater Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, 762-2611, ext. 213.

The four UNCW graduates were Patricia Corcoran, UNCW Alumni Affairs Director; Sandra Harris and Woody Sutton, Division for Public Service and Extended Education; and Leslie Langer, Small Business and Technology Development Center.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Music on the Commons

There will be music on the University Commons from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Thursdays, March 19 through April 30. Performers will include local and national artists. Student organizations are invited to set up displays. For more information, call Cathy Birmingham at ext. 3043. The schedule includes flamenco guitarist William Strickland and his band, March 19; Lloyd Wilson with African stories and drums, April 2; Christine Kane on acoustic guitar, April 16; a capella singers Four Shadow, April 23; and a faculty and staff jam, April 30.

Sailing Club Seeks Advisor

The UNCW Sailing Club seeks a faculty or staff member who would like to serve as the organization's advisor. The club, which has approximately 55 members, typically practices from noon to 4 p.m. Sundays. Anyone who is interested should contact club president Ben Nieting at ban4523@uncwil.edu or wittea@uncwil.edu.

Undergraduate Research Fellowships

Undergraduate research fellowships that provide partial tuition waivers of $1,000 are available to rising juniors or seniors who will be conducting either a DIS or honors project next year. Application forms are available in the new Science Building, Room 102. For more information, contact Laela Sayigh, chair of the UNCW Research Committee, by e-mail at Sayighl or call ext. 3473.

50th Fact

Margaret Shannon Morton was the first chair of Wilmington College's English Department and also served as Dean of Women from 1956 through 1965. Morton Hall, completed in October 1978, was named in her honor.

Art Exhibit

Earthenware, an exhibit of sculpture-collage artwork, by Gladys Villegas is on display through April 8 in the University Center. The exhibit is hosted by Arts in Action.

Note of Appreciation

The Admissions Office thanks everyone who helped make Preview '98 a success. More than 2,000 visitors participated in the programs.

Graduate Thesis Defense

Jude Grimley will defend his graduate thesis "Analysis of North Carolina Estuarine Sediments Using the Microtox Solid-Phase Bioassay" at 2 p.m. March 6 in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Toplin Commentary to Air on History Channel

Bob Toplin's commentary on the film Young Dillinger will air March 7 on the History Channel. The film will air from 8 to 10 p.m. with much of the commentary during the final 15 minutes of the program.

50 Years of Notable Women Luncheon

The American Association of University Women is holding its annual Women's History Month luncheon at noon March 21 in Wagoner Hall's Madeline Suite. The luncheon theme, in conjunction with UNCW's 50th anniversary celebration, is "50 Years of Notable Women at UNCW." Mimi Cunningham, assistant vice chancellor for university relations, will be the speaker. Tickets are $12. For reservations or more information, call Hope Cusick at ext. 7315.

Vietnam Seminar

The seminar "Vietnam's a Country, Not a War" will be held March 20-21 at Meredith College in Raleigh. For more information on this South Atlantic States Association for Asian and African Studies sponsored event, contact Paula Kamenish at ext. 3617.

Murphy Farms President Joins Cameron Executive Board

Jerry H. Godwin, president and chief operating officer of Murphy Farms, was appointed to the Cameron School of Business Board of Executives.

The board advises the dean on issues related to the quality of the school's business education and business trends affecting the curriculum. The board also assists with internships, job placements and financial support.

Delighted to have Godwin on the board, Dean Howard Rockness said, "His national and global experience as a business leader will provide critical insights as we move the business school to the next level of excellence required to meet the increasingly complex needs of business in this region."

YWCA Cape Fear Women of Achievement Awards Dinner

Nomination deadlines for the YWCA Cape Fear Women of Achievement award and Certificates of Recognition are March 20 and May 1 respectively. The 14th annual YWCA Cape Fear Women of Achievement Awards Dinner will be held at 6 p.m. May 14 in Wagoner Hall. The organization honors outstanding contributions and public service by women from New Hanover and surrounding counties through Women of Achievement awards and Certificates of Recognition. Nomination forms are available in human resources.

Museum to Sell Claude Howell Serigraphs

St. John's Museum of Art will begin selling a serigraph of Claude Howell's "October Sunlight on Second Street" March 17. The serigraph, which is limited to 300 copies, will sell for $300. Also on March 17, the museum will hold a celebration from 6 to 8 p.m. honoring what would have been Howell's 83rd birthday. The event is free and open to the public, but reservations should be made by calling 763-0281.

ivision of tudent Affairs

Student Development Services

pring 1998

UNCW Student Development Services (SDS) is a new response to a perennial challenge. Namely, how to integrate quality care and service for our students presenting with a myriad of needs.

Within the Division of Student Affairs, Student Development Services unifies the activities of the Counseling Center (formerly the Student Development Center), Crossroads – Substance Abuse Prevention and Education, Disability Services, National Testing Program, Pharmacy, Student Health Center, and Wellness Services. Under the coordination of one administrative unit located on the second floor of Westside Hall, SDS attends to students with emotional, health, wellness, substance abuse, disabilities, or testing related issues. Service providers encourage and direct students to utilize additional Student Development Services and university resources to more fully manage their present and future needs. A "holistic" approach dedicates itself to a continuum of health and wellness care, inter-referral emphasis, ongoing provider communication, and pre-emptive/preventive programming. In addition, the consolidation of administrative functions allows for a more efficient direct care management system and educational service model.

reating Experiences for Life

By the Numbers and Names

Operating hours are Monday – Friday, 8:00 am – 5:00 pm, unless otherwise indicated.

Student Development Services
F. James Dragna, Executive Director
962-3746
Web Site: www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/sds/

Counseling Center
F. James Dragna, Director
Dee Casey, Assistant Director/Counselor
962-3746
Web Site: www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/COUNSE~1/

CROSSROADS
Sam (Suzanne) Shover, Coordinator
962-4137
Web Site: www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/substance/

Disability Services
Peggy Turner, Coordinator
Ginny Lundeen, Assistant to Coordinator
962-3746
Web Site: www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/disablty/

National Testing Program
Dianne Matthews, Coordinator
962-3746
Web Site: www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/COUNSE~1/page7.htm

Pharmacy
Carol Lyon, Pharmacist
962-3016
Monday - Friday, 8:30 am – 12:30 pm,
1:30 pm – 5:00 pm
Web Site: www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/shc/14PHRMCY.HTM

Student Health Center
Judy Bowers, Director
Dr. S. Albert Abrons, Medical Director
962-3280
Monday - Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
Web Site: www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/shc/

Wellness Services
Deborah Haywood, Coordinator
962-4137
Web Site: under construction

The Counseling Center

The Counseling Center provides free, confidential counseling to students experiencing social and emotional problems as well as concerns with self-acceptance, relationships, depression, anxiety, sexuality and family. In addition, students may be concerned about substance abuse, eating disorders or sexual abuse/assault. Specially trained professionals can consult, assess, intervene and support recovery for these issues.

Consultation and referral services are also available for faculty, staff, family members and the surrounding community.

The staff provides educational programs on topics related to stress relief, emotional health, coping with transitions and other issues relevant to student life. Staff conduct classroom visits, presentations, and workshops to student groups, staff and faculty, campus residents, athletes, and community organizations.

The center is staffed by psychologists, counselors, substance abuse professionals and a consulting psychiatrist and is accredited by the International Association of Counseling Services (IACS).

The center is located on the second floor of Westside Hall and is open from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Appointments can be made in person or by phone. Walk-in hours are also offered daily.

UNCW
--crossroads--
SUBSTANCE ABUSE PREVENTION & EDUCATION PROGRAMS

CROSSROADS

Substance Abuse Prevention & Education Programs

CROSSROADS–Substance Abuse Prevention and Education Program has extensive and up-to-date resource materials available to students about alcohol, tobacco and other drugs and their effects, as well as information about how to help themselves or someone else who may have a problem with substance abuse.

CROSSROADS provides educational sessions conducted by program staff and peer educators to faculty and staff, students, clubs, organizations and residence life groups. Topics include information about health risks, decision-making, drinking and other drug effects and responsible party planning.

Students who are found in violation of university alcohol and drug policies may be required to attend "Challenging Decisions" or CD classes conducted by CROSSROADS staff. These groups are intended to be educational as well as interactive, so that students may ask questions and speak about drug and alcohol use in a nonjudgmental, confidential atmosphere.

Disability Services

Each year, throughout the United States, increasing numbers of students with disabilities are attending colleges and universities. UNCW is proud to be a part of this trend and is committed to providing an opportunity for students with disabilities. The number of students registered with UNCW Disabilities Services has more than tripled since last year, from 59 in 1996-97 to 215 in 1997-98. Accommodations for these students may include interpreters, notetakers, tutors, testing arrangements, print enlargement and scribes.

Disability Services is an informational source and link between the student and the university while encouraging self-advocacy. Since each student has a unique set of special needs, Disability Services works with the student, academic advising, tutors, administration, and faculty to find ways to enable the student to master the content of his or her courses.

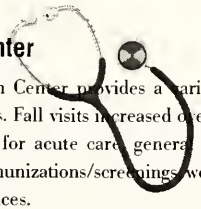
ational Testing Program

The National Testing Program coordinates the administration of national certification and admissions exams for over 4,000 individuals annually. These national tests include College Level Examination Program (CLEP), Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT), Graduate Records Exam (GRE), Millers Analogies Test (MAT) and Praxis Series.

The National Testing Program is completing renovation on the second floor of Westside Hall for a computer-based testing facility that will open in March, 1998. This joint project of UNCW and the Educational Testing Service administers national testing to individual students via computerized stations. Initially, the UNCW computer-based testing facility will administer the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL), Graduate Records Exam (GRE) and Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT).

harmacy

The UNCW Pharmacy is located off the lobby of the Student Health Center on the second floor of Westside Hall. The Pharmacy is staffed by a licensed pharmacist and provides direct service for prescriptions as well as non-prescription items including crutches. The pharmacist provides counseling for all new prescriptions including screening for drug interactions. Prescriptions are welcome from the Student Health Center, Counseling Center, Athletics and from family physicians.



tudent Health Center

The Student Health Center provides a variety of quality services for students. Fall visits increased over 30% as services were utilized for acute care, general medical care, preventive care, immunizations/screenings, women's health, and laboratory services.

To meet the anticipated 13,000 annual visits this year, plans for additional staff and extended hours have been completed. Weekday hours are now from 8:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. In addition, the Student Health Center, in conjunction with Cape Fear Emergency Room, has initiated a "Sick-Hawk" phone line with direct after-hours referral for students with urgent health concerns.

Recently, S. Albert Abrons, M.D., joined the staff as medical director. Dr. Abrons relocated from Salisbury, Maryland, and is certified by the American Board of Family Practice.

Wellness Services

Wellness Services, located in the Hundley Wellness Promotion Center, strives to create a campus environment that affirms and expands the awareness, understanding and commitment of the wellness philosophy. This department is the central campus resource responsible for the management of health and wellness based educational programs, consumer health issues, and direct care consultations and referrals.

Staff are available to students for personal consultations on specific health issues or concerns and appropriate referrals are made as needed. One example is the recently implemented eating disorders referral program. Students are referred by the Student Health Center or the Counseling Center to an on-site registered dietician, who works as a part-time consultant.

Wellness Services also provides a comprehensive collection of current brochures, books, and videos for personal use or reference for class projects. Faculty are welcome to utilize these materials as well. Additionally, there is a "self care area" where students can check their blood pressure or safely "self treat" minor colds when appropriate.

Wellness assistants are peer educators who are trained and supervised to help plan and coordinate health education opportunities and special events. They are available to give presentations to student organizations in residence halls and in classroom settings as requested on such topics as nutrition, stress management, cancer prevention, sexual wellness and HIV/AIDS education.

A Word For Faculty and Staff

Student Development Services offices consult daily with faculty and staff concerned about the well-being of a student. Although our services are confidential, we actively encourage faculty and staff to call or e-mail us with observations, information and/or concerns about the welfare of a student or group of students. Together, we can provide quality care and educational opportunities.

Every UNCW student is unique in his/her response to college life, with many students carrying life-long emotional, health and learning difficulties. However, common patterns of adjustment to college life may emerge. Austin and Sousa, researchers, speak to these possible patterns of emotional adjustment in identifying college academic life "rythms."

The "rythms" of Spring Semester at UNCW may yield the following concerns:

February

- Alcohol/substance abuse may increase
- Breakup of love relationships from back home
- Valentine's Day and possible loneliness

March

- Anxiety in choosing/finding roommate(s) for the following academic year; midterm exams
- Disappointment if can't afford to travel over spring break
- Worry about summer employment
- Possible increase in depression
- SENIORS: realization that this is the "last spring break"; post-graduation plans intensify

April

- Excitement with arrival of better weather
- Anxiety over room/roommates for next year
- Panic in not finding a roommate or being abandoned
- Nervousness in registering for courses
- End of semester pressure
- SENIORS: feelings surrounding separation issues become intense

May

- Anxiety over final exams
- Apprehension about returning home for the summer
- Sadness in losing touch with new friends, losing contact with love relationships
- SENIORS: ambivalent feelings – pride in graduation with relief it's all over, sad it's all over, excitement about entering the "adult" world, anxiety over having to produce in a competitive world, fear of the unknown

Year Round

- Missing birthday celebrations at home
- Missing holiday celebrations at home
- Missing special family-specific traditions (e.g., carving pumpkins, picking out the Christmas tree)
- Feeling left out of decision-making regarding family matters, important or not (e.g., buying a new car, putting a family pet to sleep, getting a new pet, reassigning bedroom space, making choices about vacations)

Former U.S. Poet Laureate to Hold Poetry Reading

Mark Strand, U.S. poet laureate from 1990-91, will read from his works at 8 p.m. March 19 in Cameron Auditorium. He is the author of eight volumes of poetry, a collection of short stories and three books for children. He has also written a book about the painter Edward Hopper. Strand's free reading is sponsored by the Katherine K. Buckner Lecture Series and the English Department. A book signing and reception will follow the reading. For more information, contact the Buckner Lecture Series committee at ext. 3320.

Dardess to Chair Public Policy Center Board

Margaret Dardess, senior vice president for corporate affairs for Glaxo Wellcome and member of UNCW's Board of Trustees, was elected chair of the board of directors for the N.C. Center for Public Policy Research.

Nominations Sought for Award for Faculty Scholarship

March 31 is the deadline for nominees for the UNCW Award for Faculty Scholarship. Nominees must be full-time faculty who have exhibited genuine interest in scholarship, research and creativity; earned the respect of colleagues and peers; maintained high standards of quality and integrity; fostered interest and involvement of students and colleagues in scholarship and creative work; and demonstrated a significant contribution to scholarship, research, and creativity to the university. One-page nomination letters must be submitted to the chancellor's office by the deadline. The 1998 recipient of the UNCW Award for Faculty Scholarship will be announced at fall convocation.

Barnes and Noble Display

The Barnes and Noble display honoring UNCW faculty authors will be exhibited through March 30.

Campus Recreation Spring Break Schedule

Campus recreation will observe the following spring break schedule:

March 6

- Aerobics noon to 1 p.m.
- Fitness center 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
- Rec swim 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

March 9-13

- Aerobics noon to 1 p.m.
- Fitness center 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.
- Rec. swim 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Facilities will be closed March 7, 8, 14 and 15. The spring semester schedule will resume March 16.

Wilmington in Black and White

Wilmington in Black and White, a series of conversations about Wilmington's past, present and future, are held at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through April 2 at the St. Stephen AME Church, 501 Red Cross St. This free event is open to the public and is cosponsored by the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Foundation and the Department of Philosophy and Religion. Tonight's topic is "Wilmington's Share in The Burden of Southern History" with Mel McLaurin and Margaret Rogers. The March 19 topic is "Communicating in Black and White" with Linda MacRae and Robert Smith.

Retirement Conference

Employees who are 60 or older, or who are otherwise eligible to retire, may benefit from a retirement conference from 9:30 a.m. to noon March 24 in the University Union, Room 100. Conducted by the State Retirement System Division, the conference will provide information on retirement eligibility, selection of optional payment arrangements, designation of beneficiaries, eligibility requirements for Social Security benefits, hospital/medical coverage and other issues. For more information, call Elizabeth at ext. 3713.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Randall K. Hanson, business law, had the article "The Franchising Dilemma Continues: Update on Franchisor Liability for Wrongful Acts by Local Franchisees" published in the Campbell University Law Review.

Philip Furia, English, will give an invited talk this month on Ira Gershwin's lyrics at the Library of Congress as part of the dedication ceremony of the new Gershwin Room in the old Library of Congress Building.

Amy Zeng, production and decision sciences, presented two papers at the 28th Southeast Decision Sciences Institute annual meeting in Roanoke, Va. The papers "Single or Multiple Sourcing: A Spreadsheet Optimization Approach" and "Integrating On-line Feedback Quality Control into Serial Production Lines: A Simulation Study" will be published in the conference proceedings.

Simona Bartl, biological sciences, received $21,656 for her project "The Development of HL-60 Cells as a Substrate for the Detection of Anti-neutrophil Cytoplasmic Autoantibodies."

David Blake, earth sciences, received $6,500 for his project "Lithodemic and Structural Relationships in the Northern Fuquay-Varina Quadrangle, North Carolina."

Arthur Spivak, earth sciences, received $44,540 for his project "Halogen (Cl,F) Exchange and Cl Isotope Fractionation During Fluid/Mineral Equilibria."

Warren Gulco, SBTDC, received $92,453 in funding for the SBTDC.

Steven Dworkin, psychology, received $1,154 for his project "Continuing Research on Quantitative Analysis of the Reinforcing Efficacy of Stimulants."

Bob Toplin, history, provided commentaries for two movies Battle of the Bulge and Lion of the Desert featured on the History Channel. Toplin also provided comments on the movie Titanic for USA Today.

William Cooper, chemistry, presented the seminar "The High Energy Electron Beam Process: Radiation Chemistry and Applications in Environmental Areas" at UNC Charlotte. Also, Cooper toured the DOE Thomas Jefferson Accelerator Facility in Newport News and presented the seminar "Electron Beam Irradiation Chemistry - Research and Applications." Cooper discussed possible collaborations with faculty of the College of William and Mary and scientists at the Jefferson Lab.

UNSea Card Official ID

The UNSea card issued in August 1997 is the only official form of identification for UNCW students, faculty and staff. Previous UNCW ID cards are no longer an acceptable form of identification. March 17 is the deadline to exchange cards at no charge. Beginning March 18, the new UNSea card will cost $10. Facilities or services using the card for identification will not accept old ID cards. Anyone having questions should contact Nancy Spirakis at ext. 4071 or Debbie Easterling at ext. 3560.

Reimbursement of Health Care and Dependent Care Spending Accounts

March 31 is the deadline to submit 1997 out-of-pocket expenses for Health Care and Dependent Care Spending Accounts to Aon Consulting. Money not claimed by March 31 will be forfeited. Call ext. 3006 for claim forms.

Warm-up for Criteria III

UNCW is completing its application for the N.C. Quality Leadership Award which focuses on campus leadership, strategic planning, process management and outcomes. The criteria and draft responses can be found by choosing NCQLA Information at the web site: http://www.uncwil.edu/oir/planning.html. This study, due March 31, is the university's opportunity to address many of the issues raised in SACS' Institutional Effectiveness Criteria.

Randall Library Spring Break Hours

Randall Library will observe the following spring break schedule: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., March 7; closed, March 8; 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., March 9-12; 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., March 13; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., March 14; and 1 p.m. to midnight, March 15.

Purchasing Reminders

For requisition attachments, don't forget to use text code 001 when inputting the requisition. Reference the requisition number or copy the requisition with the attachment and send to Phyllis Adams in purchasing. There have been a number of mismatched attachments which have resulted in processing delays.

Don't skip lines when entering an electronic requisition. The agents don't see what is below a blank line and the requisition will be delayed. A dash (-) acts as a filler if you have to skip a line.

Requisitions should have good, clear descriptions. Order numbers, even with manufacturers' names, should still have a description. For example, a title should include the requested medium, such as book, video, software, etc.

Complete vendor addresses will often expedite orders. Also, phone numbers, especially with the area code changes, will help.

Furniture orders take eight to 10 weeks for delivery. Plan ahead in order for purchasing to get the best configuration and price. Furniture brochures and fabric cards need to be returned to Gail Batten when selection has been made.

Change in University Union Operating Hours

Effective March 1, the operating hours for the University Union will be: 7 a.m. to midnight, Monday-Friday; 8 a.m to midnight, Saturday; and 1 to 11 p.m., Sunday.

Service Awards Luncheon

The 1998 UNCW Service Awards Luncheon will be held from noon to 2 p.m. May 28 in Wagoner Hall.

Chancellor's Campus Forum

The Chancellor's Campus Forum will be held from 9 to 10 a.m. and 2 to 3 p.m. April 8 in the University Center Ballroom. Faculty and staff can attend either session.

Staff Training

- Advanced Connections Sessions II and III, 9 to 11 a.m. March 10 and 17.
- Advanced Connections Spring Break Session, 9 to 11 a.m. March 10, 2 to 4 p.m. March 11 and 9 to 11 a.m. March 13.
- Understanding FRS Reports and Screens, 9 a.m. to noon, March 11.
- Compensation Issues, 2 to 4 p.m. March 18.
- Maintaining and Reading Your Budget, 9 to 11 a.m. March 26.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274. To register for computer classes, call ext. 4357. To register for library workshops, call ext. 3760.

Blood Drive

UNCW Volunteers! will sponsor a Red Cross blood drive from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. March 30 in the University Center Ballroom. To make an appointment, or to volunteer, call ext. 3925, or come by the University Union, Room 212.

Faculty International Travel Grants

March 15 is the application deadline for faculty international travel grants available through the Office of International Programs. Applications are available from department chairs, or Robin Williams, OIP, at ext. 3685.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Tony Copeland, information technology, and Nancy Martin, public service and extended education.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	April 1
98-089 Applications Analyst Programmer I	March 6
98-092 Help Desk Manager	March 6
98-093 Research Technician III	March 6
98-094 Office Assistant III	March 6
98-095 Computer Sales/Support Tech.	March 13
98-096 Student Media Coordinator	March 31

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 31 March 12, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Former U.S. Poet Laureate to Hold Reading in Cameron Auditorium

Former U.S. Poet Laureate Mark Strand will read from his works at 8 p.m. March 19 in Cameron Auditorium.

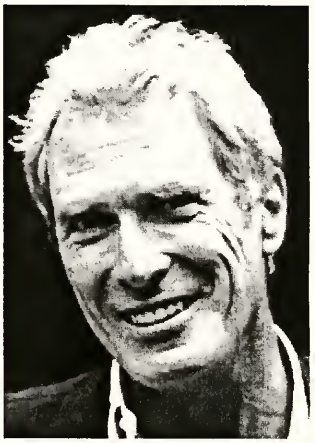
The author of eight volumes of poetry, including Selected Poems, The Continuous Life and Dark Harbor, Strand served as poet laureate in 1991-92. The Office of Poet Laureate was created by the U.S. Congress in 1985 and serves as poetry consultant to the Library of Congress.

In addition to his poetry, Strand has written a collection of short stories and three children's books. He recently completed a book on the painter Edward Hopper.

The numerous awards he has received include a MacArthur Fellowship in 1987 and Yale's Bollingen Prize in 1993. The MacArthur Fellows Program, awarded by the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, provides unrestricted fellowships to exceptionally talented and promising individuals who have shown originality, dedication to creative pursuits and a capacity for self-direction. The Bollingen Prize, established by the Yale University Library in 1949, is considered one of the nation's most prestigious literary honors. It is awarded every two years to one or more living American poets for the best poetry collection published within the last two years or for lifetime achievement in poetry.

Born on Prince Edward Island, Canada, in 1934, Strand spent much of his childhood in Halifax, Montreal, and New York City. A graduate of Antioch College, Strand has taught at several universities including Columbia, Yale, Harvard, the University of Virginia and the University of Utah.

Strand's reading is sponsored by the English Department and the Katherine K. Buckner Lecture Series. A reception and book signing will follow the reading.



Strand

Charleston Mayor to Lecture on the Livable City

Joseph P. Riley, mayor of Charleston, S.C., will lecture on "The Livable City: Everyone's Responsibility" at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Thalian Hall's Main Stage.

Riley is an expert on urban design and livability issues.

The free lecture and slide show presentation is sponsored by the Historic Wilmington Foundation, along with UNCW, the City of Wilmington, New Hanover County, DARE, the American Institute of Architects, the Residents of Old Wilmington, the Bellamy Mansion Museum and Cape Fear Tomorrow.

Seahawks NIT Bound

The finest season in UNCW men's basketball history got even better Sunday night when the Seahawks accepted an invitation to play in the Chase National Invitation Tournament (Chase NIT), marking the school's first-ever post-season berth.

The Seahawks will face Atlantic Coast Conference member Wake Forest tonight in a first-round game in Winston-Salem. Tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m. at Lawrence Joel Coliseum.

"Obviously, I couldn't be happier for the kids," said Head Coach Jerry Wainwright, who served nine years as an assistant at Wake Forest before moving to Wilmington. "This is a tremendous boost for our program, our community and our fans. It's a great opportunity to play an in-state school and to compete against an ACC opponent."

British Lecture

Trevor Lloyd, history professor at the University of Toronto, will present "Blairite Britain" at 7:30 p.m. March 24 in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. A noted historian of modern Great Britain, Lloyd will discuss the cultural and political dynamics of contemporary Britain. The lecture is sponsored by the History Department.

Support Group Formed

Student Development Services is sponsoring a support group for students who have a spouse or other loved one in the military. The group will meet at noon Tuesdays in the University Union, Room 210 beginning Tuesday.

Golf Tournament Scheduled

The UNCW Communication Studies Alumni Golf Classic is scheduled for 8 a.m. April 20 at the Cape Golf and Racquet Club. Individual entry fees are $65 with proceeds benefitting chapter projects including the Betty Jo Welch scholarship. For more information, call Mike Arnold at ext. 2684.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. March 20 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

8-Page Communique

The March 26 edition of the Campus Communique will be eight pages. The submission deadline for this issue is noon, Monday, March 23.

50th Fact

UNCW faculty authors have written more than 115 books. They include works of fiction, non-fiction and textbooks. Topics range from local history to physical education, American history and politics to Tibetan Buddhism and ecology to mathematics.

Animal Rights Activist to Speak

Tom Regan, professor of philosophy at N.C. State University, will present his lecture "Animal Rights; Human Wrongs" at 7 p.m. March 23 in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. A nationally recognized expert on animal rights, Regan is the third speaker in the Honors Speaker Series "Activism for the 21st Century." A reception will follow the talk. For more information, contact the Honors Program at ext. 4181.

Student Art Show

The fifth annual juried student show sponsored by the Department of Art and Theatre will be on display through March 31 in Kenan Hall's Claude Howell Gallery. A reception and walk-through tour by juror Fritzi Huber will be from 4 to 6 p.m. March 19.

Biology Seminar

J. Christopher Haney from the Ecology and Economics Research Department of the Wilderness Society in Washington, D.C., will present "Views From the Top: Vulnerability, Variability and Adaptability in the Environmental Biology of Marine Birds" at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the new Science Building, Room 134.

Faculty Trip to China

Faculty are encouraged to apply for a travel and study abroad program in China from June to early July 1998. The program's goal is to increase understanding of contemporary China and produce significant curricular change at the participant's institution. Participants will be asked to provide approximately $1,200. Some funding will be available from UNCW. The program, sponsored by the South Atlantic States Association for Asian and African Studies, is funded by a Fulbright/Hays grant and the U.S. Department of Education. For more information, contact Paula Kamenish by March 20 at ext. 3617 or email: kamenishp.

National Women's History Month Programs

The following programs will be held during UNCW's 16th annual celebration of National Women's History Month. The discussion "Women and Violence: Representations in Poetry, Criminology and the Visual Arts" will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Randall Library auditorium. Panelists are Sally Sullivan, English; Liz Marciniak, sociology and anthropology; and Margaret Worthington, art and theatre. The moderator will be Marie Tyndall, English.

"Why Study Women: A Symposium" will be held at 7:30 p.m. March 26 in the Randall Library auditorium. Moderated by Janet Ellerby, English, the panelists will be Carol Thysell, philosophy and religion; Karen Sandell, social work; Liz Marciniak, criminal justice; Donna King, sociology; Yael Gold, psychology; Barbara Waxman, English; and Lisa Pollard, history.

Chemistry Lectures

Alex Tropsha from the Medicinal Chemistry Division of the School of Pharmacy, UNC CH, will discuss "QSAR: Methods and Applications" at 11 a.m. March 19 in the new Science Building, Room 132.

Lee Bartolotti, computational chemist at the N. C. Supercomputing Center, will present the talk "Density Functional Theory and Applications" at 11 a.m. March 24 in the new Science Building, Room 132.

Music on the Commons

There will be music from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Thursdays, March 19 through April 30, on the University Commons. Performers will include local and national artists. Student organizations are invited to set up displays. For more information, call Cathy Birmingham at ext. 3043.

Communique Editor, ext. 7223

UNCW

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT WILMINGTON

JAMES R. LEUTZE
Chancellor

MEMORANDUM

TO: University Faculty and Staff

FROM: James R. Leutze

SUBJECT: YWCA CAPE FEAR WOMEN OF ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS DINNER – MAY 14, 1998

The 14th Annual YWCA Cape Fear Women of Achievement Awards Dinner will be held on May 14, 1998 at 6pm, in Wagoner Hall. This year's moderator will be Shirley Gilbert. Last year's program was an immense success, highlighting the outstanding contributions and public service of women from New Hanover and surrounding counties.

There are two ways in which women can be honored: (1) an Achievement Award, and (2) a Certificate of Recognition.

WOMEN OF ACHIEVEMENT: Women of Achievement Awards are presented to women who have made significant achievements in the following fields: Arts, Business/Industry, Community Service, Education. Entrepreneur, Government, Health and Wellness, Human Services, Professions, and Teen Leader. (The Teen Leader Award includes a $1,500 scholarship). This is a competitive award and women are selected by a YWCA Awards Committee. The 1997 UNCW nominees for this award were Pat Corcoran, Dr. Hildelissa Hernandez, and Judy Thomas.

CERTIFICATES OF RECOGNITION: This recognition is non-competitive. Last year certificates were presented to Sharon Connelly, Dr. Lea Dudley, Allyson Hardison, Cheryl Hicks, Donna Lamont, Leah Payne, and Dorothy Taylor.

Nomination forms are available in Human Resources:

- Women of Achievement nominations must be mailed to the YWCA by March 20.
- Certificates of Recognition nominations must be returned to Human Resources by May 1.

For ticket information, call the YWCA at 799-6820.

601 SOUTH COLLEGE ROAD · WILMINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA 28403-3297 · 910-962-3030 · FAX 910-962-4050 · INTERNET: LEUTZEJ@UNCWIL.EDU

PBS Teleconference on Internet Copyright Issues

The PBS teleconference "Am I a Crook? Copyright Issues on the Internet" will be broadcast live from 2:30 to 4 p.m. April 2 in the Randall Library auditorium. Among the issues scheduled for discussion are lawful use of materials for online courses and differences in fair use between traditional classrooms and distance education. More information on the teleconference is available at http://www.pbs.org/learn/als/programs/live/crook/ or by contacting Sue Cody at ext. 7409 or e-mail codys.

Business Week

Some 60 business executives and professionals, many of them alumni, will gather at UNCW's Cameron School of Business March 18 and 19 to present students and faculty with insights on current business issues and opportunities relevant to the industries in which they operate.

"Building Competitive Advantages" will be the theme of this 1998 annual Business Week event. Keynote speaker at 11 a.m. March 19 will be Tom Morris, nationally recognized author and motivational speaker at business meetings and conventions. Morris, former University of Notre Dame professor, currently chairs the Morris Institute of Human Values, headquartered in Wilmington. He will speak on achieving personal success in today's business world, including his seven keys to success.

Wilmington in Black and White

Wilmington in Black and White, a series of conversations about Wilmington's past, present and future, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through April 2 at the St. Stephen AME Church, 501 Red Cross St. This free event is open to the public and is cosponsored by the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Foundation and the Department of Philosophy and Religion. The March 19 topic is "Communicating in Black and White" with Linda MacRae and Robert Smith.

UNCW Honors Faculty Authors

As part of UNCW's 50th anniversary celebration, the university is recognizing its faculty authors with a display of books through March 31 at Barnes and Noble Bookstore located in the University Centre on South College Road.

Provost Marvin Moss will host a reception from 7 to 9 p.m.Tuesday. This reception will focus on faculty who have books published in the disciplines of physical and social sciences, business and education. The following faculty members will give a brief presentation on their books: John Bennett, HPER; Grace Burton, curricular studies; Bill Cleary, earth sciences; Sue Cody, Randall Library; Mark Galizio, psychology; Courtney Hackney, biological sciences; Neil Hadley, graduate school; Donna Lee King, sociology and anthropology; and Roger Lowery, political science. The free reception will also feature book signings by several authors.

Campus Digest

Lecture: "Devil's Bargain: Tourism and Transformation of Place," 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in King Hall, Room 101. Co-sponsored by Departments of History and HPER and the Environmental Studies Program.

Luncheon: "50 Years of Notable Women at UNCW," noon March 21 in Wagoner Hall's Madeline Suite. For more information, contact Hope Cusick at ext. 7315.

Deadline: March 20 is the deadline for nominations for YWCA Cape Fear Women of Achievement awards.

Exhibit: Earthenware by Glady Villegas is on display through April 8 in the University Center. The exhibit is hosted by Arts in Action.

Deadline: March 31 is the deadline for nominations for the UNCW Award for Faculty Scholarship. Submit one-page nomination letters to the chancellor's office.

Conference: Retirement, 9:30 a.m. March 24 in University Union, Room 100.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Michael Bradley, SBTDC, received $107,816 for his project "Marine Trades."

Martin Posey and Troy Alphin, biological sciences, received $45,295 for their project "The Role of Structural Habitats in Juvenile Blue Crab Recruitment."

Robert Wicklund, CMSR/NURC, received $1.3 million in funding for "1998 Phase I Funding Proposal for the National Undersea Research Center at UNC Wilmington." He also received $120,000 for "Funding Proposal for Aquarius 2000: Telecommunications System."

Thomas Potts, CMSR, received $5,000 for his project "Scientific Diver Training Program - An Introduction to Advanced Undersea Science and Technology."

Frederick Bingham, physics, presented the poster "The Origin of Waters Observed at a Time-series Station in the North Pacific Subtropical Gyre" at the AGU Ocean Sciences Meeting in San Diego.

Chris Dumas, economics and finance, presented his invited paper "Croaker Bycatch Economics: Measuring the Costs of Unselective Fishing Gear" at the Duke University Marine Lab seminar series in Beaufort, N.C. He also presented his paper "The Economic Impact of Shrimp Trawling on the North Carolina Croaker Fishery: A Story of Fishy Externalities" at the Academy of Economics and Finance conference in Montgomery, Ala. In addition, he presented an invited guest lecture "How Do You Determine the Costs and Benefits of Environmental Decision Making" for the N.C. State University graduate seminar class in environmental policy.

Kathy Rugoff, English, was elected to a three-year term of the College English Association Board of Directors.

Wendy Brenner, English, had the story Are We Almost There published in Mississippi Review, where it was runner-up for Best Story. Also, Brenner's story Guest Speaker from her collection Large Animals in Everyday Life was reprinted in Listening to Voices: Stories from the Flannery O'Connor Award by Georgia Press.

Philip Furia, English, had his book Ira Gershwin: The Art of the Lyricist featured in "New and Noteworthy Paperbacks" of the New York Times Book Review.

Notification of Ineligible Dependents

Effective Oct. 1, 1997, employees and retirees insured under the State Health Plan are required to make notification within 30 days of a dependent's ineligibility for coverage. Reasons for ineligibilty are: reaching age 19 and not a full-time student, marriage, reaching maximum student age of 26, spouse becoming ineligible because of divorce. For employees/ retirees failing to make notification, the coverage will be changed the first of the month following notification and the employee/retiree forfeits the premium refund. The dependent will be removed the first of the month following the ineligibility event. If claims have been paid, reimbursement of those claims will be requested. For questions or to request a medical insurance change form, contact Willina Mitchell at ext. 3006 or Elizabeth Greene at ext. 3713.

Reglia Rental

Anyone needing to rent regalia for commencement May 16 should call Jessiebeth at ext. 3054 to place an order. The rental fee for doctoral degree regalia is $31 plus tax. Master's degree regalia is $27 plus tax. Orders must be placed prior to April 15 to assure correct hoods.

Suggestions Sought for Phone Directory

Comments or suggestions to improve the quality and resourcefulness of the 1998-99 edition of the university telephone directory should be sent to Diane Billings at the email address billingsd.

Faculty International Travel Grants

March 15 is the application deadline for faculty international travel grants available through the Office of International Programs. Applications are available from department chairs or Robin Williams, OIP, at ext. 3685.

Share Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Maureen Madio, printing services, to help her avoid unpaid absence during her maternity leave. Send vacation leave donations to human resources or call Dale at ext. 3161.

Staff Training

- Advanced Connections Session III, 9 to 11 a.m.Tuesday.
- Compensation Issues, 2 to 4 p.m. Wednesday.
- Maintaining and Reading Your Budget, 9 to 11 a.m. March 26.
- Defensive Driving, 8 a.m. to noon March 31.
- Performance Collaboration, 9 a.m. to noon, April 15.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Stan Harts, safety; and Delain McLean and Faye Wells, physical plant.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	April 1
98-095 Comp. Sales/Support Tech.	March 13
98-096 Student Media Coordinator	March 31
98-097 Greek Affairs Coordinator	March 28
98-098 Police Officer I	March 20
98-099 General Utility Worker	March 20
98-100 Grounds Worker	March 20
98-101 HVAC Mechanic	March 20
98-102 Maintenance Mech. IV	March 20

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

COMMUNITY

Celebrate Wilmington! Events for March

- Tour: Walk-through of Jack Berman's Retrospective Exhibition and Barbara Chase-Riboud's Drawings, noon March 13, 15, 27 Hughes Gallery. For admission information, call 763-0281.
- Series: Bit of History, 11 a.m. March 13 Cape Fear Museum. For more information on this free event, call 341-4350.
- Exhibition: Samuel D. Bissett's "Historic Scenes of Wilmington," March 13-May 3 Latimer House. For cost or other information, call 762-0492.
- Performance: David Parker is "The Pied Piper of Sign," 4 and 7:30 p.m. March 14 Thalian Hall Center for Performing Arts. For ticket or other information, call 343-3664.
- Lecture Series: "Modern Painting: The Art You Love to Hate" by Anthony Janson, 6 p.m. March 15, 22 and 29 Hughes Gallery and final lecture at UNCW. Cost is $200 for all three lectures. Call 763-0281 to reserve a spot.
- Workshop: "Understanding 1898," 9 a.m. March 18 Latimer House. For ticket information, call 762-0492.
- Concert: Wilmington Symphony Orchestra, 8 p.m. March 21 Kenan Auditorium. For ticket information, call 962-3500.
- Show: Annual Quilters by the Sea Show, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. March 21 and noon to 5 p.m. March 22 National Guard Armory. For admission or other information, call 452-1694 or 686-9679.
- Exhibit: "A. Philip Randolph: A Traveling Exhibit," March 21-May 2 Wilmington Railroad Museum. For more information, call 763-2634.
- Concert: Saffire: The Uppity Blues Women, 8 p.m. March 21 Kenan Auditorium. For ticket information, call 962-3500.
- Music Program: Class Reunion Show by Harmony Belles, 8 p.m. March 21 Scottish Rite Temple. For ticket information , call 799-5850 or 790-9239.
- Music: Yolanda Kondonassis, harp: Debussy Danse Sacree Et Danse Profane, 8 p.m. March 24 Kenan Auditorium. For more information, call 962-3500.
- Performances: Benefit show for foster grandparents, 7 p.m. March 25 New Hanover County Senior Center. For more information, call 799-4464.
- Book Club: "The Last Great Snake Show" by Tim McLaurin, 11 a.m. March 25 Latimer House. For more information, call 762-0492.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 32 March 19, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Randall Parkway Extension Alternatives to Be Discussed March 26

An informational workshop focused on the environmental feasibility of extending Randall Parkway will be held for faculty, staff and students from 3 to 5 p.m. March 26 in Cameron Hall, Room 105. A workshop for the general public will be held that evening at 6:30 p.m. at the College Park Elementary School on Oriole Street.

Interested faculty, staff and students are encouraged to attend these sessions. During the information workshops, attendees will have the opportunity to view proposed alternative plans and speak one-on-one with consultants who are preparing the environmental feasibility study.

The workshops are sponsored by UNC Wilmington, the Wilmington Metropolitan Planning Organization and the N.C. Department of Transportation. Consulting staff and representatives of the sponsoring organizations will be present to answer questions related to the Randall Parkway Environmental Feasibility Study under preparation by URS Grenier, the Raleigh engineering firm jointly retained by the City of Wilmington and UNCW to conduct the study.

No formal presentations will be given at the workshops. Informal discussions will be used to gather information from those attending to prepare the Environmental Feasibility Study. Content of the afternoon and evening sessions will be the same.

The Environmental Feasibility Study will evaluate several options concerning Randall Parkway - to build or not to build. The "build" options will cover several alternatives including the existing planning corridors between Randall Drive and Eastwood Road and between Randall Drive and Hooker Road. The "no-build" alternative will evaluate the projected effects of future traffic congestion in the area if no transportation improvements are made to Randall Parkway.

The study will investigate current and future traffic conditions, wetlands impacts, UNCW campus land use impacts, residential impacts and other impacts to the human environment.

UNCW Hosts 16th Annual Guest Artist Jazz Festival

Tenor saxophonist Bob Berg and his quartet will be perform during the 16th annual UNCW Guest Artist Jazz Festival March 27 and 28 in the University Center Ballroom.

Berg will be the featured soloist in a concert with the UNCW Big Band at 8 p.m. March 27 and will perform with his touring quartet at 8 p.m. March 28.

A Julliard-trained musician, Berg has worked extensively as a band member with such legendary artists as Miles Davis, Horace Silver and Chick Corea. Berg has recorded several albums including Another Standard, which is his most recent release.

Other events for the jazz festival include local and statewide high school as well as college jazz band performances with clinics by Berg from noon to 5 p.m. March 27 and 28. All afternoon clinics are free and open to the public and will be held in the University Center Ballroom.

General admission for the evening concerts is $10, $5 for senior citizens, children under 12 and UNCW faculty/staff. For more information, contact the Music Department at ext. 3390.

First Speech in East Asia Lecture Series

The first of three talks in the "International Perspective: Focus on East Asia" lecture series wll be at 7:30 p.m. March 25 in Kenan Auditorium.

Andrew Gordon, Harvard University professor of history, will speak on "Shifting Histories of Contemporary Japan." There will be a panel discussion at 9:30 a.m. March 26 in the University Center Ballroom.

Gordon, who is also a member of the Reischauer Institute for Japanese Studies and the Council of East Asian Studies, is widely published on the evolution of Japanese labor relations.

The series is sponsored by the Chancellor's Office and the Office of International Programs and supported in part by Glaxo Wellcome and the Wilmington Sister City Commission.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Newsweek Writer to Lecture on Changing Technology

Steven Levy, author and technology writer/editor at Newsweek, will present his behind-the-scene view of changing technology during his lecture "Backstage Pass to the Revolution" at 7 p.m. April 6 in Cameron Hall Auditorium. Levy is the author of several books on computers and the new technology including Hackers and Insanely Great. A reception will follow the talk. For more information, contact the Honors Program at ext. 4181.

Biology Seminar

David A. Shealer from the Department of Biology at Colgate University will present "Is Older Really Better? The Effect of Age on Breeding Performance of the Endangered Roseate Tern" at 2 p.m. today in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Graduate Thesis Defense

Julie Haddad will defend her graduate thesis "The Effects of Patch Area and Shape on the Macrofaunal Community Inhabiting Wrack in a Mesohaline Salt Marsh" at 2 p.m. Friday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Note of Appreciation

Fred Green, physical plant, would like to thank everyone for the love and prayers he was shown while out due to heart surgery.

50th Fact

The New Hanover County Commissioners held a referendum on March 27, 1947, asking voters to approve a five-cent tax levy to fund the establishment of a county junior college. The campaign consisted primarily of convincing registered voters to turn out on election day since non-votes were counted as "nays." As a result of strong efforts by supporters of the tax levy, it was approved by 74 percent.

Earth Sciences Seminar

Roger D. Shew of Shell Oil Company in Houston, Texas, will present the seminar "Analogs and Subsurface Data for Reservoir Characterization of Deep Water Deposits: From Seismic- to Pore-Scale" at 4 p.m. April 2 in DeLoach Hall, Room 114.

Bookstore Specials for Secretary's Day

Secretary's Day is April 23. The bookstore is offering the following specials: a Secretary's Day mug filled with six ounces of Jelly Bellies and balloons or a UNCW bear with balloons. Both specials are $7.95. Custom-decorated cakes are also available. A nine-inch round cake with six balloons is $16.50. A 9X12-inch cake with six balloons is $23.50. Place cake orders one week in advance.

Moore Named Acting Chair

Effective March 9, Kemille Moore is the acting chair of the Department of Art and Theatre.

Graduate Thesis Defense

Noah Allen, III, chemistry, will present the seminar "A Proton NMR Shielding Model for the Face of a Phenyl Ring" at 10 a.m. Monday in the new Science Building, Room 132 as part of his graduate thesis defense.

CTE Events

Jane Tompkins, professor of English at Duke University, will comment on her book A Life in School: What the Teacher Learned at 8 p.m. April 6 in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. Tompkins is renowned nationally as a speaker and workshop leader on the personal and moral dimensions of teaching. A reception will follow the program.

Tompkins will conduct a faculty teaching workshop from 2 to 4 p.m. April 7. Both events are sponsored by the Center for Teaching Excellence. For more information, call ext. 3034 or e-mail cte@uncwil.edu.

Keynote Speaker for National Women's History Month

Margot Adler, National Public Radio's New York bureau chief and correspondent, will be the keynote speaker for UNCW's 16th annual National Women's History Month celebration. Her lecture "Heretical Thoughts on Women, Power and American Culture" will be at 8 p.m. March 31 in Cameron Auditorium.

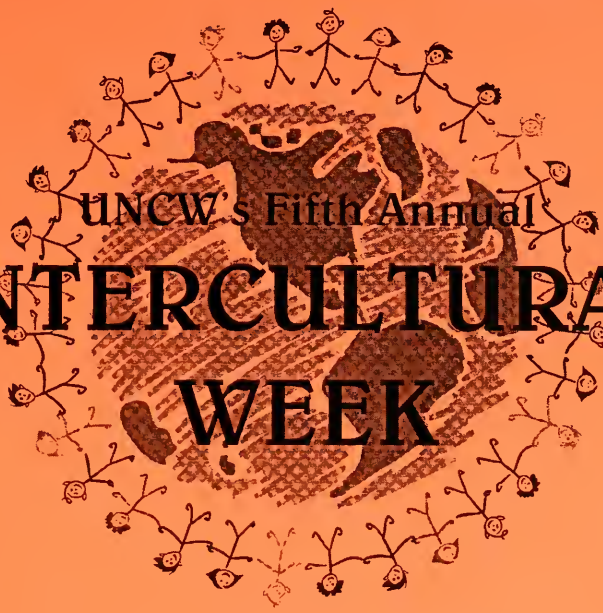
Writers Success Series

The Writers Success Series will be held March 27-28. The series features four courses: "How to Get Published," "Start Writing Now," "Let Your Ideas and Inspirations Flow" and "Your 52-Week Game Plan." The series, developed by Tom Bird, will be taught by Kathleen Brehony. Brehony, a licensed psychologist, began her writing career after taking these same courses four years ago. She is the author of Awakening at Midlife and Boston Marriages. The cost of the entire series is $200. Individual courses are $55 each. For more information or to register, contact the Division for Public Service and Extended Education at ext. 3195.

Wilmington in Black and White

Wilmington in Black and White, a series of conversations about Wilmington's past, present and future, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays through April 2 at the St. Stephen AME Church, 501 Red Cross St. This free event is open to the public and is cosponsored by the Wilmington 1898 Centennial Foundation and the Department of Philosophy and Religion. Tonight's topic is "Communicating in Black and White" with Linda MacRae and Robert Smith. The March 26 topic is "Why Examine and Remember the Events of 1898" with Chancellor James R. Leutze and Fred McRee.

Communique Editor, ext. 7223



UNCW's Fifth Annual

INTERCULTURAL WEEK

Tuesday, March 24 — INTERCULTURAL FILM FESTIVAL
7pm "Shall We Dance" Rated PG
(Japanese with English subtitles)
9pm "Tie Me Up, Tie Me Down" Rated NC-17
(Spanish with English subtitles)
University Center Ballroom, Free Admission

Wednesday, March 25 — EAST ASIAN LECTURE SERIES - Part I
"Shifting Histories of Contemporary Japan"
Dr. Andrew Gordon, Professor of History, Harvard University
7:30pm, Kenan Auditorium, Free Admission

Friday, March 27 — FRIDAY FOOD FEST
A celebration with food/music from many different countries and cultures for faculty, staff, and students.
11:30am - 2pm, Hawk's Nest, University Union

Saturday, March 28 — INTERCULTURAL FESTIVAL
A celebration highlighting cultures and countries represented in Wilmington and at UNCW. Food, dancing, music, and exhibits showcase the rich cultural diversity of the area.
11am - 3pm, Hawk's Nest, University Union

Sponsored by UNCW Activities & Leadership Center, University Union, Chancellor's Office, and Office of International Programs
FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 962-7009

After Five Series: Living Southern

The After Five Series: Living Southern will feature a two-night program on Southern culture from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. March 26 and 27.

The March 26 program features John Shelton Reed, a Kenan professor of sociology and director of the Institute for Research in Social Science at UNC Chapel Hill, and wife, Dale Volberg Reed, a freelance musician and writer, who will discuss "What Everyone Should Know About the South." The March 27 program features WHQR public radio commentator Nan Graham who will speak on "What Is Southern?" followed by veteran newsman Wayne Jackson, elaborating on "How to Become Southern."

The series is co-sponsored by the Cape Fear Museum and UNCW. Both evening programs are free. Due to limited seating, tickets are required and are available as long as supply lasts at Cape Fear Museum. For more information, call 341-4350.

Leadership Studies Minor

Academic advisors are encouraged to recommend the Leadership Studies Minor. The Leadership Studies Minor is a 21-hour interdisciplinary program of study that draws from courses taught by faculty in the Watson School of Education, the Cameron School of Business and the College of Arts and Sciences. The minor is designed to provide students opportunities to learn about the theory and practice of leadership, while also tapping into their personal leadership skills and abilities. Students must complete three core courses and 12 hours of elective courses from an approved list. Electives are drawn from management, political science, psychology, recreation, sociology, philosophy and religion and communication studies. The first required course EDN 211 "Student Leadership in Higher Education" will be offered this fall from 5 to 6:15 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and will be taught by Joanne Nottingham, specialty studies. For more information, contact Deborah Brunson, coordinator of the Leadership Studies Minor at ext. 3864.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Rebecca Lee, English, had her story On the Banks of the Vistula from Atlantic Monthly read on National Public Radio by Mia Dillon, an actress in the musical Cats. She was also interviewed about her writing.

Mike Mallin, CMRS, gave the invited seminar "Environmental Effects of Industrial-scale Swine and Poultry Production in North Carolina" at the University of Virginia's Department of Environmental Sciences in Charlottesville.

Janet M. Ellerby, English, had her article "Deposing the Man of the House: Terry McMillan Rewrites the Family" published in Melus.

Don Bushman, English, published his essay " 'A Conversation of Gestures:' George Herbert Mead's Pragmatic Theory of Language" in the spring 1998 issue of Rhetoric Review.

Robert Kieber and Pamela Seaton, chemistry, and former graduate student Linda Hydro published the article "Photooxidation of Triglycerides and Fatty Acids in Seawater: Implication Toward the Formation of Marine Humic Substances" in the journal Limnology and Oceanography.

Jim Smith, accounting and business law, had his monograph "A Lawmaker's Guide to State Taxation of Electronic Commerce" published by the Deloitte and Touche Center for Multistate Taxation. It will be sent to lawmakers in each of the 50 states.

Barry Salwen, music, will present a lecture/recital at the second International Festival of Women Composers at the University of Florida in Gainesville. His presentation "The Piano Music of Shulamit Ran" will include analytical discussion and performance of several pieces.

CAMPUS EVENTS . . . IN BRIEF

Poetry Reading: Mark Strand, 8 p.m. tonight, Cameron Hall auditorium. Sponsored by the English Department and the Katherine K. Buckner Lecture Series.

Walk-through Tour: Fifth annual juried student art show, 4 p.m. today Kenan Hall's Claude Howell Gallery.

Social: Heritage Ball, 8 p.m. March 21, University Center's Center Stage Cafe. Sponsored by the UNCW chapter of the NAACP, ACE Lectures and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity. Tickets are $8 and can be purchased through the University Union Information Center.

Lectures:

"Animal Rights; Human Wrongs," 7 p.m. March 23, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. Sponsored by the Honors Scholars Program.

"Density Functional Theory and Applications," 11 a.m. March 24, new Science Building, Room 132. Sponsored by the Chemistry Department.

"Blairite Britain," 7:30 p.m. March 24, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. Sponsored by the History Department.

"UFO Reality" by Robert Hastings, 8 p.m. March 26, Hawk's Nest. For more information, call ext. 3827.

Teleconference: "Am I a Crook? Copyright Issues on the Internet," 2:30 p.m. April 2, Randall Library auditorium. For more information, contact Sue Cody at ext. 7409 or e-mail codys.

Music: On the Commons, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Thursdays through April 30. For more information, contact Cathy Birmingham at ext. 3043.

E-mail submissions to COMMUNIQUE by noon Tuesdays, unless otherwise notified

Union and Center Reservations

Reservations for the University Union and Center are taken by group classification. Registered student organizations and university departments can make reservations for fall 1998 and the on-going calendar year beginning at 8 a.m. April 8. University-sponsored and external groups can make reservations beginning at 8 a.m. April 15. Reservations will be accepted in person at the University Union, Room 202 or by phone at ext. 3833. Priority will be given to in-person reservations. For more information, contact Susie Goodrum at ext. 3285.

Requesting Work-study Students

The Office of Financial Aid is offering departments the opportunity to request that currently employed federal work-study students be given priority consideration to have their federal work-study award renewed for the 1998-99 academic year. If interested, review payroll recaps from Feb. 12 and notify financial aid which students you hope will return. For more information, contact Pat Tyson at ext. 3177.

New Student Guide

The 1998-99 revised printing of UNCW for New Students: A Reference Guide for University Staff and Faculty is available from the Orientation Programs Office. This reference booklet is a way to learn more about UNCW and to help campus visitors. It contains valuable information that will help answer questions from new students and avoid misdirecting them. Anyone who did not receive a copy or would like additional copies should call ext. 3089.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employee:

Viki Idol, curricular studies.

Deadline for Student Timesheets

The deadline for student timesheets with departmental recaps is 3 p.m. March 31 in payroll. Students must submit timesheets to department representatives, not payroll. Any students not on the recap sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received before adding student to recap sheet. Also, if a student still appears on the recap sheet and no longer works in the department, send Frances a copy of the recap sheet to end the assignment.

Regalia Rental

Anyone needing to rent regalia for commencement May 16 should call Jessiebeth at ext. 3054 to place an order. The rental fee for doctoral degree regalia is $31 plus tax. Master's degree regalia is $27 plus tax. Orders must be placed prior to April 15 to assure correct hoods.

Retirement Conference

Employees who are 60 or older, or who are otherwise eligible to retire, may benefit from a retirement conference from 9:30 a.m. to noon March 24 in the University Union, Room 100. Conducted by the State Retirement System Division, the conference will provide information on retirement eligibility, selection of optional payment arrangements, designation of beneficiaries, eligibility requirements for Social Security benefits, hospital/medical coverage and other issues. For more information, call Elizabeth at ext. 3713.

Blood Drive

UNCW Volunteers! will sponsor a Red Cross blood drive from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. March 30 in the University Center Ballroom. To make an appointment or to volunteer call ext. 3925 or come by the University Union, Room 212.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Maureen Madio, printing services, to help her avoid unpaid absence during her maternity leave. Send vacation leave donations to human resources, or call Dale at ext. 3161.

Staff Training

- Maintaining and Reading Your Budget, 9 to 11 a.m. March 26.
- Defensive Driving, 8 a.m. to noon March 31.
- Performance Collaboration, 9 a.m. to noon, April 15.
- TimeQuest, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. April 29

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	April 1
98-096 Student Media Coordinator	March 31
98-097 Greek Affairs Coordinator	March 28
98-098 Police Officer I	March 20
98-099 General Utility Worker	March 20
98-100 Grounds Worker	March 20
98-101 HVAC Mechanic	March 20
98-102 Maintenance Mechanic IV	March 20
98-103 Accounting Technician III	March 27
98-104 Accountant I	March 27
98-105 Mechanic I	March 27
98-106 Electrician	March 27

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Relay for Life

The Relay for Life, a team event to fight cancer, will begin at 6 p.m. April 24 at the UNCW Track. Participants form teams of 10 to 15 people who take turns walking or running in shifts. The 24-hour relay begins with cancer survivors who walk, run or wheelchair the first lap. The event is sponsored by the New Hanover County chapter of the American Cancer Society. To join the walk or for more information, contact Diane Matthews at ext. 3065, Annie Aldrich at ext. 3099 or Michelle Dickens at ext. 3717.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 34 April 2, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Inauguration of UNC President Molly Corbett Broad Set for April 29

Plans are underway across the 16-campus University of North Carolina system for the inauguration of Molly Corbett Broad as the 15th president of the oldest public university system in America. The formal inauguration, to be held at 7:30 p.m. April 29 in N.C. State University's Reynolds Coliseum, will mark the culmination of a two-day celebration of teaching and learning involving faculty, students, staff and alumni from every UNC campus.

UNC-TV will provide live coverage beginning at 7:30 p.m. April 29 with a special edition of "North Carolina Now." In conjunction with the activities taking place in the Triangle, UNC Wilmington is hosting a dinner and group viewing of the ceremonies for faculty, staff and students at the Hawk's Nest starting at 7 p.m.

Prior to the inauguration, North Carolina Central University will host a special academic convocation at 10:30 a.m. Open to the public, the event will be held in B.N. Duke Auditorium and will include academic delegations from every campus. During the convocation, a top faculty member from each institution will be honored with the fourth annual Board of Governors Awards for Excellence in Teaching. Each of the 16 recipients will receive a bronze medallion and a cash award of $7,500.

The board of governors will also honor the achievements of one UNC faculty member who has "made the greatest contributions to the welfare of the human race" with the annual O. Max Gardner Award. Established in 1949 by the will of Gov. Oliver Max Gardner, it remains the only board of governors award for which all faculty members of the 16 institutions are eligible. The recipient receives a bronze medallion and a $10,000 cash prize.

Following the convocation, student groups from UNC campuses will take the stage at NCSU for a musical variety show. The festivities begin at 4:30 p.m. with the Appalachian State University Steely Pan Steel Band, featuring 17 performers and 37 steel drums. Other universities participating are Elizabeth City State University, UNC Charlotte, UNC Greensboro and Winston-Salem State University. The UNCW Jazz Combo will perform during a reception starting at 9:30 p.m. on the N.C. State University campus.

County Commissioners to Honor Swimming and Basketball Championship Teams

The New Hanover County Board of Commissioners will honor the men's basketball team and the women's swim team for their championship seasons during the commission's April 7 meeting. The meeting will start at 6:30 p.m. in the old County Courthouse. The presentation of special proclamations is scheduled for 7:15 p.m. A reception will immediately follow the presentation. Everyone is encouraged to attend.

VR Pioneer Jaron Lanier to Lecture April 21

Virtual reality pioneer and founder Jaron Lanier will present the talk "Technology and the Human Soul" at 7 p.m. April 21 in the University Center Ballroom.

Lanier is the lead scientist at National Tele-immersion Initiative, a coalition of universities studying advanced shared environment applications on the Internet. A computer scientist, composer, visual artist and author, Lanier started the first virtual reality company, VRL Research Inc. He is the co-inventor of many virtual reality components such as interface gloves.

In addition to his virtual reality work, Lanier is a musician, painter and writer. His record "Instruments of Change" was released in 1994. He is also working on an album of chamber music for Sony Classics. As an artist, Lanier's paintings and drawings have been exhibited worldwide. He has a one-man show at the Danish Museum of Art in Roskilde as well as exhibitions in Montreal and New York.

As an author, Lanier writes on such topics as the philosophy of consciousness, Internet politics and the future of humanism in a technological world. He is a founding contributing writer for Wired and was a guest editor of a special issue of SPIN magazine devoted the future. He has also appeared on the national television program "Nightline." The lecture is free and open to the public. For more information, contact Cathy Birmingham at ext. 3827.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

"Good Morning America" Producer to Speak

Wendy Roth, senior producer for ABC News' "Good Morning America" will give an insider's look at the production of a nationally broadcast news program at 1 p.m. April 17 in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium.

Roth, who was named senior producer of "Good Morning America" in September 1997, was also one of four producers of ABC News' "Turning Point." She won two Emmy Awards for her work on the weekly series. Roth also produced coverage of the Olympics, the British royal wedding and Oprah Winfrey's interview with Michael Jackson. Roth's lecture is sponsored by the English Department. For more information, call ext. 3320.

Bob Reiss Reading

Bob Reiss will read from his fiction and non-fiction works at 8 p.m. April 21 in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. He is the author of eight novels including The Divine Assassin, Saltmaker and Purgatory Road. Many of his literary works are based on his world travels that include trips to Hong Kong, Somalia, South Africa, Egypt and Antarctica. His non-fiction works include The Road to Extreme which is set in the Amazon and explores the link between rainforest destruction and life in the developed world. For more information on this event, which is sponsored by the English Department, call ext. 3320.

50th Facts

On March 20, 1971, the Bank of NCNA gave a $50,000 grant to UNCW to establish a chair of banking and finance. At the time this professorship was only the third chair of banking in North Carolina.

On March 26, 1971, dedication ceremonies were held for the Sarah Graham Kenan Memorial Auditorium.

Tree Dedication

A short service dedicating a dogwood tree in memory of Phillip Windham will be held at 3 p.m April 9 in front of the Purchasing Building.

Art Exhibit

"As We See It," a collection of mixed media painting by artists Pat Carrasco, Jeanne Gowdy and Pamela Swarbrick, will be on display April 13 to May 29 in the University Center. There will be a "meet the artists" reception from 3 to 5 p.m. April 29 in the University Center lobby gallery.

Watercolors on Display

The exhibit "This Part of the Journey" by artist B. F. Reed will be on display from April 14 to May 29 in the University Union Living Room. There will be a "meet the artist" reception at 6 p.m. April 16 in the University Union Living Room. Reed's watercolors can be found in the U.S. Presidential Art Collection and numerous corporate and private collections including Coca Cola Bottling Company and NBA Hall of Fame member Julius Erving.

Note of Appreciation

MaryAnn Strickland, biological sciences, would like to thank everyone who donated shared leave on her behalf while recovering from surgery.

Adult Scholars Leadership Class of '98 Holds Graduation Ceremonies

The eighth class of UNCW's Adult Scholars Leadership Program graduated in ceremonies on the university campus.

Many of the 24 graduates will join the Adult Scholars Alumni group, volunteering in numerous civic and nonprofit organizations and participating in social activities.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of next year's class can call the Division for Public Service and Extended Education ext. 3193 to be put on a mailing list.

Farewell Reception

Join Student Academic Support Programs at a farewell reception for Trudy Howarth, office manager, from noon to 2 p.m. Friday at the advising center in Wagoner Hall, south wing. Howarth is leaving UNCW to pursue other opportunities with a local company.

Curtain Call Club Productions

The Curtain Call Club in the Department of Art and Theatre will present two productions. Baby with the Bathwater by Christopher Durange will be performed at 8 p.m. April 16 through 19 in Kenan Hall's SRO Theatre. There will be a 3 p.m. matinee on Sunday. The production is student directed by Trip Heeks.

The Bald Soprano by Eugene Ionesco will be performed at 8 p.m. April 24 in the SRO Theatre. Additional performances will be at 5 and 8:30 p.m. April 25 and at 3 p.m April 26. The production is directed by Chester Loeffler-Bell.

Tickets will be available at the door only. General admission is $3 and $2 for senior citizens. For more information, call Don Hawley at ext. 3442.

Graduate Thesis Defense

Erica Walton will defend her thesis "Phylogenetic Analysis of Reproductive Modes in the Genus Anthopleura" at 2 p.m. Friday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Poetry Slam Winners

The following three poets were winners of the Poetry Slam held March 29. First-place winner was J. Wayne Bass, second-place was Boise Holmes, and the third-place winner was David Lechter.

Psychology Lecture

Michael Plaut from the University of Maryland School of Medicine will present "Boundary Issues in Professional-Client Relationships" at 10 a.m. Monday in the University Union, Room 100. The lecture is sponsored by the Department of Psychology.

Communique Editor, ext. 7223

UNCW

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT WILMINGTON

JAMES R. LEUTZE
Chancellor

MEMORANDUM

TO: UNCW EMPLOYEES

FROM: James R. Leutze

DATE: April 2, 1998

RE: Spring Campus Forum – April 8, 1998
9am OR 2pm -- University Center Ballroom

Spring—a time of renewal and enthusiasm—offers an excellent time to reflect on past accomplishments, focus on future initiatives, and spark the Seahawk spirit! Please plan to join me and administrative officers at the Spring Campus Forum on April 8 at 9am OR 2pm in the University Center. The informal agenda will include a briefing on key issues and future plans regarding UNCW. Your questions are welcome.

As we celebrate our 50th anniversary together, it is clear that UNCW's continuing success has been the result of caring, competent employees collaborating and moving toward the fulfillment of a common vision—an unparalleled educational experience in study, research, and community involvement.

Thank you for your dedicated service to UNCW.

601 SOUTH COLLEGE ROAD · WILMINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA 28403-3297 · 910-962-3030 · FAX 910-962-4050 · INTERNET: LEUTZEJ@UNCWIL.EDU

Your Student Career Journal

UNCW Career Services • Vol 2, No 4 • March 1998

Earn & Learn This Summer

What will you be doing this summer? Will you retreat to the beach, or will you be one of the millions of other college students working this summer? Summer jobs and internships not only look great on a resume, but they also provide the opportunity to gain experience in fields that you are interested in pursuing after graduation; and, of course, they are always good for some cash.

The process of finding a good summer job or internship resembles the process of finding a permanent job in many ways, so much of what you learn about yourself and about job search strategies in seeking a summer job or internship will be helpful to you later.

First, set your priorities. What are you looking for in a summer job or internship? What kinds of things are important to you? An opportunity to test your career goals? Adventure? Money? An opportunity to serve others? Travel?

Obviously, the types of jobs or internships available to you depend to some extent upon your qualifications, your access to transportation, and your financial needs. As you begin to set your summer priorities, it is important to begin to think about what you have to offer a prospective employer. What personal traits, skills, education, and experience do you hope to "sell"?

Then begin networking with potential job or internship sites. Talk with Career Services staff and UNCW faculty about possibilities. Use the web resources listed in the right column. Use the telephone, the Yellow Pages, employer directories, parents, friends, parents of friends, and friends of parents. The more people you talk to, the more contacts you will develop for your network.

Upcoming Career Events

CAREER EXPRESS
Drop-by with quick questions about internships, majors, resumes, etc.
Every Monday
5-8pm, 104 Univ Union

Every Wednesday
12:30-2:00pm, Univ Ctr Lobby

INTERVIEW TO WIN: PREPARING FOR JOB INTERVIEWS
How to research potential employers, prepare for typical questions, etc.
Thursday, March 19
4-5pm, UU 106

JOB HUNTING: YOUR SENIOR PROJECT
Job hunting tips for today's job market.
Tuesday, March 24
4-5pm, UU 106

HOW TO DECIDE ON A MAJOR
Get ready for pre-registration.
Wednesday, March 25
4-5pm, Wagoner Hall Conf Rm

MAKING THAT "MAJOR" DECISION
Assessing your interests to help you choose an appropriate academic major.
Tuesday, March 31
4-5pm, UU 106

Web Links for Summer Jobs & Internships

UNCW Careers Job Listings
http://www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/career
(call for UNCW password)

JobTrak
http://www.jobtrak.com
(call for UNCW password)

Summer Work, Internships, Field Work & Post Grad Options
http://www.jobweb.org/catapult/jintern.htm

Make Summer Work Experience Pay On Your Resume (article)
http://www.jobweb.org/JCOnline/Features/Summer/default.shtml

CoolWorks
http://www.coolworks.com/showme/

SummerJobs Worldwide
http://www.summerjobs.com/do/where

Temporary Solutions, Inc.
http://www.tsijobs.com/

Educ Opportunities through Oak Ridge Institute for Science & Education http://prau.gov/orise/educ.htm

CampStaff
http://www.campstaff.com/

Great Summer Jobs (American Camping Association)
http://greatsummerjobs.com

Kids' Camps
http://www.kidscamps.com/

Tripod's Internship Center
http://www.tripod.com/work/intern_visa/

Intern-NET
http://www.vicon.net/~internnet/

On-Campus Recruiting • Spring '98

New Employers are added throughout the semester, so for the most current schedule please see the "Services for Students" section of our Career Services homepage <http://www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/career>

Sign-up sheets are first available in Career Services, UU 106, on Mondays four weeks before the scheduled interview dates. Students must be registered with our office by uploading their UNCW Careers disks at least one week prior to the scheduled interview. Any cancellation of an interview appointment must be made at least 24 hours prior to the scheduled interview.

Perdue Farms
Tuesday, March 17
Position: Plant Management Trainee
Majors: Management, Economics, PDS

Sherwin Williams
Tuesday, March 17
Majors: All
Positions: Management

National Linen Service
Tuesday, March 17
Position: Production Supervisor
Major: Management
Position: Plant Controller
Major: Finance or Accounting

IBM
Friday, March 20
Majors: CSC, PDS
Position: Various (programmers)

Enterprise Rent A Car
Friday, March 20
Majors: All
Position: Management

Tangram Enterprises
Monday, March 23
Majors: CSC
Positions: Entry Level Systems Engineer, Entry Level Gui Developer,Software Developer C/C++

Iredell-Statesville County Schools
Monday, March 23
Position: Teaching
Majors: All Education

Walt Disney World
Monday, March 23
Presentation: Cameron Auditorium
6:00 pm - Must attend presentation to sign up for interview the next day!

Walt Disney World
Tuesday, March 24
Majors: All
Positions: Summer, Internships

FootAction
Wednesday, March 25
Majors: All
Positions: Management Trainee

Catawba County Schools
Wednesday, March 25
Majors: All Education
Positions: Teaching

Collins & Aikman
Thursday, March 26, 1998
Management Trainee
All Majors

Hughes Supply
Friday, March 27
Position: Sales/Management Trainee
Majors: ALL

Blackbaud
Tuesday, March 31, 1998
Positions: Programmers, Data Analysts, Quality Assurance Analysts, Marketing, Accounting, Administrators Majors: ALL

NC Blue Cross Blue Shield
Thurday, April 2
Positions: Telesales Representatives (Location-Durham, Chapel Hill)
Majors: Business, Sales, Marketing, Communications preferred
Positions: Customer Service Representative
Majors: All
Position: Programmer Trainee
Majors: Computer Science, PDS
Position: EDI Analyst
Majors: ALL
Position: Business User/Analyst-Finance Reporting
Majors: Finace/Accounting - Two years of experience

Guilford County Schools
Friday, April 3
Majors: All Education
Positions: Teaching

Wayne County Schools
Friday, April 3
Majors: All Education
Positions: Teaching

Syntel
Monday, April 6
Majors: ALL
Position: Associate Programmers

Pender County Schools
Monday & Tuesday, April 6 - 7
Majors: All Education
Positions: Teaching

Haworth, Inc.
Tuesday, April 7
Position: Accountant
Majors: Accountancy (Undergraduate)
(location - Chadbourn Plant)

Moore County Schools
Tuesday, April 7
Majors: All Education
Positions: Teaching

Brunswick County Schools
Wednesday, April 8
Wednesday, April 29
Majors: All Education
Positions: Teaching

Johnston County Schools
Thursday, April 9
Majors: All Education
Position: Teaching

Pitt County Schools
Friday, April 17
Majors: All Education
Position: Teaching

Enterprise Rent A Car
Friday, April 17
Table in the University Center Lobby
10am-2pm, Everyone welcome

Winston-Salem/Forsyth County Schools
Monday, April 20, 1998
Majors: All Education
Positions: Teaching

Thomasville City Schools
Thursday, April 23
Position: Teaching
Majors: All Education

Enterprise Rent A Car
Friday, April 24
Majors: All
Position: Management

Gaston County Schools
Monday, April 27
Majors: All Education
Positions: Teaching

New Hanover County Schools
Tuesday & Wednesday, May 12-13
Majors: All Education
Positions: Teaching

CAREER SERVICES

University of North Carolina at Wilmington
Division Of Student Affairs
Creating Experiences for Life
104 & 106 University Union
910.962.3174

UNCW Careers Registration

The new Windows version is here! Now it's even easier for you to become part of this powerful electronic database. What can your UNCW Careers disk do for you?

- A portfolio for gathering all collegiate activities & leadership experiences.
- Preparation for internship opportunities.
- A tutorial for developing four powerful, professional resumes.
- Referral of your resume for internships & job openings in small & large organizations.
- Option to post your resume on the World Wide Web.
- Access to on-campus recruiting organizations.
- Periodic email notices about workshops, on-campus recruiters and job opportunities.

Choosing a major? Looking for a career? Got a dream job in mind, but don't know where to start? Get a REALITY CHECK with SIGI-PLUS, the fast, easy-to-use software that helps you make important decisions about your future. And it's free! Call Career Services at 962-3174 to schedule your time with SIGI-Plus.

Artist Carol Wax to Lecture

New York artist and author Carol Wax will present a lecture on her work in the printmaking medium of mezzotint at 3 p.m. Saturday in Kenan Hall, Room 121. Her book The Mezzotint: History and Technique is considered the definitive work on the subject. Following the lecture there will be a reception for the exhibit "From Darkness, Light: The Art of Mezzotint" in Kenan Hall's Claude Howell Gallery. The exhibit features contemporary works by Wax, Art Werger and Donald Furst, art and theatre. Three of English artist John Martin's Paradise Lost prints from the 1820s and a selection of UNCW student mezzotints from previous years will also be on display.

Both events are sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences and the Department of Art and Theatre.

Faculty Front Forum

Does the Bible support the death penalty? Is the death penalty a deterrent to crime? These questions will be discussed during the next Faculty Front forum "The Death Penalty Under View" at 7 p.m. April 16 in Morton Hall, Room 100. Panelists will present arguments for and against the death penalty from biblical and criminal justice perspectives.

Presenting arguments supporting the death penalty will be Stephen Crotts, senior pastor of Myrtle Grove Presbyterian Church, and Russell Davis, a Wilmington attorney. James Megivern, philosophy and religion, and Darrell Irwin, criminal justice, will present arguments against the death penalty. The forum moderator will be Deborah Brunson, communication studies.

Faculty Front is a new program developed by the Office of Minority Affairs to feature faculty members who examine social, political, cultural and economic issues that affect minorities and the larger society. For more information, call Linda MacRae at ext. 7435.

Department Spotlights France in April

The Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures will have a series of programs devoted to France throughout April. All events are free and open to the public.

"France Through the Eyes of a French Journalist," by Noél Fantoni of Radio Monte Carlo, 3 p.m. April 6, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium.

"Marcel Duchamp," by Noél Fantoni, owner of the Galerie Lézarts, 7 p.m. April 7, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium.

"Victor Hugo, The Man Behind Les Miserables," by E. Jennings Craig, 6:30 p.m. April 14, Cameron Hall auditorium.

"Soiré Art et Desserts," a performance by French students, 7 p.m. April 19, Wagoner Hall's Madeline Suite.

"Provence," by Katia Campbell and "Insolent Beauty . . . Art and Artists of the French Riviera," by Jim McNab, 7 p.m. April 23, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium.

"The Construction of the European Union and the Future of Europe," by Jean-Pierre Derisbourg, French diplomat and economist, 6:30 p.m. April 27, Cameron Hall auditorium.

For more information, call the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures at ext. 3340 or the Office of International Programs at ext. 3859.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Joan Willey and Robert Kieber, chemistry, received $30,000 for their project "Flux of Dissolved Organic Carbon Cycling and Hydroperoxide Chemistry in the Atmosphere."

Candace Gauthier, philosophy and religion, presented the paper "Moral Responsibility in Health Care Decision Making" at the spring Society for Health and Human Values meeting at ECU.

Tammy Blizzard, Sharon Boyd and Sondra Roark, business affairs, participated at the N.C. FRS Users Conference in Clemmons, N.C. Blizzard served as a panelist for "TRA97-Tax Credits." Boyd served as panel leader for "One Card Panel." Roark served as panel leader for "Fixed Assets Roundtable."

Vickie Parker, HPER, was named Best Therapeutic Recreation Instructor at the 1998 NCRPS Therapeutic Recreation Division annual conference in Atlantic Beach. Three UNCW graduates, Elizabeth Stewart '97, Kyle Robinson '93 and Susan McMillan Hughes '93, were also recognized.

Wade O. Watanabe, CMSR, published the research article "Light Intensity and Salinity Effects on Eggs and Yolksac Larvae of the Summer Flounder" in Progressive Fish-Culturist (vol. 60, 1998). He also participated in the N. C. Board of Science and Technology Flounder Aquaculture meeting (Workshop II) at NCSU where he gave the invited presentation "Research Needs in Flounder Broodstock Management and Larviculture."

Lindsay Pentolfe Aegerter, English, delivered a lecture on Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man at the New Hanover County Public Library as part of a special series on 20th century African-American literature.

Istvan Hargittai, chemistry, gave the invited physical chemistry seminar "Perspectives in Molecular Structure Research" at UNC Chapel Hill.

P. J. Lapaire, foreign languages and literatures, presented the paper "Du discours a l'image: Philippe Djian au cinema, 37o2 le matin et Betty Blue" at the Carolina Conference on Romance Languages and Literatures at UNC Chapel Hill. Lapaire also presided at the special section "Reading History Through Film."

Mitch Conover, economics and finance, had his article "How Much Is Purchasing Power Parity Worth?" accepted for publication in the Quarterly Journal of Business and Economics.

Randall Library Easter Hours

Randall Library will observe the following hours during Easter vacation. 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. April 9; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 10; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 11; and 3 p.m. to midnight April 12.

Regalia Rental

Anyone needing to rent regalia for commencement May 16 should call Jessiebeth at ext. 3054 to place an order. The rental fee for doctoral degree regalia is $31 plus tax. Master's degree regalia is $27 plus tax. Orders must be placed prior to April 15 to assure correct hoods.

Suggestions Sought for Campus Phone Directory

Comments or suggestions to improve the quality and resourcefulness of the 1998-99 edition of the university telephone directory should be sent to Diane Billings at the e-mail address billingsd.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

William Thompson, CMSR; John Sawyer, printing services; Nita Hartless, purchasing services; Nannette White, student academic support; Elizabeth Lee, athletics; and William Fox, NURC.

In Search of Art Exhibits

The University Union and Center are seeking art exhibits to be displayed for the upcoming academic year. Artworks using any type of media are eligible but must be framed matted and display-ready. Submission deadline is 5 p.m. April 22. For submission criteria or other information, call ext. 3827.

Art Exhibit at WHQR

The gallery at WHQR is featuring relief prints by Ann Conner, art and theatre. The exhibit opens today, and there will be a reception at 7 p.m. tonight.

CTE Events

Jane Tompkins, professor of English at Duke University, will comment on her book A Life in School: What the Teacher Learned at 8 p.m. April 6 in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. Tompkins is renowned nationally as a speaker and workshop leader on the personal and moral dimensions of teaching and teachers. A reception will follow.

Tompkins will conduct a faculty teaching workshop from 2 to 4 p.m. April 7. Both events are sponsored by the Center for Teaching Excellence. For more information, call ext. 3034 or e-mail cte@uncwil.edu.

Relay for Life

For more information or to join the Relay for Life, a team event to raise money for the fight against cancer, contact Diane Matthews at ext. 3065, Annie Aldrich at ext. 3099 or Michelle Dickens at ext. 3717. The event will begin at 6 p.m. April 24 at the UNCW Track.

Participants form teams of 10 to 15 people who take turns walking or running in shifts. The 24-hour relay begins with cancer survivors who walk, run or wheelchair the first lap. The event is sponsored by the New Hanover County chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	Until Filled
98-108 Office Manager Administrative Sec. II	April 10
98-109 Police First Line Sup. Police Officer II	April 10
98-110 Landscape Spec. (temp.)	April 10
98-111 Marine Fisheries Observer I	April 10
98-112 Microcomputer Consultant Computing Consultant I	April 10
98E47 Counselors	April 17
98E48 Development Director	April 20

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Maureen Madio, printing services, to help her avoid unpaid absence during maternity leave. Send vacation leave donations to human resources, or call Willina at ext. 3006.

Staff Training

- Performance Collaboration, 9 a.m. to noon April 15.
- TimeQuest, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. April 29

For registration information, call ext. 3274.

CAMPUS EVENTS . . . IN BRIEF

Forum: Honors Scholars Program Forum, 2 p.m., today, Cameron Hall, Room 111.

Teleconference: "Am I a Crook? Copyright Issues on the Internet," 2:30 p.m. today, Randall Library auditorium.

Poetry Reading: Mark Cox, 7:30 p.m. tonight, Cameron Hall auditorium.

Lectures:

"Wilmington in Black and White: AD 2098," by Harvard Jennings and James Megivern, 7:30 p.m. tonight, St. Stephen AME Church, 501 Red Cross Street.

"Crossing the Line in Nazi Genocide: On Becoming and Being a Professional Killer," by Gerhard Weinberg, 7:30 p.m. tonight, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium.

Concert: Ryoanji Duo, 8 p.m. Friday, Kenan Auditorium.

Lecture: "Practicing Foreign Policy in East Asia," by Thomas Reich, 7:30 p.m. April 16, Cameron Hall auditorium.

Seminar: "Changing Work in a Changing World," by Rebecca Porterfield, 2:30 p.m.April 21, Howard Johnson Plaza Hotel. Cost is $20.

Lecture: "China's Future: Problems and Opportunities," by Jonathan Spence, 7:30 p.m. April 30, Kenan Auditorium.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 35 April 9, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW Wins Governor's Award for State Employees Campaign

UNCW employees answered the call to become partners in giving for the State Employees Combined Campaign this past fall producing the state's top percentage increase in participation. This effort earned UNCW the Governor's Award presented during ceremonies March 20.

Donna Cameron, UNCW's SECC chair, accepted the award on behalf of university employees.

"We are so proud to receive this award," said Cameron. "It is a wonderful thank you for all our employees who supported the campaign. We are especially proud because our increased support of the campaign will benefit so many worthwhile causes in our own community and across the state."

The Governor's Award is given to state agencies with the highest percentage increase in giving over last year's campaign. UNCW's participation rate was 38.45 percent, which was fifth highest among the 16 constituent campuses of the UNC system. The previous year's participation rate was 15 percent, second from last in the system.

SECC award winners pictured left to right, Pat Howie, Saul Bachner with the Governor's Award, Sandra Moore and Donna Cameron. Not pictured is Jerry Wainwright.

Six Governor's Awards are given in categories based upon the number of employees in the agency. UNCW won its award among agencies with employees totaling between 1,001 and 2,000.

In addition to the Governor's Award, three UNCW departments were also recognized for their participation rates with Gold Level Awards. The Watson School of Education was honored for a 98 percent participation rate. The Athletic Department had a 93 percent participation rate; and the Division for University Advancement had an 88 percent participation rate. Accepting the award on behalf of the individual departments were Saul Bachner and Sandra Moore, education; Jerry Wainwright and Pat Howie, athletics; and Donna Cameron, advancement.

Alumni Association Honors Benefactors

The UNCW Alumni Association has established an endowed scholarship honoring the late Lawrence Lewis, Jr., his wife, Janet Patton Lewis, and Mr. and Mrs. James L. Wiley (Mary Lily Flagler Lewis Wiley). They are the grandchildren of the late Jessie Hargrave Kenan Wise for whom the Wise Alumni House is named. In 1968, the grandchildren deeded the house to the university. The donation was intended to further the charitable and educational programs of UNCW.

The house became the home of the UNCW Alumni Association in 1994. Without the continued financial and moral support of these families, restoration efforts for Wise Alumni House would have been more difficult to achieve. To honor their charitable efforts, the association has endowed a scholarship in excess of $43,000 entitled the Lewis/Wiley Alumni Fellowship. It will be awarded annually to a deserving graduate student to further his/her educational goals. This is the first endowed scholarship that the association has established.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Ev-Henwood Nature Walk

Curious to learn more about migrating birds? Join ecologist Will Hon at 8 a.m. May 2 for a nature walk through UNCW's Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve to learn about migrating birds and their habitats.

The walk will begin in the picnic area of the preserve, located at 6150 Rock Creek Road near Town Creek in Brunswick County. Participants should bring binoculars and insect repellent.

To reach the UNCW Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve, follow the signs from the intersection of U.S. Highway 17 and Old Town Creek Road about 10 miles south of Wilmington. For more information, call ext. 3197 or 253-6066.

Political Candidates Forum

A forum featuring candidates for Wilmington City Council and New Hanover County Board of Commissioners will be held at 7 p.m. tonight in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. Attendees will have the opportunity to question the candidates. The forum moderator will be Donn Ansell of WAAV Radio.

Faculty and Staff Musicians Wanted

Faculty and staff members who would enjoy playing an instrument and/or singing at a faculty/staff/student pre-exam jam from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. April 30 on the University Commons should call Cathy Birmingham at ext. 3043.

50th Fact

The first class to graduate from Wilmington College was on Sept. 11, 1947, with degrees in air-conditioning and refrigeration. The first person awarded an associate in arts degree was Hugh Fox on April 2, 1949. He was also the first graduate in the liberal arts division.

Jacques Stepping Down as Vice Chancellor for University Advancement

Kevin C. Jacques, vice chancellor for university advancement, has announced that he would be stepping down effective June 30. "After nine months working in this position, I have come to realize that my talents and experience are not a good fit for the university in its current stage of development," said Jacques.

Chancellor Leutze said he "regretfully" accepted Jacques' resignation.

Course Proposals Sought

The Master of Arts in Liberal Studies Planning Committee is soliciting course proposals from interested faculty. The program, if approved, is slated to begin in fall 1999. MALS seminars will focus on specific issues that cross the disciplinary boundaries within the humanities, social sciences and physical sciences. Graduate faculty will receive course proposal forms. Other faculty are encouraged to obtain graduate faculty status and submit proposals. Forms and information are available from the MALS committee members: Robert Argenbright, earth sciences; Eric Bolen, biological sciences; Grace Burton, curricular studies; Christopher Gould, English; Allen Gray, nursing; Donna King and Patricia Lerch, sociology and anthropology; Susan McCaffray, history; James Megivern, philosophy and religion; and Peter Thomas, foreign languages and literatures.

New Departmental Cash Receipting System

UNCW will implement a new cash receipting system May 1. Departments having cash receipting privileges will be sent instructions and the new required cash receipting form. Training workshops will be held from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. April 23 and 24 in the human resources training room. To register, call Brenda Jordan at ext. 3274.

Chancellor's Human Relations Advisory Committee

The Chancellor's Human Relations Advisory Committee will meet at noon Monday in the University Center, Room 104. The committee is seeking interested participants. Items on the agenda include assessing the effectiveness of the committee and looking at long-range goals, developing a poster on diversity uniquely suited for the university community; developing a web site for diversity-related information; examining how individual departments are dealing with diversity issues and recognizing accomplishments; and planning a diversity month.

The committee members are Kathleen Benzaquin and Robert Smith, Watson School of Education; Denis Carter, academic affairs; Yaw O. Chang, mathematical sciences; Yael Gold, Student Development Center; Robert Haywood, campus minister; Leslie Langer, public service; Linda MacRae, Upperman African-American Cultural Center; sociology and anthropology; Betty Osteen, athletics; Elaine Penn, advancement; Stephanie Richardson, English; Earl Sheridan, political science; Alisa Sofield, management and Marketing; Bonnie Smith, research administration; Doretha Stone, nursing; Dorothy Taylor, physical plant; Matthew Tenhuisen, mathematical sciences; Li-Shing Wang, student affairs; Mike Bogan, human resources; Pat Leonard, vice chancellor for student affairs; and Chris Kaberline, housing and residence life.

Selling Books to Filmmakers

Frank Capra, Jr., president of Screen Gems Studios, and Bob Reiss, visiting writer in the English Department, will talk about the process of how books are optioned to film companies at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the new Science Building auditorium. For more information, call the English Department at ext. 3320.

Chancellor James R. Leutze
& the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina at Wilmington cordially invite faculty and staff to join us as we celebrate

UNCW's Golden Anniversary
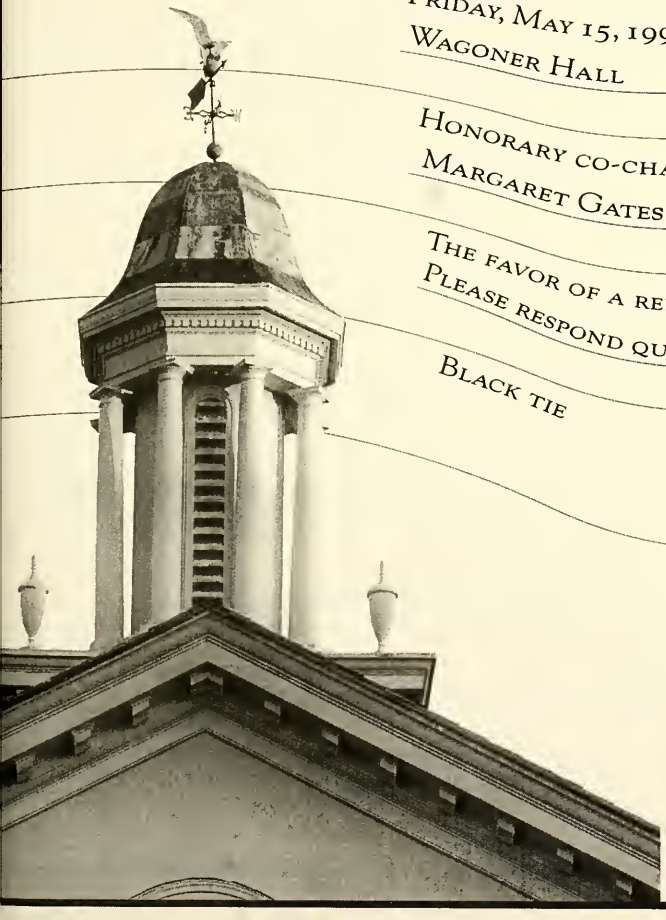
with a Gala dinner & dance

7 PM to midnight
Friday, May 15, 1998
Wagoner Hall

Honorary co-chairs
Margaret Gates & Suzanne Moss

The favor of a reply is requested by May 11.
Please respond quickly as seating is limited.

Black tie



University of North Carolina at Wilmington · 1947 · 1997 · 50 Fifty Years

UNCW's Golden Anniversary Gala

Name

Address

City/State/Zip

Phone

Business Affiliation

[ ] guest(s) @ $50 = [$]

[ ] table(s) of eight @ $500 = [$]

Name to appear on table reservation

Guests at table – For tables of eight, please list names as to appear on name tags:

Please make checks payable to UNCW or charge:

Check One: Visa ○ MasterCard ○

Card Number

Name as it appears on card Exp. Date

Signature X

I agree to pay the total amount according to the card issuer agreement.

Dinner will include beef and seafood. If you prefer vegetarian, please indicate how many:

Please use this page to reply by mail or fax (910/962-7159) on or before May 11.

Questions: (910/962-7183)

New Hanover County Unit

UNCW Track

April 24, 6:00 p.m.
through
April 25, 6:00 p.m.

To become a UNCW Team Member,
call
Dianne Matthews - Ext. 3065
or
Annie Aldrich - Ext. 3099
or
Michelle Dickens - Ext. 3717

Graduate Thesis Defenses

James Quinn will defend his thesis "Porosity of the Castle Hayne Limestone (Eocene), southern New Hanover County, North Carolina" at 10 a.m. April 15 in DeLoach Hall, Room 105.

Michelle Bruce will defend her thesis "Geology Across the Western Boundary of Western Idaho Suture Zone, Lake Creek Area, Rigins, Idaho" at 1 p.m. April 15 in DeLoach Hall, Room 222.

Jennifer Celeste will defend her thesis "Determining Permeability of R-Area, Savannah River Site South Carolina: Minipermeameter vs. Cone Penetrometer Technology" at 2 p.m. April 22 in DeLoach Hall, Room 120.

Golf Tournament Scheduled

The UNCW Communication Studies Alumni Golf Classic is scheduled for 8 a.m. April 20 at the Cape Golf and Racquet Club. Individual entry fees are $65 with proceeds benefiting chapter projects including the Betty Jo Welch scholarship. For more information, call Mike Arnold at ext. 2684.

Postal Reminders

April 24 is the last day for mass departmental mailings for distribution to student post office boxes. Also, send extra intercampus envelopes to the post office for redistribution.

Catholic Ministry Representative

Mary Pat Fourgurean is the new campus Catholic ministry representative at the Newman Center Catholic Campus Ministry House, 4802 College Acres Drive. For more information or to contact Fourgurean, call 792-0507.

Lunch Hour Meditation

The Counseling Center is sponsoring a weekly meditation hour for faculty and staff from noon to 1 p.m. April 23 to May 28 in the University Union, Room 210. For more information, contact the instructor Etta Breit at ext. 3746. Please do not bring food.

School of Education Names Razor Walker Winners

The Watson School of Education honored 16 outstanding individuals for their contributions to America's youth during a reception and dinner hosted by Chancellor James R. Leutze March 29 at Kenan House.

Twelve of the 16 Razor Walker Award recipients were UNCW alumni. Robert E. Tyndall, dean of the Watson School of Education, said he believed it was important to recognize and support the success of alumni. "The Razor Walker Award is one way to show our appreciation to distinguished graduates as well as celebrate the university's 50th anniversary. These recipients have taken personal or professional risks and have put forth extraordinary efforts to realize a vision that would improve their communities. They have walked the 'razor's edge' where it is not always safe and predictable. Each believes in a dream greater than himself or herself that could change the lives of children."

This is the fifth year of honoring individuals with the Razor Walker Award. Recipients were chosen by a committee from nominations nationwide and received a plaque and medallion.

This year's recipients were Judge Ernest Fullwood '66, Elizabeth Varnadore '80, Janet Toedt '77, Tom Rabon, Jr., Charles F. Green III '71, Rep. Daniel McComas, Adelaide Key, Cecil Reynolds '75, Robert Warwick, Joe King III '66, Leon Larson '90, Vicki Collins '78, Doris Bryant, Judith Rhue '78, Karen Wetherill '88 and Julian Anderson '71.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Robert Argenbright, earth sciences, presented the paper "Bolshevik Agitprop in Turkestan, 1920" at the 36th annual meeting of the Southern Conference on Slavic Studies held in Chapel Hill and Durham. He also served as chair and discussant on the panel "Social Identities in Imperial Russia."

N. Samuel Murrell, philosophy and religion, was the featured speaker for the Barbados Keswick Convention in Bridgetown and gave a lecture on Rastafari at Harrison College (Barbados). He also presented the paper "Earliest Expressions of Islam among African Americans: Islam as a Black Protest Movement of the 1800s" at the annual regional meeting of the American Academy of Religion in Knoxville.

Joseph Pawlik, biological sciences, received $25,200 for his project supporting students to attend the fifth International Sponge Symposium.

Nancy Grindlay, earth sciences, received $39,812 for her project "Time-transgressive Deformational Effects of Oblique Under-thrusting of Aseismic Ridges on the Puerto Rico Trench and Island Margin."

Michael Durako, CMSR, received $61,663 for his project "Multi-scale Assessment of the Morphometrics and Demography of Thalassis testudinum (turtle grass): A New Approach to Ecosystem Assessment."

Spencer Rogers, CMSR, received $30,806 in funding for his project "Sea Grant Haznet."

James A. Dockal, W. Burleigh Harris and Richard A. Laws, earth sciences, had their paper "Late Maastrichtian Sediments on the North Flank of the Cape Fear Arch, North Carolina" published in Southeastern Geology (vol. 37, no. 3, p. 149-159).

Sherman Hayes, university librarian, and Pat McGee co-authored the article "Garbage Can Decision Making in a 'Structured Anarch' for Your CWIS: Could You Translate That for Me Please?" in Campus Wide Information Systems, vol. 15 issue 1, 1998.

Patricia Kelley, earth sciences, co-presented the paper "Interregional Comparison of Drilling on Cretaceous Naticid Gastropods and Implications for the Hypothesis of Escalation at the north central section meeting of the Geological Society of America in Columbus, Ohio. Her co-presenters were graduate student Maureen Jones, J. M. Erickson from St. Lawrence University and T. A. Hansen from West Washington University.

Steve Harper, management and marketing, had his article "The Executive's Unabashed Guide to Leading Organizational Change" accepted for publication in Industrial Management magazine.

UNCW BOT Meetings

The UNCW Board of Trustees will hold its full board meeting at 8:30 a.m. April 15 in Wagoner Hall's Madeline Suite. The regular quarterly committee meetings will be held April 14 at the following time and locations: Business Affairs Committee, 7:30 a.m., Alderman Hall, Room 211; Student Affairs Committee, 9:30 a.m., Alderman Hall, Room 215; Academic Affairs Committee, 10:45 a.m., Alderman Hall, Room 211; and University Advancement Committee, 2:15 p.m., University Center, Room 104. There will be a joint meeting of the Long Range Planning Committee and the University Planning and Quality Council at 3:30 p.m. in Trask Coliseum's Golden Hawk Room.

Travel Authorization Reminder

All employees, including student employees, are required to complete the travel authorization form. Refer to Administrative Procedure TRA 1.11. Non-state employees should follow Administrative Procedure TRA 1.10. Travel authorizations are not required.

Campus Rec Easter Schedule

Campus Recreation will observe the following Easter schedule: aerobics, noon to 1 p.m.; fitness center and recreational swim, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. April 9. All facilities will be closed April 10-12.

Suggestions Sought for Phone Directory

Comments or suggestions to improve the quality and resourcefulness of the 1998-99 edition of the university telephone directory should be sent to Diane Billings at the e-mail address billingsd.

April 10 is Good Friday. The university will be closed.

Be a Part of Graduation

Volunteers are needed to help with commencement May 16. Tickets are issued to students and guests. Serving as a commencement volunteer is an opportunity to participate and enjoy this event. Commencement volunteers must attend a briefing and luncheon May 13 and work from 8 a.m. to noon May 16. Volunteers are eligible to receive "comp" time for hours worked. To volunteer, contact Nadya Labib, commencement coordinator, at ext. 7231 or e-mail labibn.

Eight-Page Campus Communique Planned

The April 23 Campus Communique will be an eight-page issue. The deadline for submissions for this issue is 5 p.m. April 20.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Michele Benbow, physical plant and Jeanne Cole, management information support.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Maureen Madio, printing services, to help her avoid unpaid absence during her maternity leave. Send vacation leave donations to human resources or call Willina at ext. 3006.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	Until Filled
98-108 Office Manager Administrative Sec. II	April 10
98-109 Police First Line Sup. Police Officer II	April 10
98-110 Landscape Spec. (temp.)	April 10
98-111 Marine Fisheries Observer I	April 10
98-112 Microcomputer Consultant Computing Consultant II	April 10
98E47 Counselors	April 17
98E48 Development Director	April 20
98-114 Office Assistant III	April 17
98-115 Office Assistant III	April 24
98-116 Microcomputing Supp. Tech. Computing Supp. Tech. II	April 17
98-117 Housekeepers	April 17

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Bookstore Specials for Secretary's Day

Secretary's Day is April 22. The bookstore is offering the following specials: a Secretary's Day mug filled with six ounces of Jelly Bellies and balloons or a UNCW bear with balloons. Both specials are $7.95. Custom-decorated cakes are also available. A nine-inch round cake with six balloons is $16.50. A 9x12-inch cake with six balloons is $23.50. Place cake orders one week in advance.

CAMPUS EVENTS . . . IN BRIEF

Play: Baby with the Bathwater, 8 p.m. April 16-18, Kenan Hall's SRO Theatre.

Lectures: "Practicing Foreign Policy in East Asia," by Thomas Reich, 7:30 p.m. April 16, Cameron Hall auditorium. Co-sponsored by the Chancellor's Office and the Office of International Programs.

Wendy Roth, senior producer for ABC News' "Good Morning America" will give an insider's look at the production of a nationally broadcast news program, 1 p.m. April 17, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. Sponsored by the English Department.

Seminar: "Changing Work in a Changing World," by Rebecca Porterfield, Cameron School of Business, 2:30 p.m. April 21, Howard Johnson Plaza Hotel, Market Street. The cost is $20 per person. For more information, contact Catherine Morris at ext. 3736.

Reading: Bob Reiss will read from his fiction and non-fiction works, 8 p.m. April 21, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. Sponsored by the English Department.

Play: The Bald Soprano, 8 p.m. April 24, Kenan Hall's SRO Theatre. Additional performances will be at 5 and 8:30 p.m. April 25 and 3 p.m April 26.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 36 April 16, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Special Arbor Day Ceremony Planned

In honor of UNCW's golden anniversary celebration, the university will plant 50 trees on Arbor Day, April 24.

The trees will be planted in five separate groves on campus with each grove recognizing a constituency of the university including faculty and staff, the community and university founders, students, parents and alumni.

A dedication ceremony will take place noon at the University Commons followed by ceremonial plantings at each grove site by representatives from each constituency. SGA President Gerad Johnson will represent the student body; Donna Pranger, president of the Seahawk Parents Association will represent parents; and Tammy Blizzard will represent alumni. Mayor Hamilton Hicks and William Caster, chairman of the New Hanover County Board of Commissioners, have been invited to represent the community.

Volunteers from various student organizations will dig holes for the trees. Refreshments will be served following the ceremony.

Spring Faculty Meeting

The spring faculty meeting will be held at 4 p.m. today in Cameron Hall auditorium. All members of the faculty are encouraged to attend.

UNCW Jazz Ensemble Releases Second CD

The UNCW Big Band, under the direction of Frank Bongiorno, has released its second CD Travelin' Light. The CD contains music performed by the Big Band during its European tour last summer, as well as several compositions the band performed in concert last fall. Compositions on the recording include Stella by Starlight, A Little Minor Booze, Repetition, Stolen Moments, Travelin' Light and Dizzy Gillespie's arrangement of Manteca.

Proceeds for the sale of UNCW jazz recordings are used to support the Jazz Studies Program through scholarships, public performances and tours. The CD, which sells for $15, will be sold at jazz concerts this semester and local music and book stores. For more information, contact the Music Department at ext. 3390.

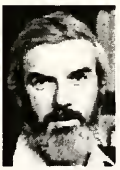
Final Two Lectures in East Asia Series Set for Tonight, April 30

East Asia is the topic of two more International Perspective programs cosponsored by the Chancellor's Office and the Office of International Programs.

Thomas Reich, first secretary of the U.S. Embassy, Tokyo, will speak on "Practicing Foreign Policy in East Asia" at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Cameron Hall auditorium. He will lead a panel discussion at 9:30 a.m. Friday in the University Center Ballroom.

Reich, a former resident of Greensboro and Wilmington, received his master of arts degree in international politics from Georgetown University. After teaching English in Japan, he joined the Foreign Service. He has held various assignments in the State Department's East Asia and Pacific Bureau and the Politico-Military Affairs Bureau and was the political-military officer at the American Consulate General in Okinawa.

The last lecture in the series features Jonathan Spence, Yale University's Sterling Professor of History, who will discuss "China's Future: Problems and Opportunities" at 7:30 p.m. April 30 in Kenan Auditorium. There will also be a panel discussion at 9:30 a.m. May 1 in the University Center Ballroom.



Spence

Spence specializes in the history of China since the 16th century. He is a native of England and was co-chairman of the first Yale Faculty Group that traveled to China in 1974. He has been a visiting professor at the University of Peking and an honorary professor at the University of Nanjing.

These free lectures and panel discussions are supported in part by Glaxo Wellcome and the Wilmington Sister City Commission.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Computer-based Testing

The Computer-based Testing Center is open and administering national exams to UNCW students and the community. Faculty and staff should direct students interested in taking the general GRE, GMAT, APICS and PRAXIS to the UNCW National Testing Program, located on the second floor of Westside Hall. Beginning this fall, the TOEFL will be offered.

The testing program continues to administer pencil and paper versions of graduate school admissions exams. However, computer-based testing may provide test-takers advantages over conventional test administration including: private and individualized testing facilities, convenient registration and scheduling, and immediate scoring and reporting.

For more information or registration, call ext. 7444.

Big Band Concert

The UNCW Big Band, under the direction of Frank Bongiorno, will perform at 8 p.m. Friday in Kenan Auditorium. Admission for faculty/staff is $2. General admission is $4.

Physics Lecture

Estela Blaisten-Barojas, professor at the Institute for Computational Sciences, George Mason University, will present the lecture "Molecular Dynamics Simulation of Atomic and Molecular Clusters" at 2 p.m. April 24 in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

50th Fact

On April 1, 1958, a special meeting of the Wilmington College Board of Trustees passed a resolution requesting the New Hanover County Commissioners to provide $600,000 through the issuance of bonds for the college to purchase land and construct buildings for a new campus.

Seahawk Club Scholarship Benefit

A benefit for the Seahawk Club scholarship drive will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. April 30 at Jungle Rapids, 5320 Oleander Drive. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Ticket purchasers will enjoy unlimited miniature golf, go-karts, laser tag and the kid's jungle climbing area. For more information, call 791-0666.

Reporting on Culture for the New York Times

Bruce Weber, national cultural correspondent for the New York Times, will present "Covering Culture for the New York Times" at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. This free lecture is sponsored by the English Department.

Fulbright Symposium

The symposium "Internationalization of Higher Education" sponsored by the North Carolina chapter of the Fulbright Association will be held April 24 and 25 at UNCW. Thomas Russell, director of Instructional Higher Education at NCSU, and Jeanne Smoot, English professor at NCSU, will present a symposium session at 3:30 p.m. April 24 in the Randall Library auditorium. For more information, contact Bob George at ext. 3611 or Gary Faulkner at ext. 3795.

Graduate Thesis Defense

Jennifer L. Dearolf will defend her thesis "Development of Axial Locomotor Muscles in Bottlenose Dolphins" at 2 p.m. Friday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Noon Concerts

The UNCW Saxophone Ensemble will perform music of Mussorgsky, Mozart and others at noon April 23; the UNCW Marimba Ensemble will perform music of Joplin, Tchaikowsky, Khachaturian and others at noon April 30. Both concerts, sponsored by the Music Department, will be in Kenan Hall's Claude Howell Gallery.

Women's Conference

The second annual retreat for women entitled "Whole Woman New Millenium, Celebrating Our Journeys" will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. April 25 at the University Center. The retreat will feature a keynote address by Rebecca Ruggles Radcliff, a national speaker, consultant on women's issues and author of Dance Naked in Your Living Room and Enlightened Eating: Understanding and Changing Your Relationship with Food.

Other speakers and topics include: "Surely Our History Is More Complicated Than This? The Myth of Women's Struggles Against Male Oppression" by Kathleen Berkeley, history; "Honoring Our Foremothers" by Etta Breit, Counseling Center; "The Trouble with Secrets" by Janet Ellerby, English; "Beyond Ageism, Ripening in the Later Years" by Barbara Waxman; and "Millenium Mothers: What Are We Learning" by Dee Casey, Counseling Center.

The conference is sponsored by Student Development Services, the Division of Student Affairs and the Chancellor's Advisory Committee on Human Relations. Conference assistance is provided by the Division for Public Service and Extended Education. Cost to attend is $30 and includes lunch. For more information, contact Yael Gold at ext. 3746. To register, contact the Division for Public Service and Extended Education at ext. 3195.

Women of Achievement Awards Dinner

The 14th annual YWCA Women of Achievement Awards dinner will be at 6 p.m. May 14 at Wagoner Hall. May 1 is the deadline for nominations for Certificates of Recognition. Nomination forms are available at human resources.

Staff Training

Defensive Driving, 8 a.m. to noon, April 21.

Refer to the Staff Training and Development Booklet for registration information or call ext. 3274.

TIMEQUEST

A Life-Enhancing Time-Management System

April 29, 1998
8:30am-4:30pm, Human Resources Training Room
Cost: $125

SEMINAR DESCRIPTION

The full-day TimeQuest seminar provides the skills and tools to help you balance the demands on your time, focus on your priorities, and accomplish what matters most in both your personal life and professional life. You'll receive a complete Franklin Day Planner system as part of the seminar.

AGENDA

- Understanding Time Management
  - Basic Element of Time—An Event
  - Key to Time Management—Event Control
- Understanding Control
  - Events Over Which You Have No Control
  - Events Over Which You Have Total Control
  - Effects of Conditioning
- Effects of Control
  - Productivity Tri-Quation
- Planning: The Key To Control
  - Five Steps in Effective Planning
- Prioritizing: Ordering Events
- Productivity Pyramid
  - Values, Long-Range Goals, Intermediate Steps, Daily Tasks
- Identifying Values
- Setting Long-Range Goals
- Leaving the Comfort Zone
- Intermediate Steps
- Today: The Critical Moment
- Using The Franklin Day Planner System
- The New Information Control System
- Defending Your Productivity Pyramid
- Controlling Interruptions
- Overcoming Procrastination

TO REGISTER, PLEASE CALL BRENDA JORDAN AT EXT. 3274.

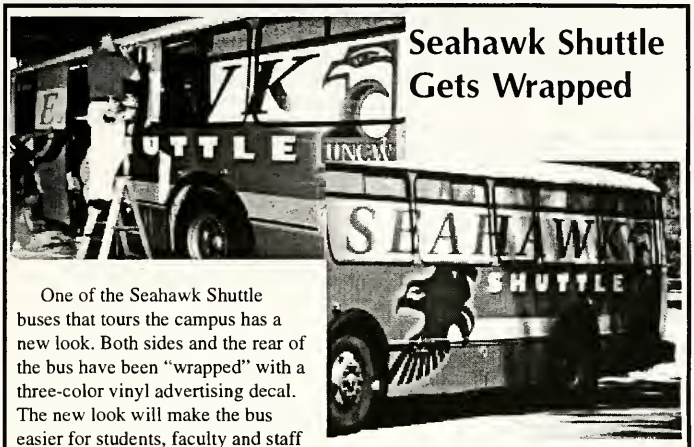
Curtain Call Club Productions

The Curtain Call Club in the Department of Art and Theatre will present two productions: Baby with the Bathwater by Christopher Durange will be performed at 8 p.m. tonight through Sunday in Kenan Hall's SRO Theatre. There will be a 3 p.m. matinee on Sunday. The production is student directed by Trip Heeks.

The Bald Soprano by Eugene Ionesco will be performed at 8 p.m. April 24 in the SRO Theatre. Additional performances will be at 5 and 8:30 p.m. April 25 and 3 p.m April 26. The production is directed by Chester Loeffler-Bell.

Tickets will be available at the door only. General admission is $3 and $2 for senior citizens. For more information, call Don Hawley at ext. 3442.

Seahawk Shuttle Gets Wrapped



One of the Seahawk Shuttle buses that tours the campus has a new look. Both sides and the rear of the bus have been "wrapped" with a three-color vinyl advertising decal. The new look will make the bus easier for students, faculty and staff to identify said Dick Scott, assistant vice chancellor for business affairs. He said the second bus which tours the campus would eventually have the new look. The vinyl wrap is transparent to passengers.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

William Cleary, earth sciences, co-presented two papers at the Northeastern section meeting of the Geological Society of America in Portland, Maine. The first paper "Sand Resources on Hard-bottom Dominated Shorefaces in Southeastern North Carolina" was copresented by graduate students Carl Johnsen and Tara Marden. The second paper "Holden Beach, N.C.: A Transgressive Barrier Along the Low Energy, Sand-starved Flank of Cape: Erosion History and Mitigation" was co-presented with graduate students Marden, Maryellen Sault, and Johnsen. At the same meeting graduate student Maureen Jones co-presented "Naticid Gastropods as Prey - Testing Vermeijan Escalation with Examples from the Fox Hills Formation" with J. Mark Erickson from St. Lawrence University.

John Rack, music, had his article "Timpani Techniques for High School Students" published in The Instrumentalist. He hosted the N.C. Music Educators Collegiate-Level Conference and presented the session "Training Healthy Performers." He also performed Darius Milhaud's "Concerto for Percussion" with the Wilmington Symphony.

Mark Williams, financial aid, received $4,650 for his project to provide educational training to high school guidance counselors with regard to financial aid information.

Mike Mallin, CMSR, gave the presentation "Geography and Biological Responses of North Carolina Estuaries" at the meeting of the Southeastern Estuarine Research Society in Athens, Ga. His co-authors were Matt McIver, Chris Shank, Doug Parsons and Scott Ensign, CMSR. At the same meeting Parsons presented "Spatial and Temporal Water Quality Patterns in Five Tidal Creeks in Southeastern North Carolina" with co-authors Ensign, Mallin, McIver and Tracey Wheeler, CMSR.

Amy Zeng, production and decision sciences, attended the 1998 Production and Operations Management Society annual meeting held in Santa Fe. She presented two research papers "An Integrated Optimization Procedure for Managing Inbound Movements" and "Economic Plans for On-line Feedback Quality Control" and chaired the session "Logistics and Distribution."

Elizabeth Hines, earth sciences, presented her paper "Dixie Rising: The Deep South in the Modern American Mind" at the annual national meeting of the Association of American Geographers in Boston.

Ned H. Martin, chemistry, co-authored the poster "Molecular Dynamics of C-60 in Chlorobenzene" with A. A. Rodriguez and Mervat Issa of East Carolina University, who presented the poster at the national meeting of the American Chemical Society in Dallas.

Deborah Haywood, wellness services, served on a review panel of Small Business Innovative Research grant proposals for the Human Development and Aging Section of the Department of Health and Human Services in Washington, D.C. The purpose of SBIR is to promote technological innovation with the American small business community and create jobs, augment industrial productivity, increase competition and spur economic growth. Additionally, this program fosters and encourages the participation of socially and economically disadvantaged small business concerns as well as addresses the concerns of women-owned small businesses.

Paula Kamenish, English, attended the bi-annual meeting of the South Atlantic States Association for Asian and African Studies in Raleigh. The meeting's seminar on Vietnam featured Dana Sachs, English, as a discussion leader. Kamenish is the executive director of SASASAAS, whose secretariat is at UNCW through the year 2000. For more information on the Vietnam seminar, future seminar topics or how to take advantage of SASASAAS travel to Asia programs, e-mail: kamenishp.

Wade Watanabe, CMSR, received $7,000 for his project "Development of a Controlled Environment Flounder Broodfish System at UNCW for Collaborative Studies on Reproduction and Larval Culture."

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Reminders on Using State Vehicles

Drivers of state motor fleet vehicles are requested to park personal vehicles in parking lot AA, outside the exit gate to the physical plant/motor pool parking area. For night returns on state vehicles, park the leased vehicle in the same area and turn packets into University Police.

Suggestions Sought for Phone Directory

Comments or suggestions to improve the quality and resourcefulness of the 1998-99 edition of the university telephone directory should be sent to Diane Billings at the e-mail address billingsd.

Lunch Hour Meditation

The Counseling Center is sponsoring a weekly meditation hour for faculty and staff from noon to 1 p.m. April 23 to May 28 in the University Union, Room 210. For more information, contact the instructor Etta Breit at ext. 3746. Please do not bring food.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Maureen Madio, printing services, to help her avoid unpaid absence during her maternity leave. Send vacation leave donations to human resources, or call Willina at ext. 3006.

Receptions

A farewell reception for Maggie Strickland, student accounts manager, will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday in Alderman Hall, Room 215.

A reception celebrating the marriage of Judy Gray, accounting, and Arnold Siko, bookstore, will be held at 4 p.m. today in Alderman Hall, Room 211.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	Until Filled
98E48 Development Director	April 20
98-115 Office Assistant III	April 24
98-116 Microcomputing Supp. Tech. Computing Supp. Tech. II	April 17
98-117 Housekeepers	April 17
98-119 Recycling Facilitator	April 24
98-120 Marine Mammal Aerial Observer Research Tech. I	April 24
98-121 Police Officer I	April 24

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Bookstore Specials for Secretary's Day

Secretary's Day is Wednesday. The bookstore is offering the following specials: a Secretary's Day mug filled with six ounces of Jelly Bellies and balloons or a UNCW bear with balloons. Both specials are $7.95. Custom-decorated cakes are also available. A nine-inch round cake with six balloons is $16.50. A 9x12-inch cake with six balloons is $23.50.

CAMPUS EVENTS . . . IN BRIEF

Lecture: Wendy Roth, senior producer for ABC News' "Good Morning America" will give an insider's look at the production of a nationally broadcast news program, 1 p.m. Friday, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. Sponsored by the English Department.

Golf Tournament: 8 a.m. Monday, Cape Golf and Racquet Club. Sponsored by the UNCW Communication Studies Alumni Chapter. For more information, call Mike Arnold at ext. 2684.

Seminar: "Changing Work in a Changing World," by Rebecca Porterfield, Cameron School of Business, 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Howard Johnson Plaza Hotel, Market Street. The cost is $20 per person. For more information, contact Catherine Morris at ext. 3736.

Reading: Bob Reiss will read from his fiction and non-fiction works, 8 p.m. Tuesday, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium. Sponsored by the English Department.

Lectures: "Provence," by Katia Campbell and "Insolent Beauty . . . Art and Artists of the French Riviera," by Jim McNab, 7 p.m. April 23, Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium.

"The Construction of the European Union and the Future of Europe," by Jean-Pierre Derisbourg, French diplomat and economist, 6:30 p.m. April 27, Cameron Hall auditorium.

Celebration: Inauguration of UNC President Molly Broad, 7 p.m. April 29, Hawk's Nest. Group viewing of the ceremony on big-screen televisions.

Nature Walk: Curious to learn more about migrating birds? Join ecologist Will Hon, 8 a.m. May 2, Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve.

Book Sale

The New Hanover County Public Library will hold a used book sale from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. April 30, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 1 and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 2. Members of the Friends of the Library can attend a special preview sale from noon to 8 p.m. April 29. For more information about the Friends of the Library, call 341-4389.

Treasure Chest Sale

Friends of the Library/Northeast Branch is seeking donations of gently used household treasures to sell at a "Giant Treasure Chest" sale May 16. Donations will be accepted from 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays through May 9. Proceeds will be used to renovate and furnish the former Wilsons grocery store building at Landfall Center, which is the site for the library's northeast branch.

Reminder: Submission deadline for the April 23 eight-page edition is 5 p.m. Monday.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement Vol. XXVII, No.37 April 23, 1998

University, Community Benefits from Rock Collection Donation

A collection of approximately 10,000 rocks, minerals and fossils donated to the Department of Earth Sciences will be dedicated at 3 p.m. May 1 in DeLoach Hall.

The collection, valued at more than $40,000, was donated to UNCW by Fred and Arline Porter in honor of their daughter Linda, a 1991 graduate of the Watson School of Education.

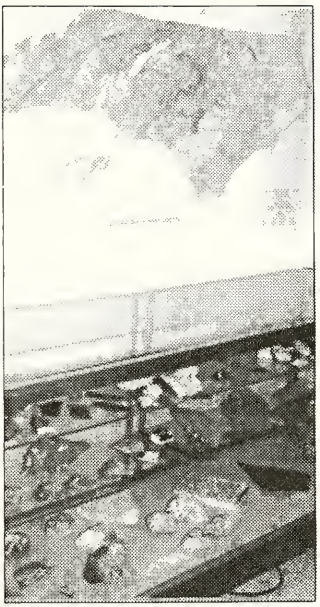
Patricia Kelley, chair of the Department of Earth Sciences, said the collection was remarkable for the variety of rocks and minerals represented. "Some specimens are comparable to those displayed at the Smithsonian Institution."

The Porter collection will be used by the department as a teaching aid and an educational resource for the community.

"The display of North Carolina rocks, minerals and fossils will be of interest to local and regional schools and community groups. The Department of Earth Sciences encourages the public to take advantage of this resource," said Kelley.

In addition to the collection, the Porters donated nine display cases. The Porters, who reside in Long Beach, acquired the collection while living in western North Carolina. "My original idea was to display the collection in my gallery, Earth Tones Art Gallery in Tryon," said Arline Porter, who sometimes uses stones for wire-wrapped jewelry. Instead, the Porters moved to Oak Island, where they operated Earth Stones, a rock shop, until last year. After closing the shop, Mrs. Porter said the couple decided to donate the collection to UNCW. "Our motivation in originally acquiring the collection was to share the rocks as a learning experience, so it seemed fitting for the collection to go to UNCW."

Overseeing the collection's display is curator David Blake, associate professor of geology. Transporting the collection to the university was a big job, Blake said. "The members of the Geology Club were instrumental in moving, unpacking, cataloguing and displaying the collection."



This display case, one of nine, features a part of the Porter collection.

Patton McDowell Named Interim Vice Chancellor for University Advancement

Chancellor James R. Leutze has named Patton McDowell, executive director of the Seahawk Club, interim vice chancellor for university advancement effective July 1.

He will replace Kevin C. Jacques who will step down effective June 30.

McDowell, who came to UNCW in January of 1997, has led the Seahawk Club volunteers in their best fund-raising year ever. Their goal this year was $400,000 and they achieved $550,000 in pledges. The previous year's level was $289,000. Under McDowell's guidance, membership in the Seahawk Club increased from 530 to 907, and the board of directors of the Seahawk Club now numbers 30 leaders.

In addition to his work with the Seahawk Club, he launched Project 2000 to raise $3-5 million for athletics facility enhancements. To date, more than $500,000 has been committed.

In accepting the interim vice chancellorship, McDowell commented that he was honored to be asked to serve in this position. "I want to continue to help the university move in the positive direction it's already heading," he said. "My work with the public in athletics fund-raising has convinced me there is enormous potential and support out there for UNC Wilmington.

McDowell earned a bachelor's degree in English education from UNC Chapel Hill in 1989 where he was a Morehead Scholar. He is a graduate of Northeastern High School in Elizabeth City. McDowell and his wife Cindy have two daughters.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Inauguration of UNC President Molly Broad

UNCW will celebrate the inauguration of UNC President Molly Broad at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the University Union Hawk's Nest. There will be a light supper followed by a program featuring James McGowan, philosophy and religion, and Janet Ellerby, English. Large screen televisions will broadcast the formal ceremonies being held in Raleigh. Following the inauguration ceremony, the UNCW Jazz Combo, under the direction of Frank Bongiorno, will perform during a reception starting at 9:30 p.m. on the NCSU campus.

As part of the inaugural activities, a display of student artwork will be exhibited through May 16. It features the artwork of four UNCW senior art majors. The student art entries were coordinated by Donald Furst, art and theatre.

Physics Lecture

Estela Blaisten-Barojas, professor at the Institute for Computational Sciences, George Mason University, will present the lecture "Molecular Dynamics Simulation of Atomic and Molecular Clusters" at 2 p.m. Friday in DeLoach Hall, Room 212. Refreshments will be served at 1:45 p.m.

50th Fact

On April 14, 1947, the New Hanover County Board of Education appointed a study committee to assist in the establishment of Wilmington College. Committee member H.M. Roland, superintendent of schools, studied a number of successful community colleges to determine key factors essential to their success which could be incorporated into the formulation of the structure and policies of Wilmington College. The superintendent of schools and community colleges in Elmira, N.Y., served as a consultant and assisted Roland in developing recommendations to the board of education.

Sigma Xi Meeting

UNCW's chapter of Sigma Xi, the scientific research society, will meet at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the new Science Building, Room 134. Joann Burkholder from NCSU will present "Impacts of Pfiesteria and Toxic Pfiesteria-like Dinoflagellates on Fisheries and Human Health."

Anyone interested in joining Sigma Xi should contact Ann Pabst at ext. 7266 or Ileana Clavijo at ext. 3472.

Mathematical Seminar

Robert Bryant from the Department of Mathematics, Duke University, will talk on "Finsler Geometry, Old and New" at 3 p.m. Friday in Bear Hall, Room 206. Bryant is a world-renowned mathematician who is also J. M. Kreps Professor of Mathematics at Duke. Refreshments will be served.

Toplin on History Channel

Bob Toplin, history, appears as commentator for the movie Jim Thorpe, All American on the History Channel which airs at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. today. In addition, Toplin provides commentary for the film The Battle of the Bulge, which airs at 9 p.m. May 1 on the History Channel.

Graduate Thesis Defenses

Thomas J. Perrault, Jr. will defend his thesis "Effects of Fibroblast Growth Factors and Prostaglandin E_2 on Chondrogensis" at 2 p.m. Monday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Tim Savidge will defend his thesis "Teleconnections Between El Nino/ Southern Oscillation Events and River Flow in the Southeastern United States" at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Budget Office Phone Extension Changes

The Budget Office has the following changes to phone extensions: Doris Dawson is at ext. 7407; Dianne Kelley, budget's new employee, is at ext. 3914.

"Treasure Coast" Encore

UNC-TV will air an encore presentation of UNCW's award-winning documentary "Treasure Coast: The Heritage of the North Carolina Shore" at 7 p.m. Sunday. The film, which aired originally in September, is narrated by Chancellor James R. Leutze and scripted by Philip Gerard, director of the Creative Writing Program.

Art Show

Marcus Johnson, English, has an art exhibition at Barnes and Noble.

Bridges Class

UNC Chapel Hill's Division of Continuing Education is recruiting members for its Bridges VI class of 1998. The Bridges class provides women faculty and senior administrative staff from North Carolina colleges and universities an opportunity to identify, understand and move into leadership roles in the academy. Application deadline is May 8.

Thirty-six women will be selected to participate in the class which will take place from Sept. 11 to Dec. 9. Weekly sessions will be held Wednesday evenings and Saturdays. The cost of the program is $1,300. For more information, contact UNCCH's Division of Continuing Education at 919/962-2643.

Appreciation Luncheon for Retired Teachers

The Consortium for the Advancement of Public Education and the Watson School of Education are inviting retired teachers from 14 counties to attend a luncheon from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday in the University Center Ballroom.

The program will highlight the changing role of technology in education and new regulations for teaching in North Carolina. For more information, contact Libbie Schaffer at ext. 4173. Reservations must be made by Friday.

Communique Editor, Ext. 7223

Seahawk Club Scholarship Benefit

A benefit for the Seahawk Club scholarship drive will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. April 30 at Jungle Rapids, 5320 Oleander Drive. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Ticket purchasers will enjoy unlimited miniature golf, go-karts, laser tag and the kid's jungle climbing area. For more information, call 791-0666.

Fulbright Symposium

The symposium "Internationalization of Higher Education" sponsored by the North Carolina Chapter of the Fulbright Association, will be held Friday and Saturday at UNCW. Thomas Russell, director of Instructional Higher Education at NCSU, and Jeanne Smoot, English professor at NCSU, will present a symposium session at 3:30 p.m. Friday in the Randall Library auditorium. For more information, contact Bob George at ext. 3611 or Gary Faulkner at ext. 3795.

Noon Concerts

The UNCW Saxophone Ensemble will perform music of Mussorgsky, Mozart and others at noon today. The UNCW Marimba Ensemble will perform music of Joplin, Tchaikowsky, Khachaturian and others at noon April 30. Both concerts, sponsored by the Music Department, will be in Kenan Hall's Claude Howell Gallery.

Celebrating France

Katia Campbell will present the lecture "Provence," and Jim McNab will discuss "Insolent Beauty . . . Art and Artists of the French Riviera" at 7 p.m. tonight in Morton Hall's Bryan Auditorium.

French diplomat and economist Jean-Pierre Derisbourg will lecture on "The Construction of the European Union and the Future of Europe" at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the Cameron Hall auditorium.

For more information, call the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures at ext. 3340 or the Office of International Programs at ext. 3859.

Women's Conference

The second annual retreat for women entitled "Whole Woman New Millenium, Celebrating Our Journeys" will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday at the University Center. The retreat will feature a keynote address by Rebecca Ruggles Radcliff, a national speaker, consultant on women's issues and author of Dance Naked in Your Living Room and Enlightened Eating: Understanding and Changing Your Relationship with Food. The conference is sponsored by Student Development Services, the Division of Student Affairs and the Chancellor's Advisory Committee on Human Relations. Conference assistance is provided by the Division for Public Service and Extended Education.

Cost to attend is $30 and includes lunch. For more information, contact Yael Gold at ext. 3746. To register, contact the Division for Public Service and Extended Education at ext. 3195.

Women of Achievement Awards Dinner

The 14th annual YWCA Women of Achievement Awards dinner will be at 6 p.m. May 14 at Wagoner Hall. May 1 is the deadline for nominations for Certificates of Recognition. Nomination forms are available at human resources.

Ev-Henwood Nature Walk

Curious to learn more about migrating birds? Join ecologist Will Hon at 8 a.m. May 2 for a nature walk through UNCW's Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve to learn about migrating birds and their habitats.

The walk will begin in the picnic area of the preserve, located at 6150 Rock Creek Road near Town Creek in Brunswick County. Participants should bring binoculars and insect repellent.

To reach the UNCW Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve, follow the signs from the intersection of U.S. Highway 17 and Old Town Creek Road about 10 miles south of Wilmington. For more information, call 910/962-3197 or 910/253-6066.

Faculty and Staff Musicians Wanted

Faculty and staff members who would enjoy playing an instrument and/or singing at a faculty/staff/student pre-exam jam from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. April 30 on the University Commons should call Cathy Birmingham at ext. 3043.

Seahawk Plates Are Cruising the Road

More than 300 North Carolina cars are now sporting the new UNCW Seahawk license plates. The specialized plates are a promotional effort spearheaded by the UNCW Alumni Association and support student scholarships. The UNCW license plate costs $25 in addition to the regular motor vehicle registration fee. The alumni association receives $15 from every plate application to fund its scholarship program which awards 11 scholarships annually. For more information, call ext. 2682.

Postal Reminders

Friday is the last day for mass departmental mailings for distribution to student post office boxes. Extra intercampus envelopes should be sent to the post office for redistribution.

Curtain Call Club Production

The Curtain Call Club in the Department of Art and Theatre will present The Bald Soprano by Eugene Ionesco at 8 p.m. Friday in the Kenan Hall SRO Theatre. Additional performances will be at 5 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 3 p.m Sunday. The production is directed by Chester Loeffler-Bell.

Tickets will be available at the door only. General admission is $3 and $2 for senior citizens. For more information, call Don Hawley at ext. 3442.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

UNCW Strikers Bowling League End Season

The UNCW Strikers Bowling League ended April 16. The eight-team league began last August through the efforts of Paula Greene and Susan Chinnici from the registrar's office. Greene said she thought bowling with co-workers would be a way to meet fellow university employees and have fun at the same time.

The league bowled 27 weeks at 5:45 p.m. Thursdays at Cardinal Lanes. Greene and Chinnici, described UNCW Strikers as "a fun league with much hidden talent"; however, they added "some of those bowlers meant business."

The first-place winner was the Killer Bees. Team members were Gennie Beatty, Becky Chilcote, Phillip Brown, advancement, and Herb Beatty. In second place was Perfect Spares comprised of Vicky Harvin, Frank Brown, Anthony Chance and Neal Josey. Three Strikes and A Spare finished in third place. Team members were Terri Joynes, advancement, Charles Sanders, purchasing, Bill Joynes and Myrtle Sanders.

The fourth- through eighth-place teams were: No Drive-bys, comprised of Sabrina Burnett, Sissy Bland, Liz Johnson, accounting, and Sam Chance, information technology; the Amateurs, with team members Linda Ferrell, enrollment affairs, Brenda Teague, admissions, Mike Abernathy, financial aid and Larry Ferrell; No Fear, with members George Singletary, Treja Evans, and Evelyn Evans, postal services; Two for Two with Paula Greene, registrar, Tommy Guinn, physical plant, Helen Saulney, minority affairs and Gregory Greene; and Just for Fun with Gail Joy, accounting, Susan Chinnici and Blain Jones, registrar, and Jack Fancher.

In addition to team awards, individual women's and men's efforts were also recognized.

Liz Johnson and Larry Ferrell received awards for highest individual average. Susan Chinnici and Frank Brown won awards for highest single game. Sabrina Burdett and Sam Chance won awards for highest series. Becky Chilcote and Blain Jones received awards for most improved averages.

Greene said she expects the league to return in August. It will be open to all university employees.

East Asia Lecture Series

Jonathan Spence, Yale University's Sterling Professor of History, is the final speaker of the three-part East Asia Lecture Series. He will discuss "China's Future: Problems and Opportunities" at 7:30 p.m. April 30 in Kenan Auditorium. There will also be a panel discussion at 9:30 a.m. May 1 in the University Center Ballroom.

Spence specializes in the history of China since the 16th century. He is a native of England and was co-chairman of the first Yale Faculty Group that traveled to China in 1974. He has been a visiting professor at the University of Peking and an honorary professor at the University of Nanjing.

These free lectures and panel discussions were supported in part by Glaxo Wellcome and the Wilmington Sister City Commission.

Texas A&M Press Publishes History Professor's Book

Texas A&M University Press is publishing Life Among the Texas Indians: The WPA Narratives by David La Vere, history.

The book is a selection of remembrances collected in the 1930s by government workers in Oklahoma. The Works Progress Administration (WPA) employees interviewed native Americans from various tribes, as well as white settlers and former slaves, many of whom had lived in close proximity to these Indians. The transcribed WPA interviews filled more than 100 bound volumes, available only at the Indian Archives of the Oklahoma Historical Society in Oklahoma City.

"I wanted to allow some measure of the Indian voice to be heard," La Vere writes in the book's preface. "Actual documented words of Indian peoples from the late 19th and early 20th centuries are relative rare."

In conducting research for the book, La Vere discovered relatively few narratives were from Indians who had lived in Texas. Cherokees, Choctaws, Seminoles and Creeks, originally from southeastern states, had a strong presence in the narratives unlike traditional Texas tribes such as Comanches, Kiowas, Wichitas, Tonkawas, Lipan Apaches and Caddos. Most of the remembrances concern the years from the 1870s to the 1930s.

COMMUNITY ITEMS

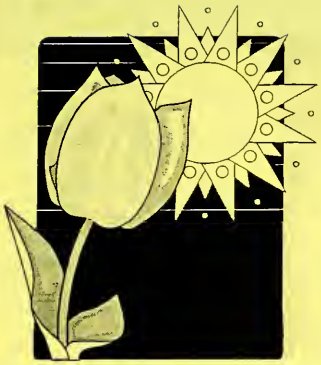
St. John's Museum Hosting Art Exhibit

St. John's Museum is hosting two major traveling exhibits featuring paintings from the North Carolina Museum of Art. The exhibitions will include 37 well-known landscape paintings and portraits and will be on display from April 25 through June 28.

Shag Club Seeks Artist to Design New Logo

The Cape Fear Shag Club is offering a $100 cash prize to the designer of a new club logo. The club's logo committee will narrow entries to the best five designs. The winning design will be chosen by ballot at the club's June meeting. Entries are due May 17. For more information, contact Sue Van Note at 256-4114.

This is recyclable.



SPRING CAREER SERIES

A series of 30-minute seminars for students and faculty on topics important in today's work world.

Getting What Employers Want

Getting the skills and experiences thot today's employers wont.

Monday, April 20, 1998, 2pm
201 University Union
Audrey Smith, Appalachian State Univ

Careers in The Fine Arts

Wednesday, April 22, 1998, 2pm
104 University Center
Zach Zeuhkle, Sarah Lawrence College (NY) & Atlanta College of Art

Image is Everything: Making a Good Impression Your First Week on the Job

Friday, April 24, 1998, 2pm
201 University Union
Carrie Zahm, Clinch Valley College of the Univ of VA

Researching & Applying to Graduate Schools

Monday, April 27, 1998, 1pm
201 University Union
Jamie Murray, VA Poly Inst & State Univ

Job Search Strategies for Education Majors

Wednesday, April 29, 1998, 2pm
201 University Union
Diane Sledden, Northern Illinois Univ.

The Quick & Dirty Guide to Job Interviewing

The new STAR model for interviews and cover letters.

Friday, May 1, 1998, 2pm
104 University Center
Lori Ann Varela, Grinnell College (IA)

Majoring in Success: Preparing NOW for the New Job Market

Monday, May 4, 1998, 2pm
201 University Union
Sherry Morris, Austin Comm College (TX)

CAREER SERVICES

Division of Student Affairs • University of North Carolina at Wilmington
104/106 University Union • 601 South College Road • Wilmington, NC 28403-3297
910.962.3174 • fax 910.962.4257 • email: careersers@uncwil.edu
WWW: http://www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/career

Focus on Faculty and Staff

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Jack Hall, earth sciences, was co-leader of the field trip "The Late Devonian (Frasnian-Famennian) Extinction Event in the Catskill Delta of Virginia and West Virginia" with Tom Rossbach of Western Carolina University. The field trip was sponsored by the Paleontological Society. Hall also chaired the session "Sequence Stratigraphic and Biostratigraphic Applications to the Appalachians" sponsored by the Paleontological Society and the Society for Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists. In addition, he co-authored the papers "New? Trace Fossils from the Ordovician-Silurina Clastic Sequence of West Virginia and Maryland" and "Conodont Biostratigraphy and the Timing of Sea-level Events in the Middle-upper Ordovician Reedsville Formation of West Virginia" with Richard Diecchio of George Mason University.

Richard A. Laws and Michael S. Smith, earth sciences, had their research article "Tracking the Modern Geoscience Undergraduate: A University of North Carolina Case Study" published in the Journal of College Science Teaching, vol. 27 (5), March/April 1998.

Michael S. Smith, earth sciences, had his research paper "Petrographic and Mineral Characterization of Thom's Creek Plain Sherds" published in the Chicora Foundation research vol. 52 Excavation at a Portion of the Secessionville archaeological site (38CH1456), James Island, Charleston County, South Carolina.

Stephen Kinsey, biological sciences, received $5,000 for his project "Phosphorus Compound Distributions Along Salinity Gradients in Pristine and Impacted Tidal Wetland Sediments."

Lindsay Pentolfe Aegerter, English, delivered the paper "Hybrid Subjects, Multicultural Selves" at the 24th African Literature Association conference in Austin, Texas.

Len Lecci, psychology, gave the invited address "Motivational and Perceptual Markers of Adult Hypochondriacal Tendencies" to the Department of Psychology at Duke University.

Robert Argenbright, earth sciences, presented the paper "Vanguard of 'Socialist Colonization': The Krasnyi Vostok Expedition of 1920" at the 94th annual meeting of the Association of American Geographers in Boston.

W. Frank Ainsley, earth sciences, presented the poster session "The Immigrant Farm Village as a Vernacular Form" at the annual meeting of the Association of American Geographers in Boston. He is also co-author of the new textbook North Carolina, U.S.A. published by Silver Burdett Ginn.

Brooks Dodson, English, read the paper "A New Direction in the Millenium: Tim and the Literary Representation of Intellectual Disability" at the annual conference of the College English Association in San Antonio.

Pat Lerch, sociology and anthropology, delivered the paper "Representing Ourselves to You" at the Tourism and Representation Section of the Southern Anthropology Society's 32nd annual meeting in Wilmington. She also chaired the session, in which Joyce Morden, sociology and anthropology, presented the paper "Cultural Tourism: A Native American Cultural Center and Museum Takes the Lead." At the same meeting, Midori Albert Baptista, anthropology, read the paper "The Impact of Environmental Stress on Epiphyseal Union of Nubian Teenage and Young Adult Skeletons." R. D. McCall, sociology and anthropology, and D. Frieron, Jr., mathematical sciences, read their paper "Two Genes of Major Effect on High Altitude Acclimation Localize to Chromosomes 14 and 16 in the Mouse." James Sabella, anthropology, delivered the paper "Grassroots Development Strategies in the Azuero Peninsula of Panama" in the key symposium. Anthropology student Julie Williams presented her paper "The Celebration of Dia de Los Difuntos in Lumbisi." Several anthropology students volunteered their time at the conference.

Jocelyn Gaudet, earth sciences, presented "Turbulence at Tidal Creek Confluences" at the Association of American Geographers national meeting in Boston.

Paul Thayer, earth sciences, presented the poster "Heavy Mineral Provenance of Dunbarton Basin Deposits, S.C.," at the southeast section meeting of the Geological Society of America in Charleston, W.Va. It was co-authored by Mitchell Hall, a former graduate student. Thayer also presented the paper "Petrology of Upper Cretaceous Terrigenous-Carbonate Strata, Southeast Georgia Coastal Plain" co-authored with Jim Miller of the U.S. Geological Survey. Additionally, he chaired the sedimentology session.

Patricia Kelley, earth sciences, presented the paper "Taphonomic Grade of a Pleistocene Mollusc Assemblage from the James City Formation, Lee Creek Mine, N. C." at the southeast section meeting of the Geological Society of America in Charleston, W.Va. It was co-authored by former graduate student Heather Fowler and current graduate students Jacquie Hilterman, Amber Huntoon, Maureen Jones and Mario Maningas.

John Huntsman, earth sciences, presented the paper "Preliminary Structural Transect in the Eastern Raleigh 100,000 Quadrangle, N. C." at the southeast section meeting of the Geological Society of America in Charleston, W.Va. He also co-chaired the technical session "Structure and Tectonics."

Virginia Adams, nursing, chaired the interest group "Collaboration Between Education and Practice" at the American Association of Colleges of Nursing in Washington, D.C. In addition, she chaired the Southern Regional Education Board's Council of Collegiate Education for Nursing Task Force for School Health and convened the regional conference "Collaboration for Healthy Children in Schools: Exemplars in Nursing Education and Practice" in Atlanta. Adams was elected president of the N.C. Nursing Deans Council. She also received $10,000 for her project "Partners for Pathways to Improving Health in At-risk Families" and $4,700 for her project "AHEC Site Development."

Retiring Nursing Professor Still Has Health Care Mission in Haiti

One of Helen Faller's missions, preparing new generations of health care professionals as an associate professor in the School of Nursing, is coming to a close when she retires at the end of the current academic year. Her other mission, in Haiti where she works to improve health care conditions and increase the awareness of early intervention with children, is a continuing concern.

Faller's involvement in Haiti began five years ago through her church, First Presbyterian. A fellow church member, Dr. Fred Butler, a local ophthalmologist, traveled to Haiti to conduct cataract surgeries in Leogane, Haiti, and needed a replacement scrub nurse. Believing that service to others was integral to the mission of a church, Faller decided to volunteer and has returned on several occasions. She watched as Butler's program grew into a clinic and he taught Haitians to refract and make lenses.

As a nurse with more than 40 years experience working with children, Faller said she knew the importance of vision screenings. On her trip to Haiti in the fall of 1996, she began vision screenings of school children. During a three-day period she saw more than 200 children, referring those with problems to Butler's clinic.

During her trips to Haiti, Faller saw that her background as a health care educator could better serve the medical mission of her church. When she returned for a week in January, it was with the goal of beginning a program to train Haitians to conduct vision screenings themselves. Faller brought eye charts, tape measures and, through an interpreter, taught two Haitian schoolteachers to conduct E chart eye examinations, interpret the results, record the information and refer children to Butler's clinic. "On my next visit, I hope to find they have instituted further screenings. I plan to establish a network of colleagues to encourage and develop the screening programs in Leogane," said Faller.

Professor Helen Faller, center, assists Gerald Toussaint, a secondary school teacher in Haiti, conduct an eye sreening.

Increasing the number of screenings would catch problems that may cost children their vision. In the United States, 5 percent of school-aged children have vision problems that are diagnosed through early screenings. In Haiti, where medical technology is limited, health care is on a different level, Faller stated. "There is no one tracking health care statistics in Haiti. The primary concern is to provide care, but gradually as new technology becomes available, there is a move to change the level of health care." Faller said during her trips she maintained personal records for statistical purposes.

While in the Caribbean, Faller also serves as a consultant to the Hospital St. Croix School of Nursing. Although her role has been unofficial, she said she encouraged the hospital's director of nursing to prepare for change. "While the world is growing, it is their world that is experiencing the greatest movement. I've encouraged them to reflect these changes into the curriculum of their nursing school."

First UNCW Undergraduate to Receive Fulbright Award

Teresa Lynn Krebs from Toms River, N.J., is the first UNCW undergraduate student to receive the prestigious Fulbright Award. She will receive a bachelor of arts degree in French and Spanish and a teaching certificate at commencement May 16. Krebs received the Fulbright Award for a teaching assistantship in Korea. In choosing Korea as her host country, she said she "would like to witness firsthand this crucial period in Korea's history and gain insight into what has historically shaped its people and position in the world today."

UNCW's Fulbright Program adviser is Raymond Burt, foreign languages and literatures. There will be two Fulbright workshops at 3 and 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Randall Library auditorium for juniors, senior and graduate students interested in the Fulbright Award for 1999-2000. The deadline for applications is Oct. 1, 1998.

Congress created the Fulbright Program in 1946 after World War II to foster mutual understanding among nations through educational and cultural exchanges. For more information about the Fulbright Program, contact Burt at ext. 7310.

Volunteers Needed

Ninety-eight volunteers are needed to supervise recycling centers in each building. Volunteer duties would include twice weekly inspections of the recycling center, keeping bins clean, notifying the recycling coordinator when bins are almost full and insuring promotional signs are in place. For more information or to volunteer, call Mike O'Donohue at ext. 3621.

Temporary Phone Cost

Effective May 1 departments requesting temporary or survey phone lines for less than one month will be charged $10 per connection. The standard charge of $26 per month will apply to telephone service longer than one month.

FRS Installation

The Financial Records System will be down from 7 a.m. May 6 to 8 a.m. May 11 due to the installation of FRS 3.0, a year 2000 compatible version.

Retirement Income Workshop

R. Michael Slaughter, a Lincoln Life representative, will present "Choosing and Designing the Right Cash Flow and Residual Family Benefit" at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Friday in the University Union, Room 206. The workshop will focus on the following sources of retirement income: State Retirement Plan, ORP, Social Security, IRAs, Supplemental Retirement Plans, such as 401(k)s, 403(b)s and personal investments and assets. Call human resources at ext. 3006 to reserve a workshop seat or to set up a private appointment with Slaughter.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees:

Meredith Anton, student academic support; Robert Kidd, physical plant; and Tracey Rommel, university police.

Student Timesheet Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets with departmental recaps is 3 p.m. April 30 in payroll. Students must submit timesheets to department representatives, not payroll. Students not listed on recap sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received before adding students to recap sheet. Also, if a student still appears on the recap sheet with a duplicate pay rate or no longer works in the department, send Frances a copy of the recap sheet to end the assignment.

Student Health Center Summer Hours

The Student Health Center will observe summer hours May 20 to July 31. The center will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday. When the health center is closed, students can speak with a registered nurse at the Cape Fear Memorial Hospital Emergency Center by calling the Student Health Center and following prerecorded instructions.

The pharmacy summer hours will be from noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday.

Suggestions Sought for Phone Directory

Comments or suggestions to improve the quality and resourcefulness of the 1998-99 edition of the university telephone directory should be sent to Diane Billings at the e-mail address billingsd.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coordinator	Until Filled
98-122 Accounts Payable Supervisor	May 1
98-E51 Grad. Program Administrator	May 21

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Be a Part of Graduation

Volunteers are needed to help with commencement May 16. Tickets are issued to students and guests. Serving as a commencement volunteer is an opportunity to participate and enjoy this event. Commencement volunteers must attend a briefing and luncheon May 13 and work from 8 a.m. to noon May 16. Volunteers are eligible to receive "comp" time for hours worked. To volunteer, contact Nadya Labib, commencement coordinator, at ext. 7231 or e-mail labibn.

Lunch Hour Meditation

The Counseling Center is sponsoring a weekly meditation hour for faculty and staff at noon April 23 through May 28 in the University Union, Room 210. For more information, contact the instructor Etta Breit at ext. 3746. Please do not bring food.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Maureen Madio, printing services, to help her avoid unpaid absence during her maternity leave. Send vacation leave donations to human resources, or call Willina at ext. 3006.

TimeQuest Seminar

Time Quest, a seminar to help balance time demands and focus on priorities, will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in the human resources training room. The cost of the seminar is $150; attendees will receive a complete Franklin Day Planner system as part of the seminar. To register, contact Brenda Jordan at ext. 3274.

Service Awards Luncheon

The 1998 UNCW Service Awards Luncheon will be held from noon to 2 p.m. May 28 in Wagoner Hall.

Pulitzer Prize-winning Poet Philip Levine Mentors MFA Students

by Susan Carney

Following the example of his own mentors John Berryman and Yvor Winters, Philip Levine is committed to helping promising new poets develop their talent.

"I can't say if all poets have had mentors, actually living breathing masters who stood or sat before them making the demands that true mentors must make if the fledgling is ever to fly," wrote Levine in his autobiography The Bread of Time. He believes that only in rare instances does a poet of genius talent emerge on his own without benefit of guidance. Levine, a celebrated poet and recipient of the 1995 Pulitzer Prize for his book The Simple Truth, has been offering such guidance to the students in the Master of Fine Arts (MFA) Program. He is this semester's writer-in-residence at UNCW.

Levine began publishing poetry in magazines in 1955. His first book of poetry, On the Edge, was published in 1963. Best known for his uncomplicated style and rare use of abstractions, Levine said his poetry is easily understood and appreciated by everyday people. "There was no real intention to be the guy writing for the ordinary public, but it struck me that I was entering an area of human existence that was missing from American poetry," said Levine.

He said his style of writing poetry for the "everyman" evolved as a result of personal struggle. Levine grew up in Depression-era, urban Detroit. The son of impoverished Russian immigrants, he witnessed "the great exploitation of the General Motors workers first-hand" during his college days at Wayne University. According to Levine, working in the automobile factory before automation was a difficult way for people to earn a living. He watched people spend their entire lives struggling only to have little or nothing to show for it at retirement. He noticed too many 30-year-olds who seemed old and broken.

"I was very angry until I had a sudden realization that although I was exploited economically, I was very gifted because of the remarkable friendships made at this time that I would not have otherwise had," he said. "I was blessed to associate with people so courageous, honest, affectionate and generous." Levine admitted this realization enabled him to "control the fury within himself and write about it." The struggles of these working class people served as one of several subjects for his poetry from 1958 through 1992, the year of his retirement from California State University at Fresno where he was professor of literature and creative writing. Since then, Levine has taught as writer-in-residence at a number of universities including Princeton, Vanderbilt, NYU, Vassar, Columbia, University of California, Berkeley, and the National University of Australia while continuing to write.

Even though busy teaching, Levine said three months was the longest he went without writing. "I have had longer periods in which I have not written well," he admitted. For example, during the semester he spent at Vanderbilt University as a visiting writer, he wrote more than 20 poems; however, he discarded all but three. "First, my writing must please me," he said. "I don't flood my readers with everything I write, they only get my best."

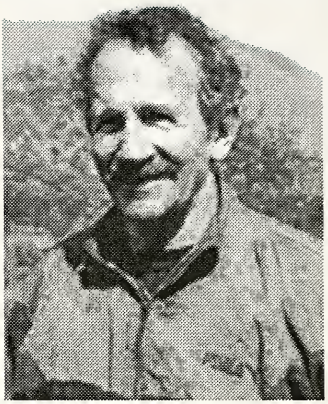
Levine teaches his students that their first obligation concerning the quality of their work is to themselves. Afterward, he said his real work as a teacher begins – the job of raising their standards.

Students working with Levine to become good poets can expect to spend a great deal of time reading and analyzing published works, practicing writing and sharing their work with one another. Students are also expected to critique fellow students' work in an atmosphere of complete truthfulness, he said.

In the beginning, Levine said many students are tender and find his prodding somewhat hurtful. "I am not soft on them, but they learn quickly that they can take the truth, and they want it. At UNCW, I find students to be very supportive of each other with no ugly jealousy and competition that would sour the experience."

Teaching is a situation of give and take between the students and teacher. "After writing 50 years, I am pretty resourceful about how to put a poem together," Levine said. With a wealth of information and experience to share, the 70-year old poet is renewed by his students' vital energy. "I feel that I have terrific debt to poetry because it was so good to me in the experiences it afforded, the people I have met and the places I have been. There is still much I have not written about yet, so teaching fulfills both a sense of obligation and vibrancy for me," he said.

Levine was among a group of very popular young poets in the '60s, and his popularity endures. He based his staying power as a poet upon verbal talent, commitment and perseverance. Agreeing with the belief of his fellow poet, Joyce Carol Oates, who said it also requires that one have a story which must be told, Levine added, "This story should so fill you that you need to get it on paper and it could take a lifetime to tell. Poetry is an enterprise worthy of an entire human life. One I did not learn easily, so I value it."



Levine

"Hopefully more gifted authors will feel the compulsion to nurture aspiring new talent along," said Philip Furia, chair of the English Department. "Attracting other such nationally acclaimed, remarkable writers to share their expertise in the MFA program is UNCW's goal." He said plans were being made to expand the program to include screenwriting, allowing students the opportunity of working with authors such as William Goldman, the screenwriter of Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid and Jurassic Park. Furia added, "The Wilmington area is very attractive to writers with its film industry, historic district and its close proximity to the ocean, all of which seem to induce their creative juices."

Bringing visiting writers-in-residence to UNCW has led to a tremendous increase in applications to the MFA program, noted Furia. "This year 55 students are enrolled in the MFA program with more than a hundred applications received for next year." However, given the size of the faculty, the program can only accommodate an additional 10 students next year, he stated.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 38 April 30, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Wentworth Receives BOG Teaching Award

Michael D. Wentworth, UNCW professor of English, was honored yesterday with the UNC Board of Governors' Award for Excellence in Teaching at a special academic convocation held in the B.N. Duke Auditorium at North Carolina Central University. The convocation was one of several inaugural events for Molly Corbett Broad, president of the University of North Carolina.

Wentworth has been recognized by UNCW for his teaching with the following awards: English Department Teaching Excellence Award, College of Arts and Sciences Teaching Excellence Award, Chancellor's Teaching Excellence Award, Phi Eta Sigma Outstanding Educators Award, Board of Trustees Teaching Excellence Award and Distinguished Teaching Professorship Award.

Wentworth described his own approach to teaching as a process rather than product-oriented. "Beyond inviting students to assume a creative and self-reflective responsibility for their own learning, I consistently encourage students to cross-reference whatever the immediate focus of learning might be with their previous and continuing academic work, with community concerns and with personal beliefs, attitudes, convictions and subjective reflexes that comprise each of their individual identities."

Wentworth joined UNCW in 1983. Previously, he taught at the University of Kansas, Northland College and Bowling Green University. He received a doctoral degree in English from Bowling Green University in 1979, a master's degree in English from Eastern Michigan University in 1971 and a bachelor's degree in English from University of Kansas in 1969.

The 16 recipients of UNC Board of Governors' Award for Excellence in Teaching represent a top faculty member from each UNC campus from various academic disciplines. Each recipient received a commemorative bronze medallion and cash award of $7,500.

Tickets Available for Athletic Hall of Fame Induction

May 5 is the final day to purchase tickets to the inaugural induction ceremony for UNCW's newly formed Athletic Hall of Fame. The ceremony is set for noon May 9 in the University Union Hawk's Nest.

The six inductees are: longtime athletic director William J. Brooks, who served the university in a variety of ways for 40 years from 1951-91; Gene Bogash (men's basketball); Sam O'Leary (men's swimming and diving); Janet Johnson (women's swimming and diving); Raiford G. Trask (benefactor); and Carl Willis (baseball). Trask, a major benefactor to the program, died in December 1993 and will be inducted posthumously into the Hall of Fame.

Tickets are $10 per person and can be purchased in the Seahawk Club office or athletic ticket office in Trask Coliseum.

Former Student Leaders Invited to Attend Reunion May 29-31

Faculty and staff are invited to attend a patio party from 7 to 10 p.m. May 29 in the courtyard behind Schwartz Residence Hall.

Join us to welcome back former students and staff with music, pizza and beverages.

RSVP by May 22 to ext. 2659.

The Division of Student Affairs will celebrate UNCW'S 50th anniversary and the division's 25th anniversary by hosting a Student Leader Reunion May 29-31. Former student leaders have been invited to return to campus and will be honored for helping establish the out-of-class educational opportunities that complement and extend classroom education today. Former division staff members have also been invited.

The reunion weekend will begin with a patio party from 7 to 10 p.m. May 29 in the courtyard behind Schwartz Residence Hall. Music, pizza and beverages will be provided. Saturday's events will begin at 10 a.m. and will feature discussions about current and future events for UNCW and student affairs. Student organizations and all division departments will host receptions following lunch. The day's events will end with a program saluting 50 years of student accomplishments. The reunion concludes with brunch on Sunday morning.

Schedule details and a list of alumni and staff who have registered to attend can be found at the reunion's web site http://www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/reunion, or contact Linda Moore, the reunion coordinator, at ext. 2659.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Note of Appreciation

Nadya Labib, events coordinator for the 50th anniversary, would like to thank everyone who helped to plant 50 trees for UNCW's 50th anniversary. She said special thanks goes to landscape services whose experience, guidance and shovels full of dirt made the event a success.

Recreation Center Ground Breaking

Ground breaking ceremonies for the long-awaited $8 million student recreation facility will be held at 4 p.m. Friday. The site for the 64,000-square-foot building is southwest of Wagoner Hall. Funding for the facility comes from student fees. The State of North Carolina does not permit state funding for building recreation areas or facilities. The estimated date of completion is fall 1999.

RAD Classes

Rape Aggression Defense classes for faculty and staff women will be held from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. May 19, 21, 26 and 28 in Trask Coliseum's Golden Hawk Room. The class is free, but there is a $4 charge for the manual. For more information, contact John Burton, university police, at ext. 3184.

50th Fact

When Wilmington College moved to the new campus in 1962, plans called for the construction of Hanover Hall where intercollegiate basketball games and intramural contests could be played. In addition, athletic director William J. Brooks took the lead in constructing an athletic field on campus. With the aid of Raiford G. Trask, then a county commissioner, Brooks appealed to the community for help. The community responded by donating money and labor to clear a swampy area on campus and fill it with suitable soil. The field created was named Brooks Field. In honor of the contributions Raiford G. Trask and William J. Brooks have made to UNCW athletics, they will be inducted into the UNCW Athletics Hall of Fame on May 9.

Cornerstone Award

The Office of Housing and Residence Life has awarded three people their Cornerstone Award, given annually to individuals who have significantly contributed to the quality of the program. This year's recipients are Carol Thysell, philosophy and religion, for her mentoring work with Galloway Hall; Frances Carr, career services, for her work with the move-in effort, as member of the Housing Appeals Board and her payroll work with more than 120 students for the Housing and Residence Life Office; and Jay Bunthoff, telecommunications, for his support at state conferences and providing media equipment for the housing program.

Retirement Reception

The Cameron School of Business invites the campus community to a retirement reception for Norm Kaylor, long-time faculty member and former dean of the Cameron School of Business. The reception will be held at 3 p.m. May 7 in the University Union Living Room. Kaylor, who is retiring after 27 years of distinguished service to the university, chaired the Department of Economics and Business from 1973-79. In 1979, he was named dean of the newly established Cameron School of Business and led its growth, development and preparation for AACSB accreditation until 1992.

Graduate Thesis Defenses

Christian A. Preziosi will defend his thesis "Patterns of Silica Distribution in Tidal Marshes of the Cape Fear Estuary" at 2 p.m. today in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Vance Oertel will defend his thesis "The Spatial and Temporal Distribution of Prostaglandin E2 in the Developing Chick Wing Bud" at 2 p.m. Friday in the new Science Building, Room 103.

Ceramic Club and Art Club Sale

The Ceramic Club and the Art Club in the Department of Art and Theatre will be host an art sale featuring various student works from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and tomorrowApril 30 and May 1 in the lobby of Kenan Hall.

Golf Tournament

The third annual Earl Allen Memorial Golf Tournament will begin at 1:30 p.m. May 8 at the Olde Pointe Golf Course in Hampstead. The deadline to enter is 5 p.m. today. The entry fee is $65, and entry forms can be obtained in Trask Coliseum's Nixon Annex. For more information, call Malou Stokes at ext. 3587.

Campus Rec Exam Schedule

Campus recreation will observe the following schedule during exams.

The fitness center will be open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 5 to 8 p.m. May 1, noon to 4 p.m. May 2, 4 to 8 p.m May 3, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5:45 to 10 p.m. May 4-6, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5:45 to 8 p.m. May 7 and 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. May 8.

Aerobics will be held noon to 1 p.m. and 5:15 to 6:15 p.m. May 1, 11 a.m. to noon and 12:15 to 1:15 p.m. May 2, 4 to 5 p.m. and 5:15 to 6:15 p.m. May 3, noon to 1 p.m., 5:15 to 6:15 p.m. and 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. May 4-6, noon to 1 p.m. May 7 and 8.

Recreational swim will be held 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 6:15 to 8 p.m. May 1, 1 to 3 p.m. May 2, 6 to 8 p.m. May 3, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 6 to 7:30 p.m. May 4-6, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. May 7 and 8.

Facilities will be closed May 9 and 10.

Lunch Hour Meditation

The Counseling Center is sponsoring a weekly meditation hour from noon to 1 p.m. Thursdays through May 28 in the University Union, Room 210. Beginners welcome any week. For more information, contact Etta Breit at ext. 3746. No food, please.

Communique Editor, ext. 7223

Japanese Governor to Discuss the Future of Global Networking

The shaping of the 21st century into a global digital community will be explored at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the University Center Ballroom by Masayasu Kitagawa, governor of the Mie Prefecture, Japan. His talk will focus on the innovative Digital Communities Experiment being implemented in Japan. Gov. Kitagawa is in Wilmington to discuss a virtual university concept with Chancellor James R. Leutze, who was appointed by Gov. James B. Hunt to be the state's liaison with Japan on the project.

Shredding Service

A meeting with a representative from the Shred It Company, an on-site mobile shredding service, will be at 10:30 a.m. May 12 in the University Union, Room 207. Postal services will no longer provide a shredding service. For more information, contact Gail Batten, purchasing, at ext. 7058.

End-of-Life Issues the Focus of School of Nursing Seminar

In conjunction with National Nurses Week, May 6-12, the School of Nursing is hosting the seminar "Transcultural End-of-Life Issues" from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. May 7 in the University Center Ballroom.

The seminar's keynote speaker will be Maureen Carling, pain management coordinator at Riverside Regional Medical Center in Newport News, Va. Born and educated in England, Carling has more than 40 years of experience in health care. Currently working to establish a Pain Management Department at Riverside Regional Medical Center, she will lecture on controlling pain for terminally ill patients.

Following the keynote address, School of Nursing students will present posters and presentations on death and funeral rituals from England, Africa and Barbados, where nursing students have participated in educational exchange programs, and Hawaii, the next educational exchange destination.

Concluding the seminar will be a panel discussion on end-of-life issues featuring four perspectives. Gail Cook from the Duke University Center for Aging will give a researcher's view on end-of-life issues. Gail Imhof, assistant director of Coastal AHEC, will focus on how South Africans face end-of-life issues. Ernestine Small, director of the Multicultural Center at North Carolina Central University, will provide a perspective of how African-Americans and Southerners deal with death. Keynote speaker Maureen Carling will provide a European perspective to the topic. Professor Anderson will moderate the discussion.

Prior to the start of the seminar, there will be a silent auction to benefit the UNCW School of Nursing's Nu Omega chapter of Sigma Theta Tau, the international honorary society of nurses. The fundraiser will support nursing scholarships and programs.

The seminar is sponsored by the School of Nursing, Cape Fear Memorial Foundation, Hospice for the Carolinas, New Hanover Regional Medical Center, Nu Omega chapter, Sigma Theta Tau and Purdue Frederick Pharmaceuticals. For attendance information, contact Kari Anderson at ext. 3926 or e-mail andersonk

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Walter Conser, philosophy and religion, presented "Reassessing Religion and Science in 19th Century America" at the Organization of American Historians national meetings.

Andrew F. Clark, history, has been accepted into the National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Institute on "Environmental History and World History, 1500-2000" to be held at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Deborah Haywood and Shannon Doherty, wellness services, received the Outstanding Program Award for "showing creativity and dedication to the advancement of the philosophy and ideals of wellness" at the annual conference of the American College Personnel Association.

Steve Ross, CMSR, received $4,000 for his project "The Physiological Responses of Estuarine Fishes to High Oxidative Stress."

Raymond L. Burt, foreign languages and literatures, presented the paper "Heimweh in Paradies: Rewriting the Odyssey in Koehlmeier's Telemach and Kalypso" at the 13th annual Symposium on Austrian Literature and Culture at the University of California, Riverside.

James Kiddle, chemistry, presented the paper "A Facile Synthesis of (Z)-Vinyl 2,2,2-Trifluoroethyl Phosphonates" at the 215th national meeting of the American Chemical Society in Dallas. His co-presenters were undergraduate students Ashley Davis and Jennifer Rosen.

Steven Miller, NURC and biological sciences, was an invited participant at a workshop in Hawaii sponsored by the U.S. Geological Survey, where he presented a paper on coral reef monitoring in the Florida Keys.

P. J. Lapaire, foreign languages and literatures, published his review of Jean Sarocchi's "Le Dernier Camus ou 'Le Premier Homme'" in French Review.

Don Bushman and Lu Huntley-Johnston, English, have published book reviews in the winter issue of North Carolina English Teacher. Bushman reviewed The Interdisciplinary Teacher's Handbook: Integrated Teaching Across the Curriculum by Stephen Tchudi and Stephen Lafer. Huntley-Johnston reviewed Language and Literacy: Studying Discourse in Communities and Classrooms by Eleanor Kutz.

Betsy Ervin and Lu Huntley-Johnston, English, presented papers at the National Council of Teachers of English spring conference in Albuquerque. Ervin's paper was entitled "Literacy in our Own Backyards." Huntley-Johnston's was entitled "Critiquing School Literacy in the Context of Preservice Teachers' Portfolios."

John Stokes, English, presented the paper "Criminals and Cops in Elmore Leonard's Fiction: S'Tough or S'Tupid?" for the National Convention of the Popular Culture Association in Orlando.

Randall Library Exam Schedule

Randall Library will observe the following extended hours for exams. The library will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. May 2, 1 p.m. to 2 a.m. May 3, 7:30 a.m. to 2 a.m. May 4-7, 7:30 a.m. to midnight May 8 and 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. May 9.

Chancellor's Student Hours

The chancellor will hold student hours from 3 to 4 p.m. May 5 in Alderman Hall, Room 110.

Eight-Page Communique

The May 14 edition of the Campus Communique will be an eight-page issue. The deadline for this issue is 5 p.m. May 11.

Directory Assistance Calls

BellSouth operators for directory assistance are giving some university extensions as the main number for UNCW. Any affected departments or individuals should contact Kay Jackson, telecommunications, at ext. 4055.

Student Health Center Summer Hours

The Student Health Center will observe summer hours May 20 to July 31. The center will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday. When the health center is closed, students can speak with a registered nurse at the Cape Fear Memorial Hospital Emergency Center by calling the Student Health Center and following prerecorded instructions.

The pharmacy summer hours will be from noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday.

Ev-Henwood Nature Walk

Curious to learn more about migrating birds? Join ecologist Will Hon at 8 a.m. Saturday for a nature walk through Ev-Henwood Nature Preserve to learn about migrating birds and their habitats.

Student Timesheet Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets with departmental recaps is 3 p.m. April 30 in payroll. Students must submit timesheets to department representatives, not payroll. Students not listed on recap sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received before adding students to recap sheet. Also, if a student still appears on the recap sheet with a duplicate pay rate or no longer works in the department, send Frances a copy of the recap sheet to end the assignment.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-078 Residence Coord.	Until Filled
98-122 Accounts Payable Super.	May 1
98-E51 Grad. Prog. Administrator	May 21
98-123 General Utility Worker	May 8
98-124 Maintenance Mech. IV	May 8
98-125 HVAC Mechanic	May 8
98-126 Groundsworker	May 8

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

FRS System Down

Due to the installation of FRS 3.0, a year 2000 compatible version, the Financial Records System will be down from 7 a.m. May 6 until 8 a.m. May 11. During the down time, purchasing will manually process emergency/immediate need orders only. Special needs will be handled by the appropriate purchasing agent. Departments are encouraged to input requisitions now in order for them to be processed before May 6. When the FRS system comes on line May 11, there will be a minor change to screen 251. The vendor address field will be six lines instead of four lines.

Accounts payable will print checks May 6. There will be no accounts payable checks printed May 7 and 8. Plan work accordingly in processing requests for accounts payable checks and travel reimbursements.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Maureen Madio, printing services, and Raymond Taylor, physical plant, to help avoid unpaid absences during illnesses. Send vacation leave donations to human resources, or call Willina at ext. 3006.

Watson School of Education Hosts National Forum

The Watson School of Education will host "A National Forum on the Future of Teacher Preparation for the 21st Century" May 9-12. The four-day conference features nationally recognized scholars who will brainstorm with UNCW education faculty in an effort to produce what they hope will be the basis for the teacher education reform movement. Approximately 300 area teachers and administrators are expected to attend the opening-day session.

Program participants will be welcomed by Watson School of Education Dean Robert Tyndall, Chancellor James R. Leutze, and U.S. Secretary of Education Richard Riley at 8:30 a.m. May 9 at the Blockade Runner Resort, Wrightsville Beach.

National scholars who will help lead this forum are Paul Houston, executive director of the American Association of School Administrators; Ron Brandt, retired director of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development; Berhard Badiali, chair, and Nelda Cambron-McCabe, professor, both with the Department of Educational Leadership at Miami University of Ohio; Jacqueline Grennon Brooks with the Center for Science, Math and Technology at the State University of New York at Stony Brook; and James Cowardin, director of the Rocky Mount Public Charter School.

On May 10 and 11, writing teams made up of UNCW education faculty and the national scholars will meet for daily work sessions and evening social events, exposing needs and discussing critical issues in education. On May 12, the forum moves to the UNCW campus where plans will be made for final publication documents and state and national opportunities related to this work. For more information, contact Diane Calhoun at ext. 7244 or Karen Wetherill at ext. 4174.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No.40 May 14,1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Master of Fine Arts Student Has Story Published in Ms. Magazine

by Susan Carney

Nancy J. Jones, a graduate student at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington, has had her first fictional story "The Suicide Club" published in the May/June 1998 issue of Ms. magazine.

The story, despite its name, is one of optimism concerning women's relationships and how women support and sometimes fail each other in their friendships. Jones described the story as one of hope not desperation. "As many writers do, I have drawn upon small bits from many experiences and people in creating this story."

A 1977 graduate of Moravian College in Bethlehem, Pa., Jones worked as editor of the Bangor Daily News before her appointment to the Environmental Protection Agency as communications point person. She was also director of communications for the Newspaper Association of America in Washington, D.C.

Jones wrote the first draft of "The Suicide Club" after spending a New Year's holiday in Harrisburg, Pa., visiting with friends. She revised the article during a workshop with author Philip Gerard at the Bread Loaf Writers Conference in Middlebury, Vt. Gerard's workshop encouraged her to make a career change and enter the Master of Fine Arts Program at UNCW. Gerard is director of the university's Creative Writing Program.

"Gerard was instrumental in putting the MFA Program in place at UNCW," said Jones. "He runs excellent workshops for writers in which the student's work is analyzed for its strengths and weaknesses in such a way that everyone learns the craft well," she said. "The student who undertakes this program can expect to learn well how to build the structure and shape of a story, as well as how to give a story emotional resonance and complexity," Jones said.

Jones

Jones will graduate UNCW May 16 with a Master of Fine Arts degree. She plans to teach at the college level while continuing her writing.

Commencement 10 a.m. Saturday

Novelist Clyde Edgerton will deliver this year's commencement address in Trask Coliseum.

Faculty Processional

Faculty who intend to march in the commencement processional are reminded to assemble in Trask Coliseum by 9:45 a.m. Saturday. Female faculty should assemble in room 117; male faculty in room 119.

Biology Professor's Research Changes Species Status

The Dismal Swamp southeastern shrew was one of 29 species removed from the Department of Interior's Endangered Species List May 6 in part due to research by David Webster, biological sciences.

Webster has studied the Dismal Swamp southeastern shrew since 1991. The Dismal Swamp southeastern shrew (Sorex longirostris fisheri) is a tiny mouselike mammal which eats insects and had been on the federal government's list of threatened species since 1986.

"Our research found the Dismal Swamp southeastern shrew to be in greater numbers and located in a larger area than originally surmised," said Webster. "Previous research indicated this animal was limited to the 400-square-mile area around the Dismal Swamp in northeastern North Carolina and southeastern Virginia."

During a three-year span, Webster, assisted by UNCW students, conducted field tests and discovered large numbers of the Dismal Swamp southeastern shrew in every coastal county in North Carolina. He submitted his final research findings to the Department of Interior's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1996. This research led to the Dismal Swamp southeastern shrew being among the 29 species removed from the endangered list.

Webster is one of several UNCW biology faculty researchers working to protect species through the Conservation Biology Program established in 1996.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Chancellor's Staff Advisory Committee Meeting

The chancellor's staff advisory committee will meet at 7 a.m. May 19 in the Madeline Suite at Wagoner Hall. Members of the committee are:

Annette Anderson, public service; Claude Brown, purchasing; Marquita Brown, housing and residence life; Charles Gagum, vending services; Ray Humphries, information technology; Sherry King, chemistry; Patsy Larrick, advancement; Joanne McDowell, human resources; Cathy Morris, earth sciences; Cathy Olson, institutional research; Beth Roberts, Randall Library; Sandy Rogers, sociology and anthropology; and Peggy Segars, School of Nursing.

Nursing Graduation Celebration

The School of Nursing will hold a graduation celebration at 6 p.m. Friday in the University Center Ballroom. The program includes presentation of nursing awards and pins. Guest speaker will be Judy Mayo from ECU's School of Nursing. A registered nurse, Mayo is also a humorist.

Discount Coupons

Discount coupons for admission to Paramount's Kings Dominion theme park are available to UNCW faculty and staff and may be picked up in human resources. Valid dates are May 16 and 17.

50th Fact

On May 16, 1971, the University of North Carolina at Wilmington presented its first honorary degrees. Gov. Bob Scott and Addison Hewlett were presented honorary doctorate of laws and William Randall received an honorary doctorate of letters. The commencement exercise featured 238 graduates, the largest class.

Campus Recreation Interim Schedule

Campus Recreation will observe the following interim schedule May 18-25.

Aerobics will be held from noon to 1 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 5:15 to 6:15 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. The weight room will be open from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday. Recreational swim will be noon to 2 p.m. Monday-Thursday and noon to 1 p.m. Friday. Facilities will be closed May 23-25 due to the Memorial Day holiday.

New Video at Randall Library

The chancellor's human relations advisory committee has donated the video Shattering the Silence to Randall Library for use by faculty, staff and students. The video focuses on campus life through the eyes of faculty of color. There is a facilitation guide that accompanies the video for use with classes or presentations.

Fire Alarm Tests

Physical plant electric shop personnel are in the process of testing fire alarms in the following areas: Academic Support, Alderman, Bear, botany lab and trailer, Cameron, crafts building, the field house, fine arts center, Friday, Hawk's Nest, Hinton James, Hoggard Hall Computer Center, Kenan Auditorium, King, Masonboro, Morton, Nixon Annex, Randall Library Computer Room, safety trailer, Science Building, Social and Behavioral Sciences, systems and Procedures trailer, Trask, Wagoner, and the warehouse.Testing will end May 20. Any questions concerning these tests should be directed to the physical plant electric shop, ext. 3100.

Summer Ads in the Communique

Starting with the May 21 edition, the Campus Communique will publish ads while the university observes summer hours. Ads must be submitted in writing by e-mail to communique, fax to ext. 3847 or campus mail at 108 Alderman Hall. Please include contact name and phone number. Due to space restrictions, ads will be published on a space-available basis with priority given to ads submitted by faculty and staff.

Reserve Reading Lists

Faculty teaching courses during Summer Sessions I and II should submit reserve reading lists today. Faculty are also requested to submit reserve reading lists for fall 1998 before leaving for the summer. Materials are processed in the order received. Lists may be sent to Carolyn Andrews at Randall Library or via e-mail to andrewsc. For further assistance, call the reserve desk at ext. 3790.

Basketball Summer Camps

The UNCW Men's Basketball Program is sponsoring summer day camps from June 15-19 and July 20-24. Both are all-day boys' camps for students ages eight through rising high school senior. The cost is $175 for the child of faculty or staff. To attend both camps, the cost is $325. Lunch is included in the day camp fees. For more information, contact Elizabeth Lee at ext. 3045.

RAD Classes

Rape Aggression Defense classes for faculty and staff women will be held from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. May 19, 21, 26, and 28 in Trask Coliseum's Golden Hawk Room. The class is free; however, there is a $4 for the manual. For more information, contact John Burton, university police, at ext. 3184.

Graduation Breakfast

The UNCW Alumni Association will host a breakfast for graduating students and their families from 8 to 9 a.m. on graduation morning on the lawn of the UNCW Quadrangle in front of Hoggard Hall.

Graduation Videos

The UNCW Alumni Association will be sponsoring the videotaping of the commencement ceremony.

Order forms for videotapes will be available at commencement. The cost is $30 per video.

Live Telecast of Commencement

Time-Warner Cable subscribers can view the ceremony on UNCW-TV, Channel 5.

Bookstore News

The university bookstore currently has all 50th anniversary merchandise discounted 40 percent.

The bookstore will be closed July 1 for inventory. Faculty are encouraged to advise Summer Session II students to purchase books June 29 or 30 if possible.

Fred Toth is the bookstore's computer store manager. To contact him with computer needs or concerns, call ext. 7211.

Wellness Services Remodeling

Wellness Services and CROSSROADS Substance Abuse Prevention and Education Program, located in Westside Hall, second floor, will be remodeling the reception area beginning May 18. Construction is expected to take approximately one month. Both offices will remain open, but walk-in access will be limited. Staff will be available through current phone extensions, fax numbers and e-mail addresses.

Departmental Reception Locations

Following the graduation ceremony, academic departments will host receptions for their graduates and guests at the listed locations. All receptions will take place at 12:30 p.m.

Anthropology	University Union, Glass Room
Art and Theatre and Music	Kenan Hall, Lobby
Biological Sciences	Wagoner Cafeteria
Chemistry	New Science Building, Room 134 and Lobby
Communication Studies	Randall Library
English	Cameron Hall, Room 105
Environmental Sciences	University Union, Hawk's Nest
Foreign Languages and Literatures	Morton Hall Commons
Geography and Geology	DeLoach Hall, Room 114
Health and Physical Education	Golden Hawk Room
History	University Union, Living Room
Mathematical Sciences	University Union, Room 100
Philosophy and Religion	King Hall, Room 101
Physics	DeLoach Hall, Room 212
Political Science	King Hall, Room 101
Psychology	Hanover Hall
Recreation	University Center, Center Stage
Sociology and Criminal Justice	University Center, Ballroom
Cameron School of Business	Trask Coliseum
School of Nursing	Hoggard Hall Lawn
Watson School of Education	Kenan Auditorium

Essay Tells of Wilmington College's New Beginning

From the editor: During the past year, the Campus Communique has helped celebrate UNCW's Golden Anniversary through its publication of 50th Facts. As the celebration draws to a close and the university looks toward a bright future, I wanted to share a final look at the beginning. The following excerpts are from an essay by Everett Ward '66 written as an assignment for a grammar and composition course in 1965. Ward, who resides in Wilmington, recalled that "from the environs of rural Pender County, fresh out of a very small high school at age 17, the experience of being in the first class to open at the new facilities of Wilmington College was a very significant event in my life. These were the days of the Library Building, Hoggard Hall and the unfinished Pub. That was it, but it was an improvement of what had been. It was a grand beginning of a fine new thing.

"Pioneers always have a rough time. In the summer of 1961, Wilmington saw its last frontier created and conquered by a hearty handful of student pioneers. Like the trailblazers of yesteryear, these brave souls set the pace for future generations by opening and settling the classrooms of Wilmington College's new facilities. The early comers were like the forty-niners except, in this case, they were not answering the call of gold, but of education is the early days of Wilmington College.

"Situated in the barren sand hill of what is called College Acres, the three buildings that house the college looked like models that had been picked out of a catalogue and placed in the middle of Gobi Desert. There was no grass. Nothing in the form of vegetation existed except for a great abundance of weeds, scrub oaks and sickly pines. Some rooms did not have blackboards. To remedy this problem, small portable slates were furnished. After a class, these black tombstones resembled a fog with a maze of configurations appearing like specters within it. If the supply of chalk was exhausted, a professor did not worry. He simply licked his index finger and proceeded like he really did not know the difference.

"To those traveling by the college at night, the school looked like an infant sleeping. It was beautiful, but under the blanket of tranquility, a new day was dawning. And so, Wilmington College was baptized into its first session."

Focus on Faculty and Staff

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Dick Scott and Towana Moore, business affairs, presented the session "Revenue Enhancements Through Partnering" at the annual Southern Association of College Auxiliary Services meeting in Asheville.

Frederick Bingham, physics and physical oceanography, presented the seminar "The Origin of Waters Observed at a Time-Series Station in the North Pacific Subtropical Gyre" at the Department of Marine, Earth and Atmospheric Sciences, N.C. State University.

Lavonne J. Adams, English, published two poems "Love Sonnet" and "Smoke" in the current issue of the Rio Grande Review (University of Texas-El Paso). These poems were written during the spring 1997 MFA poetry writing workshop led by Michael White.

Terry Mount, foreign languages and literatures, presented his paper "Pilgrims and Pilgrims' Peril in the Cantigas de Santa Maria of Alfonso el Sabio" at the 51st annual Kentucky Foreign Language Conference held in Lexington.

Paul Wilkes, English, had his latest book The Seven Secrets of Successful Catholics published by Paulist Press.

Chris E. Fonvielle, history, appeared on C-Span's "Book Notes" to discuss the importance of studying regional history. Fonvielle's book T*he Wilmington Campaign: Last Rays of Departing Hope* won the 1997 Clarendon Award given annually by the Lower Cape Fear Historical Society for the most outstanding work in interpreting and preserving the history of the lower Cape Fear.

Philip Levine, visiting writer-in-residence, English, was invited by President and Mrs. Clinton to participate in the White House celebration of National Poetry Month.

Mitchell Conover, economics and finance, presented two papers "The Relationship between Size and Return for Foreign Real Estate Investments" and "Ownership Structure and the Value of the Firm: The Case of REITs" at the 1998 American Real Estate Society meeting at Monterey. Also, "The Relationship Between Size and Return for Foreign Real Estate Investments" was accepted for publication in the Journal of Real Estate Portfolio Management.

Raymonde B. Kleinberg, political science, presented her paper "Mexico's Integration with the Global Economy: Its Process and Effects" at the British Society for Latin American Studies held at the University of Liverpool.

Michelle Howard-Vital, public service and extended education, received $261,295 for her project "Global Access: A Vision for Connecting Southeastern North Carolina."

Douglas Freeman, university police, received $29,062 for "Project Lifeline."

Karen Shafer, SMEC, and Carl Lundeen, biological sciences, received $16,208 for their project "A Five-Day Biotechnology Workshop for Middle and High School Teachers."

Wilson Freshwater, CMSR, received $84,940 for his project "Molecular and Morphological Studies of Evolution in the Gelidiales."

Joanne Rockness, Tammy Hunt, Vince Howe, business, and Judy Siguaw from Cornell University had their paper "Ethical Values and Leadership: A Study of AACSB Business School Deans" accepted for presentation at the 1998 Academy of Management Conference in San Diego. The paper was selected to be published in the Best Paper Proceedings.

E.W. Zrudlo, English, delivered the lecture "Finding Death: Chaucer's Pardoner's Tale and Flannery O'Connor's A Good Man Is Hard to Find" at the St. Charles Borromeo Conference on Catholicism in Literature held in Little Rock, Ark.

Doug Kesling, NURC, was recognized by the Divers Alert Network for his commitment to diving safety and of the DAN Training mission, which is to have oxygen and and someone trained in its use at every dive site and boat. Kesling certified his 100th diving student this year, trained in the use of emergency oxygen delivery systems.

Steven Miller, NURC and biological sciences, co-authored the paper "Florida's Mystery Coral-killer Identified" published in Nature (vol. 392, April 9) about a widespread coral disease affecting reefs in Florida. Also he was keynote speaker at the 30th annual meeting of the Florida Marine Science Educators Association, held in West Palm Beach, Fla. He presented the talk "The Condition of Coral Reefs in the Florida Keys: The Real Story."

Brooks Dodson, English, read his paper "Rama and the Greek Epic" at the third annual Conference on World Literature at Appalachian State University.

William Cleary, earth sciences and CMSR, recently attended the 15th International Sedimentological Congress in Alicante, Spain, where he presented papers on hurricane impacts and shoreline recovery and sand resources on hardbottom-dominated shorefaces and beach replenishment needs in southeastern North Carolina. He also chaired the Modern Shelf and Transitional Environments Session. A portion of the research presented was funded by the NOAA's National Undersea Research Center at UNCW.

Tim Miles, history, has received a Moseley Award for use on an archaelogical excavation in Aqaba, Jordan, this summer.

Laela Sayigh, biological sciences, received $3,500 for her project "REU Supplement: Structure and Function of Signature Whistles of Adult Female Bottlenose Dolphins."

This is recyclable.

FEATURES

UNCW's Recycling Program: Helping Save the Environment

by Margaret Jackson, PR Intern

UNCW's Recycling Program reclaims 30- to 35-percent of the campus' recyclable material, but Michael O'Donohue, coordinator of the program, hopes to increase reclamation to 60 percent.

In one month alone, UNCW recycled 913 pounds of aluminum equaling approximately 25,000 cans. The university also recycled 1,650 pounds of plastic and 3,740 pounds of glass or the equivalent of 23,000 plastic bottles and 8,100 glass bottles. UNCW recycled enough paper to save 236 trees including 8,250 pounds of business paper, 6,750 pounds of newspaper and 12,000 pounds of corrugated cardboard.

According to O'Donohue, UNCW has found economical and environmental benefits from recycling. For fiscal year 1997, the university saved $33,000 in trash removal fees through the recycling of 560,000 pounds of material. The university does not pay or receive money for the collection of recyclables, said O'Donohue.

The creation of the recycling program dates back to 1989 when Gov. James B. Hunt mandated that aluminum cans were no longer to be buried in North Carolina's landfills. This legislation led to the development of recycling programs in all state agencies and universities. UNCW's program did not really blossom until student interest increased in 1995, said O'Donohue.

The Environmental Concerns Organization or ECO club was particularly influential in increasing campus awareness of recycling, O'Donohue said. The club brought the importance of recycling to the students' attention and promoted it through informational talks in residence halls and during campus activity days.

In addition to the recycling centers in each building, near University Police there is a recycling shed where off-campus students, faculty, staff and the community can bring their recyclables. The shed has compartments for brown, green and clear glass; corrugated cardboard; newspaper; aluminum cans; and plastics marked no. 1 and no. 2, which include soda bottles, milk containers and detergent containers.

As the collection of recyclables increases, contamination becomes a concern, said O'Donohue. Contamination is anything that does not belong in a collection bin. For example, an aluminum can mixed in with a bin of glass is a contaminant. When recyclables are processed at a recycling plant, they are ground, melted and remolded. A small level of contamination is acceptable, otherwise the batch has to be thrown away as waste.

The one recyclable rarely found as a contaminant is aluminum. According to reports from the aluminum can industry, more than 90 percent of all aluminum cans are recycled. This may be in part because of the economic advantages. Aluminum can be sold for as much as 35 cents per pound. The aluminum recycling process is also very efficient, said O'Donohue. Recycling aluminum uses 98 percent less energy than is necessary to make new cans. He added that the recycling process also causes less air and water pollution.

While UNCW's recycling program has made great strides since 1989, O'Donohue believes there is room for improvement. With increased awareness and education he hopes the UNCW community will eventually meet his 60-percent goal.

School of Nursing Recognizes Outstanding Alumna, Faculty During Nurses Week

The School of Nursing honored its outstanding alumna and faculty member during the Nurses' Day Celebration May 7 held as part of National Nurses Week.

Millicent Adrienne Abbott Jackson, a 1972 graduate of UNCW and a lecturer in the School of Nursing since 1990, was named the School of Nursing Outstanding Alumna, and Doretha McKnight Stone, assistant professor, was named the School of Nursing Outstanding Faculty for 1998.

Jackson, who worked as a registered nurse and health care educator in southeastern North Carolina following her graduation from UNCW, held positions at both Cape Fear Memorial Hospital, now Columbia Cape Fear Memorial Hospital, and New Hanover Memorial Hospital, now New Hanover Regional Medical Center. She was also an instructor in health occupations at James Sprunt Community College in Kenansville.

Jackson received her Master of Science in Nursing from East Carolina University in 1988. She is a member of the National League for Nursing, the North Carolina League for Nursing, the Association of Community Health Nurse Educators, the Association of School Health Nurses and the Sigma Theta Tau Honor Society for Nurses.

Stone, who began her UNCW teaching career as a lecturer in 1976, received her Master of Science in Nursing from UNC Greensboro in 1983. Through her service on several university committees, Stone helped develop a recognition and reward system for teaching and a program for minority recruitment and retention. She has also developed partnerships between the university and the Wilmington community.

"Professor Stone led a project on breast cancer prevention and early detection in African-American women funded by the National Cancer Institute," said Virginia Adams, dean of the School of Nursing. "Also, her work with the Oncology Nursing Society has involved her with several cancer prevention projects including the New Hanover Breast Cancer Project."

Stone is also a member of the Girls Club of America, the American Nurses Association, North Carolina Nurses Association and Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society.

Community News

Celebrate Wilmington! Events for May

- Musical: Bye Bye Birdie, 8 p.m.Thursday-Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday May 14-17 Thalian Hall Main Stage. For ticket information, call 343-3664.
- Workshop: Egg basket making, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 16 Poplar Grove Plantation. For cost or more information, call 686-9518.
- Civil War History: Living demonstrations on grounds, May 16 and 17 Bellamy Mansion Museum of History and Design Arts. For more information, call 251-3700.
- Music: Composerworks Concert presents works by local composers, featuring piano, marimba, and voice, 2 p.m. May 17 St. John's Museum of Art. For more information, call 763-0281
- Concert: Frank Bongiorno and the UNCW Jazz Faculty, 12:15 p.m. May 20 St. John's Sculpture Garden. For more information on this free event, contact Kara Chiles at 343-1640.
- Arts Fest: Annual Orange Street Arts Fest, a benefit for The Thalian Association, original works of art and crafts, entertainment, food, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 23, Orange Street and 2nd Street. For more information, call Cynthia Krulac at 251-1788.
- Event: Family Fun Day in the Park, noon to 6 p.m. May 23 Martin Luther King Recreation Center. For more information on this free event, call 343-8000 or 792-7438.
- Music: Fridays at St. James: Wilmington Boys Choir, 12:10 p.m. May 29 St. James Church. For more information on this free event, call 763-1628.
- Observance: Annual Memorial Day Observance on Battleship North Carolina, 5:45 p.m. May 31. For more information on this free event, call Susan Pope at 251-5797.

Opera House Theatre Presents Shadowlands

The Opera House Theatre Company's production of William Nicholson's Shadowlands will run through Sunday and again May 20-24. All performances will be at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theatre of Thalian Hall Center for Performing Arts.

The cast features Eric Paisley, pictured far left, as English author C. S. Lewis and Suellen Yates, right, as Joy Davidman Gresham, the divorced American poet who changes Lewis' life. Brandon Evans portrays Gresham's 10-year-old son, Douglas. The play is about Lewis, a middle-aged bachelor, who lectures on Christian theology and how the Greshams travel to England to meet the author. Lewis and the divorced Gresham start out as pen pals, become friends and end up husband and wife.

Tickets are $10 and seating is general admission. For more information, call the Center Box Office at 343-3664.

"USO" Dance

The Community Arts Accord and the Thalian Association will present a "USO" Dance from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. May 30 at the Community Arts Center. The dance will feature the Andrew Thielen Big Band. Tickets are $25 per person. For more information, call 251-7746 or 341-7860.

Boy Choir Concert

The 30-member Wilmington Boys Choir will present its annual spring concert at 7 p.m. Saturday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. This free concert will feature music of Vivaldi, John Rutter and summer beach music. For more information, call 799-5073.

Girls' Choir Audition

The Girls' Choir of Wilmington will hold audition for its fall seasons at 5 p.m. May 21 at St. John's Episcopal Church in Forest Hills. The non-sectarian community-based organization is open to girls age nine and older. Previous musical experience is not required. For more information, contact Sandra Errante, director, at 799-5073.

Division Hosts Conferences and Groups

As part of the university's mission, the Division for Public Service and Extended Education coordinates conferences and hosts groups whose mission coincides with that of the University of North Carolina system. The divison places special emphasis on recruiting non-profit groups with a training or educational purpose.

The following groups will be on campus in May and June: Youth Conference, May 22-24; BARBRI, a bar review, May 26-July 15; Student Leader Reunion, May 29-30; Bruns Avenue School from Charlotte, May 27-29; Building and Managing Sound Contracts (teleconference), June 3; Welfare Reform (teleconference), June 5; Coast Trek, June 7-12; Lee County Schools Retreat, June 12-13; Coast Trek, June 14-19; OceanLab, June 14-20; String Camp, June 14-20; Lee County Schools Instructors, June 17-19; Universal Cheerleaders, June 20-23; Coast Trek, June 21-26; OceanLab, June 21-26; Jazz Camp, June 21-28; Yearbook Camp, June 24-27; Richmond County Schools, June 25-27; Universal Cheerleaders, June 28-July 1.

Computer Operations Summer Hours on Friday

In observance of the summer work schedule, computer operations will close at 2 p.m. Fridays. ADS, FRS and HRS will be shutdown for batch processing at 1 p.m. Fridays. SIS will remain online until 9 p.m. as normal. Contact Ray Humphries at ext. 3799 regarding exceptions to this schedule.

Randall Library Intersession Schedule

Randall Library will observe the following intersession schedule: 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 15, 18-20 and closed May 16-17.

New Physical Plant Work Request Form

Effective June 1, departments should begin using the revised Physical Plant Work Request form to request non-routine maintenance and repair that the requesting department will pay. The revised form will be available on the Printing Services Forms Catalog May 21.

Union and Center Summer Hours

The University Union and University Center will begin the following summer hours May 18: The University Union will be open 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday. The Univrsity Center will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday. Both facilities will be closed Saturday and Sunday.

Staff Award of Excellence Nominations

Friday is the deadline to nominate employees for the 1998 UNCW Staff Award for Excellence. Nomination forms can be obtained from human resources.

The award recipient will be announced during the annual Service Awards Luncheon from noon to 2 p.m. May 28 in Wagoner Hall. Any permanent "career status" SPA or 12-month EPA employee may be nominated for the award in the following categories: Outstanding State Service, Innovations, Safety and Heroism, Human Relations and Public Service.

The recipient of the Staff Award of Excellence will receive a check for $1,500 from the UNCW Board of Trustees, a reserved parking space for one year and three days of vacation leave. For more information, contact Brenda Jordan at ext. 3274.

Summer Hours

The university will begin summer hours Monday and continue through Aug. 7. Official university hours for this period will be 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays-Thursdays and 7:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Fridays. This schedule allows for an half-hour lunch break. With supervisory approval, employees may take an hour lunch and lengthen the workday by 30 minutes.

Alternate schedules must be submitted to human resources. During summer hours, casual dress is appropriate.

Lunch Hour Meditation

The Counseling Center is sponsoring a weekly meditation hour from noon to 1 p.m. Thursdays through May 28 in the University Union, Room 210. Beginners welcome any week. For more information, contact Etta Breit at ext. 3746. No food, please.

Shared Leave

Shared leaved donations are needed for Raymond Taylor and Michael T. Smith, physical plant, and and Jeanmarie "Teri" Meadowcroft, purchasing, to help avoid leave without pay during illnesses. Share vacation leave by sending leave request forms to human resources. For more information, call Willina at ext. 3006.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employee: Jennifer Corrigan, accounting.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-E51 Grad.Program Administrator	May 21
98-127 Research Aid	May 15
98-128 Mail Clerk I	May 15
98-129 Microcomputer Consultant	May 15
98-130 Microcomp. Supp. Tech. Trainee	May 15
98-132 Office Assistant IV	May 22
98-133 Police Telecommunicator	May 22

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Student Health Center Summer Hours

The Student Health Center will observe summer hours May 20 to July 31. The center will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday. When the health center is closed, students can speak with a registered nurse at the Cape Fear Memorial Hospital Emergency Center by calling the Student Health Center and following prerecorded instructions.

Pharmacy Summer Hours

The pharmacy summer hours will be from noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday.

Faculty/Staff Profile: Charles Lewis

HPER Professor Helping Students Chart Their Way

by Susan Carney

Charles Lewis could have been captain of his own ship. Instead, he chose teaching and helping students to chart their own courses.

Lewis, interim chairman of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation (HPER) Department, was the recipient of the 1997 UNCW Distinguished Teaching Professorship Award, established by Chancellor James R. Leutze in 1992. The award recognizes faculty who have achieved a sustained record of teaching excellence. Each year three recipients are selected from those recommended by a committee of faculty members to receive the Distinguished Teaching Professorship. The award includes an annual stipend of $5,000 for three years.

"My heart has always been in recreation," Lewis admitted even though he earned a bachelor's degree in marine science from the N.Y. State Maritime College in 1959. "Attending the Maritime College on a government subsidy required one to serve three years afterward. This was the sole way for me to obtain a college education," he said. He not only earned a degree, but also a license as a federal deck officer, and became a commissioned naval reserve officer.

At the time, he gave serious consideration to the "appealing" idea of becoming a ship's master. "The skills and experience I would have needed to navigate a ship may have been fulfilling work, but the human dimension of sharing with others was missing for me," he said.

"Those training cruises to Europe and the Mediterranean were very easy to endure and I always loved the sea, but I decided to come ashore, to retire as a marine officer and follow my dream of teaching. I could not think of a better way to spend my life," he said.

He enrolled at Hofstra University where he earned a master's degree in secondary education in 1962. He earned a second master's degree in English from C.W. Post College in 1966 and a doctoral degree in the education and administration of recreation and outdoor education in 1968. "The field of parks and recreation was a natural choice for me to go into because I love the outdoors and camping in addition to teaching," he said.

For more than two decades, Lewis has prepared students to enter the field of recreation. He said he takes great pride and pleasure in the young professionals he has mentored. "Many of my students hold key jobs around the country and on leading university campuses as department chairmen and educators. Others are in city recreation programs or have become professional scouters. This is a great feeling of accomplishment for me to see what they have been able to make out of their lives due in part to our experience together."

From the time Lewis began his own studies he has been well aware of the value of transferring the principles and behaviors of one discipline to another. "I experienced no trouble along the way using a background in English as my foundation for further study," he said. "I could write grants, articles and books without it being the painful experience it was for many of my successful colleagues." For this reason, Lewis said he expects his students to write well. He encourages the attitude "you can do it, you just need to make the effort." He is willing to go beyond teaching HPER skills and information to nurturing students, he said, "because many of them will not attain the advanced degrees and superior positions they are capable of if I do not create excitement and comfort levels in students and then give them the push they need." Students may not always understand the relevance of what Lewis does to accomplish this task, but he said he is very sure that at a future date they will be grateful. "My courses are laid out in a way that students learn how to succeed even if they have a disastrous test result," he said.

Lewis continues to use the principles of other disciplines to enhance the field of recreation. In the last few years, he has created a special professional niche for himself as an expert witness in recreational litigation suits. He has testified in cases where people have been injured at parks, camps and playgrounds.

Lewis was instrumental in developing a specialized legal issues HPER course at the 400 level; it is one of only a few in the country. Students who take this course become members of what he calls the "Order of Legal Beagles" and are taught how to be acutely aware of and manage the risks and responsibilities of working with people and recreational programs.

Lewis said he understands the difficulties students face. "Today, there are challenges for students that we did not encounter," he said. "When I first came to UNCW 17 years ago, the student population was mostly a local one consisting largely of Hoggard, Laney and New Hanover high school graduates. Today, they are from all over the state with out-of-state and foreign student numbers rising significantly. Similarly, the faculty itself represents an interesting diversity and valuable composite due to modern social trends. It is essential for a teacher to help students make sense of this diversity and become comfortable with it," said Lewis. Promoting diversity has prompted Lewis to develop an international program. For four years he has managed a faculty exchange program in conjunction with professors from England, and he will be taking his second group of interdisciplinary students to London this summer.

"I am very proud of UNC Wilmington and the level to which this institution has matured. I have taught in three other state university systems including SUNY, New Hampshire and Hunter College of The City University of New York, and I view UNCW as being exceptional," Lewis said. "The administration never loses sight of why we are here, and opportunities always exist for faculty members to develop. We have all the signs of a healthy, growing institution, and as faculty we are not distracted by many problems faculty in other universities face."

Lewis feels successful because each of the teachers he had all the way through school helped him realize two important things: you are a student all of your life, and the good students always become teachers in the end, although only a percentage do so formally in the classroom. "I'll never stop teaching," he said.

Lewis has been married 36 years to his wife Helga and they have two daughters, Kristen and Heidi. Lewis also has two brothers and a sister. "Each of them has sent one or more children through UNCW," he said proudly.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 41 May 21, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

UNCW COMPLETES $25 MILLION CAPITAL CAMPAIGN; HONORS WILMINGTON CIVIC LEADER ROBERT WARWICK

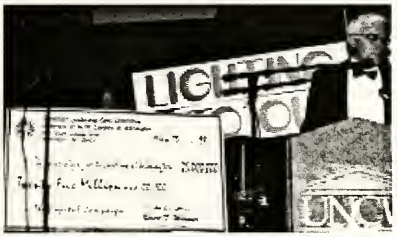
At a gala celebration to cap off its year-long 50th anniversary celebration, UNCW marked the successful completion of its first major capital campaign drive of $25 million and recognized civic leader and Wilmington College alumnus Robert Warwick with the naming of the University Center in his honor.

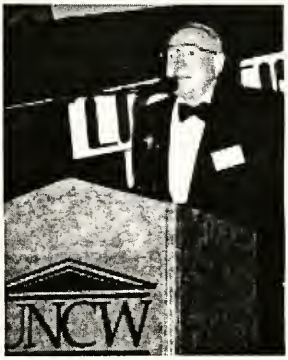
Capital campaign co-chairs Dan Cameron and Robert Warwick announced the campaign's completion during the Friday evening gala. Cameron presented a ceremonial check to UNCW Chancellor James R. Leutze. "This check fulfills our promise to you and the university," said Cameron. "Let it be the down payment on even greater things to come." In addition to the check, Warwick gave the chancellor a proclamation listing more than 430 donors who contributed $5,000 or more to the campaign.

The university's first major capital campaign was launched in 1992 with a goal of raising $15 million. The UNCW Board of Trustees expanded that goal to $25 million in 1994. The campaign was designed to build the university's endowment to fund scholarships, professorships and programs supporting UNCW's educational and service mission to the citizens of southeastern North Carolina.

In addition to commemorating the end of the 50th anniversary celebration and the capital campaign, UNCW Board of Trustees' Chair Hannah Dawson Gage announced the Board of Trustees' unanimous decision to recognize long-time UNCW supporter Robert Warwick with the naming of the University Center in his honor.

"As a native of Wilmington, an alumnus of Wilmington College, a graduate of the University of North Carolina and a business leader recognized across North Carolina and the nation, Bob Warwick is a community leader actively involved in the growth and welfare of our city and region." She added Warwick is a campus leader who has faithfully served both UNC Wilmington and the university system.





Top left: Chancellor James R. Leutze accepts a ceremonial $25 million check presented by campaign co-chairs Dan Cameron (above) and Bob Warwick. Right: Warwick presents the chancellor with donor proclamation.

While the announcement surprised Warwick, he expressed his appreciation for the honor. "It is a privilege to have had the opportunity to serve this university and the community," said Warwick. "I will continue to work for and raise money for this university, locally and on the Board of Governors."

Warwick, who is currently a member of the UNC Board of Governors, was also a member of the UNCW Board of Trustees serving two terms from 1989-97. He began his educational career at Wilmington College in 1955 prior to graduating from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1958. A certified public accountant, Warwick was managing partner of Lowrimore, Warwick and Co. from 1973 until its merger with McGladrey and Pullen, certified public accountants and consultants, in 1992. Warwick is also past president of the Greater Wilmington Chamber of Commerce and Committee of 100. In addition, he also chaired the UNCW Foundation and UNCW's Endowment Board.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Campus Communique Schedule

The Campus Communique will continue to publish each week during summer hours.

Summer Kayak Tours

The Discover Outdoor Center is holding summer kayak tours. The cost of the kayak trips is $10 and includes equipment, transportation and guides. Register at the Discover Outdoor Center, University Center, Room 138. Family, friends and first-time kayakers are welcome. For more information, call ext. 4052.

Kayak tours will be conducted the following times, dates and locations: noon to 5 p.m. June 5 at Fort Fisher basin, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 20 Brunswick River, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 11 Black River and noon to 5 p.m. July 24 Cape Fear River.

Mathematics Lecture

Peter Hardy from North Carolina State University will present "Characterizing Nilpotent Lie Algebras by Their Multipliers" at 2 p.m. today in Bear Hall, Room 208.

Discount Coupons

Discount coupons for admission to Paramount's Kings Dominion theme park are available to UNCW faculty and staff. Valid dates are May 23, 24, 25, 29, 30, 31 and June 6, 7, 13, 14. Coupons may be picked up in human resources.

Basketball Summer Camps

The UNCW Men's Basketball Program is sponsoring summer day camps from June 15-19 and July 20-24. Both are all-day boys' camps for students ages eight through rising high school senior. The cost is $175 for the child of faculty or staff. To attend both camps, the cost is $325. Lunch is included in the day camp fees. For more information, contact Elizabeth Lee at ext. 3045.

South African University Sends Representative to Observe Randall Library's Innopac System

Ellen Tise, deputy university librarian for client services at the University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa, visited UNCW's Randall Library to meet with Ron Johnson, systems librarian, Arlene Hannerfeld, associate university librarian for technical services, and public services staff. Tise observed UNCW's automated Innopac Library System (Innovative Interfaces Online Public Access Catalog) in full operation. Tise's interest was in learning how the system was set up to address all requirements of the UNC Coastal Library Consortium. UNCW is a member of the consortium.

The University of Witwatersrand is a member of the 16-institution Gaelic Library Consortium located in South Africa and has received a grant from the Mellon Foundation to purchase and implement the Innopac system.

Tise is a member of the third group of South African librarians who have visited Randall Library to observe implementation and operation of ROCK (Randall Online Catalog). "UNCW's reputation regarding how well it uses the Innopac library system is one of the best in the world," said Ron Johnson. "We receive calls regularly from universities in Canada, Europe and South Africa requesting us to share our experience and expertise."

According to Johnson, UNCW purchased a line of Innovative Interface's software modules in 1994 for use in the library's ordering, cataloging and circulation.

Note of Appreciation

Nadya Labib, commencement coordinator, would like to thank staff who served as commencement assistants May 16. Commencement assistants played a vital role in making the exercises a memorable event for UNCW graduates and families.

YWCA Cape Fear Women of Achievement Winners

Hildalissa Hernandez, physics, received the YWCA Cape Fear Women of Achievement Award in the education category during an awards banquet May 14. Hernandez, an associate professor, has taught in the Physics Department for 35 years. Also nominated in the education category was Yael Gold, counseling.

The following women received Certificates of Recognition: Annie Aldrich, telecommunications; Cathy Birmingham, university union; Sue Cody, Randall Library; Jessiebeth Geddie, bookstore; Michelle Howard-Vital, public service and extended education; Dianne Matthews, student development; Julie Owens, leadership programs; and Debra Wainwright, athletics.

The YWCA Cape Fear Women of Achievement awards and certificates recognize outstanding contributions and achievements by women active in business, professional or volunteer sectors in Brunswick, Columbus, New Hanover and Pender counties.

Campus Recreation Summer Schedule

Campus Recreation will observe the following summer schedule:

The fitness center will be open from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. and 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday. Aerobics will be held from noon to 1 p.m. and 5:15 to 6:15 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. Recreational swim will be held noon to 2 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. and noon to 1 p.m. Friday.

Summer Ads in the Communique

Starting with this edition, the Campus Communique will publish ads while the university observes summer hours. Ads must be submitted in writing by e-mail to communique, fax to ext. 3847 or campus mail at 108 Alderman Hall. Please include contact name and phone number. Due to space restrictions, ads will be published on a space-available basis with priority given to ads submitted by faculty and staff.

Entertainment Sought for Countdown on the Cape Fear

WECT-TV 6 is accepting entertainment proposals for the second annual Countdown on the Cape Fear, an alcohol-free community celebration of the arts held New Year's Eve. Faculty, staff and/or students with a particular talent in the arts can participate. Proposals for music, mime/movement, dance, theater, puppetry, storytelling, poetry, film, video and performance art will be accepted until June 30. Proposals will be reviewed by the Countdown on the Cape Fear committee, and selection criteria will be based on artistic merit, feasibility, appropriateness for the event and availability of funds. For an application, contact Annette Coneglio Anderson, public service and extended education, at ext. 3547 or 3193. UNCW will participate in the countdown as a venue sponsor.

Friday Picnic Location Changed

Student Leaders Reunion Set for May 29-31

The Division of Student Affairs will celebrate UNCW'S 50th anniversary and the division's 25th anniversary by hosting a Student Leader Reunion May 29-31. Former student leaders have been invited to return to campus and will be honored for helping establish the out-of-class educational opportunities that complement and extend classroom education today. Former division staff members have also been invited.

Faculty and staff are invited to the reunion weekend's kick-off event, a patio party from 7 to 10 p.m. May 29 in the courtyard of the University Union. Music, pizza and beverages will be provided. Saturday's events will begin at 10 a.m. and will feature discussions about life on campus today and about future plans for UNCW and student affairs. Student organizations and all division departments will host receptions following lunch. The day's events will end with a program saluting 50 years of student accomplishments as related by singer/songwriter Mike Cross. The reunion concludes with brunch on Sunday morning.

Schedule details and a list of alumni and staff who have registered to attend can be found at the reunion's web site http://www.uncwil.edu/stuaff/reunion. Contact Linda Moore, the reunion coordinator, at ext. 2659 if you would like to attend any of the events.

SUMMER ADS

For rent - S. Oleander apartment. $500/month. Non-smoker. No pets. Available July/August. Call 765-5081 or e-mail hillk@uncwil.edu.

For sale - attractive, 4 BR, two-story house in Glen Meade near Alderman School, 2217 S. Live Oak Parkway. Contact Tom Schmid, ext. 3409, or Catherine Schmid, 762-7907.

To sublet - book-filled furnished 1 BR apartment, 1 and 1/2 baths. Suitable for individual or couple. West 70's, convenient to Columbia, Lincoln Center, mid-town. Available mid-August until December 31, 1998. Length of stay negotiable. Rent: $1,080 per month plus electricity, phone and cable television. For further information, contact Tom Schmid, ext. 3409.

For rent - 2BR, 1 bath condo in historic overlay area. Heartpine floors, exposed brick, two fireplaces. $700 per month. Call ext. 3425.

For sale - Ford 150 XLT Eddie Bauer, 1996, low mileage, local owner. Blue/tan trim, tan interior, loaded, extra clean. Call 392-4586 and leave message.

For sale - Bundy alto saxophone with case, extras. Excellent condition. $600. Call Rick Roscher at ext. 3507.

For rent - recently remodeled, unfurnished two-bedroom, one-bath, duplex apartment. Available June 1. Short bicycle ride to university and shopping. One-car garage. Hardwood floors. Nice yard, maintenance provided. $625 per month plus one-month security deposit. Utilities not included. For more information, contact Roger or Pat Lowery at 350-0386 or ext. 3225.

For rent - 800 sq. ft. backyard cottage nestled on a one-acre lot in Plantation Gardens/Forest Hills area. Ten-minute drive to UNCW. Energy-efficient two-bedroom, one bath, central heat/air, washer/dryer hookup. No pets, no smokers. $650/month. Call 343-8449.

For sale - 1986 Buick Electra. Excellenct running condition, interior in good shape. All electric. $2,000. Perfect starter car. For more information, call ext. 3260.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Lisa Griffin, HPER, presented a workshop at the Northwest Ohio Special Education Regional Resource Center.

James Merritt, CMSR, received $9,975 for his project "Funding for Assistance in Management of Field Projects in Gray's Reef National Marine Sanctuary."

Robert Y. George, biological sciences, published the paper "Two New Species of Fish-predators, Cirolana bowmani N.Sp. and Conilera menziesi N. Sp., Isopod Crustaceans from Onslow Bay and Hatteras Slope off North Carolina Coast" in the current issue of the Journal of Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society vol. 13 no. 4 pp 162 - 172.

Randy Hanson and Jim Smith, accountancy and business law, had their article "Taxability of Damages" published in the most recent issue of the CPA Journal.

W. Thomas Schmid, philosophy and religion, published Plato's Charmides and the Socratic Ideal of Rationality in the Ancient Philosophy series edited by Anthony Preus, State University of New York Press.

E-mail submissions to COMMUNIQUE by noon Tuesdays, unless otherwise notified

Month-end Payroll

Employees on direct deposit for the month-end payroll will receive pay stubs in departmental mail effective with the May payroll. Pay stubs will be received in the afternoon mail run the day before payday. Employees receiving pay checks for month-end payroll will continue to have checks available at the cashier's office on scheduled paydays. Direct questions to Tammy Blizzard at ext. 3143.

4 Percent NC Tax Reminder

Effective Jan. 1, the university is required to withhold 4 percent for state income tax on personal services paid to nonresident (out-of-state) contractors. This tax withholding is required for the payment of personal services to independent contractors, partnerships, corporations and other businesses. Contact Tammy Blizzard at ext. 3143 with questions.

Service Awards Luncheon

The 1998 UNCW Service Awards Luncheon will be held from noon to 2 p.m. May 28 in Wagoner Hall. The master of ceremonies will be Jerry Wainwright, head coach of the men's basketball team. Guest speaker will be Michael Wentworth, English, recipient of the Board of Governor's Award for Excellence in Teaching.

Computer Operations Summer Hours on Friday

In observance of the summer work schedule, computer operations will close at 2 p.m. on Fridays. ADS, FRS and HRS will be shutdown batch processing at 1 p.m. on Fridays. SIS will remain online until 9 p.m. Contact Ray Humphries at ext. 3799 regarding exceptions to this schedule.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Dianne Brown, physical plant, and Tammy Mansur, OIT.

State Fund Purchases

The Purchasing Department attempts to obtain department's state-appropriated needs by June 30, the end of the fiscal year. Furniture, printing and equipment requisitions should already have been submitted. Supply requisitions are requested by May 29. Purchasing agents can process orders in June; however, purchasing cannnot guarantee delivery by June 30. If an order must be received in early July, a "future requisition" can be submitted to arrive after July 1 and be expended from the department's 1998-99 fiscal year budget. If this is necessary, clearly note when delivery is needed on the requisition.

New Physical Plant Work Request Form

Effective June 1, departments should begin using the revised Physical Plant Work Request form to request non-routine maintenance and repair that the requesting department will pay. The revised form will be available on the Printing Services Forms Catalog today.

Lunch Hour Meditation

The Counseling Center is sponsoring a weekly meditation hour from noon to 1 p.m. Thursdays through May 28 in the University Union, Room 210. Beginners welcome any week. For more information, contact Etta Breit at ext. 3746. No food, please.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Raymond Taylor and Michael T. Smith, physical plant, and Jeanmarie "Teri" Meadowcroft, purchasing, to help avoid leave without pay during illnesses. Send shared leave request forms to human resources. For more information, call Willina at ext. 3006.

Memorial Day

The university will be closed Monday in observance of Memorial Day.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-E51 Grad. Prog. Administrator	May 21
98-132 Office Assistant IV	May 22
98-133 Police Telecommunicator	May 22
98-134 Graphic Designer Comp. Supp. Tech II	May 29
98-135 Faculty Secretary Office Assistant III	May 29

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Student Health Center Summer Hours

The Student Health Center will observe the following summer hours through July 31. The center will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. and 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday. When the health center is closed, students can speak with a registered nurse at the Cape Fear Memorial Hospital Emergency Center by calling the Student Health Center and following prerecorded instructions.

The pharmacy summer hours will be from noon to 4 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. and 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Friday.

Learning Center Tutoring

The Learning Center will offer free tutoring on a limited basis during summer school. Tutors will be available for the following courses: ACG 201, 203; BIO 110, 205, 335; CHM 101, 102, 211, 212; ECN 221, 222; FIN 335; FRH 101, 102; HST 101; P&R 103; PHY 101, 102; PSY 105, 225; and SPN 101, 102, 120. Students who need tutoring should be directed to the Learning Center on the second floor, Westside Hall during summer office hours.

Gas Pump Summer Hours

The summer hours for the gas pump are: 6:30 to 8 a.m., 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. and 3 to 3:30 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. and 6:30 to 8 a.m. and 9 to 9:50 a.m. Friday. Any questions should be directed to the physical plant at ext. 3100 or 3101.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 43 June 4, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Chris Powell Named 1998 Staff Award of Excellence Recipient

Chris Powell, a research associate at the Center for Marine Science Research, received the 1998 UNCW Staff Award of Excellence. Chancellor James R. Leutze presented the award at the university's 23rd annual Service Awards Program at noon May 28 in Wagoner Hall.

Powell, one of seven nominees, was nominated in the "outstanding state service" category. The honor recognized his sense of duty and responsibility. Aside from Powell's general duties that include computer networking, software/hardware troubleshooting, maintenance of general electric equipment and electronic assistance, Powell was cited for donation of personal time to assist undergraduate and graduate students in downloading data from field research instruments.

The UNCW Staff Award of Excellence is presented to an employee whose service to the university exemplifies either devotion to duty, innovation, public service, human relations, or safety/heroism. Other nominees were Sharon Boyd, director of systems and procedures; Wayne Howell, university police; Linda Kremer, Cameron School of Business' student services manager; Linda MacRae, administrative assistant in the Office of Minority Affairs; Dana McKoy, administrative assistant/office manager in the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation; and Peggy Turner, coordinator of disability services.

As this year's recipient, Powell received a $1,500 cash award presented on behalf of the UNCW Board of Trustees, a reserved parking space for one year, three days of vacation leave, a presentation clock, framed certificate and his name on a perpetual plaque in the chancellor's office. The recipient of the UNCW Staff Award of Excellence becomes the university's nominee for the Governor's Award of Excellence, which is presented in September.

Michael Wentworth, the 1998 recipient of the UNC Board of Governors' Award for Excellence in Teaching, served as guest speaker. Jerry Wainwright, UNCW men's basketball head coach, acted as the master of ceremonies.

Additionally, each year the university recognizes employees achieving five-year anniversary levels of state service and retiring employees. This year's employees recognized were:

5 Years
Jane Bailey
Sherri Batson
Michael Bradley
Nadine Brimage
David Donaldson
Matilda Eason
Angelia Edwards
Willie Gibbs
Duane Grooms
Lesia Heltzel
Melvin Jackson
Nancy Jones
Gail Joy
Faith Joyce
Richard Judd
Melanie Kelley
Sherry King
Valeria Lane
Louis Leiner
Gia Long
Timothy Necaise
Elizabeth Schaffer
Jane Scott
Brock Snyder
Daniel Suits
Woody Sutton
Harry Whitted
William Wooten

10 Years
Margaret Astraikis
Daniel Aten
Diane Billings
Marquita Brown
Martha Darrow
Mary Faulk
Mark Gay
Bill Graves
James Hatcher
Wayne Howell
Edwina Johnson
Jeff Jolly
Christina Kaberline
Metta King
Julie Lewis
Virginia Lundeen
Martha MacLennan
Jocelyn Medley
Charles Mills
Lucille Mills
John Mohr
Alan Monteith
Sandra Moore
Laura Powell
Nathaniel Purdy
Judith Siko
Dorothy Taylor
Emma K. Thornton
Bill Tyner
Sophie Williams
Charles Willis
Martha Wyatt

15 Years
Phyllis Adams
Annette Anderson
Patricia Deanes
Daniel Geddie
Ethel Gerald
Marcia James
Dianne Jones
Brenda Jordan
Alice Maile
Betty Mills
Robert Morris
Mary Nixon
Betty Osteen
Fermond Parson
John Ragins
Freedia Raynor
Vincent Tryer
Cassandra Ward
Pamela Whitlock
Sandra Williams

20 Years
Margaret Bailey
Horace Tal Cowell
Greg Dalton
Fred Green
Dianne Matthews
Ike Mitchell
Mary Powell
Sondra Roark
Gayle Rogers

25 Years
James Bahen
Ruth Lawrence
Michael Sheehan

30 Years
Patricia Joseph
L. Murrie Lee

Retirees
Joyce Abernathy
Linda Flowers
Betsy Stallard

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Artwork on Display

The exhibit "Twelve Portraits of Julia and More" by artist John K. Echo will be on display through August 10 in the Warwick Center Lobby Gallery, formerly the University Center. Echo, a graduate of Metropolitan State University in St. Paul, Minn., draws from his experience as a Navy photographer, production artist and pottery and sculpture teacher.

Educational Lab Summer Tutoring

The Education Lab will offer tutoring for children K-6 in reading/language arts and math. UNCW education students will be matched one-on-one with a child for tutoring sessions. Children will attend one-hour sessions daily Mon.-Thurs. between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. in King Hall, Room 203. Tutoring will be from July 7-23. Tutoring fees are $75 for 10 hours elementary reading/language arts, $150 for 20 hours elementary reading/math and $75 for 10 hours elementary math. For more information, call ext. 3633.

UNCW International Friendship Program Seeking Hosts

The Office of International Programs is seeking hosts for the English as a Second Language students attending UNCW June 27 to July 31. A "host" can be an individual, couple or a family who would like to offer friendship and assistance to a student in getting settled and feeling welcome in a new environment. The students will be living on campus. For more information, contact Heather Smith at ext. 7009 or e-mail smithh.

Fall Activities Calendar

The Activities and Leadership Center is planning the 1998 fall Campus Activities calendar. Send event information as soon as possible to Marian Bennett in the University Union, Room 214. Include the date, time, and location. To e-mail information, use the address bennettm. If possible, the calendar will incorporate provided photographs or logos. Any questions should be directed to Marian at ext. 3827.

Soccer Summer Camp

UNCW's women's soccer will host an advanced residential/day camp July 5-10 for females ages 11 through 18. For more information, contact Paul Cairney at ext. 3932.

Baseball Camps

The Seahawk baseball program will hold a day camp from 9 a.m. to noon June 15-19 for players ages 5 to 12. Boy and girl campers will be grouped according to age and skill level. The camp will include demonstrations, drills, instructional videos, games and contests. Each camper will receive a camp T-shirt. The cost is $80 and campers must provide their own glove.

There will also be a hitting camp from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 22-24 for children age eight to 15. The camp's primary focus is to develop a sound hitting approach through lecture, demonstration and practice of basic hitting mechanics. Each camper will receive a written evaluation. The cost of this camp is $70 per child.

Hawk's Nest and Orientation

On June 10, 17 and 22, parent orientation lunches will be served in the Hawk's Nest Glassroom from 11:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. Faculty, staff and students who plan to eat lunch in the Hawk's Nest on those days will need to pay to go through the buffet line in the Glassroom. Regular "food court" lunch service will be suspended on June 11, 18 and 22.

On June 8, 11, 15, 18 and 23, orientation box lunches will be distributed at the Glassroom. Many orientation participants will be in and around the Hawk's Nest; however, regular service will be provided.

The Orientation Office appreciates the campus community's enthusiasm welcoming new students and parents. If you have any questions, contact Karla Carney or Judy Gale at ext. 3089.

Farewell Reception

The Office of Enrollment Affairs invites the campus community to a farewell reception for Anne Collins, assistant director of admissions, that will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. June 16 in the admissions lobby area of James Hall. Collins is retiring following 14 years of teaching and 16 years in the Admissions Office.

Women's Basketball Summer Camp

The UNCW Women's Basketball Program is offering a day camp from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 3-6 for girls ages 8 to 13. The cost of the camp is $135 for children of UNCW faculty and staff and $145 for others. For more information, call ext. 3418.

Summer Kayak Tours

The Discover Outdoor Center is holding summer kayak tours. The cost of the kayak trips are $10 and includes equipment, transportation and guides. Register at the Discover Outdoor Center, University Center, Room 138. Family, friends and first-time kayakers are welcome. For more information, call ext. 4052.

Kayak tours will be conducted the following dates and locations: noon to 5 p.m. June 5 at Fort Fisher basin, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 20 Brunswick River, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 11 Black River and noon to 5 p.m. July 24 Cape Fear River.

Discount Coupons

Discount coupons for admission to Paramount's Kings Dominion theme park are available to UNCW faculty and staff. Valid dates are and June 6, 7, 13 and 14. Coupons may be picked up in human resources.

Switchboard Summer Hours

The summer hours for the switchboard are 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. and 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday.

Communique Editor, ext. 7223

Air Force Jazz Ensemble to Perform in Kenan Auditorium June 11

The United States Air Force Rhythm in Blue Jazz Ensemble will perform at 8 p.m. June 11 in Kenan Auditorium. The musical group, from Langley Air Force Base, Va., performs a variety of music from Glenn Miller to Count Basie to contemporary jazz-pop sounds. Free tickets to the program, sponsored by Kenan Auditorium, are available at the auditorium's box office. The Rhythm in Blue Jazz Ensemble is the official jazz ensemble of the USAF Heritage of America Band. The 18-member band has produced numerous recordings including Rockin' in Rhythm, a highly acclaimed tribute to Duke Ellington.

The saxophone section of the Rhythm in Blue Jazz Ensemble perform.

Academy Offers Academic Fellowship

Cape Fear Academy, a college preparatory independent school, is offering a merit scholarship to an incoming student in grades 9-12 for the upcoming school year. The "Cape Fear Academy Academic Fellowship" is a one-half tuition credit, renewable annually through graduation. Families may also apply for need-based financial aid in addition to the scholarship. Criteria include evidence of a commitment to academic excellence, leadership skills, a love of learning, and a well-rounded approach to school and extra-curricular activities. An information session about the Cape Fear Academy Upper School Program and the fellowship program will be held at 7 p.m. June 15 at the school, located at 3900 S. College Road. For more information, contact Susan Harrell, Cape Fear Academy admissions director, at 791-0287 ext. 202.

Art Exhibit

"Explorations in Print" by artist James B. Myers will be on display through Aug. 10 in the University Union Living Room. A "Meet the Artist" reception will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. June 11 in the University Union Living Room.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Martin Posey, biological sciences, received $26,633 for his project "Monitoring of Benthic Faunal Responses to Sediment Removal Associated with the Carolina Beach and Vicinity - Area South Project."

David Blake, earth sciences, received $8,000 for his project to conduct geologic mapping of crystalline rocks of the Tar River Area near Wilton, Kittrell, Franklinton and Grisson.

Patricia H. Kelley, earth sciences, presented the paper "Paleoecology of the Maryland Miocene" and led a one-day field trip at the Geological Society of America Penrose Conference on "Linking Spatial and Temporal Scales in Paleoecology and Ecology" in Solomons, Md.

Stephen A. Skrabal, chemistry, presented the poster "Copper-complexing Ligands in Estuarine Waters: The Role of Sediments" at the Gordon Conference on Chemical Oceanography in Barga, Italy. His co-authors were John R. Donat and David J. Burdige of Old Dominion University.

Barry Salwen, music, has been invited to participate this summer in a six-week seminar of the National Endowment for the Humanities devoted to the works of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht. Invitation to the seminar, being held in Berlin, comes with full Endowment support, and a grant in the amount of $3,700. Salwen's independent research project will be on Zeitoper, a genre to which Brecht's texts contributed. One projected outgrowth of the seminar is a new course on modern music and theatre, which Salwen has proposed to be team-taught with a member of the art and theatre faculty.

Andy Shepard, associate director of UNCW's National Undersea Research Center, will serve as a program officer for NOAA's National Undersea Research Program (NURP) in Silver Spring, Md., starting June 1. The 12-month contract involves grant management, public relations and liaison with other government programs to leverage NURP research activities.

P.J. Lapaire, foreign languages and literatures, presented the diplomas to the graduating students of St. Thomas Pre-School and Child Development Center.

E-mail submissions to COMMUNIQUE by noon Tuesdays, unless otherwise notified

Printing Reminders

Orders for business cards, letterheads and envelopes must be submitted to printing services by June 15 for items to be purchased out of the current year's budget. For deadlines on other printing needs, contact the Copy Center or Print Shop.

Invoice Deadline

All interdepartmental invoices to be paid for fiscal year 1997-98 must be processed and forwarded to accounting by June 26. Contact Sondra Roark at ext. 3150 with questions.

Travel Reimbursements

All travel reimbursements to be paid from 1997-98 fiscal year's budget should be in accounting by June 26. All travel advances must be satisfied prior to June 30. For questions concerning year-end procedures, call Tammy Blizzard at ext. 3143.

Travel for Fiscal Year 1997-98

Travel taking place in the next fiscal year that does not require payment from this year's budget may be entered as a future requisition "FR." Direct questions to Betty Mills at ext. 3149.

Check Requests

Check requests to be paid from the 1997-98 budget should be in accounting by June 26. Contact Jan Riemersma at ext. 3227 with questions.

Cashier's Office Renovation

The cashier's office will be undergoing renovations June 11-30. All cashier functions will be handled at the student accounts window. The student account functions will be temporarily relocated to the Hinton James conference room located in the lobby of James Hall. There will be no change in phone numbers.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Michael T. Smith and Patricia Ivey, physical plant, and Jeanmarie "Teri" Meadowcroft, purchasing, to help avoid leave without pay during illnesses. Send leave request forms to human resources. For more information, call Willina at ext. 3006.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Betty Clark, curricular studies; Nancy Gilmore, auxiliary services; Brandon Shelley, physical plant; and Richard Sisk, university police.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-136 Processing Assistant III	June 5
98-137 Campus Activities Coordinator	June 5
98-138 Fitness Coordinator	June 5
98-139 Office Manager	June 5
98-140 University Events Coordinator	June 5
98-143 Career Development Counselor	June 26
98-144 Computer Operator-Senior	June 12

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Employee Reviews

SPA employee performance reviews for departments on a fiscal cycle are due in human resources by June 12. If you have any questions, call Brenda Jordan at ext. 3274.

Purchasing Reminders

The delivery requirement for state-appropriated purchases is June 30. All equipment and supply orders should already be processed in order for the purchasing staff to devote time to acquiring and invoicing goods. If state fund-supported orders do not arrive by June 30, the expense will be carried over to next fiscal year's budget. Purchasing agents are available to answer your questions as necessary.

Any orders placed through the World Wide Web are considered personal and should be handled in that manner. Orders between $50 and $150 can be reimbursed to an individual employee with prior approval from a purchasing agent. Direct any procedural questions to Mary at ext. 3154.

SUMMER ADS

For sale - Baby carriage, car seat, swing and slide set, toys, clothes, shoes, etc. Call 791-4914.

For rent - Faculty home for the summer or by the week. Furnished, 3 bedroom 2 bath with large in-ground pool, avail. July 10-Aug. 10, ext. 3561 (day) or 791-8083 (eve.), references, no pets.

For sale - 1987 Ford Ranger Truck, blue with blue interior, V-6, 108,000 miles, one owner. Asking price $2,650. Call 686-0209 and ask for Tylon.

For rent - New Carleton Condominium. 3 bedrooms, 2 and 1/2 baths, loft, fireplace, garage. Beautiful new spacious condo adjacent to campus. No pets. $1200 per month, 1 year lease. Call ext. 3776 or 686-1282.

For sale or rent - Almost new 1,800 sq. ft. townhome overlooking 17th fairway at the Cape. 3 bedroom, 2.5 bath, 2 car gargage, screened porch and deck. Nicely decorated with numerous upgrades. $164,500 or $1,250/month. Call Dolores Brookshire at ext. 3206 or 395-0309.

Wanted - Baby jogging stroller. Call ext. 3223.

For rent - 2 bedroom, 2 1/2 bath condo at Wrightsville West. Very close to beach. Fireplace, washer/dryer. Community pool and tennis court. $825 per month. No pets or smokers. Contact Steve Swart at ext. 3077 or 256-4958.

For sale - 1986 Buick Electra. Excellent running condition, interior in good shape. All electric. $2,000. Perfect starter car. For more information, call ext. 3260.

For sale - Attractive, 4 bedroom, two-story house in Glen Meade near Alderman School, 2217 S. Live Oak Parkway. Contact Tom Schmid, ext. 3409, or Catherine Schmid, 762-7907.

This is recyclable.

ANDREW J OUTKA
ARCHIVIST/REFERENCE LIBRARIAN
LIBRARY SERVICES

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 44 June 11, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Coastal Carolina Economy to Grow 10.4 Percent During Next 12 Months

The UNCW Cameron School of Business and the Coastal Carolina University Wall School of Business released their analysis of local economic conditions in late 1997 - early 1998 and their forecast for the coastal Carolina economy for the next 12 months during a press conference June 5 at Ocean Creek Resort in Myrtle Beach. Economic activity in the four-county coastal economy (Brunswick, New Hanover, and Pender Counties in North Carolina and Horry County, South Carolina) rose almost 13.6 percent over 1997. This growth was substantially above the 1997 growth rate in the national economy of 3.8 percent. Economic activity in the four-county area is projected to rise 10.4 percent over the next 12 months, i.e., between now and the end of first quarter 1999.

The analysis and forecast were conducted by UNCW's Claude Farrell, economics; William W. Hall, Jr., director of the Center for Business and Economics Services; and Thomas W. Secrest, director of the Center for Economic and Community Development at Coastal Carolina University. Their work is supported by the NC/SC Border Conference Initiative, a joint project of Coastal Carolina University and UNC Wilmington.

Commenting on the regional forecast, the economists see the growth occurring across virtually all sectors of the regional economy including manufacturing, construction, retail and leisure-related industries. Economic activity will grow at an annual compound rate of 10 percent during second quarter 1998 and 9.7 percent during the third quarter of the year. The growth rate will fall to 9.5 percent during fourth quarter 1998 and to 9.3 percent during first quarter 1999.

Economic activity in the coastal counties of Brunswick, New Hanover and Pender rose almost 13 percent over 1997. The area's unemployment rate averaged 3.9 percent over the year, compared to 5.4 percent over 1996. The economists forecast that overall economic activity in these three counties will grow 8.8 percent over the next 12 months. Economic activity will grow at an annual compound rate of 8 percent during the second quarter of 1998 and 7.8 percent during the third quarter of the year. The growth rate will fall to 7.6 percent during fourth quarter 1998 and to 7.5 percent during first quarter 1999. Average monthly employment will rise 4.2 percent to 124,800, and the unemployment rate will average 3.5 percent.

Economic activity in Horry County rose 11 percent over 1997. The area's unemployment rate averaged 4.5 percent over the year, compared to 5.5 percent over 1996. The economists forecast that overall economic activity in the county will rise 10.2 percent over the next 12 months. Average monthly employment will rise 11 percent to 101,700, and the area's unemployment rate will average 5.5-6 percent. Economic activity will grow at an annual compound rate of 9.7 percent during the second quarter of 1998 and 9.4 percent during the third quarter of the year. The growth rate will slow to 9.2 percent during fourth quarter 1998 and to 9 percent during first quarter 1999.

UNCW Faculty, Students Part of Shakespeare Festival

Four UNCW faculty and 11 theatre students are participating in this year's Cape Fear Shakespeare in the Park festival.

"All of the people involved do a variety of things; some are cast members and some do the technical aspects," said Thomas Macie, associate professor of theatre, who is the set designer for both productions.

The festival will run the entire month of June with Othello performances scheduled June 11-14 and The Comedy of Errors June 18-21 and 25-28. All shows will begin at 8 p.m. at Greenfield Lake Amphitheatre.

Other faculty members involved in the productions include Chester Loeffler-Bell, technical director and lighting designer for Othello; Alex Sargent, costume designer for both shows; and Rosalinda Medina, costume shop foreperson, costume design and construction assistant.

Participating students include Amy Bristol in the role of Desdemona in Othello and Sarah McKinney portraying Luce in The Comedy of Errors. Other students involved are Rebecca Hardin-Thrift, Melinda Sugarick, Michael McGuire, Rebecca Powell, Andrew Rush, Anna Maria Cancelli, Mia Williams and David Bruce.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Fire Extinguisher Training Offered

The Safety Department will offer portable fire extinguisher training at 10 a.m. July 8, 22 and 3 p.m. July 15. There is a $5 charge for this training. To register, call ext. 3057.

USAF Band to Perform in Kenan Auditorium

The United States Air Force Rhythm in Blue Jazz Ensemble will perform at 8 p.m. tonight in Kenan Auditorium. The musical group from Langley Air Force Base, Va., performs a variety of music from Glenn Miller to Count Basie to contemporary jazz-pop sounds. Free tickets to the program, sponsored by Kenan Auditorium, are available at the auditorium's box office. The Rhythm in Blue Jazz Ensemble is the official jazz ensemble of the USAF Heritage of America Band. The 18-member band have produced numerous recordings including Rockin' in Rhythm, a highly acclaimed tribute to Duke Ellington.

Soccer Summer Camp

UNCW's women's soccer will host an advanced residential/day camp July 5-10 for females ages 11 through 18. For more information, contact Paul Cairney at ext. 3932

Women's Basketball Summer Camp

The UNCW women's basketball program is offering a day camp from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 3-6 for girls ages eight to 13. The cost of the camp is $135 for children of UNCW faculty and staff and $145 for others. For more information, call ext. 3418.

Travel for Fiscal Year 1997-98

Travel taking place in the next fiscal year that does not require payment from this year's budget may be entered as a future requisition "FR." Direct questions to Betty Mills at ext. 3149.

Baseball Camps

The Seahawk baseball program will hold a day camp from 9 a.m. to noon June 15-19 for players age five to 12. Boy and girl campers will be grouped according to age and skill level. The camp will include demonstrations, drills, instructional videos, games and contests. Each camper will receive a camp T-shirt. The cost is $80, and campers must provide their own glove.

There will also be a hitting camp from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 22-24 for children age eight to 15. The camp's primary focus is to develop a sound hitting approach through lecture, demonstration and practice of basic hitting mechanics. Each camper will receive a written evaluation. The cost of this camp is $70 per child.

Summer Kayak Tours

The Discover Outdoor Center is holding summer kayak tours. The cost of the kayak trips is $10 and includes equipment, transportation and guides. Register at the Discover Outdoor Center, University Center, Room 138. Family, friends and first-time kayak users are welcome. For more information, call ext. 4052.

Kayak tours will be conducted the following dates at these locations: 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 20 Brunswick River, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 11 Black River and noon to 5 p.m. July 24 Cape Fear River.

Discount Coupons

Discount coupons for admission to Paramount's Kings Dominion theme park are available to UNCW faculty and staff. Valid dates are June 12, 13, 14, 19, 20, 21, 26, 27 and 28. Coupons may be picked up in human resources.

Check Requests

Check requests to be paid from the 1997-98 budget should be in accounting by June 26. Contact Jan Riemersma at ext. 3227 with questions.

June 30 Deadline for Countdown Entertainment Proposals

June 30 is the deadline for entertainment proposals for the second annual Countdown on the Cape Fear, an alcohol-free community celebration of the arts held New Year's Eve. Faculty, staff and/or students with a particular talent in the arts can participate. WECT-TV 6 will accept proposals for music, mime/movement, dance, theater, puppetry, storytelling, poetry, film, video and performance art. Proposals will be reviewed by the Countdown on The Cape Fear committee, and selection criteria will be based on artistic merit, feasibility, appropriateness for the event and availability of funds. For an application, contact Annette Coneglio Anderson, public service and extended education, at ext. 3547 or 3193. UNCW will participate in the countdown as a venue sponsor.

Basketball Summer Camps

The UNCW men's basketball program is sponsoring summer day camps from June 15-19 and July 20-24. Both are all-day boys' camps for students ages eight through rising high school senior. The cost is $175 for the child of faculty or staff. To attend both camps, the cost is $325. Lunch is included in the day camp fees. For more information, contact Elizabeth Lee at ext. 3045.

Farewell Reception

The Office of Enrollment Affairs invites the campus community to a farewell reception for Anne Collins, assistant director of admissions, that will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. June 16 in the admissions lobby area of James Hall. Collins is retiring following 14 years of teaching and 16 years in admissions.

Communique Editor, ext. 7223

UNCW Recognized for Community Service at YMCA's Black Achievers Awards Banquet

The University of North Carolina at Wilmington was recognized for its support of youth at the YMCA's 1998 Black Achievers Awards Banquet held May 21 in the University Center Ballroom.

Douglas Johnson, interim director of admissions, accepted the award on the university's behalf.

The Offices of Enrollment Affairs and Minority Affairs have been involved with the YMCA Black Achievers Program since 1997, said Denis Carter, associate provost for enrollment affairs. "Our offices have been working with several programs including the Black Achievers Program to acquaint youth with the opportunities of a college education through campus tours, mentoring and providing parents with financial aid information."

He added that UNCW involved program members in the Legislative College Opportunity Program, a scholarship opportunity for students in middle and high school. This scholarship provides funds to cover first-year college tuition and fees at UNCW. In order to participate in the program, students, with parental permission, commit to form good study habits and academic mentoring. Other requirements include taking the PSAT in 10th grade, the SAT or ACT in the 11th grade and applying for college admission as well as participating in college preparation activities and visits. Students must also maintain a 'B' average and 95 percent attendance record.

The Black Achievers Program completed its second year of operation in Wilmington. Originating in New York in 1971, the program is in 140 YMCA branches including the Wilmington Family YMCA.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Michael Durako, biological sciences and CMSR, presented the paper "Changes in the Distribution, Abundance and Species Composition of Florida Bay Seagrasses: 1995-97" at the 1998 Florida Bay Science Conference in Miami.

Raymonde B. Kleinberg, political science, presented her paper "Mexico's Integration with the Global Economy: Its Process and Effects" at the British Society for Latin American Studies held at the University of Liverpool.

Joanne Rockness, business, has been elected to a three-year term on the board of directors of the N.C. Association of CPA's.

Photo by Dale Lockwood

Nominees for the UNCW Staff Award of Excellence who were recognized at the May 28 luncheon: pictured left to right, Sharon Boyd, Wayne Howell, Linda Kremer, Dana McKoy, the 1998 recipient Chris Powell and Peggy Turner with Chancellor Leutze. Not pictured is Linda MacRae.

Noah W. Allen, III, chemistry, gave an invited talk co-authored by Ned H. Martin, chemistry, entitled "Development of a Proton NMR Shielding Model for the Face of a Phenyl Ring and Other Functional Groups with Application to DNA Intercalation Geometry" as part of Cray Fellows Research Day at the N.C. Supercomputing Center. Martin presented the poster "Modeling Proton NMR Shielding by the Carbon-Carbon Double Bond," co-authored by Noah W. Allen III, Everett K. Minga and Sal T. Ingrassia at N.C. Supercomputing Center User Forum. At the same forum Allen presented the poster "A Proton NMR Shielding Model for the Face of a Benzene Ring" co-authored by Martin and Luong Vo.

Jack Levy, chemistry, presented the poster "Coulombic Basis for Relative Hydrogen-Bonding Basicities of Tertiary Amine Oxides and Phosphine Oxides" at the User Forum, N.C. Supercomputing Center.

Steven Dworkin, psychology, received $36,733 for his project "Selective Opioid Receptors Involved in Cocaine Reinforcement."

E-mail submissions to COMMUNIQUE by noon Tuesdays, unless otherwise notified

Central Stores Closing for Inventory

Central stores will be closed for inventory June 26-30. Electronic ordering will be discontinued at 5 p.m. June 25. Emergency and walk-in orders will be processed. Normal operations will resume at 8 a.m. July 1.

Printing Reminders

Orders for business cards, letterheads and envelopes must be submitted to printing services by June 15 for items to be purchased out of the current year's budget. For time lines on other printing needs, contact the Copy Center or Print Shop.

Cashier's Office Renovation

The cashier's office will be undergoing renovations through June 30. All cashier functions will be handled at the student accounts window. The student account functions will be temporarily relocated to the Hinton James conference room located in the lobby of James Hall. There will be no change in phone numbers.

Employee Reviews

SPA employee performance reviews for departments on a fiscal cycle are due in human resources by Friday. If you have any questions, call Brenda Jordan at ext. 3274.

Invoice Deadline

All interdepartmental invoices to be paid for fiscal year 1997-98 must be processed and forwarded to accounting by June 26. Contact Sondra Roark at ext. 3150 with questions.

Travel Reimbursements

All travel reimbursements to be paid from 1997-98 fiscal year's budget should be in accounting by June 26. All travel advances must be satisfied prior to June 30. For questions concerning year-end procedures, call Tammy Blizzard at ext. 3143.

Receiving Goods

Timely processing of paper is critical near the end of the fiscal year. Be attentive to receiving goods and sign purchase order pink receiving copies quickly. "Expected Delivery" dates should be printed in the upper right hand corner of the PO copy. Purchasing staff will be looking at all open PO's particularly those with exceeded delivery dates. For departments concerned about a particular PO, do not call the vendor; call the appropriate agent for that order. When receiving goods, inspect and install the same day items are received, if at all possible. Most vendors have a 30-day exchange policy to resolve problems. Save all boxes and packing materials for at least four weeks to ensure that any discrepancy in orders or defective items can be returned without complication. Receiving discrepancies can be addressed with Tina at ext. 3156.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Patricia Ivey, physical plant, and Jeanmarie "Teri" Meadowcroft, purchasing, to help avoid leave without pay during illnesses. Send vacation leave request forms to human resources. For more information, call Willina at ext. 3006.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employee: Derrick Clemmons, physical plant.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-143 Career Development Counselor	June 26
98-144 Computer Operator-Senior	June 12
98-145 Housekeeper	June 19

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

SUMMER ADS

For sale - 1997 Mazda Miata, 5 speed, touring package, 10,000 miles. Montego blue/ black top. excellent condition. Must sell. $17,900. Call ext .7058.

For rent - Carleton Townhomes, 3 BR, 2 1/2 bath, garage, patio, cathedral ceilings w/skylight, gas fireplace. Washer/dryer. $1,150 per month. Ready by mid-July. Call Eric at 675-6720 or 395-5122.

For sale - This End Up furniture love seat, chair, end table, twin bed, water bed, oak bed room set, oak dining room set. All in great condition. Call Michelle with offers at ext. 4298.

For sale - Antique oak dresser $350, antique high back oak bed $375. Contact Jan Riemersma at ext. 3227 or 686-9515.

For rent - Townhouse at the Cape. 3 BR, 2 1/2 bath, garage, fireplace, on golf course. Available now. $1,200 per month. Call 799-1956 or 791-0033.

For sale - Electrolux Epic shampoo/polisher complete with brushes, nap lifters and shampoo. Superb, like-new condition with three-year warranty. $400. Call 392-7985 or e-mail campbellp.

For rent - Townhouse in Stonesthrow. 1,600 sq. ft. 3 BR, 2 1/2 baths, pool, tennis, clubhouse. Available mid-July. Refrigerator, courtyard, storage, new carpet and paint. Prefer non-smoking. Call Boyd and Derma Lambert at 704/578-5614.

For rent - Seahawk Square, furnished 1 BR, 1 bath. New carpet. Call Boyd and Derma Lambert at 704/578-5614.

Wanted - Urdu or Hindi-speaking nanny or babysitter to help care for three-year-old grandson arriving from Pakistan in August/September. Call Nancy at 792-1320 and leave message.

Wanted - Tutor to teach grandparents Urdu before August. Call Nancy at 792-1320.

This is recyclable.

ANDREW J DUTKA
ARCHIVIST/REFERENCE LIBRARIAN
LIBRARY SERVICES

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 45 June 18, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

University Police Receives Federal Grant for Communication Improvements

UNCW's Police Department is one of eight local agencies to benefit from a federal grant which provided funds to Congressman Mike McIntyre and Gov. Jim Hunt's Crime Commission. Rep. McIntyre announced the awards during a press conference June 12.

University Police received $29,062.50 to purchase and install five mobile computer terminals in patrol vehicles.

"This will allow UNCW officers to communicate statewide with other police departments and state agencies," said Doug Freeman, the department's system coordinator. "The system will also help maintain communication during emergencies such as hurricanes."

He thanked Rep. McIntyre and his staff for their efforts in acquiring the funding.

Securing federal funding for state and local government programs illustrates the cooperation needed to reduce crime and help victims, said Rep. McIntyre. "Commitment, cooperation and community are necessary to accomplish the job." He added that a cooperative effort is needed to reduce crime and maintain a community where it is possible to live, work and worship together, create a business atmosphere and a safe environment for children.

Other agencies receiving awards were the Dispute Settlement Center of Cape Fear, New Hanover High School, Domestic Violence Shelter and Services, Coastal Horizons Center Inc., Wilmington International Airport, Kure Beach Police Department and Legal Services of Cape Fear.

As Rep. Mike McIntyre (left) looks on, Doug Freeman, university police system coordinator, explains how the federal grant will benefit UNCW and the community.

New Biology Department Chair Named

L. Scott Quackenbush, former chair of the Department of Biological Sciences at Florida International University, has been chosen to head UNCW's Department of Biological Sciences. He is expected to start July 1.

Ron Sizemore, department chair for the past nine years, will continue to teach in the department.

Quackenbush received his bachelor's degree from the University of Minnesota and his doctoral degree from Florida State University.

Randall Parkway Extension Alternatives Topic of June 24 Campus Meeting

A public meeting on the environmental feasibility of extending Randall Parkway will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. June 24 in the new Science Building, Room 134.

Interested individuals are encouraged to attend this meeting which will consist of a short presentation of the study by the URS Grenier project team, followed by a short question/answer session. The assembly will then break into small groups where consulting staff and representatives of UNCW, the Wilmington Metropolitan Planning Organization and the N.C. Department of Transportation will answer questions related to the Randall Parkway Environmental Feasibility Study. Information gathered at this workshop will be considered in the preparation of final recommendations of the study.

The options concerning Randall Parkway to be discussed include eight "build" alternatives as well as the "no-build" alternative. The presentation will summarize the impact estimates by alternative and include information on the transportation benefits of each "build" alternative. Issues to be discussed include wetlands impacts, UNCW campus impacts, residential impacts and other impacts to the human environment.

For more information, contact Scott Hoffield at URS Grenier Inc. at 919/876-2760.

Faculty are encouraged to announce this important meeting during classes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Review Base Budgets on FRS

Reminder to all vice chancellors, deans, directors and department chairs: the 1998-99 base budget for all general funds accounts is available for review on FRS screen 022 in the next year column. This budget will automatically roll over June 30 to become the next fiscal year's budget. For realignments to the base budget between temporary wages (1400) or contracted services (1900) and operational lines (2000 through 5000), process a SCRI budget revision. Any questions or requests for a copy of the SCRI budget revision form should be addressed to the budget office at ext. 3914.

Note of Appreciation

Linda MacRae, student academic support programs, thanks everyone for the support given to her following the loss of her husband, Frederick."The flowers, cards, visits and other acts of kindness helped to make a tragic event bearable," she said.

Print Shop and Copy Center Inventory

The print shop and Copy Center will be closed for inventory June 29 and 30.

Retirement Reception

The School of Nursing invites the campus community to a retirement reception for Mary Westbrook, faculty secretary, from 2 to 4 p.m. today in the lobby of Hoggard Hall.

Fire Extinguisher Training Offered

The Safety Department is offering portable fire extinguisher training at 10 a.m. July 8 and 22 and at 3 p.m. July 15. There is a $5 charge for this training. To register, call ext. 3057.

Direct Deposit of Summer School Pay

Summer school pay will now be sent direct deposit for employees whose regular monthly pay check is on direct deposit.

Wilmington Symphony Hosts Golf Tournament

The Wilmington Symphony Orchestra will host its inaugural golf classic June 22 at the Landfall Club. Registration will begin at 7 a.m. with play set to start at 9 a.m.

The captain's choice tournament will be held on the Nicklaus course. Golfers will have the chance to win four hole-in-one prizes including cars from Parkway Volvo and Baughman Toyota and a lady's Rolex watch from Reed's. Interested players may register for $150 individually or $600 for teams of four. A buffet luncheon and awards presentation will be held at the tournament's conclusion. For more information or registration, contact the Wilmington Symphony Orchestra office at 791-9262.

Note of Appreciation

The family of Eddy Cavenaugh, management information support, would like to thank everyone for the thoughts, prayers, cards and flowers during the loss of his mother and father.

Psychology Experiment Subjects Sought

Participants between the ages of 50 and 65 are sought for an experiment in the Psychology Department. For more information, contact Becky at 254-4686.

Alumni Golf Tournament Scheduled

The 1998 Cape Fear Alumni Golf Classic is set for Oct. 23 at River Landing Golf Course. Participation will be open to all faculty, staff and students. For more information, contact Mike Arnold at ext. 2684.

Athletic Department Construction

The Athletic Department's basket room services have been moved indefinitely to racquetball court number four due to a construction project.

Walking Tours

To help "welcome" new employees to campus and enhance benefits enrollment sessions, human resources implemented walking tours four years ago. Volunteers are needed to assist with this successful program. Tours are conducted from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. the second Thursday of each month. Complimentary lunch is provided at noon in the Hawk's Nest for all participants. Anyone interested in volunteering should contact Elizabeth at ext. 3713. Starting with July, the obligation would be to assist in three tours during the year.

Note of Appreciation

Sam Davis, Randall Library, and Julie Davis, public service, would like to thank everyone for the prayers, cards and flowers during the illness and death of Sam's father, Joseph C. Dickerson.

Soccer Summer Camp

UNCW's women's soccer will host an advanced residential/day camp July 5-10 for females ages 11 through 18. For more information, contact Paul Cairney at ext. 3932.

Baseball Hitting Camp

The Seahawk baseball program will hold a hitting camp from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 22-24 for children ages eight to 15. The camp's primary focus is to develop a sound hitting approach through lecture, demonstration and practice of basic hitting mechanics. Each camper will receive a written evaluation. The cost of this camp is $70 per child.

Women's Basketball Summer Camp

The UNCW women's basketball program is offering a day camp from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 3-6 for girls ages eight to 13. The cost of the camp is $135 for children of UNCW faculty and staff and $145 for others. For more information, call ext. 3418.

Discount Coupons

Discount coupons for admission to Paramount's Kings Dominion theme park are available to UNCW faculty and staff. Valid dates are June 12, 13, 14, 19, 20, 21, 26, 27 and 28. Coupons may be picked up in human resources. Also, discount coupons for admission to Carowinds theme park are available with valid dates from June 20 to July 19.

SUMMER ADS

For sale - Apartment furnishings including 4 piece bedroom set ($250), queen-size sofa bed - like new ($300), computer desk ($50), bookshelves ($15-$35), drafting table with chair ($50), microwave cart ($20), TV stand ($15). Contact Nadya Labib at ext. 7231 or 763-9524.

Yard sale - June 20 starts at 7:30 a.m. Multi-family sale. 202 S. Third Street at the corner of Orange Street.

For sale - Versatile Vita-mix nutrition center. It juices, chops, crushes/freezes ice, grinds meat, whole grain, kneads bread dough, makes butter/ice cream, shreds cheese, purees baby foods, whips cream and dozens more uses. Complete with 200-page recipe book and video. Retail $649, asking $410. Call 791-4914.

For sale - Alvarez classical guitar in top condition with leather case. Must sell. $350, a great deal. Call ext. 3541 or 793-9393.

For sale - 1986 Buick Electra. Excellent running condition, interior in good shape. All electric. $1,800. Perfect starter car. For more information, call ext. 3260.

Homes sought - Beautiful long-haired kittens, six- to 12-weeks old. Will be neutered for $25 donation. For more information, call Kris at 256-8916.

For sale - Laura Ashley pink floral design king size bed set, comforter, dust ruffle, pillow shams, throw pillows, towels and matching mirror. Call ext. 3372.

Wanted - Traveling owner of townhouse near Wrightsville Beach seeks lodger for Mon.-Fri. who must return to other home on weekends. Contact Gail at 919/234-7929 after 7 p.m.

For rent - Backyard cottage on one-acre lot in Brookwood/Forest Hills, 2 BR/1 bath, screen porch, storage area, central heat/air and more. $595/mo. No outdoor pets/smokers. Call 343-8449.

Roommate wanted - Professional male seeks faculty member or older graduate student to share townhouse. Eight minutes from campus, one minute from beach. Bedroom, cable ready, private bath, washer/dryer, fireplace, den, pool, secluded and quiet deck. Ample parking. $400 per month plus 1/2 utilities. Rent includes cleaning service. Call 256-5838 after 6 p.m.

Long-term Care Seminar

The N.C. Teachers' and State Employees' Comprehensive Major Medical Plan and MedAmerica Insurance Company invites all state employees, retirees and family members to an enrollment seminar to introduce a new program for long-term care benefits. The seminar will be held at 1 and 4 p.m. June 29 in Cameron Hall auditorium. Representatives from MedAmerica will present the seminar, provide informational packets and answer questions. Refreshments will be provided.

No Communique July 2

The Campus Communique will not publish on July 2. Weekly editions will resume July 9.

Student Timesheets Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets with departmental recaps is 3 p.m. June 30 in the payroll office. Students must submit timesheets to department representatives, not to payroll. Students not on recap sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received in order to add students to recap sheets.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Frederick Bingham, physics and physical oceanography, had the paper "Evidence for the Existence of a North Hawaiian Ridge Current" published in the May 1998 issue of the Journal of Physical Oceanography. He also presented the poster "Water Mass Variations along 137 degrees East" at the World Ocean Circulation Experiment, Ocean Circulation and Climate Meeting in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Lloyd Jones and Steve Meinhold, political science, presented the paper "Support for Policy Alternatives in the Wake of a Natural Disaster" and the poster "The Unintended Consequences of Conducting Polls in Political Science Classes" at the Midwest Political Science Association meeting in Chicago.

Barbara F. Waxman, English, published an article, on Frederic W.H. Myers, Victorian poet, literary critic, autobiographer, social observer and psychology researcher, in the Dictionary of Literary Biography vol. 190, British Reform Writers, 1832-1914.

Donald Kapraun, biology, and D. Wilson Freshwater, CMSR, attended the 16th International Seaweed Symposium, Cebu City, Philippines. Kapraun presented the lecture "Red Algal Polysaccharide Industry: Economics and Research Status." Freshwater presented the paper "Characteristics of Nuclear Large-Subunit rRNA Gene Sequences in Red Algae and Their Use in Phylogenetic Studies" and received a Marinalg International Award for a paper published with S. Fredericq, USL and M. H. Hommersand, UNC-CH.

Melton McLaurin, academic affairs, received a $9,000 supplement for his project "The 1998 Wilmington Racial Violence and Its Legacy: A Symposium."

Bob Buerger, environmental studies, presented the paper "Human Dimensions of Barrier Island Management: Determining the Role of Natural Physical Processes in the Mitigation of Recreation Impacts" at the Seventh International Symposium on Society and Resource Management held in Columbia, Mo. The paper was developed with Jeff Hill and Jim Herstine, HPER, and John Taggert, N.C. National Estuarine Research Reserve Program.

Purchasing Reminder

Fiscal year end is approaching. From June 23-30, purchasing will process emergency orders only. Attention will be devoted to receiving goods against outstanding orders. To assist purchasing in making this a successful year end, sign off on partial and complete pink PO receiving copies quickly upon receipt of goods and services. Be careful to list the actual date goods are received on the receiving copy. If there is a concern regarding a particular purchase order, call the appropriate purchasing agent. Orders not received by June 30 will be carried over to next fiscal year's budget.

Shared Leave

Shared leave donations are needed for Jeanmarie "Teri" Meadowcroft, purchasing, to help avoid leave without pay during illness. Send vacation leave request forms to human resources. For more information, call Willina at ext. 3006.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Jesse Corbett and Susan Cox, physical plant, and William DiNome, Dean of Students Office.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-143 Career Develop. Counselor	June 26
98-145 Housekeeper	June 19
98-146 Office Assistant III	June 26
98-147 Office Assistant III	June 26
98-148 Office Assistant IV	July 3
98-149 Admissions Counselor	June 26

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Central Stores Closing for Inventory

Central stores will be closed for inventory June 26-30. Electronic ordering will be discontinued at 5 p.m. June 25. Emergency and walk-in orders will be processed. Normal operations will resume at 8 a.m. July 1.

Administrative Procedures Update

The following new or revised policies for the Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual have been approved. Key revisions or additions are noted below.

ACG 1.50 - Check Requests.

See the new appendix A in the procedure for an updated list of transactions that should be processed via a check request, their respective documentation requirements and special instructions.

Emergency requests for overnight or demand checks with sufficient justification by the department should be directed to the associate director of accounting.

HR 1.35 - Employment of Temporary EPA Employees and Additional Employment of Permanent EPA Employees.

This new procedure provides guidelines for hiring EPA employees in temporary assignments and for making supplemental payments to current EPA employees with additional temporary assignments.

Before any temporary EPA assignment begins, all appropriate approvals and compliance reviews must be completed.

INF 4.20 - Human Resources System Access.

Department heads are responsible for determining if an employee requires HRS access to perform official duties and that HRS access is updated or terminated as necessary.

Access to HRS is authorized by offices having data ownership.

Employees with HRS access are bound by a confidentiality statement and by the university computing resource use policy.

PUR 1.00 - Function of Purchasing Services and General Purchasing Policies.

This procedure has been revised to add state guidelines concerning:

Gifts or favors that are unlawful for contractors or suppliers to give to UNCW employees and unlawful for UNCW employees to receive or accept from such contractors or suppliers.

Gifts or favors that UNCW employees are not prohibited from receiving or accepting.

A university employee who knowingly received gifts or favors that are not prohibited must report same to his or her vice chancellor if the gifts were made by a contractor or supplier doing business with the university.

TEL 1.05 - Telephone Credit Cards.

Refer to this new procedure for guidelines concerning telephone credit cards issued to employees by the Telecommunications Department.

TEL 1.10 - Telecommunications Equipment and Services.

Major revisions include the addition of an appendix explaining the various services and equipment provided by the UNCW Telecommunications Department, as well as specific instructions for requesting these services via the web, e-mail, memo or phone.

Department head approval is required prior to pager or cellular activation or lease. No personal calls should be made on cellular telephones except in an emergency, as determined by the department. For these emergency cases, reimbursement policies are printed on the cover of the monthly "Notification of Charges."

These policies may be reviewed in their entirety on the World Wide Web. The Administrative Policies and Procedures Manual is linked off the UNCW home page under administration and is also accessible via the business affairs home page.

This is recyclable.

CAMPUS COMMUNIQUE

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN OF UNCW

University Advancement | Vol. XXVII, No. 46 June 25, 1998 | Phillip Brown, editor

Greater Wilmington Business Awards Gala Held in Wagoner Hall

UNCW's Cameron School of Business and the Small Business and Technology Development Center were among the hosts of the second annual Greater Wilmington Business Awards Gala June 2 in Wagoner Hall.

The event, sponsored by 360° Communications, honored many area businesses and individuals. Among the honorees were Burnis and Elizabeth Rollinson of B&E Trucking, who received the 1998 Small Business of the Year Award.

B&E Trucking, which started as a home-based business, has grown into a major hauler for state road projects.

Burnis and Elizabeth Rollinson of B&E Trucking.

The other small business nominees were: Sea Tech Inc. for Manufacturer of the Year; PT's Olde Fashioned Grille for Restaurateur of the Year; Mollye's Downtown Market for Retail Business of the Year; Computer Training Associates Inc. for Service Business of the Year; and Java Estate Roastery Inc. for Wholesale Business of the Year.

Chuck Agnoff, founder of Interroll Corporation, was the emcee for the event which drew more than 300 attendees. Other hosts of the gala were: Coastal Entrepreneurial Council, Greater Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, Wilmington Small Business Coalition and Wilmington Star-News.

James Hively, president of the Coastal Entrepreneurial Council, presented awards to the following people or businesses: Wilmington Machinery, founded by Russ LaBelle, for Established Firm; SourceOne Inc., established by Marc Biddison, as Emerging Firm; and CEC co-founder Steve Harper for Service to Entrepreneurs. Harper, management and marketing, is the author of several books including a national best-seller on entrepreneurship. In addition, he has developed numerous entrepreneurship classes and seminars and served as director of UNCW's Small Business Institute for nearly 20 years.

Connie Majure, executive director of the Greater Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, presented the Corporate Citizen of the Year award to CP&L. Gayle Van Velsor, eastern region vice president, accepted the award. In presenting the award, the chamber recognized CP&L for its support of local educational, environmental and civic programs under Gayle's leadership.

UNCW Hosts Monitor Expedition Website

Learn more about the USS Monitor expedition by logging on the website maintained by UNCW/NURC at the address http://www.uncwil.edu/nurc/monitor/.

Divers from UNCW/NURC, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), the Cambrian Foundation and the U.S. Navy are participating in a research expedition at the USS Monitor, the Civil War ironclad that sank 16 miles off Cape Hatteras in 1862.

The Monitor is protected by NOAA as a national marine sanctuary. Early studies of the wreck show that it is deteriorating, and many experts say that the collapse of the Monitor's hull is inevitable. The goal of the current expedition is to map and document the Monitor's hull, map and recover exposed artifacts and complete an assessment of self-contained deep-water diving methodology and equipment.

On June 5, the Monitor's propeller, a section of the shaft, anchor hatch and armor belt were recovered. The pieces were delivered June 12 to the Mariners' Museum in Newport News, Va. Photos of the propeller can be viewed at http://www.mariner.org/exhibits/monitor/index.html. Mariners' Museum and NOAA personnel will work together in preserving the recovered pieces. Currently, the ship's 1,450-pound iron anchor and navigation lantern are on display in the Monitor exhibit "Clash of Armor."

The Monitor was launched January 30, 1862, and was the first ironclad, turreted warship. The vessel sank during a storm on December 31, 1862, and her wreck was discovered in 1973.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

50th Anniversary Celebration Scrapbook

The Office of University Relations is compiling a scrapbook of photos, press clippings and other items from the 50th anniversary celebration and is particularly interested in photos of the cake and mug parties. Help create a complete record of UNCW's Golden Anniversary year. Call Nadya at ext. 7231 with anything to contribute.

Alderman Renovations

Alderman Hall, Room 215, is undergoing renovations. The expected completion date is July 17.

Children's Web Page Workshop

July 6 is the deadline to register children for the "Create Your Own Web Page" workshop which will be offered from 9 a.m. to noon July 20-23. Designed for children ages 11-13, the workshop is sponsored by the Division for Public Service and Extended Education. The instructor is Kathy O'Rourke, a professional graphic and website designer. The cost is $279 per person and includes three days of hands-on instruction, disk and hand-out material.

The class is limited to 10 students. For more information or to register by credit card, call ext. 3193.

Children Sought for Psychology Experiment

Graduate students in the Psychology Department are seeking children between the ages of two and 10 for a study investigating long-term learning processes in children. For more information, contact Christy Jordan at 392-2894 or Rebecca Click at 270-1574.

No Communique July 2

The Campus Communique will not publish on July 2. Weekly editions will resume July 9.

Aquarius to be Featured in Children's Book

A picture of Aquarius, the NURC/UNCW undersea research laboratory, will be featured in the children's book Extreme Machines Under the Sea being published by Rourke Publishing.

Early Childhood Conference

An Early Childhood Conference for parents and teachers dealing with children from birth to age five will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 27 in King Hall. Topics include discipline and guidance, using books, getting infants and toddlers off to a good start and involving young children in appropriate activities. The conference also includes new information about brain development in children from birth to age five. The cost of the conference, sponsored by the Watson School of Education, CAPE and Child Advocacy Commission/CCR&R, is $15. For more information or to register, call Grace Burton at ext. 3366 or Beverly Cree at 458-4136.

Summer Blood Donors Needed

The Red Cross and UNCW Volunteers will host a summer blood drive from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. July 2 in the University Center Ballroom. Call Julie Owen at ext. 3797 or e-mail owenj to schedule an appointment. Donors will receive a free T-shirt.

Print Shop and Copy Center Closing

The Print Shop and Copy Center will be closed for inventory June 29 and 30.

Alumni Golf Tournament Scheduled

The 1998 Cape Fear Alumni Golf Classic is set for Oct. 23 at River Landing Golf Course. Participation will be open to all faculty, staff and students. For more information, contact Mike Arnold at ext. 2684.

Walking Tours

To help "welcome" new employees to campus and enhance benefits enrollment sessions, human resources implemented walking tours four years ago. Volunteers are needed to assist with this successful program. Tours are conducted from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.the second Thursday of each month. Complimentary lunch is provided at noon in the Hawk's Nest for all participants. Anyone interested in volunteering should contact Elizabeth at ext. 3713. Starting with July, the obligation will be to assist in three tours each year.

Fire Extinguisher Safety Training Offered

The Safety Department is offering portable fire extinguisher training at 10 a.m. July 8 and 22 and 3 p.m. July 15. There is a $5 charge for this training. To register, call ext. 3057.

Soccer Summer Camp

UNCW's women's soccer will host an advanced residential/day camp July 5-10 for females ages 11 through 18-years old. For more information, contact Paul Cairney at ext. 3932.

Women's Basketball Summer Camp

The UNCW women's basketball program is offering a day camp from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 3-6 for girls ages eight to 13. The cost of the camp is $135 for children of UNCW faculty and staff and $145 for others. For more information, call ext. 3418.

Basketball Summer Camp

The UNCW men's basketball program is sponsoring a summer day camp July 20-24. It is an all-day boys' camps for students age eight through rising high school senior. The cost is $175 for the child of faculty or staff. Lunch is included in the day camp fees. For more information, contact Elizabeth Lee at ext. 3045.

Summer Kayak Tours

The Discover Outdoor Center is holding summer kayak tours. The cost is $10 and includes equipment, transportation and guides. Register at the Discover Outdoor Center, University Center, Room 138. Family, friends and first-time kayak users are welcome. For more information, call ext. 4052.

Kayak tours will be conducted the following dates and locations: 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 11 Black River and noon to 5 p.m. July 24 Cape Fear River.

Discount Coupons

Discount coupons for admission to Paramount's Kings Dominion theme park are available to UNCW faculty and staff. Valid dates are June 26, 27 and 28. Coupons may be picked up in human resources. Also, discount coupons for admission to Carowinds theme park are available with valid dates through July 19.

SUMMER ADS

For sale - 1988 Plymouth Voyager LE. Excellent running condition and interior. All electric. $2,150. Perfect starter car. Call ext. 3474 or 686-0852.

For sale - 1986 Buick Electra. Excellent running condition, interior in good shape. All electric. $1,800. Perfect starter car. For more information, call ext. 3260.

For sale or rent - 1,800 sq. ft. townhome on golf course at the Cape. 3 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, two-car garage, screened porch and deck. Many upgrades. $164,900 or $1,150/month. Call Dolores at 395-0309.

For sale - 14-foot Alumacraft jon boat with 1993 15 hp Johnson outboard, 15 hrs. on motor, fresh water only. Has Minnkota 565 foot control trolling motor and Eagle depth finder. New seats, swivel in front, sliding rear and Cox galvanized trailer. $2,500. Call ext. 3857 or 792-9109 after 7 pm.

Roommate wanted - Professional female needs professional person or serious student to share 3 BR two-bath house in quiet country setting, Ogden area. $350 per month, lights, water and trash included. Cable and phone optional and negotiable. Contact Cathy Hall, Cameron School of Business at ext. 3777 or at 686-2412 and leave message

For rent - 2 BR, two-bath townhouse at Colony Woods. All appliances included. Call 762-7556..

June 30 Deadline for Countdown Entertainment Proposals

June 30 is the deadline for entertainment proposals for the second annual Countdown on the Cape Fear, an alcohol-free community celebration of the arts held New Year's Eve. Faculty, staff and/or students with a particular talent in the arts can participate. WECT-TV 6 will accept proposals for music, mime/movement, dance, theater, puppetry, storytelling, poetry, film, video and performance art. Proposals will be reviewed by the Countdown on The Cape Fear committee, and selection criteria will be based on artistic merit, feasibility, appropriateness for the event and availability of funds. For an application, contact Annette Coneglio Anderson, public service and extended education, at ext. 3547 or 3193. UNCW will participate in the countdown as a venue sponsor.

FOCUS ON FACULTY AND STAFF

Submissions for this section are published in order received. Due to the volume of submissions, there can be a two- to three-week delay in publication. Your patience is appreciated.

Lavonne J. Adams, English, has her poem "Folklore" in the current issue of The Baltimore Review.

Mike Mallin, CMSR, gave the presentation "Nutrient Limitation of Photosynthetic and Heterotrophic Plankton in Blackwater Rivers" at the meeting of the American Society for Limnology and Oceanography in St. Louis, Mo. His co-authors were Larry Cahoon, Doug Parsons and Scott Ensign, CMSR and biology.

Terry Theodore, art and theatre, has contracted with Salem Press to do a study on Mother Teresa to be published next year.

John Clifford, English, tied for first place in the annual Wilmington Chess Tournament with former UNCW student, Steve Tysinger, who is a chess expert attending Appalachian State. The Seahawk Chess Club meets from 7 to 11 p.m. Thursdays at the Barnes and Noble Cafe. Members of the university community are welcome.

Mark Galizio and Nora Noel, psychology, received $2,500 to fund a research assistant to help faculty in the substance abuse treatment psychology graduate program develop World Wide Web pages and multi-media course materials.

James Merritt, CMSR, received $25,150 to assist in the support of two missions by the West Coast and Polar Regions Undersea Research Center requiring a remotely operated vehicle. Also, Merritt received $920,000 for his project "National Undersea Research Center/UNCW Phase II Funding Proposal for 1998."

Celebrate Wilmington! Events for July

- Fourth of July: Third Annual Naturalization Ceremony and Opening Ceremonies for the Official North Carolina Fourth of July Festival, 7 p.m. July 1, Garrison Lawn, Ft. Johnson, Southport. For more information, call 457-5109.
- Play: Heart Strings, 8 p.m. July 2-4, 3 p.m. July 5, Hannah Block 2nd Street Stage, Community Arts Center. For ticket information, call 251-1788.
- Festival: North Carolina Fourth of July Festival, July 3 - 5, Southport. For more information, call 457-5109.
- Event: Battleship Blast - Annual Fireworks Extravaganza, 9 p.m. July 4, free, USS North Carolina Battleship Memorial grounds, 251-5797.
- Event: Annual Fourth of July Ice Cream Social, July 4, Latimer House. For more information, call 762-0492.
- Tour: Walk-through tour of permanent collection, 2 p.m. July 5, St. John's Museum of Art. For more information, call 763-0281.
- Preview Reception: Exhibition Light of Touch: Select Works on Paper from the Morris Museum of Art, 7 - 9 p.m. July 9, St. John's Museum of Art Hughes Gallery. For cost or more information, call 763-0281.

E-mail submissions to COMMUNIQUE by noon Tuesdays, unless otherwise notified

Bookstore Closing for Inventory July 1

The bookstore will be closed for inventory July 1. All Summer Session II faculty are encouraged to advise students to get their books early.

Year-end Receiving

Partial or complete purchase order receiving paperwork should be in campus mail by Monday. Year-end receiving paperwork must reach purchasing by Tuesday. For last minute receiving, handdeliver the paperwork. Departments unable to deliver paperwork should call Rhonda in purchasing at ext. 3158. She will arrange for pickup on Tuesday.

Alpha Computer Conversion Underway

Management information support and the Office of Information Technology have started the conversion process of the university's central computing facilities from VAX minicomputers to the faster Alphas. All the applications that run on the VAX cannot be converted immediately. There will be a period of time when employees will have to choose a system based upon the application to access. Effective July 6, SIS will be the first application converted to the Alphas. Starting July 6, to log into SIS, employees must choose an Alpha system, either VXG.UNCWIL.EDU or VXH.UNCWIL.EDU. The SIS passwords and screens will not change, only the central computer connection. A memo sent to departments dated June 25 will provide expanded instructions.

July 4th Holiday

The university is closed July 3 in observance of Independence Day. The holiday gives full-time employees eight hours of holiday time. Employees working the summer schedule of four hours on Friday should work with supervisors to schedule an additional four-hour holiday at another time.

Student Timesheets Deadline

The deadline for student timesheets with departmental recaps is 3 p.m. June 30 in the payroll office. Students must submit timesheets to department representatives, not to payroll. Students not on recap sheets may require additional paperwork. Check with Frances Carr in career services to make sure that all paperwork has been received in order to add students to recap sheets.

Long-term Care Seminar

The N.C. Teachers' and State Employees' Comprehensive Major Medical Plan and MedAmerica Insurance Company invites all state employees, retirees and family members to an enrollment seminar to introduce a new, first-time program for long-term care benefits. The seminar will be held at 1 and 4 p.m. Monday in Cameron Hall auditorium. Representatives from MedAmerica will present the seminar, provide informational packets and answer questions. Refreshments will be provided.

Direct Deposit of Summer School Pay

Summer school pay will now be direct deposited for employees whose regular monthly pay check is on direct deposit.

Central Stores Closing for Inventory

Central stores will be closed for inventory June 26-30. Electronic ordering will be discontinued at 5 p.m. June 25. Emergency and walk-in orders will be processed. Normal operations will resume at 8 a.m. July 1.

Check Requests

Check requests to be paid from the 1997-98 budget should be in accounting by tomorrow. Contact Jan Riemersma at ext. 3227 with questions.

Welcome

Please welcome the following new employees: Tonya Ballard, systems and procedures; Susan Cox, career services; Stephen Durfee, information technology; Jennifer Grainger, psychology; and Erin Meagher, biological sciences.

Staff Vacancies

	Deadline
98-143 Career Develop. Counselor	June 26
98-146 Office Assistant III	June 26
98-147 Office Assistant IV	June 26
98-148 Office Assistant IV	July 3
98-150 Financial Aid Counselor	July 15
98-151 Admissions Counselor	July 15
98-152 Maintenance Mechanic IV	July 3
98-153 HVAC Mechanic	July 3
98-154 General Utility Worker	July 3
98-155 Police Officer I	July 3
98-156 Police Officer I	July 3
98-157 Proposal Coordinator Office Assistant IV	July 3

Call the Jobline at ext. 3791 or visit HR's website for additional information or to download the state application.

Invoice Deadline

All interdepartmental invoices to be paid for fiscal year 1997-98 must be processed and forwarded to accounting by tomorrow. Contact Sondra Roark at ext. 3150 with questions.

Travel Reimbursements

All travel reimbursements to be paid from 1997-98 fiscal year's budget should be in accounting by tomorrow. All travel advances must be satisfied prior to Monday. For questions concerning year-end procedures, call Tammy Blizzard at ext. 3143.

Travel for Fiscal Year 1997-98

Travel taking place in the next fiscal year that does not require payment from this year's budget may be entered as a future requisition "FR." Direct questions to Betty Mills at ext. 3149.

517 BB P 410
03/30/00 47000 SELF

RANDALL LIBRARY - UNCW
3 0490 1017214 W